VOL. XXXII NO. 171 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY JULY 23, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Only Two More Days of The Morning Times' Gigantic Prize Contest to Work and Win

The Central Ontario Power Company Have Reduced The Price for Burleigh Falls

END NEAR AT HAND

Tomorrow is the Last Day of The Morning Times' Contest--Everybody Must Hustle from Now Until the Close of the Voting at 9 O'Clock To-morrow Night

The following prominent citizens and representative business men have consented to supervise the counting of the votes and award the prizes. The standing of these gentlemen in the community is an absolute guarantee that the prize- will be awarded to the candidates polling the largest number of votes, and an assurance that the contest has been conducted upon fair and business-like methods, and that every candidate has received impartial treatment.

THE COMMITTEE TO AWARD PRIZES

Mayor Henry Rush, of Peterborough.
Warden N. R. Scott, of the County of Peterborough.
Ald. Harry Phelan, of the city of Peterborough.
F. G. Hassard, Y. M. C. A. Secretary.
E. Wasson, of Sanderson Jewellery Co.
S. B. Armstrong, Clerk of Peterborough.
A. W. Cressman, Cressman's Departmental Store, Peterborough.

THE CANDIDATE'S PRAYER.

"Oh Lord, help me to win.
But if in Thy inscrutable wisdom, it be ordained that I shall not win, oh Lord, make me a good loser."

Once more the sun will set before it rises upon the final day of the contest. This is no time for long talks. Every minute should be actively employed. Get all the subscriptions that you can, bring them into the Contest Department as quickly as you get them, and never think that you have reached your limit until the clock strikes 9 on Saturday night.

EXERY VOTE VALUABLE.

Do not forget the fact that sometimes the race is remarkably close at the finish. Even one more subscription may make the difference to you between success and failure. It would seem very hard to miss what you want by just a few votes. Make it certain that you have left no stone unturned up to the last moment. If you should lose you will have no reason to reproach yourself. If you win by a narrow margin how happy you will be to think that you overcame your inclination to neglect some last chance for votes.

JUST A FEW MORE HOURS.

There are but a few hours before the contest will close. These last hours may be very valuable if you use them to the best advantage. Few people would refuse you a subscription if you go to them with a last appeal for help. Will you go to those from whom there is a chance of getting a subscription or leave it to your more enterprising rival?

ENLIST YOUR FRIENDS.

For these last two days your friends will probably be able to spare some time in trying to secure subscriptions for you. Ask them to do so. If they find even one person who is willing it may be of the greatest importance to you.

Good luck to you, and we hope to see your name on the list of winners.

Now Ask $120,000 in City Bonds at Four Per. Cent.—One Half Down and One Half in Three Years, without Interest--Lively Discussion on the Question—R. B. Rogers to Make Report for the City

FEATURES OF THE MEETING.

The Central Ontario Power Company made its final proposition to the council as follows;

Price—$120,000.

Payment to be taken in the city's bonds at 4 per cent per annum.

Payment to be made in two periods of $60,000 each. The first to be made, say October 1st The second three years later. No interest to be charged for the second payment for that three years.

Later the company consented to give one month's option. If at that time the council accepts the offer option will be extended long enough for the bylaw to be put to the people.

Mr. R. B. Rogers was appointed engineer to make a report for the city on the development, the transmission and the distribution.

After one of the warmest meetings the City Council or the Committee of the Whole has held for a long time resulted in the Burleigh Falls power proposition being put on a business basis. The directors of the Central Ontario Power Company met the Committee of the Whole last night. The company first presented its amended proposition. Then followed a long discussion between the aldermen and the directors. The aldermen endeavored to secure several concessions, but all the company granted was an extension of the option for one month to permit the city to get an engineer to make an independent report. When that report is received, and it should take not more than two weeks, then the council is to decide whether or not the power is worth the price to the city.

Mayor Rush occupied the chair, and the aldermen present were:— Aldermen Duncan, Morrow, Bradburn, Morgan, Metheral, McIntyre, Phelan, Duffus, Turner, Gillespie and Buller.

The mayor explained that the meeting was called for the purpose of conferring with the directors of the Central Ontario Power Co., re the purchase of Burleigh Falls Power.

J. A. Culverwell.

Mr. J. A. Culverwell acted as spokesman and introduced the deputation, and in a few words referred to the old days when Peterborough was just beginning to waken to the fact that it was the location for a great city. He told of the days when the progress of Peterborough was the talk of the country. That talk was due to cheap water power being available. Now that water power has come to an end, but Burleigh Falls and Buckhorn are now available and may be purchased. If the city turns it down he said that there were large financial interests who were ready to go with the Central Ontario Power Company and develop this water power and deliver it to the city and also to Oshawa, Bowmanville and other towns. This can be done and at a profit. That means that Peterborough will have no more cheap power.

Mr. Culverwell then took up the cost of the development and the report made by Mr. McCallum, one of the most able engineers in the Dominion.

Mayor Rush.

The Mayor said that he thoroughly appreciated the very capable manner in which Mr. McLaughlin had placed the matter before the council. The council, however, wanted a proposition which will be acceptable to the ratepayers, and the council did not think $125,000 would be acceptable.

R. J. McLaughlin.

Mr. McLaughlin said that he had presented the matter to his directors very much as the mayor had outlined, viz., to ask a price from the people of Peterborough which would convince them that it was really to their interests to accept it. The directors could not see that they could accept less than $125,000. Then there was another meeting of the directors in Toronto last night, and a long discussion was held on this question. It was then decided that the directors should come down here and meet the council. They were anxious to meet the council and to do what was reasonable. The speaker said that the city would certainly have to hold part of the power for a year or two before the power was marketed. At the same time the electrical machinery need not be put in the power house at once. It can be put in in units and save the immediate expenditure of $80,000.

Then the company would make this offer:—To accept one-half of the price say on October 1st, next and the second half three years later and without interest. The company would not concede to any material reduction. The final figure is $120,000, so that it would be $60,000 for each of the two payments.

Take Burleigh Falls as Nature left it and present it to the city as a gift the city would spend more money to construct that dam than they are now asked to pay for Burleigh with a dam which the Dominion Government will maintain for all time to come.

Then take the reservoir. That alone is worth more than the whole cost of Burleigh. With Burleigh on a river by itself it would not be worth the reservoir as the reservoir will develope in itself 14,000 horse power. It would not pay Peterborough to develop small water powers. Burleigh Falls is the only power for this city to purchase. There is the quantity there and the development is cheap. The power from Burleigh in Peterborough will be one third the cost of power that Western Ontario towns and cities are paying.

The whole future of Peterborough depends entirely upon the people of today and upon cheap water power. The city is surrounded by all the gifts that nature could bestow, but unless these are made the best use of the city will suffer and will soon be one of the lesser cities of Ontario.

Cost $120,000.

Payments one-half on October 1st. Balance three years later without interest.

Payment to be taken in City of Peterborough bonds at 4 per cent.

Mr. Hudson.

Mr. Hudson, general manager of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Company, was the next speaker, and he opened with the supposition that the council was interested in the progress of Peterborough, and that the cheap power was one of the greatest factors, next to transportation facilities. Other towns are paying upwards of $25 per h.p. Engineers state that Burleigh can be developed and brought to Peterborough for less than $10 a h.p. Is there sane man in this city would say that Burleigh Falls would not be a good thing for Peterborough. That the power is there and can be developed at the price stated is borne out by engineers who stake their reputations as consulting engineers upon their reports. Burleigh Falls is a commercial proposition. If it is true then Peterborough has one of the finest things they can possibly secure. He referred to the people in Peterborough as being lax in the past and allowed many good things to go away because they were not looked after. For instance the northern trade has been largely cut off. If this opportunity is lost it will be another matter for the future generation to regret.

Other Directors.

Dr. Adams, the vice-president of the Central Ontario Power Company said he was not a preacher or a speaker, but a practitioner, and if Peterborough did not take this offer the company would develop it.

Col. Harry A. Ward, ex-M.P., said he had always regarded Burleigh Falls as a valuable asset and he thought that if the figures given by the engineers were in any measure correct and Peterborough could get power cheaper than any other town in Canada, then as business men the Peterborough council should take hold of this proposition. The company will be very glad if the city accepts this offer, still if they do not, the company will then have to go ahead and find some means of making it pay them. There are financial propositions right in this city who are waiting to take up the matter of purchasing Burleigh Falls.

final Price

Ald. Bradburn asked Mr. McLaughlin if $120,000 was the very lowest price?

Mr. McLoughlin stated that positively it was.

His Two Comrades Killed by Savages in Long Tramp

New York, July 22.—H. A. Greenlee, a veteran of the Boer war, who says he is the sole survivor of a party of four young Australians who set out from New South Wales on June 1, 1909, to compete for a purse of $75,000 in a five-year walk round the world, arrived at the City Hall last night.

Thus far, he says he has completed 33,000 miles of his devious journey, having averaged nearly 25 miles a day since leaving Australia. Of this three companions, two were killed by savages in Africa, and the third died of fever in Colorado.

The purse which Greenlee expects to take possession of next summer, was raised, he says, by public subscription, and the four contestants came from the four states of Australia. They started without money and worked their way from country to country.

TENT MEETINGS.

Evangelists Holding Successful Meetings Under Canvas.

The largest attendance since the opening of the evangelistic services was present at the big tent last night. The meeting was led by Mr. Soper and Rev. J. D. The orchestra of Charlotte street church will provide the music On Saturday night Rev. Robt. Pogue will deliver a special sermon to young men.

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure.

I. C. R. will This Year Wipe Out Big Deficit

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, July 22.—The members of the Intercolonial Railway Commission expect that they will be able to wipe out the $700,000 deficit of last year and finish even, thus making a profit for the year of nearly three-quarters of a million.

For the first three months of the fiscal year the approximate earnings are $78,719 over those of the same period last year. The earnings for April and May were $1,469,000, but full returns for June are not yet in.

As a result of the policy of retrenchment, the working expenses are well within the revenue.

MEN ONLY.

Special Meeting in the Evangelistic Tent on Sunday.

At a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. parlors last night the association accepted the offer of the committee in charge of the evangelistic tent next to the Customs House for the use of the tent on Sunday. Two meetings will be held for men only. One at 4 o'clock, and one at 7 o'clock. Special speakers will deliver addresses and special music will be provided.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL.

Will Be Guests of Master Painters Next Thursday.

Ald. Duncan on behalf of the Master Painters' Association has extended the mayor and aldermen an invitation to attend their excursion to Mr. Acton's island at Stony Lake, on Thursday next.

Mr. Acton is entertaining the Master Painters, and the delegates will go up by steamer, and will spend the day at Stony Lake, and will return to the city about 6 o'clock in the evening. Many of the aldermen will attend.

Wants College Girls to Patrol Every District in Greater City

Miss Edith Kendal Makes Suggestions for Improving Living Conditions in Metropolis.

SPENT TWO YEARS IN CANVASSING ONE SECTION

Plans "Village Improvement Committees" to take Up the Work Various Sections.

New York, July 22.—In the interest of improvement and for the purpose of compiling facts and figures which will aid in accomplishing this end, Miss Edith Kendal has just completed a house to house canvass of that section of the city commonly known as the Kip's Bay district. A slight idea of the magnitude of the undertaking is explained by the fact that it required the greater part of two years, saying nothing of the 35 miles of city streets that she had to walk over. Still Miss Kendall is more enthusiastic about the work than when she started it.

"It is with the utmost confidence," said Miss Kendall, "that I recommend this kind of work to the women of our city. Let them organize every district what might properly be called "village improvement committees." In this way each section of the city would be thoroughly cared for by its respective committee.

"Indeed it almost becomes a woman's duty to take up this work. Men are too busy these days. Any group of college girls composing such a committee and working together would find the task a most interesting one.

The Women's Municipal League is earnestly encouraging the work-carried on by Miss Kendal for the Kip's branch of the league. Mrs. Richard Aldrich is president of the Woman's Municipal League, and is personally interested in the undertaking and desirious that it should be inaugurated throughout the city.

The Kip's Bay district is bounded by Fourteenth street on the south and Fifteenth street on the north, and from Lexington avenue east to the East River. The area is 640 acres. There are more than one hundred and fifty thousand persons living in this section—more than thirty-one thousand families. There are 564 saloons and only about 30 churches.

"One cannot help escape noticing the saloons in the district," said Miss Kendal. "Their number alone makes them conspicuous. I found some places where there was a saloon on each of the four corners. This is a violation of the law.

Miss Kendall explained that by means of the "village improvement committees," the whole city could be carefully inspected and a record of the needs of each respective district understood.

"Everybody ought to be interested in the particular section of the city in which she or he lives," continued Miss Kendall, "and there is so much to be learned about our city which would make one proud of its history. Take the Kip's Bay section; how many living between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-seventh streets know that the history of the land on which they reside is recorded from the year 1635. Jacobus Kip, secretary of the Province of New Amsterdam, settled here in that year with his family on a one hundred and fifty acre farm and built a house with imported Holland brick which bore the family coat of arms. It was after this Jacobus Kip that the district took its name.

"Stuyvesant Park, at Sixteenth street and First avenue, which is at so in this district is the only four acres unbuilt land of the seven hundred acres once owned by Peter Stuyvesant when he was fourth governor of New Amsterdam.

"Students of city betterment at home and abroad, have agreed that the old-fashioned village improvement society most nearly meets the needs of centralized population. Although naturally difficult to acapt to 15,000 a plan well suited to 500, still it can be done. The underlying principal is the same and remains the same, big enough to meet our human needs.

"The idea should be to get at least one member of each family interested in the improvement of his district, to love his village, we might say, to feel personally responsible for it. The result can but be the White City toward which we ever look with longing eyes.

STOPPING ILLEGAL FISHING.

Cruiser Naiad Busy in Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching.

The steamer Naiad, the first Ontario Government fishery protection cruiser to be placed in commission on Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching, is reported to be performing valuable service in those waters. Since the vessel was placed on the lakes at Lakefield in the Dpring, she has seized a number of nets and stopped a good deal of illegal fishing. The Naiad was employed in the Rideau Lakes last season, and was replaced there this year by the recently purchased boat boat Navarch.

TUBERCULOSIS DISCOVERY.

Paris, July 23.—Drs. Calmette and Guerin announced before the Academy of Science last night, the discovery of an easy method for the determination of whether tuberculosis in individual cases is of bovine of human origin. They proved that the bacilli in tuberculosis of human origin do not infect cattle, by a series of experiments, among which Rus the innoculation of a goat with germs from tubercular patients of a sanqtorium at Saranac Lake, N. Y. The goat practically was unaffected, and continued to give nourishment to its young, the health of which was in no wise affected.

Another goat was inoculated with a culture taken from a boy suffering from tuberculosis, and this inoculation resulted fatally. From this the doctors were able to conclude that the boy's infection was not of human origin, but resulted from milk taken from tuberculosis cattle.

WARING—GARDINER.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized in St. John's church Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Marie Evylina Gardiner, daughter of Mr. J. H. Gardiner, was united in marriage to Mr. Dunley Oscar Waring of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church. The young couple were unattended, and only a few friends were present. Both are very popular in Peterborough and have a large circle of friends, who will unite in wishing them every success. They will reside in Peterborough for the present.

SOLDIER KILLS MAID.

Captured by Ex-Veteran After Pursuit By Cavalrymen.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., July 23.—Because she had jilted him, Private Charles O'Neal, of the 13th Infantry, today, shot and killed Minnie Scharbeno, twenty-three years old, a French maid employed in the home of Captain Charles N. Murphy.

The girl came to Leavenworth from Essex Junction, Et. O'Eeal was pursued all day by five hundred cavalrymen. He was captured at sunset by Private William Oosthuyzer, of the 15th Cavalry. O'Neal ran into Lake Merritt and threatened to drown himself when cornered. He was finally induced to return to shore and surrender.

Oosthuyzer was commended for the capture and promoted to be corporal. He is a veteran of the Boer War, and was interpreter to General De Wet.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults.

INGRATE'S POETICAL ADIEU.

Barry Left Note for Family He Robbed at Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 22.—After robbing his benefactors, the Smith family, of this city, of $1,000 worth of jewelry, Frank Barrymore who is under arrest in Toronto for stealing jewelry from guests at the Walker House, addressed this remarkable epistle to them:—

"Adieu. The fate that compels me with a force of terrific degree to do things which I would leave undone, But which I must needs do to be free. Yet while I seek to rebel against this thing, this force that holds me, I would also clearly state that I'm prepared to do the worst just to be free. I know not why I do these things. I rush but blindly on. We're all here together now, I time, one by one will all be gone And should there be a mortal bold to step across my way, I'll say to him just this, Beware. A dog's cruel death is thine, so stay. I bid you all adieu, I love you just the same. I know that you will hate me now, but notoriety to me is fame. Some time, somewhere, I'll, see you again, And, 'pon my word of honor, true, I'll feel it my privilege then to make restitution to you.

Barrymore was recommended to the Smiths by Dr. Stockham, of Chicago, who asked that they try to reform him. He repaid many acts of

TOOTHACHE

Gas Distended His Stomach

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and show traveller of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the travelling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

TESTIMONIAL No. 4890

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 25 cts. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 6

Heaviness at Pit of the Stomach

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline— I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINA RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS

The above letter comes from Mrs. P. R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use "Nerviline," and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

You'll find a hundred uses for Nerviline—it's a trusty household remedy that sells to the extent of a million bottles per year— that's the best proof that is must cure and give unlimited satisfaction. Refuse anything offered in place of Nerviline. 25c per bottle, five for $1.00. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 8.

THE WAGE QUESTION.

The increase in salaries which has been granted to the postmen of Canada, averaging 50 cents per man, again directs attention to the wage question. The postmen were much in need of the advance, for the rate formerly paid was from $1.25 to $2.25 per day, according to the length of service. No doubt, in some centres, it was often necessary to practice the most careful financing in order to avoid a deficit at the end of the month on the old remuneration. Now, while there may be no margin to speak of, there need, at all events be no such manoeuvring. The lesson in the increase granted to the postmen is to be found in the extension of the application of the rule What would it mean to the workmen of the Dominion, enquires the Brantford Expositor, if all of the great railway corporations and other industrial concerns, insofar as they are able, would increase the pay of their workmen? It would mean comfort and contentment in the homes of the families of the labor class. It would mean that every branch of business would profit by the increase for the additional allowance would be so placed as to keep it, in circulation. It would mean, in short, every thing to the men of this country, who are most in need of money and would result in improving the conditions throughout the Dominion generally. But it will be said that such a course would be a hardship on the part of the capitalists. Such might be the case in some instance, if it were the advance could not be made. But if it were not, why should not labor share in the profits it assists in creating? It should be a sound principle. And it is one, too, on which industrial kings should ponder in the day of prosperity when they have the opportunity to confer some benefits on their workmen if they are so inclined. We all know that in the hour of adversity and stringency the workmen, by accepting lower wages for work none the less valuable than in the day of prosperity, aid the manufacturer in facing the storm. Why should not the men also be remembered in times more favorable?

BETTER THAN DREADNOUGHTS

The militant Imperialists of this country will have to pass a vote of censure upon His Excellency the Governor-General. While they have been asserting day in and day out that Canada has been negligent of her duty, or to use the unfortunate expression of Sir Hugh Graham, that "long years Canada has been sponging on the Motherland for protection," Earl Grey has been preaching in London the truth that Canada has already done her share and is prepared to do more as the necessity arises. In his speech at the Dominion Day banquet in London His Excellency said, among other things:—

"I am continually amazed as I go through Canada at what a population equivalent to that of Greater London has achieved in a continent the size of Europe. The Canadian Pacific Railway, which was only finished a little more than 25 years ago, was made out of a contribution of public money amounting to 100 million dollars. Who is there that can say that that money put into ten Dreadnoughts would have been of equal value to Imperial defence? There are two more transcontinental railways under construction, and my hope is that we may see Canada advance in population, in strength, in prosperity, and in spirit. But whether with a small population or a great one, I have seen enough of the temper and spirit which animates the people of the Dominion from one end of Canada to the other to be convinced that the Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was more than justified in stating that if it was necessary to maintain the naval supremacy of the Crown, Canada was prepared to spend her last dollar and to give her last man."

The Governon-General is the spokesman of the people of Canada, irrespective of party, for he knows no endorse the policy of the Canadian Parliament under both political parties, he is doing a public service to Canada and the Empire at large.

Kawartha Lakes

The ever increasing brotherhood of tourists who annually visit the magnificent summer resorts in Canada are year after year flocking in larger numbers into the Kawartha Lakes District. This magnificent country is situated in the Province of Ontario, directly north of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence.

The chain of lakes which comprise the Kawartha Lakes District lies north of Lindsay and Peterborough, and is composed of Lakes Katchewanooks, Clear, Stony, Buckhorn, Chemong, Pigeon, Bald, Sturgeon, Cameron and Balsam, with a magnificent steamer route of 70 miles from Lake field to Cobocconk. Lakes are dotted with islands, on which pretty and comfortable homes have been erected for summer tenants, and throughout the chain the tourist is nowhere far remote from busy town or village, or humble cottage home, yet is in comparative seclusion.

Toward the middle of September, in 1615, Samuel de Champlain, having passed up the Ottawa, across to Lake Nipissing, down Georgian Bay and inland to Orillia, decided to lead the Huron Indians on a warlike expedition again pursued its course along Simcoe, across the 'portage' to Balsam and Sturgeon Lake and down the chain of lakes which form the sources of the Trent River. As the long line of canoes moved on its way no human life was seen, no sign of friend or foe; yet, at times, to the fancy of Champlain, the borders of the stream seemed decked with groves and shrubbery by the hand of man, and the butternut trees, laced with grape-vines, seemed decoration for a pleasure-ground."

Lovely as were the "Kawartha Lakes" when Nature displayed them to the enthusiastic glance of the soldier of Ivy and his Indian allies, yet now with all that Nature then did, improved by the artistic hand of man, they are simply enchanting. Travellers in Scotland or readers of Sir Walter Scott's or other descriptive works of "The Bonnie Highlands," are not unfamiliar with the wild grandeur of the Scotch Lochs, and all this magnificence is reproduced within the compass of the Kawartha Lakes. The more the scenery is studied, the more convinced one becomes that the charms which are spread out under a Canadian sky, can vie with the most lovely which are scattered under distant climes. These lakes do not possess the awful grandeur of those of Switzerland, nor the cold ruggedness of some of the Scotch Lochs; yet there is about them an inspiration more subdued and peaceful, while every point and island, every bay and highland, glows with a sweetly picturesque beauty. Slowly threading a narrow passage, between verdure-laden islets the rounding of a point will suddenly bring into view a broad expanse of water, whose continuous shores seem to have no outlet; but hidden behind some island or projecting headland will be found a passage leading through another labyrinth of beautiful scenery, and, just as further progress, seems impossible, another minature sea breaks on the view.

Rich in minerals, the whole region has recently become an extensive field for lovers of geological science, as also it is for the amateur photographers and botanists.

Canoe and damning parties find here their beau-ideal of summer outing, and if retirement be the desire, one can pitch the tent in solitude and enjoy life in repose. Many from both the United States and Canada have purchased retired, secluded sites along these waters, where neat cottages peep from the shrubbery. In summer months these are occupied by those who wish to escape the din and turmoil of the city, recuperate health and enjoy life to the utmost The steam-launch, sail or rowboat and canoe may be discerned in numbers on almost every lake of this great chain throughout the season.

The great charms and advantages of the locality render the "Kawartha Lakes" unsurpassed as a summer region in Canada.

Owing to the high altitude of these lakes (over 600 feet above the level of Lake Ontario), the air is pure, and laden with health-giving and soothing balsamic odors from the pine and spruce-clad hills—it renews physical vigor, restores nervous system, invigorates the mental faculties and gives a new lease of life. To those who suffer from Hay Fever the "Kawartha Lakes" are a haven of Heaven-given relief and security.

As for the canoeist, this midland district of Ontario is one broad continuous network of lakes extending to James' Bay, and the voyageur to be taken by the enthusiastic lover of the canoe have but one limit—the time at the disposal of the voyager.

Easy of access (three hours from Toronto), profuse in its gifts, and diverse in its attractions, having its fashionable resorts, and its delightful facilities for "roughing it." Why not throw business to the janitor for a month, cast care to the dogs, and when you return from the "Bright Waters and Happy Lands" (the English rendering of the Indian word "Kgwartha"), you will be a new one of the most beautiful places on the lake.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a loc l disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TIME AND MONEY.

For the sake of saving some six hours in transatlantic voyages great expenses have been incurred in the preparation of a new port of all for the steamers running between Britain and the United States. Fishguard, a point in Wales, is the town affected. Millions of dollars have been spent there in the erection of wharves and breakwaters and in making other improvements that a few hours may be cut from the time required for the ocean voyage. In this fact is abundant support for the "slangy" words, "Time is money." A shorter trip from shore to shore means money to the steamship company and money to many a business man or other traveller.

There is no lessening of the present day demand for more and more speed in transportation. Indeed, the demand is becoming greater. To a considerable degree the demand may be unreasonable but it must be satisfied hence, the equipment of Fishguard and hence the taking of other steps looking to the improvement of transportation facilities.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.

I am the only physician who says to the sick, "I will, and may even partially pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you health."

And for 25 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively stocked in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unproved and untried remedies? Why not try Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Then the Stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, those sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money-risk whatever. They know that when Then those ill health folks by return, Dr. Shoop will gladly pay the bill. They are willing to stand for and trust a full 30 day treatment to hourly prove it. But write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but to get Dr. Shoop's Restorative honestly, you will not get a shortened to give the 30 day test, the drug man then pleases—for I have no control on hand to sell no-account substitutes. Pay

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

DR. PELKEY

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 36 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discrimin ting and critical public that "Cosgrave's" re'ers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert users of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. QUAINT KISSING CUSTOMS.

Which Are Still Observed In England—A Newcastle Festival.

Among the quaint old kissing customs which England still retains is the one connected with an April festival that takes place at Hungerford. A penny tax is collected on that day by two well known residents of Hungerford who are termed "tuttymen," and who go from door to door, each carrying a stave trimmed with gay ribbons. There is one very valuable perquisite attached to the office—a kiss from at least one lady in each family visited.

"Beating the bounds" is often associated with other remarkable customs, and at Maidenhead kissing is unmistakably associated with it. Any lass, old or young, rich or poor, who is encountered on the road must have the alternative submitted to her of being either "bumped" or kissed.

Barge day is a festival which appears to be peculiar to Newcastle-on-Tyne. It seems to be akin to the practice of boundary beating, for the mayor and corporation, who, doubtless, in olden times used all to sail in barges, now embark upon four handsome steamers and, followed by two old-style barges, steam up the river to claim the soil of the Tyne. But the pleasure is reserved for the landing. A big crowd is always waiting on the landing stage for the arrival of the "grave and reverend seigniors," and from the assembled multitude the mayor has the very delightful, but extremely invidious, privilege of selecting any young lady he pleases and giving her a kiss. For this osculatory performance she receives a golden sovereign.

It is said that there has never been a mayor of Newcastle who has not deemed this privilege cheap at the price. Nor is that all. No sooner has the mayor received his kiss and presented his sovereign than the sheriff, not to be outdone, also chooses a fair lady, kisses her and presents her with a sovereign. But the fair maid whom the mayor has kissed has still another gift to receive, and this time from the mayoress, who is bound by custom, whatever her feelings on the matter may be, to present with some useful gift the lady whom her husband has kissed.

A BELATED APOLOGY.

It Came After the Positive Man Discovered His Mistake.

An Irish officer who had served in Malta was one day at a public dinner. Expatiating on the luxurious living at Malta, he spoke particularly of the excellent quality of the anchovies. He had never seen any like them anywhere else. He told of a grove of them which he had seen growing in the governor's garden upon the esplanade.

A gentleman present disputed the statement that anchovies grew on trees. The Irishman reaffirmed it most emphatically. The wine was flowing and the lie passed. A challenge was given and accepted.

On the following day the parties met, attended by their seconds. At the first fire the Irishman's shot took effect in his opponent's thigh, the ball hitting the bone and causing such a shock that the latter fell upon his back and in such pain that he kicked his heels vigorously.

"By faith, major," said our hero's second, "you've hit your man, but I think not dangerously, for see what lively capers he is cutting."

"Capers! Capers!" exclaimed the Irishman, with a start. "Oh, by the powers, what have I done? Bad luck to me forever for such a dreadful mistake!" And, hastening to the side of his antagonist, who had been raised to a sitting posture, he grasped his hand, gushing forth as he did so: "My dear friend, I hope you're not killed. And if I've harmed you seriously I'll ask your pardon forever, for I made a murderin' mistake! It was expery that I saw growing upon that tree at Malta and not anchovies at all!"

Acting and Overacting.

"It is a much simpler thing to overact than to act," declares a writer in The Yorkshire Post on "The Amateur on the Stage." In this connection, he adds, there is a good story told of Sir W. S. Gilbert's rehearsal of "The Yeomen of the Guard" at the Savoy. A gentleman of the chorus who had a very minor part made his entrance in a most exaggerated manner, much to the author's disgust.

"Please don't enter like that," said Gilbert. "We don't want any 'comic man business' here."

"I beg your pardon," replied the abashed chorus gentleman. "I thought you meant the part to be funny."

"Yes, so I do, but I don't want you to tell the audience you're the funny man. They'll find it out, if you are, quickly enough."

"Valley of Dried Bones."

The island of Jamaica possesses a "valley of dried bones." It is near the Cunacuna gap, in the Maroon county. This valley, though in the heart of the "wet country," is bare of leaf and life. The limestone rock is hot. Giant trees, which seem to have been blighted suddenly, stand up gaunt and dead. Although vegetation seems to have been dense here in former years, nothing will grow now. During the hot season the temperature is almost unbearable. It is visited by seismic disturbances, which cause the dead trees and hot stones to rattle like dry bones.

Founder of Empire Day.

"If Meath had his way he would pull down the whole of London to make a garden of it for its inhabitants." It was in these words that Lord Rosebery once referred to the invaluable work which Lord Meath, founder of Empire Day, had done in the way of giving London new open spaces and recreation grounds. He was also the founder of the Hospital Saturday Fund and the organizer of many other schemes for the well-being of the masses. Lord Meath began life as a clerk in the Foreign Office, and had five years of diplomatic service.

Easy to Classify.

The newly married couple had just moved into their new home. On the morning after their arrival a baker called to solicit their trade. He found the young wife in the kitchen. After explaining that his wagon delivered once a day the baker asked, "And may we have your trade, madam?"

"Yes," she replied timidly. "We will give you a trial."

"And about how much bread will you want each day?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. You see, there are only two of us." Then doubtfully, "Would five loaves a day be enough, do you think?"—Judge.

Shoe That Hurt.

Women with narrow heels frequently have trouble with ready made footwear. The shoe rides up at the heel, and a painful blister occurs, which effectively cripples one for the time being. This is especially true of low shoes. To prevent it with your next pair cut a few inches from a piece of old velvet or get a bit of velvet ribbon to fit between the heel and the shoe. It can be either tacked into place or pasted. This renders the heel comfortable without lessening the size of the shoe, which is the disadvantage of the felt sole.

MALAY PIRATES.

Something About the People Who Are Troubling Singapore.

Singapore is agitated just now by a tale of piracy, one of the old sort, legendary now. Some few weeks ago a Chinese junk was boarded near Johore—that is, within sight of the island, if not of the city—and seven men were killed, besides the captain, spared for torture until he surrendered his valuables. Police, blue-jackets and volunteers are searching for the miscreants. Perhaps there is no case on record so outrageous within such a trifling distance from the men-of-war in Singapore Roads, but elsewhere in those seas it would not have been remarkable less than 50 years ago. "Malay pirates," writes Frederick Boyle in The Pall Mall Gazette, are so closely identified with fiction of the boys' adventure class that sceptics have doubted their existence in plain fact. But the wildest romancer would not dare to describe them as they actually were in their great day. About 1850 Rajah Brooke put the number of those who swept the coasts of Borneo alone, going and returning with the monsoons, at 5,000. When Consul at Brunei, somewhat later, St. John estimated the population which lived, as one may say, by piracy, at 60,000. And if "casuals" had been included, with their women and children, it would have been vastly larger.

The judicious reader instantly replies that trade must have come to an end promptly under this infliction. But the ruffians did not depend on plunder. It was welcome, but they sought slaves and blood. Inexplicable as it seems to us, the paramplaks, though mostly Mohammedans, regarded their employment as a calling or profession to which they were born. With no thought of wrong-doing, apparently, they murdered harmless fishermen, sailors, or peasants dwelling on the shore, if too old or feeble to be worth transport, and tortured those whom they carried off. Among the most dreaded pirates also were the Seribas and Sakarran Dyaks, Rajah Brooke's future subjects, who wanted heads and nothing more; all plunder they surrendered to the Malay Chief who provided the prahs and navigated them. But these were a local scourge. It is not very surprising to learn that the worst Malay pirates were not Malays at all; that unfortunate race bears a good many imputations which it does not deserve. The Lanuns, or Illanuns, dwelt originally in Mindanao, a great island of the Philippines where Dampier found them peaceable enough, working gold. They were not a seafaring people then, though the chiefs had their gorgeous barges.

The Balinini came from Sulu; in fact, that was a piratical name for the islanders, otherwise called Sulus. Perhaps it was they who started the abominable practice, for the Spaniards were provoked into sending an expedition against them so early as 1589. It failed, as did many another; "and from that time," says the old historian Zuniga, "it is incredible what a number of Indians (Philippinos) have been made prisoners, what villages have been destroyed, and what vessels have been captured." But the Spaniards succeeded at length in making Mindanao too hot to hold the Lanun freebooters, who dispersed, forming settlements up and down the China Sea, each of which became a centre of piracy. One can understand that this way of life fosters courage and enterprise as well as seamanship. The daring of these two peoples especially was superb. In their praus of fifty to a hundred tons burden they started every year with the monsoon for a cruise of six or twelve or even eighteen months. Nothing daunted them until the treacherous European invented steam. Crawford admits that the Sulus had attained a "considerable civilization" of their own: in fact, Hunt's report on the main island, drawn up for Sir Stamford Raffles, pictures it a garden, admirably cultivated by a free and happy people. Doubtless the pirates were lawabiding and industrious when at home.

English Politeness.

The expression "Thank you" is much more current in England than in America. It is also used with much wider significance, often as the equivalent of "I beg your pardon." For instance, an English person passing before another or perhaps jostling one or even treading on his foot will say in apology, "Thank you." The phrase is heard constantly. If a salesman in a shop or a newsboy on the streets solicits your custom and you refuse it he will say "Thank you" quite as cheerfully as if you made a purchase. There is a difference in the utterance too. The English emphasize the second word very strongly and finish with a rising inflection, as if asking a question. An American is recognized at once by his accenting the word "thank" and closing with the falling inflection.

Her Proposals.

Talking of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Lord Houghton said: "Miss Coutts likes me because I never proposed to her. Almost all the young men of good family did. Those who did their duty by their family always did. Mrs. Browne (Miss Coutts' companion) used to see it coming and took herself out of the way for ten minutes, but she only went into the next room and left the door open, and then the proposal took place, and immediately it was done Miss Coutts coughed, and Mrs. Browne came in again."—Augustus J. C. Hare's Recollections.

A "Bounty" Relic.

There has just been sold at Sotheby's, in London, an interesting relic of His Majesty's ship Bounty and Pitcairn Island. It is a beautifully constructed box, made by Thursday Oct Christian, of Pitcairn, about 1860, out of Miro wood. On the top is a small metal plate made from the nails of the Bounty. This interesting relic realised four and a half guineas. Its prototype was presented to the late Queen Victoria by Admiral Moresby, in 1853, as "a mark of esteem from her subjects on the lonely island of Pitcairn."

THE FISHER AT HOME

HABITS OF PENNANT'S MARTEN IN ALGONQUIN PARK.

Ranger Mark Robinson Describes Animal Which Preys Upon Porcupines, Fish, and Small Game—He Is a Keen Hunter and Keeps the Food Supply Scarce—How He Got His Name Is a Mystery.

The fisher, Pekan, or Pennant's marten, is among the largest of American marten, says Forest Ranger Mark Robinson of Algonquin Park in Toronto Saturday Night. The general color is brown or black, varying greatly according to age and season. The fur is darker below than above, which is contrary to rule in other animals. Its average length is from 24 to 30 inches, the animal weighing from 12 to 20 pounds. A distinguishing feature of the fisher is its tail which, tapering from a bushy appearance at the body to a pointed end, is from twelve to twenty inches in length.

In general appearance the fisher is stouter and more powerful than most animals of this genus (the exception being the wolverine). The ears are low and broad at the base. Their limbs are powerful, their feet being large and covered with thick coat of fur and armed with strong curved claws. The fur is coarser and longer than in other martens, consequently not so valuable. The fisher is a great traveler and rapid in his movements and is a puzzle to a person who undertakes to follow his trail. Traveling for perhaps a mile on the ground, he will suddenly take to the trees, passing from one to another for a considerable distance, then coming to the ground again. If there is snow of sufficient depth he may burrow underneath for several feet to suddenly appear beside an old log or tree which perhaps he may again climb.

Fishers are very active climbers, and are credited with being able to capture most of the smaller animals such as squirrels and pine martens, etc., on the trees. They are very destructive to fawns, young beaver, muskrats, rabbits, partridge, and birds and their nests. They appear to have a special liking for porcupines. These they kill with ease during the winter months by routing porky from his den or capturing him when out feeding. When overtaken, porky curls himself up, quills all set, in his usual mode of defence. The fisher simply burrows into the snow, seizing porky from underneath. All is over in a couple of minutes except the feast.

Many are at a loss to understand how the fisher escapes the effects of porcupine quills. A close examination of the pelt of an old fisher during the skinning process will show that he is possessed of a second skin, through which the quills will not penetrate, their points breaking off and doing the fisher no harm.

Passing a small lake one day last December, I saw an unusually large porcupine traveling across the ice at a greater speed than I believed it possible for one of these animals to travel. Being curious to learn the cause, I started to investigate, and found the track of an ordinary-sized fisher in pursuit. Seeing me, he had evidently departed in haste. I followed the footprints and found he had driven porky out of his rocky den after what appeared (from the footprints) to have been a very exciting time.

The fisher is very fond of fish, and is said to catch a few suckers in the spring in much the same manner as the bear. Yet he is not a water animal, as his name implies. The many bushmen and trappers with whom I have discussed the habits of the fisher all declare he is a land animal in every respect, and that he got his name from his cunning and ability to plunder the trappers' trap pens when baited with fish. He is said to be second only to his cousin, the wolverine, in destruction on a trapper's line of traps, and is very keen-scented, which enables him to find the many feeding places of the otter, where he goes occasionally to pick up any scraps of fish that should chance to be left on the ice or shore.

Should wolves kill a deer within a mile or two of the section fishers frequent, Mr. Fisher will be there to dispute with the foxes over the spoil left by the wolves. There is no danger of any species of the smaller kinds of game becoming overcrowded in sections where the fisher is plentiful.

I have noticed on several occasions blue jays scolding furiously. On investigation I found nothing but fresh tracks of a fisher to show for their noise. Evidently they have a just quarrel with him.

I am under the impression that the fisher prefers hunting at night. However, all I have to show for this theory on my part is the amount of fresh tracks a person will see in the early morning where none were to be seen the day previous at evening. I have found that the fisher prefers dry, swampy, heavily-timbered land, with occasional hardwood ridges running through it. In sections of this kind in the park they are very plentiful.

Wagon Loads of Wounded.

Red cross wagons dashing madly across Niagara Common and up the main street of the town a few days ago, set a thousand tongues a-wagging.

"Guess somebody's hurt," said one.

"Poor fellows, sun struck," was still another guess.

Pretty soon, however, the ambulance wagons came back—each laden down to the springs with a very lively bunch of patients, all in summery frocks and pretty dresses. They were bound for Gen. Cotton's reception to the Headquarters' lawn.

"Nice to ride in an ambulance when you're not sick, isn't it?" remarked one fair receptionite.

Belaying Pin Jaws.

Shark stories, with some reason, are commonly received with incredulity. A well authenticated anecdote, however, is told of Dr. Frederic Hill, an English surgeon of distinction. A man fell overboard in the Indian Ocean and almost into a shark's mouth. Hill, who was standing close to the rail, grabbed a belaying pin and without hesitation jumped to save the sailor. The great brute was just turning on his back to bite when Hill drove the belaying pin right through both jaws. Both men were got on board again unharmed.

"Perhaps that fellow won't want another toothpick. Has any one got a clean shirt to lend? This was my best," were the only words of the rescuer.

IMPRISONED IN CAVE.

Yorkshire Party Spends 30 Hours In Depths of Gaping Ghyll.

Five members of the Yorkshire Ramblers' Club have had a weird and exciting week end adventure. Engaged in exploring Gaping Ghyll, one of the deepest and most famous "pot" holes in England, they were unable to regain the surface owing to an inrush of water, and were imprisoned in the bowels of a mountain for over thirty hours. "Pot" holes, which belong to the preglacial period, are faults or declivities in the limestone and are believed to have been principally formed by the chemical action of water.

Gaping Ghyll is picturesquely situated on the shoulder of Ingleborough, Northeast Yorkshire, a mountain some 2,000 feet high. At the foot of the "pot" is a vault over 400 feet long, 182 feet high and 80 feet wide, and the "pot" could easily accommodate Manchester town hall.

A large party of explorers camped at the mouth of the famous hole about 6 o'clock in the morning. The descent of the "pot," a distance of 350 feet, was successfully accomplished by means of a chair and a windlass. After spending the day in the hole the majority of the party returned to the surface about 5 o'clock in the evening. Five enthusiastic "hunters," however, decided to remain below all night and explore the subterranean passages.

The five explorers intended to leave the hole about 6 o'clock next morning. During the night, however, rain fell heavily, and in a very short time the stream of water which runs over the edge of Gaping Ghyll became so swollen that it tumbled down the sides of the hole like a cascade. To be drawn up out of the "pot" those below would have to face the descending water as it splashed from one of the ledges. For any one to be brought out in the circumstances was therefore impossible, and when an attempt was made to communicate with the explorers it was found that the telephone apparatus had broken down.

It was known, however, that the men in the hole were well supplied with food and light, and there never was any fear in the minds of those at the "pot" mouth that all would not end well. Steps were at once taken by the party above ground to dam the course of the flooded stream, and by this means the waterfall down the rock was diverted. T. Booth, of Leeds, decided to risk the perils and unpleasantness of the journey and go to his friends below, "just to cheer them up." As anticipated, he found them quite well, but somewhat cold and wet.

The lonely vigil was at last broken by the restoration of communication with those above, and the final relief of the party was effected in the early hours of the next morning.

It is now twenty-one years since Mrs. Humphry Ward, whose new novel has just been published, won distinction as the creator of "Robert Elsmere," which was lucky enough to be reviewed by Mr. Gladstone in The Nineteenth Century. In five months seven editions of the novel were exhausted, and the fortunate writer was reported to have made nearly $100,000 in Europe and America. Interesting stories are told of the rules which prevail in the famous writer's household when she is at work. If a servant has any message to deliver, he, or she, is instructed to come into Mrs. Ward's study without knocking and to stand waiting in silence by her side. If the writer neither looks up nor gives any sign the servant is to understand that a moment of inspiration prevails and that decidedly Mrs. Ward must not be interrupted.

$25 For Calling a Man Names.

The new principal of New College, Edinburgh, Dr. Alexander Whyte, was asked on one occasion by a Highland minister for some financial assistance for work in the north. Dr. Whyte regretted that he could not afford to assist the Highlander, but advised him to visit a wealthy layman in the city. The latter was not only disinclined to give, but ungracious in manner. Nettled at his reception, the Highlander answered brusquely. Resenting the tone the rich man asked, "And whom do you take me for?" "A hell deserving sinner, like myself," came the quick retort. Returning to Dr. Whyte, he explained the circumstances. "You did not say that?" eagerly asked the doctor. "Aye, I did!" replied the other. "Well, well; I've been wanting to say that to him for the last fifteen years! Here's a five-pound note for your fund."

Made the Duke Feel Cheap.

The second Duke of Wellington, though far from being stingy, was in many odd ways economical. He discovered one day some champagne which he considered and which doubtless was quite good enough for a ball supper and which had the advantage of being extraordinarily low in price. He ordered the quantity required and was rejoicing in his excellent bargain when on opening one of the papers he encountered the following advertisement: "Try our celebrated champagne at 38 shillings a dozen, as ordered by his grace the Duke of Wellington for his forthcoming ball at Apsley House."

Moon Blunders.

The moon has innocently been the cause of much blundering on the part of authors. Wilkie Collins in some mysterious fashion made it rise on one important occasion in the west. Rider Haggard in "King Solomon's Mines" contrives an eclipse of the new moon for the benefit of his readers, and Coleridge ingeniously places a star between the horns of the crescent moon as she rises in the east.

Trade Value of Cobwebs.

When the presence of cobwebs in a public house was objected to recently in the course of an application for the transfer of a license at Chester, Eng., it was explained that they attracted Americans, and thus had a trade value.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Midneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Evelyn Despises Thaw and Waits to Wed Another

New York, July 22.—In an interview Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has thrown off all pretense of regard for Harry Thaw now seeking release from the asylum and says she cares for another man whom she may some day marry. She also says that she was stolen from Stanford White by Thaw She further declares that for three years she tried to prevent her husband from killing White.

"I don't wish to pose for other than I am, and neither do I wish to be taken as model by other young women," she says, "but I wish it understood that I have never committed a crime. I am a young woman whose unfortunate bringing up has ended in my being connected with a sordid murder.

"I am distinctly unmoral as the world today views morals. I have my own code of ethics and I live up to them.

"But to tell the story I have made up my mind to tell, I must begin way back when I was a child of fifteen in the chorus of "Floradora". I was flabbergasted by it all. The lights and the music and the cabs and the suppers—they left me wondering if I were standing on my head or my feet. Remember I had always been in more or less want for actual necessities—and I was only a child besides.

THOUGHT WHITE WONDERFUL

"It isn't strange then that when Stanford White singled me out and bought me a pearl drop that cost a thousand dollars, and let everyone know he approved of me—it isn't strange I thought he was the most wonderful man in the world. But mistake No. 1 comes right here—and by mistake I mean the popular impression that was gained from my cross-examination on that first trial.

"You will remember I swore on the stand I was given a drug by Stanford White that left me unconscious. I also said I recovered from the ill effects of that drug in less than three hours; dressed, and went home. At the time I knew as well as anyone else that everyone doubted the truth of that statement. But it wasn't untrue. And, what is more, District Attorney Jerome has told me since he had discovered what he had believed was impossible—that there is not only one drug, but three drugs that can do this.

"It isn't true that I hated Stanford White, then, or at any time.

THAW STOLE HER FROM HIM

"Thaw stole me away from White, just the same as men in the Stone Age stole women, if folk lore says such things happened, and I understand that is the way the old tales go. For more than a year before that Christmas night in 1903. I had seen White only occasionally. But he was my protector, my patron, if you will and I loved him more than I ever had any man or woman in my life, my mother and father not excepted.

"He was given me a birthday party the very night Thaw appeared with a revolver in my dressing room, and told me he would kill White before he would allow him ever to take me away from him. There was nothing for me to do under the circumstances but go with Thaw. I hardly knew him. I did not like him. It was simply a case of go or be killed. That was the nature of the beginning of our love affair love affair. What an an awful blow to the sentimentalists with their 'angel child' talk this is. But it is the truth.

"Before I begin the story of my life with Thaw, though, I must tell just what happened about Jack Barrymore. He was a dear, sweet, whole souled fellow and the first fellow anywhere near my own age I had known since I began to understand the way of the world. But Stanford White opposed the idea as hard as he could.

He got my mother to side with him.

THAT GRINNING THAW

"and right here, before Re get to the rest of it, let me say it was not easy—what I forced myself to do not that witness stand. Do you think I sat there and looked at the grinning Thaw down below me, that miserable man whose life I was scaring my heart to save and told secrets I would have kept from the world at the cost of my own life? It wasn't easy. But I it was following out a determination had made with the flash of his revolver that night on the roof garden. That's all.

"After Thaw took me away from Stanford White, after I found myself entirely dependent on Thaw's beneficence, life took on a very different aspect for me. Never once in all the years that came along after that Christmas night, when he took me out of the dressing room in the Garden Theater, was Thaw generous to me.

"It didn't matter so much as it would have if I had been a different kind of girl. But just as now I despise the type of man who wants to deck me out in beautiful gowns and cover me with jewels and parade me up and down in restaurants to be gazed at by less expensively dressed women, so then I hated show. If I had never come to New York I should have settled down in Pittsburg and married some shoe clerk and had beautiful children and been peacefully happy. I am naturally domestic, I love to dust my own room I clean the keys of my piano. I hate lobster and champaigne. I like cheese sandwiches and beer.

UNREASONABLE RATHER.

"And so it was Thaw's pecuniary tendencies did not strike me as forcibly as they might have otherwise. But sometimes it would strike me as unreasonable, after he had refused to let me buy a pretty hat I had seen in a shop window, for him to come home and boast of having swept all the cut glass off a bar in the Hoffman House and having settled for it with a check for $300.

"All the time before our marriage while we were traveling in Europe, Thaw treated me with all the consideration a big man would show to the child. Did I awake in the night with a nightmare from eating too much camembert cheese a dozen physicians would appear at the hotel the next morning and prescribe a rigourous course of diet and baths. Did I have a headache a specialist would come and insist on my being treated like a real invalid for a month afterward.

"Also I want to be fair enough to say it is untrue that Thaw allowed me to use a penny of the ,etter of credit for $1,200 that Stanford White had given me before I met Thaw. It was the only unjust thing Jerome did in that first trial, trying to make out Thaw let me spend any of that money. He tore the money order up. And he took every little piece of jewelery that any man had ever given me and threw that into the ocean on the way over.

"The story that he beat me in the castle in Germany that Mr. Jerome tried to make me admit when he sprang the Abe Hummel affidavit in the first trial was also absolutely untrue. Except that he was absolutely stingy at all times. Thaw never abused me in all the times we were together before our marriage.

IS FAIR TO THAW.

"In Paris he refused to allow me to go to see any of the things all Americans take in. He said if I hadn't seen them. He took me to just two places the Cafe de Paris and the Rat Mort, and those who know say that they are Sunday schools compares with what may be seen in Paris. I do not say this in a complaining spirit. I want to be fair to Thaw. I honestly believe it was because he wanted to keep me from all such things.

"But see what happened next. We went to London and stopped at the Hotel Carlton. Thaw told the clerk always to send him a certain one of the pages, the youngest in answer to his calls. He tipped him extravagantly and seemed to be terribly taken with the child. One afternoon he placed a big heap of golden guineas on the table in our sitting room and then rang the bell.

"When the boy came Thaw told him to stay in the sitting-room while he went into the bedroom ostensibly to write a cablegram. The poor little fellow saw the guineas spread out on the table. Thaw was watching through the portieres. The page fell into the trap and put two of the coins in his pocket. Thaw rushed out on him and told him he would not send him to prison, but would punish him himself. He dragged the scared little fellow into the bathroom, stripped him and flogged him with a horsewhip until the child was bleeding all over the body. Then Thaw put him in the bathtub and rubbed salt into his wounds.

SETTLED FOR THOUSANDS.

"This is one of the things the people are going to bring out in the White Plains trial now under way. It is the first of the proofs they are going to advance in support of their contention that Thaw is a paranoiac The same incident will figure in the suit of Clifford W. Hartridge. Thaw's counsel of record in the first trial, when Mr. Hartridge's suit against Mrs. William Thaw comes into court

"The boy's mother brought suit against Thaw in London, and he settled out of court for several thousand dollars.

"Getting back to New York, let me tell one thing I didn't have a chance to explain in the trial. It is about my meeting with Stanford White when I was coming down Fifth avenue and he coming up, and our hansom came opposite each other at Thirty-fourth street. Mind you, this is the only time I ever saw White from the day Thaw stole me from him in 1903 until the night of the murder in 1906. It was the most natural thing in the world Mr. White did—to stand up and say in a surprised sort of way, "Why Evelyn."

"It isn't that I want to explain. but rather why I rushed back to the hotel to tell Thaw what had happened. Many people have said I did this simply as a scheme to make Thaw more jealous and urge him on to give me as much money as Mr. White would. The real reason was that I had promised on my word of honor to tell Thaw every time I saw White. I was afraid some one might have witnessed our meeting and I intended to let Thaw know I was playing square with him.

WHITE SENDS FLOWERS.

"I didn't know then, and I didn't find out until long after the trial, that White was sending me flowers through another girl and was asking her if there were any signs of my splitting with Thaw. The girl was telling Thaw all this without my knowledge, and it, of course, had a tremendous effect on him. This girl has told me a thousand times since she would cut off a hand before she would have knowingly helped Thaw along in his hatred for Stanford White.

"Now then to jump right down to the day of the murder. Thaw didn't see White come into Martin's. The same reason that made me tell Thaw the time I saw White in Fifth Avenue made me write the note to him at the table. I didn't write it, though until White had gone out onto the outside balcony and I said: "That B. G. has been here and has gone." B. G. stood for blackguard, you know.

"You see my one fear always was that if the two men met. Thaw's frightful temper would get the better of him and there would be a fight. It would mean talk and scandal and that was the last thing in the world any of us could afford.

THAT FINAL NOTE.

"I wrote the note to keep to the strict letter of my word to him and at the same time to let him get over the first shock of his anger, so that if he did see White, later, he would have cooled off a bit, it may have been bad judgment, but it seemed best to me at the time.

"It never was told at the trial why Thaw left his seat in Madison Square Roof Garden on the night of the tragedy and walked up and down I can't tell the reason now. But you will believe me when I tell you it was for the most innocent reasons. I was watching him, wondering why he didn't hurry and come back to us. and I am sure he never saw White until he got squarely in front of him."

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babies. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Battle of Stony Creek.

This incident in the war of 1812-14 is about to be commemorated by the erection of a monument. A few weeks ago the Countess Grey turned the first sod for this memorial.

The battle itself was fought in 1813. Towards the end of May the American fleet again ascended the lake, this time with intent to capture Fort George. The British general, Vincent, despairing of holding out against a combined assault by sea and land, blew up the works (May 27, 1813) and retreated; first to Queenston Heights, and, then, to Burlington Heights. He was pursued by a large body of troops under Generals Chandler and Winder, who, on the night of June 5, pitched camp on the east side of Stoney Creek, a few miles from Vincent's position. Here Adjutant-General Harvey made a night attack upon them. In the confused melee that followed both the American generals were captured. Next morning the American army retreated. In a short time the British and Canadian forces re-occupied all the frontier forts.

Minor and Crescendo.

Persons of "some class" in the militia camp are the bandsmen. For dignity and authority some of these musical gentlemen have even the officers of the Musical Protective Association beaten to a glorious finish.

The other evening at Niagara camp a couple of red coats tarried long in the town, and were overtaken by the picquet. It was long past the hour of 10.15, at which time all good soldiers are presumed to be within tents. The lieutenant of the picquet firmly ordered the two stragglers to make their way home.

"Not on your life," said one of them.

"Do you know who I am?" said the lieutenant.

"Nope," was the nonchalent reply. "Who are you?"

"I'm the lieutenant of the picquet."

"Is that all?" said the other, with quite a superior air. "I'm a bandsman of the 30th Regiment."

And it took some argument before they wheeled about and grumbling started towards the camp.

What Every Woman Requires for Headache Langour

Has your strength given out? Do you feel languid and tired this spring?

Are you pale, somewhat nervous, finding it hard to do your housework?

Thousands feel just the same, — you should not neglect yourself. Despite feel the enervating influence of latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flannigan of Shoal Junction—here is her experience. "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring illness—never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that saves. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,— Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite— I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic, blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Women who are continually pale, tired and sick, headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing down pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that need Dr. Hamilton's Pills to build them up and make them well. 25c at all dealers.

Plant Now Under Course of Erection at Quatsina Sound, Vancouver Island.

Asset.

The company have acquired 15,400 acres of Pulp Land on Quatsino Sound, Vancouver Island.

Water Power

In addition to the vast Pulp Limits acquired, the company have also secured a 25,000 inch water record on Marble Creek, at Quatsino Sound, capable of developing from 14,000 to 15,000 h.p. This creek derives its source from three lakes 20 miles in length and is thus permanent the year round.

Capacity of Plant

The plant when fully complete will have a capacity of 600 tons of news and wrapping per week, we are rushing the work along and feel confident that we will have the pulp plant with a weekly capacity of 100 tons in operation by December 1st of this year.

Cost of Manufacture

With our tremendous pulp limits, which enable us to secure our pulp wood at a nominal figure, and splendid water power, the cost of manufacture of news and wrapping paper should not exceed $8.00 per ton. At present news is selling in British Columbia at $20.00 per ton. The freight rate in carload lots from Ontario and Quebec being $7.00 per ton.

Local Markets

The local market of the company extends east a thousand miles to Moose Jaw and tributary region. Within the above territory the annual consumption of paper is estimated at a thousand tons exclusive of that used by printers and newspapers. The five daily papers at Victoria and Vancouver alone consume over 400 carloads of paper per year.

Foreign Markets

The foreign markets of the company consist of China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines. In 1908 the above countries imported over $30,000,000 worth of wood pulp and paper, principally from Norway, Sweden, Germany, Eastern United States and Eastern Canada.

Freight Rates to Orient

A freight rate of from $3.00 to $5.00 per ton can be secured from British Columbia to China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia, on wood pulp and paper as against a rate of $7.00 to $15.00 per ton on the same commodities from Eastern Canada and Europe. Being from 3,000 to 5,000 miles nearer the Oriental market than Eastern Canada or European mills we are not only able to secure a much lower freight rate, but also a lower insurance rate.

Natural Advantages of British Columbia

News and wrapping paper are manufactured principally from Spruce, Hemlock, Balsam and Larch wood, one ton of chemical wood pulp requires approximately two cords of four foot wood. At present Spruce and Hemlock wood is worth from $5.00 to $9.00 per cord, in Eastern Canada; our facilities enable us to secure it at less than $3.00 per cord. In 1908 the American mills were obliged to pay from $9.00 to $15.00 per cord.

Progress of Work

We are proceeding as fast as possible with the work. The erection of the plant has been placed under the exclusive supervision of Mr. Charles B. Pride, of Appleton, Wis., one of the most distinguished authorities on the erection of pulp and paper mills in the United States, having built more than fifty of the leading mills of the country and he is confident at being able to have the pulp mill in operation by December 1st of this year.

Stock

In offering the preferred stock of this corporation, we do so with a feeling that it is the best industrial stock ever offered for subscription in Western Canada. At present it is impossible to buy stock in the majority of the operating mills of Canada and there is no question but that inside of 18 months the stock of this corporation will be selling at a handsome premium; remember the time to buy stock in any corporation is six months before a wheel has been turned, not after it is in operation.

Profits in Pulp and Paper Manufacture

No industry, not even mining itself, has yielded as large and permanent dividends as the manufacture of Wood Pulp and Paper, and there is no reason why the mill which we are now erecting should not pay at least 25 per cent. annual dividends. Under much less favorable conditions, the Eastern Canadian and English mills are paying from 10 to 25 per cent. With our natural advantages, we should be able to make a profit of approximately $15.00 per ton on news paper, $20.00 per ton on Wrapping paper, and $35.00 per ton on box board and pulp board. The Pacific Coast mills of the United States are now making a net profit, after deducting depreciation, operating expenses, bonds, & etc., of approximately $25.00 per ton on wrapping and $35.00 per ton on box board and pulp boards, and this after paying from $6.00 to $8.00 per cord for wood. In 1908 the Laurentide Paper Co. showed a profit of $351,645. The Kellner-Partington Pulp and Paper Co. showed a gross profit last year of $1,333,333. The official United States Government Report, issued at Washington, D. C., July 8th, 1907, Bulletin 63, showed that the mills of the State of Oregon made a profit of 39 3-5 per cent. of the value of goods over all expenses, of 19 per cent. The gross profits of the International Paper Co., for the year ending June 30th, 1908, amounted to $1,638,333.

Under date of February 16th, 1909, Mr. Herman Ridder, President of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, filed charges against the Paper Trust of the United States, and in his deposition to Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, Attorney-General of the United States, said:

"News print paper mills that are not entirely modern are now making paper at figures that show a profit of more than $20.00 per ton on the paper prices just announced by the International Paper Co., $37.50 per ton. In other words, for paper conveyed, say, in New York, up-to-date mills are making a profit of more than 60 per cent. on the cost of manufacture, delivery and storage, and they are making a profit of more than 40 per cent. upon a reasonable allowance for the capital required for a modern plant."

With our close proximity to the Oriental market, there is no reason why we should not make, conservatively, 10 per cent. more dividends than the Eastern Canadian or American Mills. In 1908, Australia imported over 60,000 tons of News principally from Eastern Canada and Europe. Why should we let this great volume of paper go to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States, and Europe, when we are in a position to control it ourselves? Every dollar of paper used in the Orient should be furnished from Western Canada. With sufficient mills to produce the goods, what country is in a better position to control the trade of the Orient than British Columbia. Not only are we able to manufacture News and Wrapping Paper from $2.00 to $3.00 per ton lower than Eastern Canada and American mills, but we are from 2,000 to 3,000 miles nearer the great Oriental markets. The demand for News and Wrapping Paper is gradually increasing, and, within ten years, China, Japan, Australia and New Zealand will be absolutely dependent upon this Providence for its supply of pulp and paper. We know the big dividends that the paper mills of the world are paying, and with our immense timber limits, covering 56 square miles, which assures a permanent supply of wood at a nominal cost, there is no reason why we should not pay even larger dividends than the present operating mills.

The preferred stock is entitled to a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent., payable before any dividend is paid on the ordinary stock. After 7 per cent. has been paid upon both the preferred and ordinary shares, both stocks thereafter participate equally.

CITY LEAGUE.

Baseball Getting Interesting and Saturday's games Mean Much.

The City League games at Nicholls Oval on Saturday should be the most interesting of the season, in view of the fact that but one game separates the T.A.S. and Park St. A.C., and the two leaders meet on Saturday. If the Park St. team win and both players and supporters are confident that they will, it will leave the two tied for the leadership and with the finishing line only a few short weeks away, there will be more excitement than at a German picnic, when it has been discovered that someone has stole the beer. Park St. will have the same team that defeated the West Ends last week. They are confident of galloping away from the weakened T.A.S. but the Abstainers have enough of the regulars with good substitutes to give the Park St. team an awful argument.

The West Ends and Stratheonas are fighting it out in the second division and Saturday's game will have a good deal of say about who will occupy the cellar position.

END OF U. S. OIL WELLS AT HAND

Standard Oil Co. Stores Vast Quantities

Startling Report by Dr. Day, Geological Expert Fixes Near Date for Great Petroleum Crisis

Washington, D. C., July 22.—In 27 years all the coal oil in the United States will be exhausted.

This is the startling prediction of Dr. Dapid T. Day, petroleum expert of the United States geological survey, in a report to the national conservation commission.

It is based on facts—facts carefully gathered by Dr. Day and a large corps of expert assistants through every state in the union.

It's the most conservative estimate Dr. Day could arrive at. His minimum figures would see the last oil well in America cease to spout nine years sooner.

And with oil going, going, going, its last days inevitable as the end of life, United States is shipping its oil away to foreign nations as fast as it can. Sixty-five per cent of all the oil produced in this country is sent to foreign nations.

What will be the situation in 1935, when our wells run dry?

Dr. Day's statements loom up like the solemn warnings of a prophet.

There are two other great significent facts in the situation.

One that the Standard Oil Co. is now storing oil away in tanks and reservoirs over the country at the rate of 2,000,000 barrels a month. It already has close to 100,000,000 barrels, worth more than $150,000,000 at today's market price.

The other fact is that the Standard, the most powerful, the most shrewdly managed, the best-hated monopoly of the world, is doing a policy that has nothing less than a less than a corner of all the oil in the world as its ultimate aim.

Already the Standard controls the great Galatian fields in Roumania, great holdings in Russia, Germany and smaller fields over the world. State Senator Emery of Pennsylvania charged before the house finance committee that the Standard had effected an alliance with the big Pearson syndicate in Mexico, which controls the fields of that country from the Rio Grande to Yucatan. In Japan it was all powerful until two years ago, when the Japanese government took nominal ownership. Standard oil drillers are plunging into the wilds of darkest Africa, drilling for more oil.

With the Standard controlling the oil fields of the rest of the world, and our own supply exhausted, what will America do for oil in 1935?

With Standard tanks and reservoirs over the country filled in 1935 with perhaps a billion barrels of oil what will America pay for oil in 1935?

The oil used in this country costs the people close to $200,000,000 a year now.

In 1935 the oil trust will have the best excuse in the world for raising the price—that the supply is being exhausted.

Dr. Day frankly alarmed at his own figures, makes several recommendations to the national conservation commission. He says that he does not expect they will be followed. With the system he recommends oil would last for 90 years. Among his recommendations are:

Petroleum to be devoted to only its essential uses, the greatest being machine lubrication.

Only its lowest residuum to be burned for fuel.

All petroleum produced above the actual and essential needs of the country to be stored against the day of its exhaustion.

Realizing the futility of getting these recommendations adopted with any degree of dispatch or care, Dr. Day recommends as being practicable three conclusions that he says "are self-evident."

First: It is absolutely necessary for the preservation of an adequate supply of petroleum that all public lands, where petroleum is probable, should at once be withdrawn from entry.

Second: A general investigation of the conditions of accumulation of petroleum and its geographic distribution, should be undertaken in order that the petroleum bearing public lands may be selected.

Third: Fundamental scientific study of the nature of petroleum especially with a view to securing the greatest yields of the most valuable constituents and even for transmitting one oil into another, is required for its most intelligent use.

The oil industry has reached its highest mark, Dr. Day believes. From now on the progress will be downward. He points out that the daily production in Pennsylvania has fallen from 207 barrels a day per square mile in the oil fields to a well of 1.7 barrels. He shows that the West Virginia fields are producing only 50 per centper cent of their maximum. Ohio and Indiana are falling off faster than Pennsylvania, and Texas are also going down.

In California, Illinois and Oklahoma the production will increase somewhat, Dr. Day says, then fall off again.

In all, close to two billion barrels of oil have been produced in United States, worth, it is estimated, $1,654,877,685. Now the estimate of the remaining oil in the ground, according to Dr. Day's report, is as follows:

Appalachian	2,000,000,000	5,000,000,000
Lima-Indiana	1,000,000,000	2,000,000,000
Illinois	700,000,000	1,000,000,000
Mid-continent	000,000,000	1,000,000,000
Gulf	200,000,000	1,000,000,000
California	3,000,000,000	3,000,000,000
Minor fields	1,000,000,000	5,000,000,000
Totals	10,000,000,000	24,000,000,000
Field.	Minimum.	Maximum.

Petroleum, Dr. Day urges, should be reserved for its essential uses. Principal among these is that of lubrication. No practical substitute for this has been discovered. Vegetable oil is far too expensive. In an age of machinery [illegible] matter of vital importance.

HISTORY OF COAL OIL INDUSTRY.

Petroleum oil, discovered in the Allegheny mountains in the early part of the century, became a commercial product with the perfecting of refining processes in 1854 to 1860. A great rush to the Pennsylvania country followed, similar to the California gold field rush of 1849.

The Lima fields in Ohio and Indiana were discovered in 1885, and the Beaumont, Tex., fields in 1901. Both became very important in the development of the oil business.

Outside United States the greatest oil fields are in Baku, Russia, and in Galatia, Roumania. Great fields have been discovered in Mexico, which it is predicted, will see a yield of 200,000 barrels a day within the next 18 months.

STATEMENT BY STANDARD OIL ON DWINDLING SUPPLY AND BIG STORE.

New York, July 24—"Standard Oil, as far as I know, hasn't heard of Day's report on the [illegible] J. C. Clark, representative of the Standard Oil Co., at 26 Broadway.

"But would need to admit that the supply is very changeable. Within 24 hours our supply may be visible to one-fifth or even one-tenth of what it is in the country.

"At present the supply of oil in the country is greater than the [illegible] That is why Standard Oil has to carry that amount of oil in storage tanks and reservoirs. The supply and [illegible] are constantly fluctuating, no matter how many the tanks are filled.

"We are looking out all the world for new supplies. We try to keep as well informed about new wells as our competitors are and we try to get new wells as fast as they are found.

"The Pennsylvania supply, which was the first to be discovered and started to say, yielded the first oil we have ever found. It is rapidly declining.

"The Oklahoma and eastern supply is about 70,000 barrels a day. It is [illegible] and they believe that oil is not really coming in pockets, [illegible] on the earth."

Rural Daily Mail Service for Smith and Ennismore

Arrangements have been made with the mail carrier between Peterborough and Ennismore to deliver a daily mail to all the farmers along the road he traverses, who have secured a letter box from the department and have complied with the simple requirements of placing it upon a post in front of their gates. Already there are thirteen farmers along this particular stage route secured boxes to enjoy this daily mail service, which they will readily appreciate as also the efforts of J. R. Stratton, M. P., who has been instrumental in having it established. The farmer pays three dollars to the department for a letter box which then belongs to him, and should he move he has the right to take it to his new residence. He is required to provide a post about 8 inches in diameter, 4 feet 3 inches above the ground and extending down three feet.

A canvas of the farmers along the stage route between Lakefield and Lakehurst was taken and only three signified their desire to have a daily mail service. It was therefore decided not to make any arrangements with the mail carrier along that road. The service between Peterborough and Warsaw will be established as soon as the farmers along the route signify their desire to have a daily mail and farmers residing on any existing daily stage route may obtain a daily mail service by taking the necessary steps and notifying the department that they desired mail boxes for daily service.

Greatest Contest Ever Held in Peterborough Nears the End

To Insure Absolute Fairness, The Morning Times Has Asked a Committee of the Most Prominent Men to Count the Vote and Award Prizes

The following committee of well known men has consented to award the prize in The Times great $1,000 Prize Popularity Contest:

THE COMMITTEE TO AWARD PRIZES

Mayor Henry Rush, of Peterborough.
Warden N. R. Scott, of the County of Peterborough.
Ald. Harry Phelan, of the city of Peterborough.
F. G. Hazzard, Y. M. C. A. Secretary.
E. Wasson, of Saunderson Jewellery Co.
S. R. Armstrong, Clerk of Peterborough.
A. W. Cressman, Cressman's Departmental Store, Peterborough.

Once more the sun will set before the contest ends. This is no time for long talks. Every minute should be actively employed. Get all the subscriptions you can, bring them into the contest department as quickly as you can, and never think you have reached your limit until the clock strikes Nine tonight.

EVERY VOTE VALUABLE.

Do not forget the fact that sometimes the race is remarkable close at the finish. Even one more subscription may make the difference to you between success and failure. It would seem very hard to miss what you want by just a few votes. Make it certain that you have not relaxed up to the last moment. If you should lose then you will have no reason to reproach yourself. If you win by a narrow margin how happy you will be to think that you overcame your competitors to the last minute.

JUST FEW MORE HOURS.

There are but a few more hours before the contest will close. These last hours may be very valuable if you use them to the best advantage. Few people would refuse you a subscription if you go to them with a last appeal for help. Will you go to those from whom there is a chance of getting a subscription, or leave it to your more enterprising rival?

ENLIST YOUR FRIENDS

For the last day your friends will probably be able to spare a little time is trying to secure subscriptions for you. Ask them to do so. If they find even a subscription it may be of the greatest importance to you.

Good luck to you and we hope to see your name on the list of winners. Close 9 P. M. sharp.

Harry Thaw's Mother Attacks Mr. Jerome

New York, July 23.—Despite the protests of friends, Mrs. William Thaw has issued her pamphlet on the Thaw case, headed "The Secret Unveiled." She went to the trouble of having the document copywrighted and it is said that 1,000 copies will be printed and mailed to her friends and the press of the country.

In the introduction Mrs. Thaw admits that she expects to be criticized by her friends and others for "descending into the arena," but says: "Exceptional conditions demand exceptional treatment, and the fact that District Attorney Jerome has on four occasions left the quite sufficient responsibilities of his own district to pursue this case into a district within which, as he himself acknowledges with his own signature he has no jurisdiction, compels this unusual procedure on my part."

Mrs. Thaw takes up the case at the time of her arrival from Europe, in July, 1906. She says:

A COWARDLY COMBINATION.

"I found a cowardly combination made up of men of professional standing, together with disappointed black-mailers, perjurers and others, all working together to prevent a trial which they feared would result in exposure, they set to work to blacken the reputation of my son, an average young man, with a chivalrous nature, as shown by his attempt to break up these disreputable places.

"They pretended that my son's knowledge of the three infamous dens used by Stanford White and his companions for disgusting orgies, and by White himself, were only the delusions of a disordered mind. Jerome, in his speech to the last jury, was unexpectedly moved to reveal the truth. He admitted all H. K. Thaw and Anthony Comstock had stated was true, and himself added charges in terms more severe than any they had used.

"Eight months ago I determined to remain here (near Matteawan until my son should be released from the illegal imprisonment, where he has been enduring conditions that would wreck most men with a fortitude that of itself destroys one argument of vindictive partisans."

MISERABLE DEGENERATES.

The key to the whole prosecution, Mrs. Thaw says, is to be found in the closing sentences of one of Mr. Jerome's speeches, where he cited the case of Monk Eastman, and said that certain people would be only too glad to have him adjudged insane, so that certain things could not come out. For the same reason she believes the "miserable degenerates" behind the prosecution of her son are interested in keeping him in the lunatic asylum.

Speaking of the action of Justice Dowling in committing Thaw to the asylum for the safety of the public, Mrs. Thaw says:

"What an outcry such a sentence would create throughout civilized Europe and throughout free America! There could be no denunciation too severe for the Russian judge there could be found no newspaper in the United States or in Europe, outside of Russia, which would dare venture to approve or sustain a sentence so unjust and cruel, and so violative of every safeguard."

MR. MENDEL HOME.

Has Returned From Photographers' Convention in Rochester.

Mr. Louis Mendel has returned from attending the convention of the American Photographers' Association, which is being held in Rochester all this week. Mr. Fred Roy is also in attendance, but he has not yet returned. Mr. Mendel states that the photographers, many of whom were accompanied by their wives, were lavishly entertained by the Eastman Kodak Company. There were about 4,000 in the party, and among other things the Eastman Company provided an elaborate banquet for the visitors. An inspection of the mammoth establishment of the Eastman Company was also a feature of the gathering.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares Nerviline is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. A. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

NARVILINE CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co'y, Kingston, Ont. 9

The Fuel and Cartage Gang

The poe laureate of the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Company, was affected by the warm weather of a week or so ago, and relieved himself as follows;

Give me back my old black horse
And my old shaky truck.
Give me back the same old course,
And then I'll be in luck.

McDonald's mill and turning lathe
It holds no charm for me,
I'd rather knock about the streets
To dee what I can see.

I like the jolly bunch of boys,
Yes, every mother's son.
I'll try and tell you of them all
And name them one by one.

The first is Fair with his black pair
And he came from afar,
Kind-hearted old Tom Kennedy,
There is Jim and Ben LeBar.

The next is Dinnie Hobbins
He is a splendid man,
And Jack O'Brien, how he does shine
When he crawls on the Van.

We can't forget Sam Thomas
We will give him three good cheers.
But Sam is far above the rest
For he belongs to the volunteers.

The next is ArchMcDonald
With his lame and shining black.
But Archie can't stay steady
For he is bothered with his back

The next is Simeon Martin
He never did come late,
But he gave up the "fleed team"
To go into the real estate.

And what of Albert Bateson
We never mentioned him.
He had joined the Irish Sons of Rest
And he thinks work is a sin.

Next comes in Geo. Gauthier,
With his truck and bob-tailed gray.
He is bound to do the company
And put in an easy day.

But I don't blame Gauthier.
He tries to do his best,
And when he takes it easy
He is even with the rest.

We will no forget our office staff.
From the ladies to the men
But of course they have their drawbacks.
For they don't know six from ten.

Our foreman's name is Barbeau
And he is short and stout,
Every man that Archie hires
At seven must turn out.

Our manager and leader,
With his ten cent cigar
We cannot chase him with the rest
For he is the Mr.

And what of Pogue, he is no rogue
But he will shut work till ten,
But then you can't blame Johnny
For he's on the wholesale end.

There is some I should not mention
For I honor their gray hairs,
And if there's a snap around the place,
Just give it to Val Fair.

If I should die before I'm through
And you come to my wake,
Well don't forget our stable boy,
I think his name's LaVague.

A line or two for Peters
He comes near the last.
It's him that drives the chestnut team.

And well he's very fast.

The boss to come is Parrington
His equal's hard to find,
And when the bell strikes 12 o'clock
He never is behind.

Myself I will not mention
I'm ashamed to tell my name.
I know my legs are crooked
But I get there just the same.
If I had gained good knowledge
One more verse I'd have put in.
But I'm only a poor Knock-about
And I live on Waldie's Hill

CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act in England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert, especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature creche while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, line it with hay and use it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel Islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown in the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constable. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerately left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kind-hearted Sark women, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.—Strand Magazine.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he settles down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare Indian specimens but little known in the old country at the present time.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The remarkable sneezewood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planting it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes the wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Clergymen In Church Pageant.

The allotment of parts in the church pageant in England has now practically been completed. An interesting scene is promised in "the coronation procession of King Edward VI.," in which the mayor of Fulham will represent the lord mayor of London of the period, Rev. P. S. G. Prepert will participate as the Earl of Rutland, Rev. E. H. Gallop will appear as the Bishop of Durham, and Rev. W. L. Marshall will represent Bishop Latimer.

Providing Against Emergencies.

"Is you do insurance gemmun?" asked Erastus Pinkley.

"I am," answered the urbane agent.

"Well, I wants to talk business. I ain' got nuffin' to say agin my neighbors, but I's had a lot of unexpected occurrences. I wants to see if I can't arrange to get some accident insurance on my chicken coop."

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the Reason to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescriptions or personal advice plan. My best efforts are surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the first day's test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that to-morrow is not certain. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 17, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?

Indian Assassin to be Hanged

London, July 23.—Madalari Ehinagari, the Indian student, who on the night of July 1, at the conclusion of a public gathering in the Imperial Institute, shot and killed Lt.-Co., Sir William Hutt Curzon White and Dr. Cawas Lalcaca, was today found guilty and sentenced to death at the conclusion of a trial of less than an hour's duration in the Old Bailey police court.

During the recital of the occurence in the Imperial Institute on the night of the tragedy the prisoner sat in the dock listening unconcernedly, and only once broke his silence by saying: "Whatever I did was an act of patriotism."

At the close of the evidence, and in reply to the query if he wished to question any of the witnesses, Madalari said "No," adding that he wished only that the statement in justification of his act which he made in the police court on July 10 should be read. This was done, and the verdict of guilty and sentence of death followed in a few seconds.

As the lord chief justice concluded in pronouncing sentence, the prisoner drew himself up in military style and saluted. He said:

"I thank you, my lord, I am proud to have the honor of laying down my humble life for my country."

Pain can be easily and quickly stopped. Pink Pain Tablets—Dr Shoop's—stop Headache, womanly pains, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c box. Ask your druggist or doctor about this formula—its fine. Sold by all dealers.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 36 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

AN AIRSHIP MYSTERY

WHAT IS THE STRANGE VESSEL HOVERING OVER E. ANGLIA?

Well Verified Reports Are Received From Eastern Counties of England of a Dirigible Balloon — May Be Exploring Ship of an Enemy or the Experiment of a British Inventor—All England Is Mystified.

The magnificent voyage of 950 miles just accomplished by Count Zeppelin's airship would seem to indicate that there may be more in the story of the mysterious ship of the clouds, which, it is said, has been seen floating over parts of the United Kingdom, than may be credited by most people. A correspondent writes to a London paper the following account of his investigations in East Anglia.

The mystery of the East Anglian skies has for too long defied solution, whatever the ultimate explanation may be. This is the opinion of the inhabitants of our Eastern Counties, among whom suspicion and a sense of intense uneasiness have been generated, from the Wash to the Thames. This is a new and unenviable state of mind which will quite conceivably grow with the progress of aerial navigation, and of which we are now getting our first foretaste. The skies above East Anglia have been invaded by some strange friend or potential foe; they know not which. And as the solution of this aerial enigma admits of either possibility, people very reasonably claim a right to be satisfied. It is this which justifies every effort to probe the existing mystery.

I am writing this in the heart of the wide district over which the disturbing phantom has lately been haunting the glimpses of the moon. And, although it has denied me personally a revelation of itself, I have, nevertheless, been encountering ample and reliable evidence as to the appearance and extraordinary efficiency of this new denizen of the upper air. This, supplemented by my own knowledge of the country, especially of the Fens, their many fastnesses, and remote peneralia, has induced me to form what I think is a pretty good guess as to one direction in which one must look for the lair of this nocturnal rover, unless we adopt the theory which has been supported in several quarters, of a floating base off our coast.

By a comparison of times and direction of flight when the airship might naturally be making for home, I am induced to regard the Fens as its hiding-place. The Fen country, in which I have wandered for days together, still contains the most silent and sequestered solitudes in England. And their grim, uncompromising sameness, obstructed by numerous dyke-cuts, and penetrable only by the worst and most devious of tracks, would afford any amount of excellent cover.

Meantime, this almost nightly cruising apparition is startling old ladies, apprehensive of the final judgment, belated travelers, and policemen in the early watches of the morning, as well as causing many sober thinkers whom I have met some not unnatural or unfounded anxiety.

It was during one of the strange airship's recent swoops to the southwest that it was watched for something like fifteen minutes by my friend, Mr. J. A. Smith, a well-known authority on all that appertains to East Anglian agriculture. Standing in the grounds of his charming old Tudor house at Ipswich, whose ancient garden walls are loopholed for the bowmen of an age before airships, I heard him describe his first view of the aerial intruder.

"I was in the garden in front of the house," he explained, "when my daughter, who saw it first, called to me that a strange object was in the northwestern sky. It was not actually dark at the time, but late twilight and approaching dusk. There was a slight moon and a few fleeting clouds as the object of our interest rose higher into the heavens above that belt of trees bordering the railway line. It came steadily on towards our left front, well above the light clouds which occasionally blurred its outline. I got hold of my glasses just as the postman and a constable came up, and what we seemed to see were two distinct objects, the upper like a huge grub, while the other, much lower down, was distinguishable by an exceptionally bright gleam of the searchlight description. This was, no doubt, the position of the crew. Its course seemed to be a sweep round from the northeast to the southwest, and from the fact that it traversed so wide an extent of sky and passed out of sight in a quarter of an hour, its pace and engine-power must have been extraordinary, especially as the wind, at our level at any rate, was against it."

This problem of our eastern skies has now been seen by numbers of people between points as far north as Kings Lynn and as far south as the Shoeburyness Forts and Chatham. To one witness, a landowner in the direction of Cambridgeshire, I am indebted for a summary of the views which have been formed with regard to the phenomenon.

Since this correspondent wrote the above, fresh reports have come to hand of the mysterious airship having been seen over the North Sea by the captain of a Norwegian steamer and the skipper and the crew of a Lowestoft trawler, as well as by several other reputable witnesses. This suggests that the airship may have its base somewhere in the North Sea.

A Pro-Consul's Wife.

Lady Eldon Gorst, wife of Sir Eldon Gorst, the British Agent-General in Egypt, is doing in her way as valuable services for the country as is her husband, a distinguished pro-consul of the Empire. In every social function and in all charitable work she is ever the foremost, and in such a city as Cairo there are endless duties devolving upon her. The mode in fashionable dress is set by her ladyship, but she is known and loved by all classes for her ready and active sympathy with distress and suffering.

A More Peaceful Ireland.

The Dublin Gazette contains a proclamation announcing that King's county has ceased to be disturbed, and ordering the discontinuance of the additional police force after a month. Similar proclamations have been issued in regard to counties Leitrim and Westmeath.

QUAINT LITTLE METIS.

Romance and Fascination Clings to Quebec Fishing Village.

The little village of Metis, near Rimouski, Quebec, has a quiet fascination of its own, says a writer in The Toronto Globe. In the back concessions dwell French-Canadians, but in the vicinity of the sea they are Scotch Methodists, a pious, steady and industrious population. It is too far for excursions or for brief visits; those who come settle down for a time. It is an ideal spot for children, as the level beach is perfectly safe, and there is no village near to render it uncleanly. Many of the cottages are occupied by college professors from Montreal and points further west. When it is fine and warm nothing more perfect than the atmosphere can be imagined. To lie on the summit of a great rock that has been heated in the sun, to listen to the ripple of the waves and breathe the aroma of the sea, is something to dream of on cheerless winter days.

The gulf at Metis is 40 miles wide; the stately ships passing up and down afford an interesting variety. The enchanting mirage is often visible; it is not unusual to perceive trees, fields and rocks from the opposite shore outlined in the sky appear close at hand. There are delightful walks and drives; the Falls at Grand Metis, 12 miles distant, afford an ideal spot for picnics, and the Murray Falls, though smaller, are also lovely.

These peaceful shores are haunted by grim memories. All visitors climb Mount Misery, from whose summits one can look far out to sea; the place has gained its name from the number of boats which have been wrecked at the foot of the hill. The writer was once puzzled by the name of a rocky, precipitous cave called by the inhabitants "Lancy Murta," until told that this was a corruption of L'Anse des Morts (Cove of the Dead), because the bodies of so many shipwrecked mariners had drifted in there. In the early 'forties a large emigrant ship was dashed to pieces on the rocks, and but few of its weight of human souls were saved. A young Scotchman came out to make a home in the new world; his betrothed, detained by the illness of her mother, was to join him later. She was on board the wrecked vessel; in trying to save her he was drowned. The fishermen claim that during violent tempests the faithful lovers can still be seen battling with the cruel waves.

A Metis fishing boat once came across a large octopus which had drifted from far-away southern seas. Fastening its tentacles on to the boat, it seemed to be steadily drawing the bark down. Fortunately one of her crew was provided with an axe, with which he hacked off as many of the clutching arms as he could reach. The body was recovered and was placed in a museum, but a belief still lingers that the devil in person once visited respectable Metis.

Jap Ships at Vancouver.

On Monday, May 10, the Japanese gunboats Soya and Aso dropped anchor in Vancouver harbor. Both ships were originally built and owned by the Russian Government. They are armored cruisers of the second class, and at the breaking out of the Russo-Japan war were in the harbor of Chemulpo, Korea. On the day war was declared a number of Japanese war vessels appeared off the harbor, and the Russian commander received a formal communication from the Japanese commander to surrender immediately. Instead of yielding to this demand, the ships were prepared for action, and, steaming out of the harbor, engaged in the first naval battle of the war. Their defeat was not in question from the first, and it took but half an hour to put them out of fighting order. They retreated in a battered condition to the harbor, and sank at their anchorage. Under the Russian flag these ships were known as the Koreetz and Varyag. Before the completion of the war the vessels were raised, refitted and helped fight under the banner of the Rising Sun.

May Become Premier.

One of the best posted men on political affairs in Canada, Alex. Smith, former Liberal organizer, states that there is a great future ahead of W. L. Mackenzie King, and that it was with this view that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has made him a member of his Government. Successful as Mr. King has been up to the present, Mr. Smith states it is doubtful if he would at this early stage of his Parliamentary career, and at the age of thirty-four, be a member of the Cabinet unless the future of which Mr. King gives high promise held strong sway on the mind and judgment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"There is no doubt," said Mr. Smith, "that in making his choice of Minister of Labor, Sir Wilfrid had in view his own career, and particularly that portion of it at the time Alexander Mackenzie invited him to a seat in his Cabinet at the age of thirty-five. By choosing young Laurier, Alexander Mackenzie enhanced and enriched the Liberal party, and with similar hopes Sir Wilfrid has now chosen Mr Mackenzie King."

Opening Up Northern Ontario.

Mr. Frank Moberly, the railway engineer, is a firm believer in the future of Far Northern Ontario, writes our Toronto correspondent. For three years he has successfully conducted agricultural experiments on a clearing in the woods 500 miles north of Toronto. Wheat, oats, barley, and twenty-three different kinds of vegetables were successfully grown, and Mr Moberly is confident that the great Northern "clay belt" penetrated by the Ontario Government Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway possesses immense agricultural possibilities. The clay belt contains some 16,000,000 acres, and is made up of wooded country similar to that cleared by the early settlers of older Ontario fifty years ago.

LUDLOW STREET JAIL

The Sheriff's Famous Prison In New York City.

ITS GUESTS WELL TREATED.

The Inmates Wear No Uniform and Have Many Privileges—The Discipline Is Quite Gentle and the Surroundings Peaceful and Homelike.

Walking through the streets of the squalid, noisy east side, the visitor in New York is quite unprepared for the peace and clean homeliness which greet him in the sheriff's prison in Ludlow street. Flanked by public school and police court on two sides, the brick building, ornamented with antique iron grill over long windows, resembles a village church or old fashioned hall of learning. The outer clamor does not penetrate its cool cloisters. The struggle for existence is halted at the threshold. But it is not so easy to enter the sheriff's rest establishment. The guard who opens the front door in response to the electric bell eyes the visitor suspiciously, as if the latter might be trying to break into the county haven without proper credentials. The only persons entitled to the privileges of the Ludlow tavern are those in contempt of surrogates' and certain other courts, federal bankrupts, delinquent militiamen, execution and judgment debtors and breach of promise and alimony men.

However, the visitor who can prove that he has no sinister purpose is ushered into a cosy parlor fitted with rugs, pictures and piano. Here he meets the warden, who talks freely and simply about his guests. He admits he has never read Lombroso or any other criminologist. What's the use? They don't send felons to this place. The learned observations of penologists do not apply to the inmates of Ludlow tavern. Methods of discipline and reform are superfluous. There are just a few rules, such as obtain in any well regulated hostelry. A guest on arrival has his pedigree taken at the office, is shown up to his sleeping chamber, gets introduced to the gentlemen in the sitting room and is left to his own devices—no uniform, no hair cut, none of the unpleasant features of a common prison. There is, indeed, a genteel search for sharp instruments, keys and knives, as forbidden articles, but there is no confiscation of any other private possessions. A man may bring in all the books, writing material, tobacco, clothes, toilet articles and bric-a-brac that he pleases.

The rising bell rings at 6:30 a. m., and the guests have a chance to wash, shave and make their beds before breakfast, at 8 o'clock. The regular breakfast consists of coffee and rolls, but guests may supplement it with eggs cooked at the hot water tap or may order, at their own expense, an elaborate meal from the menu card of a nearby restaurant. The morning newspapers are at hand, so that guests, while sipping their coffee, may scan headlines and note the progress of events.

After breakfast every one goes into the yard for an hour's exercise. The high brick walls do not bar the sunshine from the yard, which is about sixty feet square and stone flagged around a central grass plot. After the exercise hour the guests repair to a large sitting room and read, study or play penuchle, checkers, dominos and chess. There is a small library of books and magazines. Those who have private stocks of literature exchange their books in a fraternal spirit.

The dinner bell rings at noon. A wholesome stew, a boiled dinner or a plate of fish and potatoes is provided. If this seems too frugal even for cloister life, there is the restaurant menu to fall back on. As a rule, though, the inmates are satisfied with the regular fare. Another hour in the yard, an afternoon spent in the sitting room, after the style of the morning session, and then a supper of bread and tea at 5 o'clock. Two hours later the guests retire to their chambers for the night. They are locked in, it is true, but the obliging guard will open on any reasonable request. There is no rule against talking, and guests may read or write by the light of their own candles until they feel disposed to go to bed.

A gentle routine it is. No one is overcrowded, for, while there are accommodations for a hundred persons, the number of guests is seldom anything like that. The disagreeable monotony of seeing the same faces and hearing the same anecdotes, complained of by arctic travelers, is obviated by the coming and going of inmates. The comfort of guests is pretty well assured by a staff of nine guards and three or four cooks and attendants.

Letters to guests are not opened before delivery, as in common penal institutions. Three days a week are set aside for visitors, but no member of the Alimony club is compelled to see his wife. Once in a long while, however, a member of the fair sex enters the portals as a guest. There was one woman brought to the office in contempt proceedings subsequent on a supplementary inquiry, but the referee held a hearing on the spot, and the woman was discharged with consent of counsel. In former days a male guest charged with breach of promise won freedom by marrying the woman of his choice in the hotel office.

What we obtain too cheap we esteem too lightly.—Paine.

Cretonne Slips For Frocks.

It is an excellent idea to keep frocks in slips or bags when they hang in the closet, for this prevents dust from settling on them and keeps them fresh.

Very attractive cretonne slips are to be had already made up for a small sum, or these can be made with very little trouble by taking two straight widths of cretonne in a pretty gay colored pattern, joining them and making a flap over the top through which a clothes hanger hook may be put.

A bag drawn up with a tape is liable to warm the frock, whereas the envelope slip in light weight and does not pucker up at the top.

SOME COSTLY PICTURES

PRINCELY SUMS THAT HAVE BEEN PAID FOR PAINTINGS.

Sum of $360,000 Paid For Holbein's "Christina of Denmark" Ranks High In the List But J. P. Morgan's Price of Half a Million for a Raphael Prevents It Becoming a Record—Picture Costs Two Lives.

Big prices for pictures are by no means rare nowadays, but the sum of $360,000 demanded for Holbein's famous portrait of "Christina of Denmark" is almost unprecedented.

In the National Gallery at the present time the picture which cost most money is what is known as the "Blenheim Raphael," for which $350,000 was paid in 1885. The other Raphael in the gallery is the property of Mr. Pierpont Morgan, and he is believed to have given $500,000 for the work.

There is an interesting story attached to a portrait of Lady Coburn and her children by Sir Joshua Reynolds now in the gallery. In 1892 this beautiful work was bequeathed to the nation by Lady Hamilton, and for a few years occupied an honored position among England's art treasures. Some time in 1899, however, the family discovered that Lady Hamilton had only a life interest in the work, and was, therefore, not entitled to dispose of it, and they claimed repossession. After testing their case, the Gallery trustees found themselves compelled to give up the picture, and the family sold it to Mr. Alfred Beit, the South African millionaire, for about $150,000. Now, however, the picture once more hangs in the nation's great gallery, for when Mr. Beit died a year or two ago, he bequeathed the work to the nation.

Romance is frequently a feature in the history of great works of art, and the story of a great picture that was bought for two human lives is not uninteresting.

While Marshal Soult was following the retreating army of Sir John Moore before Corunna, a party of his soldiers took as prisoners two monks. This class was very hostile to the French, and monks captured were generally at once shot. Instead of following the usual practice, however, the great marshal ordered these two to lead him to their monastery.

At the monastery, Soult saw the picture, and wished to buy it, but the prior refused to sell, stating that he had been offered $20,000 for the work. The marshal then offered $40,000, and, thinking he saw a chance to save his humbler brethren, the prior accepted, on the condition that the two monks should be handed over to him.

"Their ransom is $40,000," said Soult, seizing hold of his opportunity, and nothing the prior could say would move him from his quickly-made decision.

Frequently, these have been cases of valuable pictures being lost or stolen, and never heard of again; and, on the other hand, pictures whose very existence have been forgotten, turn up from time to time, once more to cause a stir in the world. So recently as 1904, in the home of a gentleman at Whitehaven, a canvas was found rolled up, and in such a fearfully dirty condition that, at first, it was quite impossible to trace any signs of a picture. Careful cleaning, however, disclosed a portrait of two children by George Romney, and one of that artist's finest works.

Fifty years before, the canvas had been bought, with two others, for $5. At Christie's, it fetched $35,000.

Only the year before the unearthing of this treasure in the possession of an old lady of Worthing was found the portrait of a lady in a white muslin dress with yellow trimmings. The picture was covered with dirty varnish and disfigured by two holes. An attempt to dispose of it to some dealer for $25 was unsuccessful, but when it was found to be a Gainsborough, and sent to auction, it sold for no less than $45,000, the purchaser being Sir Charles Wertheimer.

The Point of View.

There is, always was and ever will be so much in the point of view. An old darky, wandering through the east side in a vain search for work wouldn't have understood this original thought if he had heard it, though he unconsciously exemplified it. Weary and footsore, he leaned against an electric light pole to rest. Several factory whistles in the neighborhood blew the noon hour. As the shrill blasts died away the old darky turned to a loitering resident of the block and remarked sententiously:

"Yas, sah, it's sure dinner time for lots o' folks, but it's only 12 o'clock fer me."

And he shambled on down the street looking for a job.

To Change Umbrella Handles.

Sometimes a person would like to change an expensive umbrella handle to another umbrella and fasten it on solid. This can be done by cleaning out the hole left in the handle from the old rod and filling the hole with powdered sulphur. Place the handle on a solid upright position and after heating the umbrella rod red hot push the rod down into the hole containing the sulphur. The hot rod fuses the sulphur, and when cool it will hold the rod solid. This method may be applied to fastening rods into stone, iron or wood.

The Way It Goes.

"What sort of a customer is Brown?"

"Fine. He always pays his bills on the 10th of the month."

"And what do you know about Green?"

"I don't know much about Green's credit. You see, he always pays cash when he gets anything, and so I couldn't say whether he's honest or not."

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His five—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Water Commissioners Saw the Mechanical Filtration Operating

The Water Commissioners, accompanied by Mr. Henderson, superintendent, and Mr. Armstrong, secretary visited Chatham and St. Thomas with a view of finding out what they could regarding the system of water filtration in both of those cities.

An interview of interest on the commissioners' visit was given the Times Thursday night by Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the Board.

Chatham was the first point visited. This city has a population of about 11,500. The water-works system was originally put in by a private company, and purchased by the city years ago. It is operated and controlled by three commissioners—two of whom are elected by the people, the Mayor of the city being the third On arrival we went to the City Hall, which is a splendid building in the by the city and county. The City Clerk, Mr. Merritt, was exceedingly obliging, giving us considerable information and he went out with us to the Pumping Station. The water supply is obtained from the river—pumped first into the settling basin, 1,900 feet long by about 200 feet wide, and from 15 feet to 18 feet deep. The water in the River is very highly colored, but a large portion of the suspended matter is deposited in this basin. The water is pumped again from the basin through horizontal pressure filters to the city. The filters are round cylinders, similar in appearance to steam boilers, about 9 feet in diameter, and 16 feet long. The water enters in at the top, and is forced through small openings distributed over the bottom into the mains for city use. There is a loss in pressure of from three (3) to eight (8) lbs. per square inch in the operation—depending on the water consumption and the conditions of the filters. The filtering material used here is sea sand brought from Jersey City, the cylinder being two-thirds filled with the sand, then about one foot of coke on the top of it, Alum is used as a coagulant being forced into the water at every stroke of the pumps. This is extracted in the filter. The pumps are operated by steam—the fuel being natural gas at a cost of 10c. per thousand cubic feet. Since the adoption of natural gas, the amount spent for fuel has been reduced 50 per cent. To provide an extra supply in case of fire there is a large stand pipe, and an additional pumping well. Close to the pumping plant is the city street lighting plant. Here they have engines also operated by natural gas with a producer gas plant in use the natural gas supply fails. The city engineer, under the direction of the Water Commissioners, has charge of the Water Works. Chatham excels Peterborough in its municipal building, and the condition of its principal streets. Fourteen miles of these streets are paved—the main streets are paved—the man streets with vitrified brick, and the residence streets with bitulithic and concrete. Most of the roadways on the residential streets are but 20 or 24 feet wide. Where the streets themselves are 100 feet wide. There are very many beautiful residences, but, as the water service, to which is connected a lawn, bath or closet, the lawns are not as green as those in Peterborough. The water rate for houses with these conveniences and connections is 20c. per thousand gallons, less 12½ per cent. for prompt payment.

St. Thomas.—We arrived at St. Thomas on Wednesday evening and in the morning we were taken charge of by Mr. George K. Crocker, Chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners; Mr. James A. Bell, City Engineer, and Lieut-Col. McLachlin, Analytical Chemist; and driven out to the Pumping Station about a mile outside of the city. The pumping here is also done by steam the total capacity of the pumps being nine million gallons for twenty-four hours. The source of supply is Kettle Creek and artesian wells. Just at present they are having some difficulty with their water supply—there being a slight odor connected with it, which is said to be from Algae, a vegetable growth formed where the water from the wells is exposed to the air, or comes in contact with the creek water, so just now the creek water is being used exclusively; being pumped directly through the filters into the city mains. The system of filtration here is the same as at Chatham, but more expensive, crushed quartz being used as a filtering material. There are two batteries of three filters each having a total capacity of three million gallons of filtered water per day The plant here is kept in perfect order, and reflects great credit on the city engineer and those in charge. The fuel used is hard and soft coal screenings. We were particularly interested in the laboratory of Lt.-Col. McLachlin at the city buildings. He has a complete outfit for testing water, Milk, etc., and during 1908 he made one hundred and two (102) bacterial examinations of the city water, and, although considerable creek water is used. The colon bacillus was absent in every test made of the filtered water. The testing apparatus was provided by the Water Commissioners, and Lieut-Colf McLachlin is paid a small sum per week to keep up the tests. He also does very considerable microscopical work for the doctors of the city. St. Thomas is decidedly a railroad city. The population is 14,500. It is the headquarters in Canada for the N. Y. C. lines (M.C.R.) and six other railways pass through it. The main business street is very wides and paved with brick for about one and a half miles. Many other streets are also paved. The city offices are located in the same building, the council chamber being so large that it is now being used to hold church services while a Methodist church is being rebuilt. It seats about 400, besides the council. The city engineer, Mr. James A. Bell has charge, under the commissioners, of the water works, in addition to his other numerous duties, and he appears to be extremely capable. We are indebted to the three gentlemen named above for very courteous treatment, and much valuable information.

On the whole I am pleased that we took even this hurried trip, but whether the system as used in these places is just what is required for Peterborough the commissioners are not now prepared to say. We hope to make an examination of the newly installed ozonization plant in Lindsay, and also to go into the matter of slow sand filtration, but the commissioners are unanimous in the idea that after the present work is completed of building the new dam and increasing the pumping supply, the matter of efficient and proper filtration must be taken up.

PAINTERS' CONVENTION

Master Painters to Meet Here Next Week.

For three days next week, July 27, 28th, and 29th. Peterborough will be visited by several hundred Master Painters who will be delegates to the annual convention of the Master House-Painters and Decorators of Canada, In another Column will be found a cut of the group of master painters of Peterborough who will look after the delegates and to who credit is due from Peterborough. This group of citizens have taken hold of their work in a manner which is bound to make, the gathering a success. One thing they have done for the good of the craft and which will at the same time be of great advertising benefit to the city, is the publication of a book filled with views of the city and some of the finest buildings. This book is very neatly compiled and printed in an attractive form. It will command more than a passing glance. In fact it will be prized as a souvenir and referred to frequently. These books have all been mailed to prospective delegates so that they will be prepared for some of the attractions which await them.

The program for the convention is in the hands of the head officers and has not yet been forwarded to Peterborough in its official form. The draft program, however, provids for a very attractive and interesting meeting. So far as the local part of it is concerned it is being well looked after and on Wednesday night the band of the 57th regiment will give an open air concert in Victoria Park for the benefit of the visitors.

BURLEIGH FALLS.

Owing to an accident on one of the type-setting machines at a late hour Thursday night, The Times was unable to publish the full report of the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council. In brief the portion left out was the determination of the aldermen to secure an extension of the option; the meeting of the directors and their final consent to grant one month's option. The aldermen then tried to get two months then six weeks but the directors positively refuse to budge.

The aldermen at last accepted the month and a motion was passed recommending that Mr. R. B. Rogers be employed to make the report for the city. This motion is subject to the ratification of the council at its regular meeting a week from Monday night unless the mayor chooses to call a special meeting.

WILL BE IN EARNEST.

Corps Against Corps in the Military Tournament at the Canadian National.

The military display and Tournament at the Exhibition will have more features of real interest this year than anything of the kind previously attempted in Canada. In such competitions as the Victoria Cross and Wrestling on horseback corps will be arranged against corps, the Royal Canadian Dragoons stationed at Toronto, against the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery stationed at Kingston. The rivalry between these corps is very keen, so much so that the men are anxious to also mix things up a bit with the single stick in the Balaclava Melee, if the permission of the officers can be obtained. However, the officers have not yet decided. Some think a few hard knocks would not hurt the men, while others are inclined to think that the competition would resolve itself into something too much like actual warfare.

Be that as it may, the rivalry will give a spirit to the competition that will make them deeply interesting.

Another thing that will add interest, it is that the soldiers will all be living under canvas on the grounds and will parade through the crowd to the stand before each performance.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quiteso annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

A Week of Excursions for Steamer Otonabee

The past week has been the most successful one this season for the steamer Otonabee, the largest boat on the Kawartha waterways. From Monday morning until Friday night the steamer was continuously on the move. The only rest it had was on Thursday night, it having laid over in Lindsay after the moonlight to bring the excursion of the Woodmen of the World down to Peterborough. The excursions carried were as follows;—

On Monday morning left Peterborough for Chemong Park, carrying about 50 passengers, most of whom returned to the city by stage. On Monday evening a moonlight was handled from Bridgenorth to Bobcaygeon under the auspices of the Foresters, returning from Bobcaygeon to Chemong and return, and both were fairly well patronized by those who are fond of tripping the light fantastic. Needless to say the dancing floor was well patronized. Arriving in Bobcaygeon the boat proceeded to Lindsay, and took out the Methodist Sunday school on their annual outing to Bobcaygeon, returning in the evening when a moonlight excursion took place under the auspices of the Lindsay Y.M.C.A. to Bobcaygeon. On this occasion a splendid program of vocal and instrumental music was provided by some of the leading talent of Lindsay.

Arriving in Lindsay from the moonlight the steamer left for Fenelon Falls and carried 400 excursionists from Fenelon Falls to Bobcaygeon and return on Wednesday. In the evening the boat ran a moonlight out of Fenelon Falls which was also largely patronized.

The Otonabee at once returned to Lindsay from which place she carried on Thursday between 300 and 400 people under the auspices of the Presbyterian church to Bobcaygeon and return. That evening a moonlight was run from Lindsay under the auspices of Methodist church and the boat was crowded to its full capacity. During this trip an excellent program of music was rendered by the choir and others which added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

Yesterday the steamer left Lindsay in the morning with over 400 excursionists for Peterborough where she arrived about 7.35. The party returned to Lindsay by special G.T.R. train.

By the above it will be seen that the Otonabee was moving almost continuously until Friday night. She will make her regular Saturday afternoon trip to Rice Lake this afternoon leaving the Wolfe street wharf at 1.30, and returning in the evening.

The people everywhere along the route were delighted with the Otonabee and the excursionists were loud in their praise of Capt. White and his crew. Mr Hicks, general manager of the company, personally looked after these excursions making frequent trips to Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Lindsay, and looked after all the details.

TOO MUCH RAIN.

Weather Is Putting Everything 7to the Bad.

A few short weeks ago it was a cry all over the country that rain was needed. Now everyone is howling for it to stop. The weather man is the most ridiculous person in the land. He never gives just enough. It's always too much. The rain last night spoiled the second band concert of the season and Prof. Gliddon says he had an exceptionally good program prepared. Next week, if the rain stops in time, there will be two concerts, Wednesday night and Friday night, besides the concert by the Salvation Army Band on Tuesday night.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quiteso annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK!

For the Millbrook Central Exhibition This Year.

Major C. H. Winslow, secretary of the Millbrook Central Exhibition, was in the city yesterday in the interests of the big fair. The major reports the prospects this year brighter than ever. They are arranging a first-class program for the two days and if the weather is favorable the usual crowds will attend.

AN ACCIDENT.

Happened on One of The Times' Type Setting Machines.

Owing to an accident to one of the type-setting machines, The Times has been handicapped to such an extent that it was impossible to issue the usual eight pages this morning. A large amount of news was unavoidably left out. The machine will however be in running order today and it is expected that this paper will appear in its usual form Monday morning.

BIGGEST OF THE SEASON.

Four Hundred Excursionists Arrive on Steamer Otonabee.

The S.S. Otonabee reached Wolfe street wharf yesterday from Lindsay, having on board over 400 excursionists. The boat made good time from the Scugog town, reaching here shortly after 7 o'clock.

The Sir Oconabee has been landing large excursion parties each Monday on the waters above Bobcaygeon, and has had a very successful week.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Trip to Gore's Landing Under the Auspices of the K. of P.

A first-class afternoon's trip has been planned for next Thursday afternoon when the steamer Otonabee will carry an excursion down the river to Gore's Landing. Marathon Lodge, Knights of Pythias, are running the excursion. The boat will leave the Wolfe street wharf at 1.30 o'clock, and go down to Gore's Landing where supper can be procured. It is expected that a big crowd will go down. The committee in charge are Messrs. M. Blewett, W. W. Armstrong, S. H. Baker and Dr. Middleton.

FRUIT, FRUIT.

Now is the time to secure your fruit for preserving. See our cherries. We select nothing but the best and their flavor delicious. S. A. Oke, successor to Kennedy, 340 George street. Bell phone 275.

Keep Civic Holiday open for the Printers' picnic to Idyl Wyld. The steamer Otonabee has been secured. It will be a big day. A great program of sports and amusements is being arranged and everyone who doesn't go will be disappointed.

Painters' Convention

making the various sessions not only lively and entertaining but likewise instructive and inspiring.

This gathering should mean much to the craft throughout the Dominion. Already the beneficial effects of these conventions have been most marked. The trade has been placed on a higher plane and general conditions have been greatly improved wherever local associations have been organized.

The Executive Committee have arranged a splendid programme which should attract every practical opportunity and are placed in capable hands. Here is the programme:

1.—Call to order.
2.—Prayer.
4.—Address of Welcome.
4.—Roll Call of Officers.
5.—President's Address.
6.—Appointment of Committees—(a) Credentials, (b) Resolutions, (c) Auditing, (d) President's Address.
7. Minutes of Last Convention and Executive Board Meeting.
8.—Reports of Officers.
9.—Demonstration in Cut Out Work—W. J. Bolus Co., Toronto.
10.—Demonstration in Ornamental Glass Work—Faircloth & Co. and Hobbs & Co., Toronto.
12.—Competition in Graining—Prizes by Association.
12[P.
12.—Competition in Graining—Prizes by Association.
13.—Practical Oil Tests—A. M. McGregor Hamilton.
14.—Practical Lead Tests—E. B. Thomson, Toronto.
15.—Paper "Period Decorations"—Member London Association.
16.—Paper "Color Harmonies"—I. W. Freeman, Windsor.
17.—Paper—Painting on Cement"—E. J. Linington, Toronto.
18.—Paper "How a Shop Should be Conducted"—F. Pette, Oshawa.
20.—"Question Box"—to be in charge of experts.
21.—Unfinished Business.
23.—Adjournment.

The convention will be tied down hard and fast to business all but many very pleasant social functions are being arranged. Amongst these perhaps the most delightful will be a trip through the Lower Kawartha Lakes which takes place on the last day of the convention. The scenery of this district is second to none on the continent, in the world for that matter, being a continuous panorama of fascinating delight.

Then in addition to all the other special features there will be the opportunity of meeting two of the foremost leaders of the craft in this generation, Mr. John Dewar of Pittsburg, Pa., ex-president of the International Association, and Mr. W. E. Wall of Boston, Mass., late secretary-treasurer of the International Association. Mr. Dewar is an able and entertaining speaker, to whom it is a pleasure to listen, while Mr. Wall is well known to every master painter who has been in attendance at the annual conventions as one of the most capable and brilliant speakers on all subjects relative to the painting profession.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. OBITUARY

ADIN WATERMAN

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Waterman, will sympathize with them in the death of their second son, Adin, who died last night at the age of six years as the result of an attack of pneumonia. The funeral will take place this morning in time to catch the G.T.R. train for Campbellford, where interment will take place.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful habits it is safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is sallow or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely billious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years, says W. B. Sangster of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They toned me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time vigor and spirits. MRS. MARY MEYER.

MRS. MARY MEYER, Thomson Avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L.I., N.Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years. Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption.

Consumption Was Feared.

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna, and now I am perfectly free from a cough. I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely.

"I take Peruna occasionally, when I do not feel well, and I also give it to my children.

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. No. 6, Inka, Ill., writes as follows of the efficacy of Peruna:

"Last November I had catarrh and felt so miserable I thought that I would go into consumption.

"I tried so many doctors and medicines but nothing did me any good, only Peruna.

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way. My head did not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright and am gaining in flesh and strength.

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

Peruna tends to lessen the cough, decreases the expectoration, strengthens the patient, increases the appetite and in many cases procures sound, refreshing sleep.

MISS BEULAH B. BROOME.

Miss Beulah B. Broome, 409 12th St., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have suffered from weak lungs and catarrhal troubles for four years, brought on by many neglected colds, but on the recommendation of a friend I gave Peruna an honest trial and I am pleased to state that it restored me to perfect health. There is not the slightest trace of catarrh in my system and my lungs are perfectly sound.

Weak Lungs For Years.

"I unhesitatingly give this testimonial."

Mrs. William Hohmann, 509 N. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. After a while it got so bad I had to cough both winter and summer. Finally, I burst a blood vessel in my throat from the strain of coughing, next a blood vessel in my stomach, so I kept getting worse and doctoring, and even then could get no relief. I thought, and everybody else, that I had consumption.

"Reading the papers about Peruna I decided to try it, without the least bit of hope that it would do me any good. But after taking three bottles I noticed a change. My appetite got better, so I kept on, never got discouraged.

"Finally I seemed not to cough so much, and the pains in my chest got better. I am well now. I cannot tell you how grateful I am, and I cannot thank Peruna enough. It has cured where doctors have failed. People who think they have consumption better give it a trial."

MISS JOSIE SCHAETZEL.

Miss Josie Schaetzel, General Delivery, Appleton, Wisconsin, writes:

"I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs in very short order, and it was not long until it developed into a serious case of catarrh. Every morning I would raise a lot of phlegm which was very disagreeable. My digestion was poor and my lungs sore.

"After a few doses of Peruna I began to mend, and felt that if I kept on taking it it would not be long until I would be well. I was right, for in four weeks I was well again.

Consumption Prevented.

"I think Peruna is a grand medicine, and wish to add my testimony to the many others you have."

Everywhere we hear of sanitariums established at the expense of the state for the treatment of the vast army of consumptives.

The open air treatment, fresh air and sunlight, are recognized by the medical profession generally as being the greatest necessities in the treatment of consumption in all its stages.

Dr. Hartman has for many years advocated the fresh air treatment for consumption. At the same time he has recognized Peruna as a useful palliative for the many distressing symptoms which accompany the white plague.

The promptness with which Peruna relieves a fresh cold, and even removes chronic colds, is well-known. This ranks Peruna as a reliable prophylactic against consumption.

BURLEIGH FALLS POWER.

It must have been pleasing to the ratepayers to ready yesterday morning that the City Council have decided to engage an engineer to make an independent report upon the Burleigh Falls power proposition. As was well said by one of the gentlemen at that joint meeting, Peterborough has stood still for the past couple of years for the want of power. The future of Peterborough depends upon power and cheap power. Without it there will be a backward movement. Burleigh Falls is now on the market. The Central Ontario Power Company means business. It has made an offer to sell the power rights at Burleigh at a price. It has named the terms for payment and it is now for Peterborough to get down to business and decide whether Burleigh Falls is worth the price to the city. There is no longer any possibility of making a counter proposition. That opportunity was lost by the failure to secure an independent report before the company made public the lowest price they would accept, and it is still necessary to get a special report.

Judging from the figures given in Mr McCallum's report which he prepared for the Central Ontario Power, the proposition looks like a good one. That the city's engineer will agree for the most part with Mr. McCallum's report is reasonably sure as no engineer with a reputation at stake will make false reports. At the same time there may be a difference and quite probably so, in detail. Yet the council would not go far astray in basing their opinions on Mr McCallum's figures.

The purchase of Burleigh Falls [illegible] is a necessary preposition for Peterborough. If all the power [illegible] could be secured under a favorable [illegible] would make [illegible] purchasing [illegible] Burleigh Falls power [illegible] much power [illegible] to produce. This is the growing age for Canada and if Peterborough is to hold its own it must have cheap electric power and to keep down the taxes it must own the power. The Times will certainly support the council in purchasing Burleigh Falls power and all other available water powers.

THE TIMES CONTEST WAS A GLORIOUS SUCCESS

Came to a Stirring Close Saturday Evening

It is over.

Mid the clamor and the glamor of votes, dollars and contestants one of the most stupendous and mammoth enterprises ever attempted by a newspaper in this section of Ontario came to a decidedly successful termination Saturday evening, where the popularity contest inaugurated seven weeks ago by this paper closed in a remarkable stirring manner.

We may now pause in relaxation with relief from that silent anxiety which has possessed the contestants the past seven weeks, and before us, in figures amazing, peers the winner's names with the total vote.

With all the excitement that prevails at the ticket wagon of the big show, with all the enthusiasm of a summer's night in Wonderland, with eyes gleaming as they never gleamed before, watched the judges who with astonishing rapidly pushed their pencils down the last columns of figures and announced to the amazed crowd, the bewildering total vote.

Promptly at 9 o'clock seven gentlemen of the highest possible standing in this community, opened the ballot box and made the official count. In quietness astounding, not even a murmur was heard and while the judges labored as the hands of the clock rolled on toward the hour, silence reigned supreme until it was announced the winners.

EVERYBODY SATISFIED.

That every one might have an equal chance, no matter where they lived the territory was divided into two districts, and each one knew that a reasonable amount of effort would bring a handsome reward, for there were Eight prizes to each district in addition to the Grand Prizes in this way every one was satisfied which was the chief desire of the Times.

Slowly at first the votes began to come in, then, as the interest warmed, they rolled in such numbers that the totals soon amounted to enormous figures. The friends of the contestants desired to see them win, and made the fact public by voting for them, and getting their friends to do likewise. The smallest boy or girl joined their elders in boosting the candidates. More than one man stole an hour or two from business, at intervals during the contest, to make a personal canvass for some friend. More than one meal was late, as the mistress of the household went her rounds looking for votes.

WHOLE CANADA VOTED.

Votes came from all parts of Canada, the United States, and many foreign countries, showing how wide is the friendship for both the contestants and The Times, and only the stimulus of this contest was necessary to bring this fact into prominence and to add thousands of new subscribers to our circulation.

FAIRNESS OF THE CONTEST.

Disinterested parties everywhere business men and the contestants themselves, are praising The Times for the impartial treatment accorded every candidate. Everything was done to facilitate the work of the contestants and their friends, and the result is that everything has turned out in the most gratifying manner.

Some became discouraged and doubtedful as to the outcome of the final count, but giving the management the benefit of the doubt, which was greatly appreciated, they had personal interviews with the contest department, and learned that by the method of checking and counter-checking, and the fact that the books of the contest were open for the inspection of the public, that a fair and square deal was positively assured to each contestant.

Because of this fact the interest and enthusiasm were greatly increased. It caused the contestants to put forth their best efforts so that they might be declared winners in the Great Prize Contest.

CONTESTANTS ENERGETIC.

It must be said in recognition of the good work done by the candidates that they devoted themselves heartily to the cause, and through their efforts the public generally awakened to the fact that The Times is certainly the paper for their homes, and today it has Hundreds of new subscribers who are now among its staunchest friends.

A MAIN FEATURE.

If there is one class of citizens more interested than another in the great contest that has just closed, it is the business men and general advertisers, who have watched with interest the daily increase in votes made by the contestants, and have drawn their own conclusions as to the great increase in circulation, which means an added value to their advertisements. This comes only as a natural result, the greater the value of The Times as an advertising medium. What makes The Times the ideal paper for merchants is the fact that a very large majority of its subscribers belong to what may be called the spending class, people who, when they read of something they want, go out and get it. It does little good to bring one's wares to the notice of those who cannot buy them.

HONORS DESERVED

The successful contestants are named today as the result of the official count of the prominent and disinterested gentlemen who acted as judges, and who had no concern in the contest other than to accept the invitation of the management to make a thorough and complete canvas of the votes. The mere mention of the names of these gentlemen is assurance of their integrity. They are well known and highly esteemed by their business associates, and by all with whom they come in contact, as thorough and honorable Business men.

RECEIVED ENTHUSIASTICALLY.

It was impossible to anticipate such an enthusiastic reception as the one accorded The Times Great Prize Contest. It has appealed to the public mind, and by the increased circulation resulting the merchants and advertisers who use the columns of The Times for the purpose of advertising are the ones, to be directly benefited; therefore, aside from awarding the prizes to the wideawake contestants, it has conferred incalculable benefit on the merchants and advertisers.

WINNERS FEEL PROUD.

The winners may well feel proud of the fact that they have won a magnificent race, and have come out with the honor of having outrun workers who themselves have done exceedingly well, and who under ordinary circumstances would have had enough votes to win.

The honor of winning is prized by some candidates higher than the award itself. They feel that those who co-operated with them so heartily and gave them every assistance in their power, share with them this honor, and they are glad to prove to their friends that their confidence was not misplaced nor their help wasted.

ALL COULD NOT WIN.

The one feature of the contest that we do not like is that every one could not win a prize, but in the very nature of things this is impossible and there is sympathy in plenty for those who have no material benefit to show for their effort. Later on they will surely find that benefit there has been, and of a high kind, for they have necessarily developed self-confidence which will help them to be successful in the battle that lasts long after the "battle of the ballots" is forgotten, that is the battle of life.

Those who win certainly feel richly rewarded for all their efforts, and they will appreciate the handsome prizes far more than if they had been laid at their feet without any work on their part, and without the manifold associations of Friendship and good-will which go with these prizes, won by the assistance of all their acquaintances.

AWARDED WITH GREAT PLEASURE.

It is a pleasant task for us to make the awards to the successful candidates, and we do this with the heartiest good wishes for their enjoyment of them, and a keen appreciation of the work that they have done in our behalf during the past seven weeks.

Gasoline Exploded on a Cobourg Launch

Kingston, July 24.—The launch Carrie, run by gasoline, exploded last night, damaging herself and badly injuring A. Turcotte and W. Little, who were working on her.

The craft is owned by I. W. Travers, banker, Cobourg, who bought the boat here from Brockville and was to have her forwarded by rail. The men were getting her ready by lantern light. A leaky gasoline tank caught fire and the explosion followed, blowing off the cabin top and setting fire to the boat.

Turcotte and Little were blown up into the air. Turcotte falling back into the burning boat, and Little into the water. Turcotte's burns are serious.

Firebug Is Pleased to go to Prison

New York, N.Y., July 24.—James Hunter Wright was sentenced to one year in Sing Sing on his own confession to arson. On July 5, Wright walked into the office of District Attorney Jerome and said his conscience hurt him, and that he wished to be punished for having set fire to his art store on upper Broadway, on December 26, 1905. He was convicted for arson in the third degree, and he expressed gratification when the prison sentence was imposed.

When Wright first confessed he was arraigned in the Tombs court, and the magistrate was the only public official who raised a doubt as to the man's sanity. Wright, himself asserted he was sane, yet he goes to a convict's cell for a crime which offered no profit, and for which there was no motive, except that contained in the man's explanation that "business was bad, and I wanted to try something new."

From the time of Wright's confession no society or private person took interest in his case. The prosecution employed no alienists to make sure whether the man was really a criminal within the meaning of the law when he burned his store and lived several years before it impressed him that he should be punished by society. Had Wright stifled his pangs of conscience until December, 1910, he would have escaped prosecution under the Statute of Limitation.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

"Holy Ghost" Society Fixes Date to the Minute.

Boston, July 26th—Spurred on by the edict which has gone forth from the leader of that strange cult, the "Holy Ghost and Us Society," that the end of the world is at hand, the fanatical followers of "Elijah" Sandford, high priest of the order, are everywhere preparing for the greatest event, which is scheduled by Sanford to arrive at 10.30 o'clock on the morning of September 15, 1909.

Far away in the humble little village of Shiloh, in Maine, the Sandfordites are patiently waiting. With their spinning wheel garments prepared, the tabernacle painted white, all day they pray and wait with composure the coming of the dawn of the eventful day.

Woman Traveller in Holy Land to Tell Experiences

MRS CHARLES BARCLAY

Mrs. Charles Barclay, Sister of Mrs. Ballington Booth, Here for Lecture Tour.

Montreal, July 25.—Mrs. Charles Barclay, sister of Mrs. Ballington Booth, arrives today on the steamship Baltic for two months' stay in America, during which time she will lecture at many chautauquas in the West and also visit the prisons of Kansas, Dakota, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and other states.

Mrs. Barclay is well known in England as a public speaker. She is the wife of the Rev. Charles Barclay, vicar of Hertford Heath, England. Mrs. Barclay is the author of "The Wheels of Time," and has another book now in the press.

Her lectures in the chautauquas will be based upon her experiences and travels in Palestine. She will tell and illustrate the scriptures from the viewpoint of one who has spent much time upon the scene of scriptural action.

Upon arriving here Mrs. Barclay will go with her sister to the latter's summer home at Blue Point, L.I., after which she will start west with Mrs. Booth.

Charged with Sayler Murder

Watseka, Ill., July 26.—The special grand jury investigating the murder on July 11 of John B. Sayler, a banker of Cresent City, indicted Dr William Miller, Mrs. J. B. Sayler and John Grunden, Mrs. Sayler's father, on charges of murder. Ira Grunden, a brother, was indicted as an accessory after the fact.

The indictments contained fourteen counts, but with the exception of the one accusing the defands of the actual crime, the others are secondary, simply going into details of the crime and how it was committed. Dr. Miller, Mrs. Sayler and the Grundens will be arraigned today.

Mrs. J. Sayler of Crescent City, indicted on charge of murdering her husband.

Cobourg's Diamond Mystery.

Cobourg, July 26.—It is understood that as the diamonds belonging to Mrs. Boake have been replaced as mysteriously as they disappeared further action will be dropped. Miss L. Donnelly, sister of Mrs. Boake, a few days before the latter missed her jewels reported to the police the loss of a much valued diamondbrooch.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take.

UNREST IN INDIA IS GROWING GREATER

Montreal, July 25.—Captain Patterson im command of the Dappers and miners at Peshawar, sailed yesterday on his way to London. In conversation he said:

"The news of the murder of Sir Curzon Wyllie, by Nadar Lal Dhingra, came as an awful shock to all Englishmen in India. It seemed particulary hard that he one of the kindest of men, should have been singled out for the assassin's bullet. This outrage, however, has served one good purpose in bring home to Englishmen the actual state of affairs among the seditionists in India today. Innumerable outrages are taking place in Calcutta every day, such as attempts to blow up trains, bomb incidents and the like, which the home newspapers hardly ever hear of. It needed some such episode to arouse certain people out of the torpor into which they had fallen. But it seems rather tragic that the much-needed lesson should have to be learned at such a fee. Perhaps now the Radicals in the House of Commons will stop making such injudicious speeches. Such in the past have undoubtedly fostered sedition in India."

When asked what the feeling over there was as regards the present German scare, he said that whereas there was much the same feeling there as elsewhere in the Empire, the natives did not pay mush attention to it. "What has had a great effect in stirring up the natives, especially the revolutionary element, is the Russo-Japanese war. Every day they are getting more arrogant and difficult of management. Their attitude is; One Asiatic power has defeated a great European power, why shouldn't, another?

"I think there are many things to scheme of compulsory service, although I think it will be some time before the conservatism of the British people will allow them to see the necessity for it. Of course there is no need for it in India, we have plenty of regulars out there. Conscripton, as we understand it, means short service under the colors in India long- time service is essential."

Mr. Beddow, the Contest Manager, Leaves Today

Mr. Frank P. Beddow who has sucessfully conducted the Peterboro' Morning Times Great Prize Contest for the past seven weeks as a representative of the Frank S. Adams Contest Company of Atlanta, Ga., will leave this week, probably the first part of the week. Mr. Beddow has met many people in Peterborough and he says it is with the keenest regret that he leaves. He is one of the most competent contest managers The Adams Company has on the road. He is the right man in the right place in his position as a manager of a newspaper contest. He is thoroughly on to every move in the contest business. The Management of The Times wishes him all the success in the world in his future life. Mr. Beddow goes to Halifax, N. S. where he will conduct a contest on one of the leading papers there.

EXCELLENT APPOINTMENT.

Mr. J. A. Tully Appointed General Manager for Western Canada for the Oddfellows Relief Association

Mr. J. A. Tully, who for the past four years has been travelling representative for Canada for the Oddfellows' Relief Association, has been appointed general manager of the association for the western part of the Dominion. His appointment follows a change in the policy of the association made at the annual meeting held in Kingston last week. Representatives were present from all over Canada, and it was decided to divide the Dominion into two districts eastern and western, and to have a general manager for each. The dividing line is at Winnipeg. Mr. Tully's district lies between Winnipeg and the Pacific Coast, and comprises the provinces of Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. His headquarters will be at Calgary, and he will have four representatives under him in each province, in addition to the local workers of each lodge.

Mr. Tully's new position, which means greater remuneration and increased prestige in the association, is a reward for the excellent work he has done. He has made four trips to the West as travelling representative of the Relief Association and the westerners were so pleased with himself and his work that when the time came for appointment of a general manager for the western district, they insisted on having Mr. Tully. And the association was not loath to make the appointment.

Mr. Tully will leave for the west this week. He will attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge of Alberta at Edmonton on August 10th, and from there will go to Vancouver, and thence to the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of America, which opens at Seattle on September 10th. From Seattle he will return to the Canadian West by way of the Crow's Nest Pass, and will spend some time in this territory before returning to Peterborough in about four months.

Mr. Tully's departure will be regretted by the citizens of Peterborough, especially by the Oddfellows.

STOPPING ILLEGAL FISHING.

The steamer Naiad, the first Ontario Government fishery protection cruiser to be placed in commission on Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching, is reported to be performing valuable service in those waters. Since the vessel was placed on the lakes at Lakefield in the Dpring, she has seized a number of nets and stopped a good deal of illegal fishing. The Naiad was employed in the Rideau Lakes last season, and was replaced there this year by the recently purchased boat Navarch.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults.

Distress in the Stomach

Deadly cramps—the symptoms are not to be mistaken. Suddenly and without warning the patient experiences such agony in the stomach as to comfort the countenance and cause him to cry aloud for help.

Then it is that the wonderful power of Nerviline can make itself felt—it cures so quickly you would think it was made to cure pains and cramps only.

LETTER NO. 4877

Last summer I was stricken with a frightful attack of cramps. I feared the pain in my stomach would kill me.

My eyes bulged out and the veins in my forehead stood out like whipcords.

My cries attracted a neighbor, who came to my assistance, and in a moment or two handed me half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in some sweetened water.

It seemed as if an angel had carried away the pain. In ten seconds I was well. Nerviline has a wonderful name in this locality, and is considered best for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, stomach and bowel disorders. I urge all my friends to use Nerviline.

OUR GREAT WEALTH.

Considerable has been written concerning the conservation of our natural resources, but no better contribution to the subject has been made than that of William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R. Winnipeg, who writes an article in the current issue of Canada-West on "Reckless Waste."

Mr. Whyte is a man who knows Canada from coast to coast and what he says must bear influence. In one part of the article he says;

"From Cape Breton to Virginia the original English settlers of America found themselves in a country of natural opulence so great, especially in timber, water and soil that suchsuch an eventuality as exhaustion or even appreciable impairment never suggested itself. That was only three hundred and fifty years ago—and less. They came from a land where thrift and care had been taught by centuries of experience but the old ways were soon forgotten and never renewed. Until very lately, there has been no uneasiness, no economy. On the contrary, a tremendous incoming swirl of humanity swept across the continent after the eighteen sixties, carrying with it the same recklessness, the same waste, so that forests have faded, streams have at some seasons washed bare the lands and at other left them parching, Iron and coal have shrunk on to known supply sufficient at the present rate of use for not much more than a hundred years. Oil and gas fields once thought perpetual have died out; and in some of the older sections the soil itself has become sterile. We have sported with our resources until the end of them has begun to threaten, but we are fortunate in knowing what is left, and beyond that remainder, we know how we may bring out of nature's eternal reservoir a restoration of original opulence to at least the most important of the things we had."

Mr. Whyte's words should revive interest in the subject of conservation and it is to be hoped that the legislature of Canada will not lose another opportunity to pass adequat legislation.

BRITISH CAPITAL IN CANADA.

The London Statist has published a statement relative to the vast amount of capital which Great Britain has at its disposal for investment, the Hamilton Spectator says that it is strange that money invested out of the homeland foreign countries get far more than the overseas Dominions. The total for foreign countries for the year under review was 89½ million pounds as against 76½ million pounds for the countries with in the Empire. In interest on investments in American railways alone Britishers received in the year 27 million pounds, while from Canadian railways the returns were only a little over 7½ million pounds. In South American countries Great Britain has no less than 54 million pounds invested and from South American railways the British investor receives annually an income of over 13 million pounds.

CHINA'S HOLY DUKE.

Greatest Aristocrat in the Celestial Empire.

The father of the infant Emperor of China, who is acting as Regent during his son's minority, is doing much to abolish the distinctions between the Manchus and the Chinese. Until now the Manchus, that is to say, the conquering race, to which the reigning dynasty belongs, have enjoyed all sorts of special privileges before the law, now all will be treated alike. Should the regent carry into effect his intention of betrothing his son, the three-year-old emperor, to a maiden of pure Chinese blood, probably either a daughter or granddaughter of China's "Holy Duke," instead of to one of the Manchu princesses from whom the monarch's consorts have until now been chosen, he will have made a long step toward reconciling the bulk of the Chinese people to the reigning dynasty and toward obliterating the antagonism that exists between the Chinese and the Manchus.

The Holy Duke is fully alive to the advantages of reform. A man about fifty years of age, and seventy-sixth in unbroken descent in the male line from Confucius, he may be regarded as the most blue blooded noble in the world, the more so as he is still in possession of the landed property which belonged to the illustrious founder of his house more than three thousand years ago; that is to say, some twelve centuries before the birth of Christ. The property is situated in the province of Shantung, and it comprises the tomb of Confucius at Kufu and his residence. The duke is very rich, since each generation of emperors, Chinese as well as Manchu, has lavished gifts upon the "Holy Duke" of its day. This one's name is Kung Lingi, that is to say, Duke Lingi, and his official designation is Sheng Kung which means "Holy Duke." He is a tall, heavy faced Chinaman, of somewhat massive build, with a rather majestic presence and a good humored face, the mouth inclined to laughter and in keeping with the shrewd cheery eyes. Though regarded as a saint, he is a very jovial saint, and extremely fond of all the good things of life. Every now and again he visits Pekin, where he is received with imposing honors, and on these occasions he does not disdain to travel by rail.

STORIES OF THE KAISER.

Little Tales Which Are Enjoyed by His Subjects.

William II. of Germany has many acts of kindness to the poor to his credit. One day at the palace of Potsdam he noticed that one of the sentries seemed very melancholy. With much hesitation the man told his story, how he had been on the point of getting married when he lost all his money and now hardly hoped ever to realise his dreams. The emperor, after inquiry had proved that the man was speaking the truth, gave him a generous present for the expenses of his wedding, promoted him corporal and found a place for his wife in the service of the empress.

A poor sewing woman at Cologne, finding it impossible any longer to earn her living with a worn out old sewing machine, appealed to the emperor for assistance. A week later a new machine with all the latest improvements reached her from her sovereign.

When the kaiser told Prince von Buelow he was to be chancellor it was evident from Buelow's face that something about the appointment did not altogether please him. The emperor pressed him to tell what it was, and Von Buelow reluctantly explained that greatly as his wife would rejoice in finding her husband appointed chancellor, she detested the palace of the chancellerie, as she was a great housewife and he was sure that the thought of the two or three months that would be needed to clean the immense palace to the pitch she would want to would terrify her.

"Don't let that bother you, my dear Von Buelow. Present my compliments to the princess and tell her that it will be a great pleasure to me to contribute to making that job less difficult to her."

It was not a regiment of soldiers detailed for house cleaning purposes that came to the princess, only a small parcel, which on being opened was found to contain a hundred pieces of soap.

Love's Young Dream.

The Stern Parent—And if you marry this young Littlecash where do you propose to live?

The Girl—Why, George says we are going to live at the same hotel where he lives now.

The Parent—Don't you know it costs a great deal to live at a hotel?

The Girl—Why, no, papa; it won't cost any more. George says that if you know how to order one portion is ample for two persons. I really won't be the least bit of a burden on George, papa.

That Is the Difference.

"Now, then, boys, if you had to address a large box of tea on the one hand and a schoolmaster on the other, what would be the difference in your form of salutation? Of course you will reply 'We don't know.' Well, we will tell you. A large box of tea you would address as 'thou teachest,' and a schoolmaster you would salute with 'thou that teachest.' This is the difference, you see."—London Scrape.

The Remedy.

The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg was one day gambling at the Dober an tables and was betting on the same numbers as a rich master potter who stood next to him.

Both having lost their money, the grand duke inquired, "Well, potter, what shall we do now?"

"Oh," replied the master potter "your highness will screw up the taxes, and I shall make pots."

In the Days of Sir Allan MacNab.

A Hamilton paper says the remains of Sir Allan MacNab will be removed from Dundurn Park to Holy Sepulchre cemetery, after resting in the former place for nearly seventy-five years.

Hardly so long. Sir Allan was still very much alive when The Toronto Examiner of June 16, 1847, said of him:

"Sir Allan McNab is a great man Speaker of the House of Assembly, juggling director of the Great Western Railroad Co., the representative of Hamilton, president of the Gore District Turf Club, and the pious defender of the rights and wrongs of mother church. The races are coming on. Pity Sir Allan cannot be in two places at once—cannot attend to the important business of the turf and the petty business of the Legislature at the same time."

How courteous were these old-time papers in their references to public men, and how full of news! One looks in vain for a report of said races, but finds instead an editorial jeremiad. The races and the circus, said The Examiner, filled the police court, and it called upon the Government for their abolition.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Rubinstein's Free Seat.

A pianist who was pre-eminently successful in his day was Rubenstein, who traveled nearly the whole world over delighting people with his genius. He was very much annoyed by requests for complimentary tickets, but most of the time he maintained his composure, even though justly irritated. It is told of him that just before one of his recitals in London he was accosted by an old lady in the entrance hall and thus addressed:

"Oh, Mr. Rubenstein, I am so glad to see you! I have tried in vain to purchase a ticket. Have you a seat you could let me have?"

"Madam," said the great pianist, 'there is but one seat at my disposal, and that you are welcome to if you think fit to take it."

"Oh, yes, and a thousand thanks! Where is it?" was the excited reply.

"At the piano," smilingly replied Rubinstein.

MALAY PIRATES.

Something About the People Who Are Troubling Singapore.

Singapore is agitated just now by a tale of piracy, one of the old sort, legendary now. Some few weeks ago a Chinese junk was boarded near Johore—that is, within sight of the island, if not of the city—and seven men were killed, besides the captain, spared for torture until he surrendered his valuables. Police, bluejackets and volunteers are searching for the miscreants. Perhaps there is no case on record so outrageous within such a trifling distance from the men-of-war in Singapore Roads, but elsewhere in those seas it would not have been remarkable less than 50 years ago. "Malay pirates," writes Frederick Boyle in The Pall Mall Gazette, are so closely identified with fiction of the boys' adventure class that sceptics have doubted their existence in plain fact. But the wildest romancer would not dare to describe them as they actually were in their great day. About 1850 Rajah Brooke put the number of those who swept the coasts of Borneo alone, going and returning with the monsoons, at 5,000. When Consul at Brunei, somewhat later, St. John estimated the population which lived, as one may say, by piracy, at 60,000. And if "casuals" had been included, with their women and children, it would have been vastly larger.

The judicious reader instantly replies that trade must have come to an end promptly under this infliction. But the ruffians did not depend on plunder It was welcome, but they sought slaves and blood. Inexplicable as it seems to us, the parompaks, though mostly Mohammedans, regarded their employment as a calling or profession to which they were born With no thought of wrongdoing, apparently, they murdered harmless fishermen, sailors, or peasants dwelling on the shore, if too old or feeble to be worth transport, and tortured those whom they carried off. Among the most dreaded pirates also were the Seribas and Sakarran Dyaks, Rajah Brooke's future subjects, who wanted heads and nothing more; all plunder they surrendered to the Malay Chief who provided the praus and navigated them. But these were a local scourge. It is not very surprising to learn that the worst Malay pirates were not Malays at all; that unfortunate race bears a good many imputations which it does not deserve. The Lanuns, or Illanuns, dwelt originally in Mindanao, a great island of the Philippines where Dampier found them peaceable enough, working gold. They were not a seafaring people then, though the chiefs had their gorgeous barges

The Balinini came from Sulu; in fact, that was a piratical name for the islanders, otherwise called Sulus. Perhaps it was they who started the abominable practice, for the Spaniards were provoked into sending an expedition against them so early as 1569 It failed, as did many another; "and from that time," says the old historian Zuniga, "it is incredible what a number of Indians (Philippines) have been made prisoners, what villages have been destroyed, and what vessels have been captured." But the Spaniards succeeded at length in making Mindanao too hot to hold the Lanun freebooters, who dispersed, forming settlements up and down the China Sea, each of which became a centre of piracy. One can understand that this way of life fosters courage and enterprise as well as seamanship. The daring of these two peoples especially was superb. In their praus of fifty to a hundred tons burden they started every year with the monsoon for a cruise of six or twelve or even eighteen months. Nothing daunted them until the treacherous European invented steam. Crawford admits that the Sulus had attained a "considerable civilization" of their own; in fact, Hunt's report on the main island, drawn up for Sir Stamford Raffles, pictures it a garden, admirably cultivated by a free and happy people Doubtless the pirates were law abiding and industrious when at home.

English Politeness.

The expression "Thank you" is much more current in England than in America. It is also used with much wider significance, often as the equivalent of "I beg your pardon." For instance, an English person passing before another or perhaps jostling one or even treading on his foot will say in apology, "Thank you." The phrase is heard constantly. If a salesman in a shop or a newsboy on the streets solicits your custom and you refuse it he will say "Thank you" quite as cheerfully as if you made a purchase. There is a difference in the utterance too. The English emphasize the second word very strongly and finish with a rising inflection, as if asking a question. An American is recognized at once by his accenting the word "thank" and closing with the falling inflection.

Her Proposals.

Talking of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Lord Houghton said: "Miss Coutts likes me because I never proposed to her. Almost all the young men of good family did. Those who did their duty by their family always did. Mrs. Browne (Miss Coutts' companion) used to see it coming and took herself out of the way for ten minutes, but she only went into the next room and left the door open, and then the proposal took place, and immediately it was done Miss Coutts coughed, and Mrs. Browne came in again."- Augustus J. C. Hare's Recollections.

A "Bounty" Relic.

There has just been sold at Sotheby's, in London, an interesting relic of His Majesty's ship Bounty and Pitcairn Island. It is a beautifully constructed box, made by Thursday Oct Christian, of Pitcairn, about 1850, out of Miro wood. On the top is a small metal plate made from the nails of the Bounty. This interesting relic realized four and a half guineas. Its prototype was presented to the late Queen Victoria by Admiral Moresby, in 1853, as "a mark of esteem from her subjects on the lonely island of Pitcairn."

A More Peaceful Ireland.

The Dublin Gazette contains a proclamation announcing that King's county has ceased to be disturbed, and ordering the discontinuance of the additional police force after a month. Similar proclamations have been issued in regard to counties Leitrim and Westmeath.

Cost of a Dreadnought.

In the building and completing of a Dreadnought, daily work is afforded for between 1,000 and 1,500 skilled men. Of the total cost of $9,750,000 about 70 per cent.- $8,825,000 - would go in wages.

Signs of Storms.

As stormy weather comes on, sea birds fly inland in search of food, wild fowl leave the marshy grounds for higher localities; swallows and rooks fly low before and during bad weather; frogs are unusually noisy before rain; sheep huddle together near bushes and trees.

"OXOL"

The word "Oxol" does not mean one food, or one preparation No; "Oxol" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. & T. C. Windsor of Australia New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under name of

THE BELL MEMORIAL.

Toronto Sculptor's Work Surpassed All That Was Shown.

The successful design for the Bell Memorial at Brantford is particularly interesting, not only as being the the work of a Toronto artist, but also on account of its radical departure from the conventional type of such monuments. As has already been announced, Mr. Walter S Allward, of Toronto, bore away the palm from such men as Hill, Hebert, and Hamilton McCarthy, of Montreal, Partridge, of New York, and Pausch, of Buffalo. But the accounts so far published give but scanty information as to the nature and meaning of the design, whose superiority was so marked as to lead Partridge, one of the contestants, to state that it was the only one for the purpose, and that there was hardly any use of his leaving his model at all.

The design consists of a central panel carved in low relief and two figures heroic in size, which stand at the extreme ends of the monument, thus suggesting wide distances. And this in fact is the key-note of the whole design, this suggestion of great intervals across which man sends his voice. One of the large figures is speaking and the other listens, and this with the intimation of distance gives the strikingly simple and dignified motive of the design. It is carried out with a little fuller detail in the carvings on the panel. There a half-recumbent figure representing Man sends forth a troop of various messages across a rounded surface, which again conveys the idea of great distance. These messages are represented by shadowy figures depicting the various messages of joy and sorrow and anger and love. Over the recumbent figure of Man hovers a cloudlike, dimly descried form, whose hand touches his with a suggestion of a wire, and which reaches forward in a gesture of boundless power. This is evidently the spirit of Electricity which enables Man to send forth his messages over the rounded earth.

Mr. Allward, the author of this excellent design, is still a young man, being only thirty-three years of age, but he has already done some very fine work, among which might be mentioned the Simcoe and Mowat monuments in Toronto, and the Nicholas Flood Davin memorial in Ottawa. Some of his later achievements are the design for the South African monument, the Macdonald statue to be erected in Queen's Park, Toronto, and the Baldyin Lafontaine monument to be placed before the House of Parliament, Ottawa. This last is an especially fine design, and shows the manner in which his work has gone on broadening in scope and gaining in simplicity and dignity. There is every reason to look for big things from this young Toronto artist, who, though almost entirely self-taught, has already such a fine record of accomplishment behind him.

Trouble Over a Veil.

"I have decided to forswear all kinds and conditions of floating fluttering veils henceforth and forever more," announced an attractive young Toronto matron recently.

"Why?" gasped her feminine audience. "They are as fashionable as ever."

"Not for me," responded the Y.T.M., "since my experience of the other day. I was on a Yonge street car, and there was a strong north wind which kept blowing the ends of my veil over my shoulder. Time after time I put it back, on each occasion getting a little more exasperated. When it came over for about the hundredth time, giving me a stinging swipe in the eye, I grabbed it angrily and drawing it down firmly, stuffed the end under my arm. At this juncture there came a squeal from the seat behind me, and a vinegary feminine voice said, 'Madam, what are you trying to do with my veil?'

"I turned hastily to meet the malevolent gaze of a majestic individual whose hat was perched rakishly on the extreme limit of her black hair, while with speechless mortification I realized that the veil depending from it was still clutched in my guilty hand."

Judge McKeown and Judge Barry.

The recent appointments to the supreme court bench of New Brunswick represent the orange and the green. Judge McKeown is prominent among those who walk on the Twelfth, and Judge Barry is the first English-speaking Catholic who has been a supreme court judge, although the province is one-third Catholic. New Brunswick has a divorce court, and Judge McKeown will preside over it.

Both the new judges are relatively young men, Judge Barry being just over fifty, and his confrere several years on the sunny side of it. Both are amiable men, of rather more than average legal ability, and the worst that can be said of Judge McKeown is that he has been in politics, while Judge Barry is free even from that reproach.

Young Man's Town.

Perhaps the secret of Haileybury's aggressiveness is the fact that it is a young man's town. No town in the country can boast of so many young men engaged in active business for themselves as this silver city. The municipal officers, bank managers, proprietors of the large stores, Government officials, mine owners, officers and directors of the navigation companies, and a long list of others too numerous to mention, are, with a few exceptions, all young men whose ages range from 19 to 35 years. Haileybury has more enterprise and energy behind it than any other town of its size in the great Dominion, according to many visitors, and that it takes precedence over a large number of towns that boast a greater population.

HER CONQUERING FAITH

It Overcame the Scheming of a Selfish Sister.

By ARABELLA NASMYTH.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

The indisputable fact which has so often sadly surprised people that two and two will not make five was staring the Anslem girls in the face.

It was a year after the death of their father, and many evasions and putting off of the fatal day had gone for naught. They were face to face with the knowledge that they could no longer afford to keep up the old family home and, moreover, must do something to add to their infinitesimal income.

"In some way," said Regina, looking up rather wearily from her pencil and paper—"in some way we've got to have money. We've got to go to work."

Regina was twenty-six, with rebellious dark hair and a firm chin which always amazed people by the dimple they discovered in it. Regina was the one who always did things in the family. Nobody had ever taken time to call her a beauty, so she had never quite realized the fact that she came very close to being one and could devote her leisure to accomplish results.

Of course with Esther it was different. From the time her first fluff of golden hair had made itself manifest and her big blue eyes had first glanced appealingly at humanity it had been decided that Esther was a beauty, and the decision had clung to her through life, though at maturity it is doubtful if she would have been thought more than an ordinarily good looking fresh young girl had not those around her been so educated in the other view.

But as a beauty Esther had always been waited on and put forward, and even when time went on and girlish petulance and fickleness and caprice degenerated into pettishness and selfish inconsiderateness nobody ever expected Esther to do anything but exist.

And now she was thirty, for in spite of belledom the men who had wooed her seriously had been few and, with her aspirations, beneath her consideration. At her sister's flat Esther drew her brown together fretfully.

"Work!" she said. "You are ridiculous! It's all very well for you to talk, but how could I work? What could I do? Regina"—

She hesitated a little, for there was something in the straight browed face meditatively surveying her as though she were seen for the first time that bid her pause. "Regina—if you would—it would be very easy for you to place both of us beyond all money cares forever. I'm sure"—

The voice died away before the sparkle of anger in the dark face across the table. Regina bit her lip before she spoke in a repressed voice. "I won't pretend to misunderstand you," she said. "It's like you to propose offering something else than yourself! Understand once for all that I'll never marry Dr Brightright! He is selfish he has a cruel and vindictive nature with all his surface and polish, and he is sixty years old."

"Also he owns the most magnificent country place in the state and is a millionaire," breathed Esther as her sister stopped. "Really, Regina, for a grownup person you are distressingly silly! I'm sure Dr Brightright is no worse than lots of men, and think what you'd have!"

"Which you, of course, would share," said Regina coldly. Her face took on an immobile expression as she looked down at her sister. "Understand, I'll never marry him. I'll find work to do."

"It's Neal Maxwell!" the older girl flashed angrily. "You'd be glad of the chance if you weren't eating your heart out for a man who threw you over and never cared anything for you! You"—

But Regina had swept from the room, her head in the air, her hands clutching mechanically the papers covered with their rows of discouraging figures.

She was hurt as only a proud person can be hurt, and the sure knowledge deep in her heart that Neal Maxwell had indeed, beyond all doubt, cared for her, in spite of the opinion voiced by her sister and shared, as Regina knew, by nearly all her acquaintances in the town, did not help much in bearing the taunt.

It was a year since Neal had gone abroad as foreign representative for his firm and eleven months since his letters had stopped abruptly, without warning. Her two letters of inquiry bringing no response, pride had stepped in and she had made no further effort to hear from him beyond learning from his firm he was alive and well.

And when he left they had been engaged. She could hardly remember when she and Neal had not intended to marry one another, so many had been the years of their more than friendship. In spite of her indignation and her secret grief, in spite of his mysterious neglect, Regina still clung to the feeling that, wherever he was whatever had happened, Neal still must care for her just as day must follow night.

And she was of too strong a nature to seek to cover her jilting by accepting the man who had haunted her footsteps for the past year, Dr Brightright, whom she instinctively disliked and steadily shunned, to the furious exasperation of Esther. This had not been the first difference they had had upon the subject.

This night she was tired, very tired, and discouraged. Sympathy, understanding or help from Esther she felt she never could expect. The weak vices, the shallowness, that were her sister's were forcing themselves on her recognition against her will.

If only Esther had been of a different mold their situation would even now be vastly improved. Encouragement and energy at her elbow would have given Regina the strength of ten. Instead there were bitterness, complaint and reproach weighing her down, and beneath it all the old longing for Neal, the hurt wonder that he could have failed her!

Funk in her thoughts, absentmindedly making preparation for the night Regina stood for several minutes after lag at what she had uncovered at the bottom of the long utility box on her dresser without a complete realization of what the discovery meant.

First it dawned on her bewildered mind that the box was blue instead of pink, as it should have been. Then if it were blue it belonged in the next room on Esther's dresser. The woman who had swept and cleaned for them that day had probably mixed them. And at the bottom of the blue box, under all the handkerchiefs and ribbons which Regina had mechanically disarranged in her search for a particular ribbon, lay, with a rubber band binding them, the last two letters she had written to Neal Maxwell inquiring as to his silence and which he had, of course, never answered.

Regina leaned against the dresser, breathing heavily, clutching the letters, trying to think. The face that looked out at her from the mirror was white with excitement. Some one had kept her letters from reaching Neal—some one.

In the doorway stood Esther, still defiant from the scene downstairs. As she walked toward her sister Regina turned and faced her silently, the letters in her outstretched palm.

With a little gasp Esther saw, crumpled into a chair and began to cry in a frightened way.

"I did it for your own good," Esther wailed. "Neal never will be rich, and we want—we need—so much! I thought—I thought you'd see how much better a position Dr. Brightright could give you—I thought you'd forget—I wrote Neal you were going to marry the doctor and hadn't courage to tell him yourself and that you did not want to hear from him again. I—I got your letters both times by taking them to slip into the drop while I asked you to get stamps or cards at the window—do you remember? I—I did it because I thought you would be happier, Regina!"

The tall, stern girl, standing like an avenging goddess, looking down on the hysterical, weak woman huddled in the chair, did not speak for some minutes.

"Why didn't you destroy them when you got them?" she asked abruptly.

"I didn't dare," wept Esther. "I was afraid it was criminal or something."

The faint flicker of humor which swept Regina's face even in her moment of righteous wrath spread to her generous heart.

"We won't talk about it again, Esther," she said quietly. "You'd better go to bed. And now—now I'm going to write to Neal."

Called His Bluff.

A young woman of smart wit and striking beauty presided at one of the stalls at a Paris charity bazaar. Among the small crowd which pressed round the fair vender was a young man of much assurance, who gazed upon the girl with freedom and affected to admire the various fancy articles exposed for sale, but bought nothing.

"What will you please to buy?" asked mademoiselle, with an exquisite smile.

"Oh," replied the young dandy, with a languishing look, "what I most wish to buy is unhappily not for sale."

"Tell me what you wish?" she responded.

"Oh, no; I dare not declare my wishes."

"Nevertheless let me know what you wish to buy," persisted the fair saleswoman.

"Well, then, since you demand it, I should like a ringlet of your glossy black hair."

She manifested no embarrassment at the bold request, but with a pair of scissors immediately clipped off one of her beautiful locks and handed it to the astonished youth, remarking that the price was only 500 francs.

Her audacious admirer was thunderstruck with the demand, but dared not recur, as by this time a group had collected and were listening to the conversation. So he took the hair paid over the money and left the hall.

All the Difference.

Among the patients in the private ward of a Philadelphia hospital there was recently a testy old millionaire of that city whose case gave his physician considerable difficulty at first.

"Well," asked the crusty patient one morning, "how do you find me now, eh?"

"You're getting on fine," responded the doctor, rubbing his hands with an air of satisfaction. "Your legs are still swollen, but that doesn't trouble me."

"Of course it doesn't!" howled the old man. "And let me tell you this: if your legs were swollen, it wouldn't trouble me either!"—Lippincott's.

Ambergris.

The essential characteristic of ambergris is the penetrating and peculiar odor, similar to that of musk. It is so powerful and so diffusive in its perfume that the most minute quantity when mingled with any other strong scent is still perceptible. Its chief component is a fatty matter called ambrein, which is got by boiling ambergris in alcohol.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

The Champion

Toronto, July 23.—Jack Johnson, the champion negro weight fighter of the world, arrived in Toronto yesterday afternoon accompanied by his manager, G. W. Little, totally unaware of all the anxiety he had caused the local promoters over his whereabouts. Then after he did arrive it was found impossible to put the little show on over at Hanlan's Point owing to the inclement weather.

The last heard from the black champion before he arrived was that he was on his way from Chicago to Toronto in his big red 50 horse power auto, but when he couldn't be found and hadn't been seen on the route there was a great deal of worry that a big fighter had been lost or stolen. Johnson is stooping at the Grand Central Hotel and that place last night was a regular beehive of would-be fighters, pedestrians and athletes to see the big man Johnson has a wonderful memory, although he has travelled far and near since he left Toronto two years ago, as last night he recognized quite a few whom he had met before Claude Pearce happened to walk in and Jack immediately tackled him with the inquiry, "Have you done much running since I saw you last?" This was only one instance.

WANTED TO RUN.

Johnson has the racing bug. When he saw Tom Longboat and Alfred Shrubb he began to tell how fast he could go. Not only that, he wanted to race Shrubb in New York City in a five mile race.

"Although I weigh 225 pounds, scor or 216 lbs. stripped, I can go a hundred in 11 1-5 seconds." Johnson began. "Then when I am in training I usually do about 10 miles on the road every day to get my wind right, so I don't think I would do bad in a five-mile race. If Shrubb will give a lap or two at that distance I wouldn't mind having a race "Jeffries will nev er meet me," continued Jack. "Why, I have had forfeits up in both Chicago and New York, and Jeffries had made no attempt to cover it. If he was a poor man there would be some excuse, but he has all kinds of money and could make a similar forfeit any day if he liked. I don't blame the people for getting tired of hearing Jeffries talk.

"Jeffries is not training. A man can't get into shape going around He wants to be a good fellow and is too much entertaining. I have not done any real training since I fought Burns last Christmas, but I must get back to California soon and get down to work. I fight Stanley Ketchel at San. Francisco on October 12 in a twenty round bout, but I really don't expect the affair to go more than twelve rounds if it does that. My biggest opponent would be Sandy Ferguson of Boston

Would Mean Comfort and Contentment

The increase in salaries which has been granted to the postmen of Canada, averaging 50 cents per man, again directs attention to the wage question. The postmen were much in need of the advance, for the rate formerly paid was from $1.25 to $2.25 per day, according to the length of service. No doubt, in some centres, it was often necessary to practice the most careful financing in order to avoid a deficit at the end of the month on the old remuneration. Now, while there may be no margin to speak of, there need, at all events be no such manoeuvring. The lesson in the increase granted to the postmen is to be found in the extension of the application of the rule What would it mean to the workmen of the Dominion, enquires the Brantford Expositor, if all of the great railway corporations and other industrial concerns, insofar as they are able, would increase the pay of their workmen? It would mean comfort and contentment in the homes of the families of the labor class. It would mean that every branch of business would profit by the increase for the additional allowance would be so placed as to keep it, in circulation. It would mean, in short, every thing to the men of this country, who are most in need of money and would result in improving the conditions throughout the Dominion generally. But it will be said that such a course would be a hardship on the part of the capitalists. Such might be the case in some instance, if it were the advance could not be made. But if it were not, why should not labor share in the profits it assists in creating? It should be a sound principle. And it is one, too, on which industrial kings should ponder in the day of prosperity when they have the opportunity to confer some benefits on their workmen if they are so inclined. We all know that in the hour of adversity and stringency the workmen, by accepting lower wages for work none the less valuable than in the day of prosperity, aid the manufacturer in facing the storm. Why should not the men also be remembered in times more favorable?

Should Come to an Understanding

Isn't it pretty nearly time Canada and the United States came to an understanding regarding the eligibility of citizens of either country to cross the frontier, the St. Thomas Times properly asks. Cases of injustice, absurd in the extreme, keep occurring, the latest of which was the barring out of a badly injured Canadian en route to a Buffalo hospital as the only hope of saving his life. The petty tyranny of subordinate officials, "clothed with a little brief authority," has long been intolerable and there have been many cases of injustice for which there has been no redress. People visiting on either side of the line have been arrested to cross the line on their return to their homes. Cases innumerable could be cited where red tape officialism has halted people who had every right to pass freely backward and forward. The law aims to exclude undesirable aliens, but it should not rest with the agent at the frontier to judge from mere appearances whether a traveller is "undesirable" or not. If the case instanced of the Canadian going to a Buffalo hospital for an operation is to be accepted as within the interpretation of the law, then every person who has been bitten by a mad dog and is being rushed to the Pasteur Institute at New York, may be turned back at the frontier to die of hydrophobia, a victim of idiotic officialism.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE RIVER SEINE.

It Is the Most Picturesque of the Highways of Paris.

We have heard almost too much of the streets of Paris and not enough of that street most distinctive of all—the river Seine. Flowing through the city for six miles, it is a highway, with its luxeux mouches, its bridges and its quays. Of a dark night the Seine may seem to lugubrious fancy the symbol of death in the city's life abounding—murky death and inky crime, oozy and silent wickedness. Yet normally, even perhaps to suicides, the Seine is but the mirror of a city's mood. There are lights everywhere—lights lengthened in the water. The Louvre and the Conciergerie shown in the stream are things fairer than their originals. It is better to look upon the eddying reflections of the bridges here than to stand in the Place de la Concorde, bright with its orange lamps in honor of an auto show. The lights on the Seine and its images are more alluring more innately of fairyland and Paris, than the gilded boulevards.

Nor is it only in the moonlight that the Seine has charms. The holiday sculler finds it a paradise for miles above the city, and there are ever nice fishermen as Maupassant's Bernard. Line fishing is more than a mild sport in Paris. Even to watch its devotees seems to amuse your true Parisian. A legend tells us that in the communal days, when the Hotel de Ville was fired on and a dark page written in the city's history, the Seine fishermen pursued their pastime, imperturbable. And the tale seems likely enough as the mantener watches the fisher folk, whose leisure may be envied more than their occupation and who are found not on the city quays alone, but in the banlieu, where the Seine's green bank is dabbed with villages in brown and red and gray and where one stops to watch the peasants bathe their horses in the stream itself, rubbing them down soon afterward by the river's brink. Within the city there are the men who clip poodles on the quays and higher book and picture stalls with their merchants and shifting groups of bargain hunters—the Odeon arcade for new books, the riverside for old.

INTHON BIBLE CLASS.

A very interesting event took place yesterday afternoon when the Inthon Bible class of the George street Methodist church made a presentation to Mr. Robt. Howland, who is leaving shortly to try his fortune in the West. Mr. Howland has been chairman of the membership committee from the organization of the class and has been a most active worker. He received from the class a Bible and a hymn book accompanied by an address as a mark of appreciation of his services. The address was read by Mr. W. J. Johnston, and the presentation was made by Mr. F. C. Moore, who is preaching in the church during Rev. Mr. Pearson's absence.

Wedding Bells

RUSK—EYRES.

The wedding of Miss Jennie Wilhelmina (Jean) Eyres and Mr. John J. Rusk was solemnized in the presence of a few relatives at high noon Saturday, July 24, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. Eyres, 168 Antrim street, city. The bride, who was unattended, was becomingly attired in a princess dress of panels of embroidery with valenciennes insertion and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of cream roses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Coon, pastor of Mark street Methodist church, city, after which a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Rusk left by the 1.40 train for a trip through the Thousand Islands and down the St. Lawrence. On returning they will spend a week in Peterborough before leaving for their home in Gainsboro, Saskatchewan. The bride's going-away gown was olive green cloth, with hat to match. Among the many beautiful presents were a pearl sunbuest from the groom and a piano from the bride's father.

BENNET—WADE.

A quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at St Andrew's church, the contracting parties being Miss Florence L. Wade, daughter of Mr. Edward Wade, 97 London St., and Mr. Marcus Bennett, also of Peterborough, Rev. J. G. Potter was the officiating clergyman, Miss E. Wade, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. E. Bruce acted as groomsman. Both the bride and groom are well known in the city and received a large number of hand some presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left in the afternoon on the 4.36 C.P.R., and will take a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and other places. They will reside in Peterborough.

BUMPER CROPS ASSURED.

Cheery News Comes from the Great West.

Moose Jaw, July 26.—The wheat and other crops in the Moose Jaw district, which includes Moose Jaw, Boharm, Caron, Mortlake, etc., never looked as promising as they are this year. They headed out, and with the frequent rains of the last ten days the farmers are looking for a bumper crop of No. 1 hard wheat.

The farmers in the heavy land about here felt somewhat nervous last week lest the frequent rains would be too much for the fast growing wheat, especially when it is heading out, but the rain stopped in time to save the heavy land sections and was more than welcome in the lighter sections, south and north of the C.P.R. main line, which requires more moisture. Forty bushels an acre are looked for here this year.

From Swift Current to Regina, and, in fact all along the line the wheat crop looks splendid.

CHEMONG PARK.

(Special to The Times.)

Chemong, July 24.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. S. Forsythe, an employe at Kelly's lumber mills, had the misfortune to have the thumb of his left hand taken off at the first joint. Forsythe was working the shingle machine when his hand slipped with the above results. The injury will prevent him working for some time.

Saturday and in fact all last week the weather here was very disagreeable and everyone kept within doors most of the time. There was nothing doing, and a lot of the cottagers wished they were back in the city again. Sunday, however, was a bright warm day and many sail boats and launches were running up and down the lake. If the weather is at all favorable the month of August promises to be a bumper one. Many people have signified their intention to visit the park and a large number of Americans are booked at the hotel.

Miss Mabel Clark, sister of Mr. Gordon Clark, of the Post Office Department, returned to Toronto, after a pleasant week with Mr. and Mrs. Hopwood.

Miss Gladys Roy is the guest of Mrs. Fred Roy.

Mrs. Carmichael entertained a few friends to afternoon tea in honor of her guest, Mrs. Wm. Meredith.

Mrs. Morgan is visiting her nephew, Mr. Popham, and is delighted with Chemong.

Mrs. A. H. and Miss Mary Stratton are with Mrs. Matthews for the week, also Master Jack.

Mrs. Hodson and Mrs. Giddon are guests with Mrs. A. Dixon.

The Hamilton boys left Chemong Saturday morning after three rousing cheers for the ladies of the park not forgetting the young ladies they entertained so splendidly Tuesday night. They opined that Chemong Park was the best place they had ever pitched their tents in.

Mrs. Hopwood entertained a few friends in honor of her guests Miss Ostrom and Miss Raymere of Toronto, to a bonnet tea, Mrs. Vincent Eastwood carrying off the prize.

FORD CARS.

The local agents of the Ford automobiles, Messrs. Drummond and Duffus, received a shipment of three cars Saturday morning from Walkerville, where the Canadian factory is in operation. The machines were ordered by Dr. Halliday, F. A. Finlay, and A. L. F. Hall, and is an evidence of the popularity of this car. Mr. Fox, manager of the Toronto branch, and general salesman for centre and eastern Ontario, came down for the day, and is renewing acquaintances. It was intended that the new purchasers and their friends should enjoy a spin around the country and return in time for luncheon, but the wet weather prevented this program from being carried out.

The 1909 model T Ford car is claimed to be the equal of any car twice the price. A feature of its mechanism is that storage battery or dry cells is used as the electricity is generated by fly wheels. The sales for this season show an increase over last year of 27 per cent., and the Canadian factory is kept busy turning out enough machines to meet the demands.

Those in the district owning Ford cars of 1909 model are; Messrs. H. E. Sherin, A. T. Butcher, J. A. McConnell, Dr. Halliday, A. L. F. Hall Drummond & Duffus, A. O. Mulholland and T. A. Finlay.

TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed tenders endorsed "Tender for Walks," addressed to the Hon. J. O. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, Ontario, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, for the construction of cement walks on the grounds of the Normal School at Peterborough, will be received at this department until noon of July 30th, 1909.

An accepted bank cheque payable to the order of the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer for $100.00, and the bona fide signatures and addresses of two sureties or the name of a guarantee company approved of by this department, prepared to give a bond for the due fulfillment of the contract, must accompany each tender. Cheques will become forfeit to the Crown in the event of the successful tenderer refusing to carry out the work within ten days after the acceptance.

The Department will not be bound to accept the lowest or any tender.

TOO OSTENTATIOUS.

Gratitude of Immigrant Woman Had Its Unpleasant Features.

One of the branches of the public service at Ottawa which does its work quietly and without any of the glare of the limelight which attaches to the political departments, is that section of the Department of Justice which looks after the exercise of the power of pardon by the Governor-General. It may not be generally known that since Mr. Aylesworth has been Minister of Justice he has insisted upon personally reading over the fyle in every case in which executive clemency is asked, whether it be pardon for a well-behaved or a sick convict or the more serious matter of deciding what action shall be taken in regard to death sentences. All such petitions are, however, first considered by Mr. Augustus Power, who probably has a greater store of stories of the schemes to which convicts or their friends will resort in order to procure a pardon, than any other man in Canada.

It is not a pleasant task this of deciding the fate of your fellow men and women, but sometimes it has its humorous side. One of these comical incidents took place not long ago. A young immigrant woman with two small children, one of them a baby in arms, arrived in Ottawa by train from Montreal to plead for pardon for her husband, who had fallen foul of the law. She was herself not a walking illustration of the advantages of the daily use of soap and water; but the children were even dirtier than the mother. Doubtless it was not their fault, poor things; they had had a dusty journey on the train and probably were not much used to washing anyway. They were introduced into "Gus" Power's office, and the mother told her story and presented her petition to the official. He went over the fyle and after due consideration decided that it was a case where he could advise the Minister to recommend the exercise of clemency. And he told the woman so. But he was sorry immediately, for with tears of gratitude rolling down her cheeks the mother pushed forward the dirty baby in her arms, saying

"Kiss the good, kind gentleman, baby!"

They do say that Mr. Power's face was a study, and that there and then he registered a vow never again to inform a petitioner for pardon of his recommendation except at the safe range of through the letter-post, especially when she was accompanied by her family!

VOL. XXXII NO. 174 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, TUESDAY JULY 27, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

LAW IS STRINGENT

OWNERS OF AUTOMOBILES UNDER DISCIPLINE.

Farmers of Ontario are Being Protected—Stringent Regulations.

The Ontario Motor League of Toronto, has had the following copy of the main provisions of the Automobile Law of Ontario published for the guidance of tourists. In order that readerne of The Times may have the law gnd thereby assist the authorities in enforcing the same, the main provisions of the said Act are published in condensed form might be mentioned that the Ontario Motor League is just as anxious to see motorists who persist in breaking the law punished, as the rural public is, and bids for its co-operation. The law reads as follows:

1. Motor vehicles must be registered. Registration fee, $4; renewal $2.

2. Cars must display two numbers or markers; one attached to the front in a prominent position, and the other in the centre of the back. Markers must be kept free from dust ... number shall be ex... any part of the vehicle.

3. Every car must carry a horn or gong. Lamps must be lighted whenever car is in motion, between dusk and dawn. Side lamps must bear the permit number in black figures not less than two inches high. A light must be placed so as to illuminate the marker at the rear.

4. Searchlights are prohibited.

5. Maximum speed in cities, towns and villages is ten miles an hour; outside fifteen miles an hour.

6. The owner of a motor vehicle is held responsible for violations of the act.

7. Drivers of cars must observe reasonable precaution to prevent frightening horses. Horse vehicles must not be approached within 100 yards at a greater speed than seven miles an hour. If a horse appears frightened the motorist must reduce speed, and if signalled to do so, stop and render assistance when called on.

8. In case of accident, he must return to the scene of the accident and upon request give his name and address, with that of the owner.

9. Recent amendments provide penalties as follows: A fine of $50 for first conviction; $100 for second conviction, and imprisonment for six months for third conviction for the following offences:

(a) Driving a car without displaying the number of license.

(b) Driving in a race or on a bet or wager.

(c) Anyone driving under the age of seventeen.

(d) In case of accident, failure to stop and return to the scene of accident.

10. Chauffeurs must be licensed.

AUTO VS. STREET CAR.

In a Mix-up on George Street—Serious Accident Narrowly Averted.

One of the most serious of accidents was narrowly avoided last evening about eight o'clock when Ald. Hick's auto tried conclusions with one of the street cars. Ald. and Mrs. Hicks went up to Mr. George Stevens with their auto and while there a new chauffeur was looking over the machine. He asked permission to try it. Mr. Hicks moved over and the new man opened up the machine and started out of the lane. Just as they reached the roadway a street car appeared and the chauffer was unable to stop. As a result the auto and the car collidi... cigarettes by small boys in Ottawa ed. A wheel was taken off the auto and the fender on the street car was bent. Fortunately neither Mr. nor Mrs. Hicks were injured. The auto was taken back to Mr. Stevens and a new wheel put on so that it could be run down town again.

Doctor's Test of Food.

A doctor in Kansas experimented with his boy in a test of food and gives the particulars. He says:

"I naturally watch the effect of different foods on patients. My own little son, a lad of four, had been ill with pneumonia and during his convalescence did not seem to care for any kind of food.

"I knew something of Grape-Nuts and its rather fascinating flavour and particularly of its nourishing and nerve-building powers, so I started the boy on Grape-Nuts and found from the first dish that he liked it.

"His mother gave it to him steadily and he began to improve at once. In less than a month he had gained about eight pounds and soon became so well and strong we had no further anxiety about him.

"An old patient of mine, 73 years old, came down with serious stomach trouble and before I was called had got so weak he could eat almost nothing, and was in a serious condition. He had tried almost every kind of food for the sick without avail.

"I immediately put him on Grape-Nuts with good, rich milk and just a little pinch of sugar. He exclaimed when I came next day "Why doctor I never ate anything so good or that made me feel so much strnnger."

"I am pleased to say that he got well on Grape-Nuts, but he had to stick to it for two or three weeks, then he began to relish out a little with rice or an egg or two. He got entirely well in spite of his almost hopeless condition. He gained 22 pounds in two months which at his age is remarkable.

"It could waste it Not of cases where Grape-Nuts has worked wonders."

Peterborough Lumber Co's Mills Completely Destroyed by Fire

Loss will Amount to About $75,000—Flames Spread Rapidly—Large Quantity of Lumber Destroyed—Second Fire was at Florence & Co's Store House

Something like $100,000 went up in smoke last night when the Peterborough Lumber Company's mills on Burnham's Point, Ashburnham, with a large quantity of lumber and the big frame store house of Florence & Co., the Jews, at the corner of Simcoe and Bethune streets, were devoured by fire without the slightest chance of saving anything. They were the biggest fires this city has seen for years and by long way the heaviest the new fire department were ever called upon to fight.

The fire at the Peterborough Lumber Company's mills was started towards the front of the buildings soon after one o'clock. The two watchmen were on duty and were going their rounds. One of the men came upon the fire when it was a very small affair. He ran for the water pails but when he returned the fire had gained such headway that the pails were of no avail. An alarm was immediately telephoned to the fire station and the teams were out in less time than it takes to tell and they made a wild rush to Burnham's Point.

In the meantime the flames had spread and aided by their own fierceness they soon enveloped the whole building and quickly spread to the adjoining buillding. The heat was terrible, and the roar was like that from an immense furnace several times magnified.

The fire department was handicapped from the beginning as there are no hydrants in the vicinity. Chief Howard sent for the engine and it was taken over but could not be put into service. There was only one thing to do and that was to let it burn, and try to prevent it spreading among the more distant piles of lumber. The lumber in the immediate vicinity was eaten up by the flames.

Fortunately there was hardly a breath of wind and the sparks and cinders were not carried any great distance. But the flames and smoke shot up in the air many feet and made a beautiful and terrible spectacle.

The company has suffered a heavy loss. Besides their buildings and plant, which were new when they began operations a few years ago, and the loss of lumber, it will be several months before they can get underway again. They were preparing for and were practically ready to start this season's cut. Their logs are on their way down, and it was intended to commence cutting upon their arrival. The company employed about eighty men and these will be temporarily out of employment. The estimated loss in cash is in the neighborhood of $75,000, while the insurance carried was comparatively small.

SECOND BLAZE.

While the firemen were over at the Peterborough Lumber Company's mills with a large quantity of hose a second alarm was sounded and with all speed the entire force was rushed back to the city as it was plainly seen that a second conflagration was in the making.

The immense frame store house of Florence & Co., on Simcoe street, adjoining the G.T.R. tracks, was blazing fiercely. The horses were urged on until they reached the first hydrant and the men got busy. All the hose available was laid and streams turned on and the wagon was sent to the fire hall for more. Five streams were soon playing upon the building with about as much effect as though they had been but a single garden hose. The flames were so strong and the heat so great that it would have taken all the water in Little Lake to smother it. The chief lost no time in dividing his men so that all the adjoining property was protected and in this he did remarkably good work. The store house is in the midst of many frame buildings and dwellings and from time to time these became ignited but were at once extinguished by the firemen.

The origion of the second fire could not be learned at the time of going to press. It was understood, however that two Galacians were sleeping in the building at the time. The Jews in the neighborhood were naturally greatly excited and could give no information.

The big building which was erected many years ago when timber was plentiful, and which has since been used for many purposes, was packed full of rags and bones and old iron. The rags along with the building made a magnificent blaze and could be seen for miles around. The heat too was intense and the firemen had all they could do to face it.

The los of the building and contents will run from $25,000 to $50,000. Whether or not there was insurance could not be learned last night.

Fortunate here again favored the city for had a wind been blowing from any direction it would have caused a fire which no brigade could have stopped and the result is horrible to think of. As it was Chief Howard was called upon to exert his abilities as a fire fighter. He was there with the goods, however, and his men fought like heroes. Great credit is due them.

The water pressure was good and the five streams threw a great volume of water.

Master Painters will meet This Morning

At ten o'clock this morning the Master House Painters' and Decorators' Association of Canada, will open the first session of their sixth annual convention in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street. A large number of delegates arrived in the city last night on the local and midnight trains from Toronto. A special car was put on the local for them. This morning the delegates from Ottawa Montreal and east, and all along the Grand Trunk lines will arrive. There will be between 250 and 400 present. All the trains are met by the local painters, who are handling their end in fine shape. The guests were being registered at the hotels, and last night the Painters' club rooms were thrown open for the visitors.

Among those from a long distance who arrived last night were:—

Wm. E. Wall, Boston, Mass.; John Dewar, Pittsburg, Pa.; S. J. Hambie, St. John, N.B.; E. H. Brown, Elizabeth, N.J., are registered at the Seewden House.

FAITH IN DOG TRAINS

MEANS OF COMMUNICATION TO BE INCREASED.

Huskies and Irish Wolfhounds the Most Useful Dogs. Question of Reindeer.

Ottawa, July 26.—Means of locomotion in the far north is the chief problem which faces the Government as far as that great territory is concerned. Anything can be done by man if he has supplies; he can reach the North Pole, if he has plenty of food to eat, and other domestic necessaries, is the way Comptroller White of the Mounted Police put it to The Journal today.

Comptroller White pointed out that means of communication will have to be increased immediately, and he pins his faith to dog trains with huskies. But the huskies are deteriorating, and experiments are now on foot to raise the standard. He believes himself in a good cross, and a trial will be made at Norway House, where there is a very fine pack of huskies, by introducing Irish wolf-hounds. These wolhounds are particularly well adapted for work in the northern country, and the expectation is that the cross will produce a most useful dog.

Then again there is a splendid pack of huskies in Virginia, and one or two of these will probably be purchased, in order to add new blood to the pack at Norway House.

Comptroller White was asked about the reindeer which had been brought over from Lapland by the U. S. Government for use in Alaska. He said that they had not proved so serviceable as had been expected, though that was probably due to ignorance of the care of the animals.

Speaking of the success which has attended the experiments with reindeer of Dr. Grenfell, the Labrador missionary, Col. White said this good result was due to special care and knowledge of the animals. He thought if a herd were kept by a private party instead of by officials they would be more likely to receive the proper attention and might prove of great value as animals for transport. Reindeer milk has been found of special use.

COLONIAL WEAVING.

Company's Annual Excursion to Jubilee Point Yesterday. Point Yesterday.

The employes of the Colonial Weaving Company with their friends enjoyed their annual outing at Jubilee Point yesterday afternoon. The steamer Rainbow carried the excursion down the river and returned with them at eight o'clock in the evening. The trip was a thoroughly enjoyable one in every respect.

MOONLIGHT TRIP.

Band of 57th Regiment Received Small Patronage.

The 57th Band took a very slim crowd down on their moonlight trip last night. The steamer Otonabee left the Wolf street wharf about 8 o'clock, and the street railway wharf about half an hour later. The night was an ideal one for the trip and had the public been notified through the local press there would undoubtedly have been a bumper crowd It is to be hoped that the band will run another moonlight in the near future and let the people know about it.

A SMALL VOTE.

Is Probable Result of Next Thursday's Voting.

Next Thursday a vote will be taken on the two bylaws, Smith street bridge and street extension. From present appearances the vote will be very small and it is a good thing the two-thirds majority is not required. The Master House Painters and Decorators are running an excursion to Stony Lake, and many local people will go along with them. A large number of property owners are away on their holidays and are not likely to come back to vote. It is unfortunate that things turned out as they have as a big vote is to be desired on both of these bylaws.

Appetite Gone--Nerves Badly Run Down

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tired her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Waimere, P.O., "I suffered from apatematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleansing, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, ease, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essences in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bowel trouble. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills at Mandrake and Rose, Lemon—sold with at all dealers.

Big Navy Campaign Wins--Four More Dreadnoughts

Lord of Admiralty Says that a Very Anxious Inquiry of Foreign Nations Necessitates Building of More Battleships by Britain

London, July 26.—The big navy campaign has won the day, and four additional super-Dreadnoughts are to be added to the current year's shipbuilding program . . .

Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, officially confirmed this statement in the House of Commons this afternoon, saying that after a very anxious and careful consideration into the shipbuilding conditions of foreign countries, the government had come to the conclusion that it was desirable to take all necessary steps to insure the laying down of four additional Dreadnoughts in April to be completed in March 1912.

Experimemts will Begin at Petawawa Camp within a Week--Putting the Aeroplane Together

Petawawa, July 26.—The Baddeck No. 1, the fifth and finest airship the young Canadian inventors, Messrs. F. McCurdy and Casey Baldwin, of footnall fame, have turned out at Baddeck, N.S., will have its initial test at the Petawawa camp in about a week, and it is really more to test it than even the far-famed Silver Dart that the arrangements were entered into between the Militia Department and Messrs. McCurdy and Baldwin as to the coming tests.

Through the courtesy of these gentlemen, a representative of a daily paper was shown the quarters where the Silver Dart—so far as it has been put together—is housed. A building had been put up for it specially on a part of the camp ground that is fairly level and will be suitable for the tests, for considerable room is needed, as the airship is run a couple of hundred feet or more before it takes to the air.

The buillding is made of wood, with extensions on either side to accommodate the wings. The published announcements as to a test for today are premature, as there will be none for several days yet. It is doubtful if the initial ascent at the camp will be made before Friday or Saturday. There is a good deal more work in taking the various parts out of cases and putting them together than the public would generally suppose; and, in addition, the intention is to put a new engine in the Silver Dart. This engine will be thoroughly tested tnen and if found to work well, will be put in the Baddeck No. 1 when it reaches here from Baddeck, N.S.

FIVE AIRSHIPS.

Mr. McCurdy, when questioned by the reporter, said that there was nothing in any way secret about the tests that were to be made, but still not a great deal for publication. He thought that it would be a week or so yet before they would be ready for "taking to the air," as there was considerable to be done. He explained that the Aerodrome Company at Baddeck, N.S., was the only one in the world. Air ships would be manufactured there, and if the tests turned out satisfadetorily, they would probably be placed on the market.

"How many air ships have you turned out?" asked the reporter.

"There have been five altogether," replied Mr. McCurdy, "though the fifth one has not been tested at all. It was merely put together in the shop at Baddeck, and then taken apart again and will be brought here in a few days. The test might as well be here as elsewhere. We turned out the Red Wing, then the White Wing, the June Bug, the Silver Dart (which is the airship we are putting together here), and the last one, which we have christened the Baddeck No. 1.

"Is your new airship much of an improvement on the Silver Dart?"

"Well, we think it is an improvement, though we have not tried it out yet. In design, it is much the same as the Silver Dart, and yet there are many ways in which it is different. The Silver Dart has a surface (canvas, etc.,) of 420 feet, while the Baddeck No. 1 is larger with one of 550 feet. The test at the camp here is really to try it out; and when we get through with the work on the Silver Dart the intention is to have the different parts of the Baddeck No. 1 brought here and put together for a thorough trial.

GAS DRILL DOWN.

One Hundred Feet—Struck Lime Stone Rock at 35 Feet.

Very favorable progress is being made by the gas drillers on the Kincaid farm. The start was made on Wednesday with Mr. Lister in charge for Messrs. Peat & Son of Petrolea, the contractors. The drill has gone down 100 feet so far but the weather has been so unfavorable that it has been impossible to work very much. Then Mr. Lister has left for South America to look after a drilling contract for the same people. His successor will arrive in the city to night and it is not expected that any further delay will be experienced. The drillers struck solid lime stone rock at 35 feet

Here's a Chance.

Lord Strathcona has offered a prize shield for competition amongst the school cadet corps of Canada. It is to be given to the corps which shows the highest degree of efficiency for the largest number of men. The prize will be awarded by a conference of the inspecting officers towards the close of each school term. In connection with the above it may be said that the local collegiate will have a fine chance to win the new trophy. For the past three years they have been the leading cadet corps of the province, not only in points of numbers, but also as regards the proportion and proficiency of the men. This being the case they have a fine head start on the various other high schools of the Province and should make a very formidable showing in the race for the new trophy.

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hooper

Congratulations are being extended on all sides to Mr. and Mrs. Thos Hooper, Sr., who celebrated their golden wedding yesterday afternoon at their home near Downer's Corners. The old couple were married half a century ago in Devonshire, England, and about ten years later they settled in Peterborough County. They are therefore among the oldest settlers still living, and they have witnessed many changes in this city and in the vicinity. The celebration yesterday afternoon was thoroughly enjoyable. The aged couple were surrounded by about twenty of their sons and daughters and grandchildren, who presented their parents with a purse of gold and accompanied it with their best wishes for many years of happiness still for them. Tea was served on the lawn and the family reunion was then complete. After supper several hours were spent in amusements of different kinds. The sons present were:—Thomas, Walter and William and the daughters were, Mrs. Albert Fowler and Mrs. Thos. Cunningham of Orillia.

GERMANY'S SUPREMACY.

If the German people could only boast of military supremacy or leadership, the outlook though disquieting might not be without encouraging symptoms. But German efficiency in science and manufactures has reached such a pitch that all nations may well be aware of the purposes of so great and carefully trained a people. The comparison between Great Britain and Germany in these respects it must be candidly admitted, says the Stratford Herald, results to the advantage of Germany and Britain's only hope in the long run is to solve the problem of educating and fitting her people for useful lines and eliminating somewhat as the Germans have done, the idler, the non-producer and the vagrant. One of the greatest of recent tributes to Germany which we have seen is the following by the New York Sun's London correspondent;

"The Berlin press publishes statistics to show that Germany is the best educated country in Europe. Germany not only leads with the greatest number of school children, 9,750,000, but also spends the largest amount of money for school purposes. $130,000,000. Her percentage of illiteracy, one-twentieth of one per cent. is the lowest in Europe

"More than half the recruits for continental conscript armies can neither read nor write. In Bulgaria the percentage of illiteracy among recruits is 52, in Servia and Russia 62, in Portugal and Spain 70, and in Roumania 75."

THE CIGARETTE.

The efforts of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to persuade the City Council to increase the amount of the cigarette licence fee is altogether commendable. The object of the several branches of the union in Ottawa is to minimize and in the end entirely prevent the sale of cigarettes to minors. They think, and the increase in the fee would largely decrease the number of places at which cigarettes would be sold, make it increasingly difficult for boys to obtain cigarettes and in every way tend to stamp out the evil in Ottawa.

For it is an evil. Cigarette smoking by boys not yet out of knickerbockers is a common sight in Ottawa. It is a sight that tries the human sensibilities of anyone with any experience in or knowledge of the matter. Where an adult may make a practice of smoking cigarettes without any visible impairment of his energies, physical or mental, there is only a negligible proportion of children in their teens immune from the deterioration which follows the use of tobacco at an early age. It is a common argument by the defenders of the cigarette to tobacco in its purest form. The cigarettes within the means of the average boy who falls within the books of the habit are not composed of tobacco in its purest form. Their fumes would poison even a tobacco-proof adult. Inhalation, the highest ambition of the tyro cigarette smoker, applies the narcotic to the nerve centres nearest the brain. The boy who smokes cigarets [illegible] seeds of physical, mental and moral decadence. This is not a theory, it is a fact ascertained in experience. L

Now, Ottawa charges only $1 for a license to sell cigarettes. In Toronto, for the sale of tobacco only there is a fee of $1, for tobacco and cigars it is $5, and for tobacco, cigars and cigarettes $25, or, in other words, for the sale of cigarettes $25 is the fee. In Winnipeg the retailers of cigarettes pay an annual tax of $50. In Toronto and Winnipeg apparently the object is to place the right to sell cigarettes only in the hands of persons of unquestioned substance who will be the more cautious to observe the law in all respects.

It is said that in Ottawa there are no less than than 550 licenses for the sale of cigarettes. A boy under the legal age would find it difficult and probably impossible to obtain cigarettes from an experienced tobacconist whose time is given entirely to the sale of tobacco. But he might find it not so hard to obtain them from persons to whom the sale of cigarettes is a side line.

However that may be, smoking of cigarettes by small boys in Ottawa has attained formidable dimensions, and the City Council would do well to accept the proposition of an increased license fee. The police have a duty in the matter too. Under the law they have the right to interrogate any body under 16 with cigarettes in his possession; this interrogation with a view to ascertaining the identity of the seller. If the police do not see the boys smoking cigarettes in Ottawa they must have their eyes closed. If they were to exercise a little more vigilance and secure a few convictions on these lines they might help along a good cause. The cigarettes should be effectively forbidden to the boy.

Ald. Phelan Gives Information on the Smith St. Bridge

To the Editor of the Times.

Dear Sir:—

Will you kindly give me space to make some explanations regarding By-laws to be voted upon on Thursday next, as we wish the ratepayers to understand the matters submitted to them as fully as possible, so that in voting they may have full information and exercise their judgment in voting.

THE SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

The By-law to provide for building a new bridge over the river at Smith Street authorizes the borrowing of $32,500 for that purpose. The ratepayers, I think, all understand the location of the bridge and the need for it, to provide for the traffic to and from the northeast part of the city and to and from the part of the county which lies in that direction. The present wooden bridge cannot be longer used, as it has been repaired time and again to make it last as long as it has.

The bridge now proposed will be of re-inforced concrete, with 18 feet roadway and sidewalks. The Board of Works also had a plan prepared for a bridge with steel superstructure, and prices for the steel were obtained, when it was found that the steel bridge would cost within $2,500 as much as the concrete bridge. It is believed that the concrete bridge is preferable because (1) the cost of maintenance will be practically nothing, while the exposed steel work would require painting at least once in two years, at a cost of $400 to $450, and frequent adjustment of rods owing to tog variation in temperature; (2) at least 82 per cent. of the cost of the concrete bridge will be distributed in the city and vicinity in wages and material and give employment to a large number of men, whereas in the case of the steel design 47 per cent. of the cost would be distributed here and a proportionately smaller number of men employed, and (3) the vicinity of the bridge, for which nature has done so much, is worthy of some consideration, and also the fact that there is a public park on each side of the river, and the concrete bridge will present a much more pleasing appearance than the other.

The difference in the cost of the bridge now proposed and the one contemplated in January last is largely made up of a narrowing of the roadway and to the contract entered into for supply of cement for this season being at the most favorable price ever obtained here.

The Council has not only the opinion of the City Engineer regarding the bridge, but also that of Mr. W. J. Francis, now of Montreal. You have published Mr. Francis' report on the plans, in which he says they "will provide a reinforced concrete structure eminently well suited for the site and first class in every respect. The structure will be permanent in character and will require practically no maintenance. It will be economical in first cost. The general arrangement and appearance will be very pleasing." Mr. Francis also says that there is no question as to the strength of the bridge and that as compared with steel under our conditions he considers the reinforced concrete arches preferable.

With the opinion of Mr. Hay, who designed the bridge, and that of Mr. Francis it does not appear that any mistake will be made in authorizing the construction of the bridge.

THE STREET EXTENSIONS

This matter goes back several years. The Council several years ago decided that there were several places where in the interests of the city streets should be opened. One was the continuation of George Street from Westcott Street to Lansdowne Avenue (at the Exhibition grounds) and widening it between Lake and Westcott Streets, and another the opening of Aylmer Street from Lake Street to the King Edward School south of Romaine Street. Hunter Street was extended to the lift lock, a spot visited in hundreds by excursionists and citizens, and a short street was opened opposite Barnardo Avenue between George and Water Streets, making a break in the very long block extending from Smith Street to Argyle Street and which was needed especially on account of the large school on Barnardo Avenue George Street was also extended at the north end. It was opened north of Argyle Street, but there was also extended at the north end. It was opened north of Argyle Street, but there was a "blind end", and land was purchased to open it to Hilliard Street, thus extending it to the City's property, the Hilliard farm. A small expenditure of $300 was also incurred to extend Bethune Street to Aberdeen Avenue. A By-law was submitted which authorized the borrowing of $6,000 for street extensions, but largely owing to the increase in the value of property which took place and to the cost of grading Hunter Street to the lift lock this amount was greatly exceeded. The cost of opening George Street was $4901.43, Aylmer Street $1170482, George Street north $926.28, Hunter Street to the lift lock $2920.40, which with Bernardo Avenue and Bethune Street and interest, etc., made the total $22,685.31. Then $2310 was received for the sale of some of the land, and $74.36 for earth sold, leaving net $20 300.95, and taking out the $6 000 which was provided leaves a balance to be provided for of $14 300.95.

While the City opened Aylmer St. from Lake Street to the school, property owners in laying out ,ots opened it through Park Lots one and two There is still about 220 feet through which it is not opened and which is needed to give a through street to the boundary, which the Council believes should be done. It is also desirable that Benson Avenue, leading to the Normal School and over which may visitors will go, should be made the regular width, and land for this can be obtained for $500. An amount of $1200 is placed in the By-laws for these purposes.

FILLING IN WATER FRONT.

Several years ago the City procured from the Ontario Government the water front for a small sum. In 1906 the Dominion Government arranged to do dredging in the river, and arrangements were made with the Government to deliver the material across the Canadian Pacific railway tracks to fill up the City's property. This cost the City nothing, but the material had to be conveyed to the City property and placed upon it. The Council thought that this was an opportunity to get cheap land which the ratepayers would not want them to miss, but a By-law was not submitted for two reasons, action had to be taken at once and no estimate could be formed of the quantity of material that would be dredged and delivered to the City and consequently of what it would cost to spread it. In 1906 $1508.88 was expended in making this land, in 1907 $2,116.94, in 1908 $533.30 and in 1909 $813.85, making a total of $4,972.17. In the By-law provision is made for borrowing $6000 for this purpose, so that if the Government does further dredging a further sum may be expended. This is needed because it would be advisable to complete the filling at least as far as King Street to have this large block of land and to get rid of the water lying there now.

Upon giving consideration to the matters dealt with in the By-laws it would appear that it would be decidedly in the interest of the city that they should be carried.

Yours very truly,
HARRY PHELAN,
Chairman Board of Works.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns" And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the manner else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr Shoop's Restorative. I tell you how the Stomach and stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that old method idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a tiny hidden "inside nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ceasing action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say, as I do, that if it fails—

This is why I say "take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—and then save disappointment and delays. Tell how many which book you need

A postal will do

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailments. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for now we have gone. Dr. Shoop, Box 14, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does the same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert users of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. MADE FAMOUS BY PUBLIC FAVOR

MRS. MARY L. GILMAN.

It is not a small matter to safely conduct the affairs of a society of 163,000 women, scattered over nearly all the states and territories of the Union, yet the honor is coveted, and much friendly rivalry results. Mrs. Mary L. Gilman, national president of the Woman's Relief corps, was elected on the first ballot by a flattering majority. Conservative, yet broad minded, of fine executive ability and an accomplished parliamentarian, her administration is proving to be a notable one, says Hampton's Magazine.

The Woman's Relief corps is the only authorized auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic and the outcome of the above mentioned aid societies of the sixties. After the war the work of relief became more than ever important because of the permanent disability of thousands of soldiers, many of whom had families dependent upon them. After a few years of desultory effort by unattached societies it was deemed best to unite in one strong organization which should be the auxiliary to that of the veterans and prepared to systematically assist them in their philanthropic work. Representatives of many small societies met in Denver in the summer of 1883 and organized the corps, with a charter list of forty-five members.

During its twenty-six years of existence $3,500,000 has been expended for relief alone. Families of veterans have been provided with food and clothing, homes and employments have been found for soldiers' widows and orphans, the sick have been cared for and the dead buried. In several states homes are maintained where disabled veterans may be accompanied by their faithful wives and their declining days be spent together in comfort.

In addition to the work of relief, immense sums of money are expended in the observance of Memorial day, and this society was the pioneer in the promotion of patriotic teaching as a part of the public school curriculum. That was in 1883, and since then many thousands of flags and patriotic publications have been presented to schools in every part of the United States.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

A scald is one of the most painful injuries. One of the best healing remedies is made by beating castor oil and white of egg together until a cream is formed.

Talcum was never intended as a toilet article for whitening the face, but it soothes a burned skin. If, however, talcum is added to face powder the irritation that often follows the application of face powder will not be noticed. It makes a powder smooth.

For pimples take sarsaparilla or any blood tonic for two weeks and drink plenty of water and exercise the body daily. Hot baths, followed by shower baths, will assist in purifying the blood. One teaspoonful of carbolic acid in one pint of rosewater, well mixed, can be sparingly applied to pimples and will remove them. For moth patches mix rum and sulphur together and apply at night, using care not to get it into the eyes.

To keep the complexion looking as white and clear as one could desire there could be no more helpful ally than a black velvet band around the neck. Other effects, too, may be produced by the judicious use of this adjunct to the toilet. A narrow band around a long neck will make it appear somewhat shorter, and it will make the complexion dazzlingly white in contrast, while a wide black band will tend to lengthen the neck and will have the same desirable effect upon the complexion.

A skin whitening preparation that can be easily made at home is in the proportion of two tablespoonfuls of oatmeal, a half tablespoonful of powdered borax and a half pint of rosewater. Let the mixture stand three days, strain and add a half ounce of alcohol. The addition of the alcohol prevents the souring which is the drawback to so many oatmeal preparations. If preferred, instead of using all oatmeal it can be mixed with half its bulk of almond meal. Either of these washes makes the skin feel soft and smooth if rubbed on the hands or face after washing.

King to Cycle.

Special correspondence of The Standard from London says: King Edward VII has been recommended by his medical advisers to resume cycling after an interval of two years, and the Messrs. Humber, Limited, have modernized one of his old machines for the purpose. The King first rode a Humber tricycle thirteen years ago, and during the eleven years which followed several machines embodying the latest improvements were built for him.

It was originally the King's intention to have a new machine, but as the delivery of a machine of the special make which he favors was impossible within the specified time, one of his old tricycles was sent to Messrs. Humber to be overhauled and refitted, and was returned to Buckingham Palace.

The machine has been equipped with all the most modern improvements, so as to avoid all danger of tripping or a fall in mounting and dismounting. One of the features of the machine is the absence of all impediments; it possesses a direct central drive, and thus it is easy to jump on or off.

World's Greatest Bridge-Builder.

Sir William Arrol, who has been denouncing the $50,000 which he estimates is spent every Saturday afternoon in England during the winter season by spectators at football matches as "a gross waste of money," is one of the most remarkable self-made and self-taught men who have hailed from North of the Tweed. He started life in a cotton-mill at eleven years of age, but the work in the mill did not suit him at all. "I wanted an easier life," he explained later, "so I went to work for a blacksmith in Paisley," and it was the clang of the anvil and the sight of the sparks which inspired him with that love of engineering which led him to become the world's greatest bridge-builder.

Farm Boy For Professor's Chair.

The career of Prof. Thomas Rees, who has just been appointed principal of Bala-Bangor Welsh Congregational College, is an extraordinary one. He started to earn his living at thirteen as a farm laborer, and at eighteen was working in a colliery. While working as a collier at Aberdare he attended the Ebenezer Chapel in that town, and soon attracted attention by his wonderful preaching powers. When he was twenty-one years of age money was found to enable him to study at Whitland Grammar School. From that time his success was meteoric. Soon he matriculated at the University of London and took his degree. At thirty he was a professor of theology, and at forty years is principal of one of the leading colleges in Wales.

AMUSING MISTAKES.

Haughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained, with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction become second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a mate to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes, I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. Whatchdoin? You are? Where am I? At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stepped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the bedroom windows and also give the children a cooky apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was business, too, from some points of view. They were all brief, care relieving, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which those phones were supplied. But there sat that creature "ugh-huhing and mmhming" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephones and the mirrors as long as she wished she retraced her steps, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of honor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband, and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Dulls.

If the scissors grinder kept his blade in the whetstone unceasingly the scissors would soon be useless. The grind that dulls women is not daily household duties, but never letting up on those duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

AN INDIAN NEWSPAPER

KAMLOOPS WAWA IS UNIQUE THE WORLD OVER.

Father Le Jeune, a French Catholic Missionary Sent From Brittany Has Taught a System of Shorthand to the Natives and They Get Out a Quaint Little Publication — Has Translated Bible.

Probably the only tribe of real Indian shorthand writers in the world who contribute and subscribe to the queerest newspaper now being published are those belonging to the Kamloops and Douglas River bands diving in the interior of British Columbia. Over 2,000 of these natives have mastered the art, and regularly read all the news pertaining to the tribe and individuals in their curious journal, called the "Kamloops Wawa." Bible, hymn and prayer book are likewise printed in this sign language.

This extraordinary advance in Indian culture was brought about through the effort of a French Catholic missionary, Father Le Jeune, sent out from Brittany a few years ago. Kamloops, the headquarters of Father Le Jeune, is some 300 miles and more northeast from Victoria, the capital of British Columbia. Just across the river, a few miles up from the town, is the main Indian village or rancheric. Here the native congregate in large numbers at certain seasons, for this is the important centre of Indian life for some 50 or 100 miles around. The occupation is principally hunting, fishing and ranching, and fishing on a limited scale. Prior to the appearance of the priest, the Shamans, pretenders at the curing of disease, claiming, by aid of supernatural or magic powers, to be able to ward off evil spirits and prevent sickness, completely held the people in their superstitious and powerful grasp. Besides hindering their progress in religious matters, a good deal of property was squeezed from the people by their misleading influence. These so-called magical prophets fled at the coming of the French priest, who fully exposed their tricks and false creed to the Indians, and before he began his educational work the tribes of this locality living along the canyons and banks of the Thomson and Fraser Rivers in British Columbia, were unable to write their language, and had no written literature, although each possessed a language which has an extensive mythology, which was preserved by oral tradition.

To-day, nearly all the different tribes, some half-dozen or more, are writing letters to one another in their several languages, reading a newspaper, Bibles, and song books, all by means of shorthand. Father Le Jeune found that to be successful in his mission it would be absolutely necessary to devise a system of communication both to arouse and gain their interest by placing instructive printed matter in their hands. Having no written language or grammar of their own, he conceived the novel and useful idea of teaching the Indians of the various tribes to write their language, and showed them a sign to represent each sound which they uttered in pronouncing their words. The signs were simply the shorthand symbols of the Duployn phonographic system. After working out an Indian vocabulary containing nearly all the words most commonly employed in everyday usage in his shorthand signs, the priest, in early fall, when the village was thickly populated, first showed and explained his system to one of the bright Indian boys. He took to it intuitively and set to work to decipher some Indian prayers which the father gave him. Before Christmas he had pretty thoroughly learned the art of writing his language, and, being so pleased with his rapid success, he set to work at once to instruct his friends. The new "talk language" created wide-spread interest and the Indians were all eager to learn it. Soon the young as well as the adult members of each habitation for miles around were engaged in practicing the new method of communication.

Father Le Jeune was not satisfied with teaching his Indian parishioners to write letters in their own language by means of shorthand, and to read a paper in their native tongue, but he had published various parts of the Bible in nine different languages spoken by the several tribes in this region, using the same method, and still is laboring on additional publications. Shorthand, he claims, is so many times simpler than English orthography, that he takes no credit to himself for this wonderfully novel work of being the first to teach these natives to write.

On church and feast days the whole community attends services. The church is well lighted by acetylene gas, and illustrated stereoptican lectures are frequently given by the pastor. In the rear of the church are the editorial rooms where Father Le Jeune gets up his quaint shorthand paper. This has sixteen pages, about the size of the average book, devoted to church and various local information. "Wawa" is the word for talk in the Chinook jargon, hence Father Le Jeune chose that name for the quaint newspaper. It was printed on a mimeograph for the first year, but after this the priest succeeded in having type made for it and getting it printed on one of the presses of the nearest city. A full page of this unique publication shows the curious shorthand symbols used in the church services. Several years ago the Passion Play was enacted here by the Indians under the direction of the priest. They are quite proud of their performance, and speak of the event with unusual pride. For a novel picture of progressive Indian life, Father Le Jeune's queer "Wawa," and his band of Indian shorthand writers, quite overshadow all others to be met in British Columbia.

Fish That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish that cannot swim are known to naturalists. Perhaps the most singular of these is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backward and forward, having truly the form of thin paws. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of nonswimming fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly shaped inhabitant of the sea, and the starfish.

THE BETH DIN.

Where Law Comes Cheaper to Jews of the London Ghetto.

In a small turning out of "Petticoat Lane," in the heart of the Jewish quarter of London, or "Ghetto," is situated the Beth Din. It may well be termed the "Poor Jew's Law Court," for not only can disputes of all kinds be settled here, but no charge whatever is made for the use of its services, the expenses of carrying it on being borne by the Jewish community. Its sittings are usually presided over by the Chief Rabbi.

Here resort Jews of all classes and nationalities to adjust differences, and obtain advice—the Russian refugee and the Roumanian outcast, the Polish fugitive and the Portuguese emigrant, old Jews with hooked noses and straggling beards, young Jewesses with glittering eyes and coal-black hair. Here sits an aged Israelite, his small skull-cap stuck far back upon his few remaining hairs. Two long curls, or "peahs," fall on either side of his face. These are regarded by orthodox Jews as evidence of piety and learning, and are never cut. His clean-like nose, his long, matted beard, his olive-tinted skin, complete the picture. You almost expect to hear him claim his "pound of flesh."

His claim is, however, of a less inhuman kind. His friend has called him a "Shabsel Tzirnick" about the grossest insult one Jew can offer to another, implying he is a follower of the impostor Messiah of that name. The rabbi elicits the fact that the complainant only received this insult after himself calling his friend a "Terdeganov," or horse thief. Oil is poured on the troubled waters, apologies are exchanged, and both parties leave the court friends.

Then follows a claim by "Minyan" men for extra payment. According to Jewish custom, on the "Jahrseit," or anniversary, of the death of a parent, a special prayer, called the "Kaddish," is offered up for the soul of the departed. At least thirteen male Jews over thirteen years of age must be present, thirteen being regarded by Jews as a lucky number. This is called the "Minyan." Certain of the poorer Jews attend these services to make up the full complement of thirteen, and are paid for their attendance. This dispute is about what amount is to be paid. After much argument, a compromise is arranged.

Now come cases of all kinds. A Jew unsuccessfully seeks damages from a fried-fish vendor, because, he alleges, the oil in which the fish he purchased was fried was not "kosher"—i.e., prepared in accordance with the Jewish law. A servant sues her mistress for wages due. Various money-lending cases, disputes between landlord and tenant, etc., follow.

In the Beth Din no oath is taken. Each party is expected to tell the truth, and generally does. When, however, there is a very distinct and direct conflict of evidence, statements can be repeated on oath.

It must not be supposed that the sole function of the Beth Din is judicial. It also decides questions of ritual, appoints officers for the performance of Jewish rites and ceremonies, and examines converts to Judaism. Questions relating to the Jewish dietary laws are also decided here. There is still in existence a law, although it is obsolete by now, by which water left overnight should not be drunk, for fear lest there might be a serpent's sting in it.

A Cosmopolitan R.A.

"The son of American parents, born in Florence, trained in Paris, living in London, a citizen of the United States, speaking Italian, French, German, and Spanish almost as fluently as he speaks English." Thus has Mr. Sargent, R.A., whose pictures are again amongst the most notable at Burlington House, been described. Mr. Sargeant also pleads guilty to a taste for hunting. There is a story told of a visit he once paid to Fairford, the residence of his compatriot and brother Academician, Edwin Abbey. They had had a long day's hunting, and his host was changing his clothes when he heard cries of "Horrible! Horrible!" proceeding from Sargent's bedroom. Alarmed, he rushed in, only to find his friend woefully surveying the ruins of a new top-hat. "My dear fellow," he cried, "what's the matter?" "You see that hat," said Sargent. "My horse put his foot through it to-day. I was thinking how terrible it would have been if my head had been inside it."

Flower Trade of the Scilly Isles.

The Scilly Isles, five in all, lie out in the Atlantic forty miles off the Cornish coast. The development of their flower trade has changed them from poverty stricken spots into islands of the blessed. Not many years ago the inhabitants eked out a precarious and scanty living by potato culture, but one day a man of wise forethought named Trevelick came to the conclusion that flowers would bring a richer harvest. He could see them growing riotously in the little gardens, and he collected a few bulbs here and a few there until he had enough to start business with, and the first consignment he sent to Covent Gardens brought prices that are now spoken of with something like reverence. With the passing of the years flower culture has settled into a well organized trade, providing occupation for everybody who wants to work on the islands.

Lord Marcus Beresford's Advice.

At the time when Lord Marcus Beresford took over the King's horses His Majesty had only a very moderate lot of animals in training. "Well, what do you think of them, and what would you do with them if they were yours?" he asked Lord Marcus one morning as they were watching the royal string at work on Newmarket Heath. Beresford looked the horses over reflectively for a moment and then said bluntly, "Shoot most of them, I think." "Shoot them by all means, then," retorted the King.

Ingenious Paupers.

Leicester Corporation is bringing into use a new pattern of drain-trap, as it has discovered that many of the poorer inhabitants have been using the old patterns for saucepans or potato boilers.

A failing tiny nerve—so larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE SOLE HEAD of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The application must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties— Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may purchase a homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Important ANNOUNCEMENT

Having disposed of my Retail Meat and Provision Business to Mr. S. A. Oke, I wish to thank the citizens of Peterborough for their very liberal and continued patronage during the past 13 years, and solicit for my successor, Mr. S. A. Oke, the same liberal patronage.

I will still continue to supply Mr. Oke with the finest quality of Meats from my wholesale department, and as Mr. Oke has engaged the services of my late employees the public will be assured, as far as the Meat Department is concerned, the same courteous treatment as in the past.

Yours respectfully, H. P. KENNEDY.

DAIRY EDUCATION.

Some Valuable Information Furnished at Canadian National Exhibition.

The educational features in connection with the Dairy department of the Canadian National Exhibition Toronto, promise to be of unusual interest this year, not only to farmers, but to consumers of milk in cities and towns as well. The demonstration work and lectures in the Dairy Amphitheatre will be under instruction for the Province, and the Dominion Department will also furnish a man to give some definite instruction along the co-testing line.

The proper care and handling of milk will be one of the subjects dealt with and it will be accompanied by demonstrations of milk testing as well as charts showing the value of cow-testing associations.

Dr. Roberts of Waukesha, Wis., U. S. an expert on diseases of live stock and especially tuberculosis, will also be engaged for one or more lectures on the latter subject.

JEALOUS WIFE'S ACT.

Doctor Shot to Death By Crazy Woman.

Portland, Ore., July 26.—Dr. R. A M. Collins, a prominent physician, was shot and killed by his wife today at the home of Captain J. H. Sladen whose house they were to occupy for the summer. The cause of the shooting is attributed to jealousy.

According to Dr. Frisbie, Mrs. Collins' jealousy of her husband was so great that she is alleged frequently to have threatened his life. Both Dr. Collins and his wife had been married and divorced, and it is said that the first Mrs. Collins arrived here recently from St. Louis.

Dr. Collins was a graduate of the medical department of Drake University, Des Moines, and of the St. Louis University Medical College, after which he served as an interne at the St. Louis City Hospital. He came to Portland about two years ago.

Mrs. Collins is several years his senior. Until her marriage to Dr. Collins she conducted a dressmaking business, her clientele including some of the most fashionable women in the city. A son by her first marriage was killed in the Philippines during the Spanish-American War.

Paris, July 26.—Aeroplanists in France are at present displaying the utmost ctivity. M. Bleriot, the most successful monoplanist, after Mr. Lathamwill this week attempt to beat all records for duration and distance of flight. He announces his intention of touring France with his aeroplane flying from town to town, in the late summer.

Mr. Cockburn an Englishman, is experienmenting at Chalons with a Farman machine, fitted with an Antoinette motor. He experienced a fall after making a good flight yesterday evening.

M. Sommer, a wealthy French enthusiast, flew for half an hour at Chalons yesterday with a machine similar to Mr. Cockburn's.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a loc l disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. SECRETS OF THE EMPIRE.

Ex-Empress Eugenie Will Not Write Historical Book.

Paris, July 26.—The ex-Empress Eugenie has just returned to England after a stay of a few weeks in Paris. While here the ex-Empress paid a long visit to the Malmaison, the chateau where the Empress Josephine lived after the divorce. The place is now a Napoleonic museum, and the ex-Empress has presented to it many souvenirs of her husband.

M. F. C. Pietri, the private secretary of the ex-Empress, has issued here the following notice, addressed from Farnborough:

'For some time the Empress has been receiving many letters from people who asked permission to publish her memoirs or to translate them into foreign languages. In order to reply to these requests and to put an end to them, I am instructed by her majesty to state that she has not written, and will never write, any memoirs."

THE T. EATON COMPANY

Will Open Big Store in Montreal in the Near Future.

Montreal, July 27.—A deal was consummated by which the T. Eaton Co., Limited, of Toronto, will occupy the entire three top floors of the new J. A. Jacobs building at the corner of St. Catherine and St. Alexander streets, and adjoining the Princess Theatre.

The space they will occupy will total 84,000 square feet, with a frontage of 235 feet and a depth of 115 feet. There are windows on all four sides. Re-inforced concrete is being used in the building, and it will be as near fireproof as modern science can suggest. There will be six elevators running the six stories. The lower story will be occupied by retail firms and the second will be used as offices. The third has already been rented to Montreal manufacturing concerns.

The Eaton Company will employ fifteen hundred hands when they first start in the new premises, but it is estimated that this will be doubled within a short time. The three flats will be used for manufacturing goods for the retail stores in different parts of Canada, but it is generally understood that the day is not far distant when the company will open an immense departmental store in Montreal.

Some of the steel strikers watching the movements of strikebreakers at steel car shops at Butler.

Pittsburg, July 27.—The completion of an invention which it is said will revolutionize the steel car wheel business of the country was announced at the offices of the Carnegie Steel Company tonight, and so well does the company think of the invention that it will spend $3,000,000 in erecting a plant to make the wheels. The invention is that of C. C. Black, chief engineer of the Carnegie company.

The Times Delivery System.

The Times has inaugurated as perfect a system of delivery as it is possible to have in a city of Peterborough's size. The great increase in the circulation of the paper, an account of the contest just terminated, has somewhat disorganized the system. We therefore ask our subscribers to bear with us for a short time until we get back to normal conditions. All who do not get the paper regularly are particularly requested to report to the office.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Frog Lake Massacre.

Lindsay Post.—Mr. J. C. Gilchrist of Woodville, has just received announcement of the re-interment of the victims of the Frog Lake Massacre which the Department of the Interior has had in hand for some months. It will be remembered Mr. Gilchrist, whose son was one of the victims visited the spot last fall and suggested to the Department that the remains which were scattered over variods portions of the province be gathered together and given decent burial. This has now been done and the mortal remains of the seven victims of the tragedy are grouped on a small knoll just in front of the site of what was at that time the Roman Catholic mission church of Frog Lake, and to which some of the unfortunates fled for safety in their extremity.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOS. BOLTON.

The death occurred on Sunday evening at eight o'clock of Margaret Mooney, relict of the late Thos. Bolton, at her residence 50 Hunter St., east. She had been ill for two months from a complication of diseases. The deceased was 48 years of age and was born in Harvey township. Her husband predeceased her about 16 years ago and a few years later she moved to Peterborough, and since then has resided here continuously. The funeral will be held this afternoon at four o'clock from 50 Hunter street east to the Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. J. JACKSON HANNAH.

The death occurred Sunday afternoon at half-past two at her late residence, lot 11, concession 2, Smith, of Mrs. J. Jackson Hannah. The deceased had been ill about two months. She was 56 years of age, and was born in Cavan, her maiden name being Susanna McMillen. She was a woman of many estimable qualities, and her death will be deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends. Her husband, two sons, Messrs. Ernie and Russell, and one daughter, Daisy, at home, are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock today from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

STREET EXTENSION.

Bylaw Should Be Turned Down Says a Citizen.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—The ratepayers will do well indeed to kill once again that street extension bylaw. The expenditure was never authorized; a lot of private property owners are benefited and already the city has paid several hundred dollars to the banks for interest. If debentures are issued for $21,500 it will cost the citizens nearly double that before they are paid off. The council had no right to spend the money when they did not have it. This overdraft and debenture business is getting too thin. It is only a matter of a few years until the whole of the taxes will be eaten up by interest and sinking fund and new taxes will have to be raised to keep the city going. It is time that the ratepayers had an opportunity to stop these reckless expenditures and they must stop if the street extension bylaw is defeated again as it surely will be.

Yours truly,

CITIZEN.

THE MASTER PAINTERS' SIXTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OPENED

Three Interesting Sessions were Held Yesterday

Address of Welcome from the Mayor—Splendid Papers on Different Subjects —Delegates are Taking a Keen Interest

The sixth annual convention of the Master House Painters and Decorators of Canada, is now in full swing. A large number of the delegates are present and they are taking a keen interest in the proceedings. Three sessions were held yesterday, morning, afternoon and evening. In the morning the chief feature was the address of welcome from the mayor on behalf of the citizens which was as follows;

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

The address of welcome, read by Mayor Rush, was as follows;—

Mr. President and Members of the Master House Painters and Decorators' Association of Canada.

Gentlemen,—It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to Peterborough on behalf of the council and citizens. It is a pleasure to us to have visitors come to Peterborough and especially when they come, as you do, in a representative capacity speaking, acting and observing, not only for yourselves, but for large numbers of others connected with your association, and whose representatives you are. We are honored by having your annual meeting held here. The mechanics of the country are among the most important members of the community. When the natural products are grown, delved or gathered from the earth, they are use by the mechanics, whose work provides the comforts for the people, and adds to the wealth of the community. And among those whose work is in this way so beneficial you hold an important place, for a home to be comfortable and home-like must be decorated becomingly and with skill. The work of the house painter and decorator is a growth of civilization, and to some considerable extent the advancement and culture of a people may be judged by the taste shown in the decoration of their homes. We hope that your trade will be benefitted by your annual gathering.

We have in our City Council one of your members, Ald. George H. Duncan, who is one of the most careful and useful members of the council, and this gives us an added interest in your annual session.

While your meeting is a business one, we hope you will be able to take time to see something of our city. Our manufacturing industries are considerable in number and importance, and our educational institutions, including the New Normal School and Collegiate Institute, are worth visiting. We think we are well provided with parks, and the churches and public buildings are creditable structures, while there are many attractive residences. The lift lock on the canal should certainly be visited, as it is the largest in the world, and these locks are only to be seen in America on this canal.

We hope that your meeting will be be very beneficial, and that your stay in Peterborough will be so pleasant that you will soon return.

H. RUSH, Mayor.

ROUTINE OF BUSINESS.

At the conclusion of Mayor Rush's address a vote of thanks was passed to Mayor Rush for the kind hospitality he had expressed, and to Rev. H. J. Keith, on motion of ex-International President Stewart E. Hughes of Toronto, and Mr. Jas. Phinnemore, also of Toronto.

The mayor made a brief acknowledgment and retired.

President R. Booth of London, took the chair, and opened the general business. Mr. Hughes presented the report of a special badge committee. In doing so he produced the badges which were thereupon pinned on President Booth, Vice-President Benj. Goodfellow of Galt, and A. M. deWeKatie, sec.-treas., of Hamilton by International ex-President John Dewar, of Pittsburg.

The appointment of committees resulted as follows:—

Committee on Credentials—Messrs. Phinnemore and Metcalfe.

Committee on Resolutions — Messrs. Hughes, Duncan and Stamp.

Committee on Auditing — Messrs. Thompson and Cook.

In opening the meeting Mr. Booth made a very suitable address.

E. J. Livingston of Toronto, reported on the organizing committee. Mr. Phinnemore on behalf of the delegate to the International Convention in Baltimore, last February, presented the reports of the delegates, J. W. Morley of Winnipeg, presented the report of the formation of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. It was organized on July 14th of this year, and promises to be of great assistance to the painters of the West.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At two o'clock President Booth took the chair and called the meeting to order. A letter of regret was received from ex-President Brooks of Windeor, and read to the convention. It expressed his inability to be present through the death of his oldest son and business partner.

The convention passed a resolution of condolence to Mr. Brooks and his family.

Mr. W. J. Bolus of Toronto, gave a demonstration of cut out work, which proved exceedingly interesting Cut out work is in the paper hangers' department and is the cutting out of the pattern of the border and hanging it without the straight line effect as was the custom in the past.

Another interesting paper on "Painting on Cement," was read by Mr. E. J. Linington of Toronto, president of the Toronto association.

At the conclusion of the paper a free discussion was indulged in on the two subjects and many of the delegates took part.

The question drawer was next. This is an important feature of the convention as the delegates bring all their troubles to the experts in charge of the question drawer for the purpose of having the difficulties overcome. The drawer was in charge of Messrs. John Dewer, Pittsburg; S. N. Hughes, Toronto; W. E. Wall, Toronto.

The meeting then adjourned until

EVENING SESSION.

The evening was taken up with the completion of the question drawer features, which was in charge of experts. This proved extremely interesting and much valuable information was given out.

J. W. Faircloth & Co., and Hughes & Co., of Toronto, through Mr. Pringle gave a demonstration of glass manufacture, taking up the stained and leaded glasses. He showed how the different effects were secured and gave the delegates a lot of valuable information.

The meeting adjourned about ten o'clock until this morning at nine

GUN DESTROYS BALLOON.

Howitzer's Shell Shatters Bag Floating 4,000 Feet Aloft.

Mayence, Germany, July 27.—Successful experiments in the destruction of a balloon with a howitzer were carried out here today.

A captive balloon was sent up to an altitude of 4,000 feet on the military range at Griesheim. Volleys from rifles and the fire of machine guns were directed against the target without the slightest, but the second shell fired at it from a howitzer totally destroyed the balloon.

REASSURING VIEW OF INDIA.

United States Admiral Tells of Observations in the Orient.

Toronto, July 27.—Rear Admiral W. Mead, United States Navy, retired, who, with his wife, is completing a world journey of more than two years' duration, is in the city. The admiral, who has spent his time travelling in Europe and Asia, visiting in the latter continent, principally India, China, and Japan, says he does not think there is much to be feared in the present Indian situation. He says he heard more about this in Great Britain and on this side than he ever saw during all the time he spent in the far eastern empire. There the most of the unrest was exhibited in Calcutta. The Bengalese were not a very warlike people danger of a serious uprising when he was there.

AFTERMATH OF FIRE.

Department Was Busy All Day—Engine at the Lumber Mills.

The chief topic of conversation yesterday morning was the two big fires of the night before, and many warm words of praise were spoken of Chief Howard and his men.

The fifis were not out until away in the afternoon, in fact the water was kept on the Jew's storehouse until the evening.

About 10.30 in the morning Chief Howard at the request of Mr. John Thompson of the Peterborough Lumber Company, took the engine over to the scene of the fire to make another effort to get it placed at the water's edge and to smother out all traces of the fire. Ald. Buller, chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee, was consulted, and he consented to the engine going. Two teams of horses and a large number of men were used, and it took four and a half hours of hard work before the engine was placed and ready to run. After getting the four and a half tons of machinery down to the water's edge it mired, and most of the time was occupied in raising it and getting it properly planked. As a result there was a severe strain on the engine and the rear axle was sprung. The chief displayed wisdom in not attempting to place the engine at night as it would have destroyed the engine and no good would have resulted so far as the fire was concerned. It was three o'clock when the engine was fired and a stream of water was poured on the debris until after five o'clock.

Men were also employed all day paying water into the fire on Simcoe street. The rags were on fire and it was very difficult to get at it.

Several of the delegates to the Painters' convention saw the fire on Simcoe street, and they were delighted with the way it was handled by the chief and his men.

THE GOODALE AIRSHIP.

Aeronaut Crossed the Hudson River

(Special to The Times.)

New York, July 27.—Weather conditions ideal, Frank W. Goodale made good his promise and visited Herald Square in his dirigible balloon. The trip from Palisade Amusement Park was made in just twenty two minutes and the return in about the same time. Thousands of persons watched the balloon as it circled and soared above the Herald Building, and every window in the large Broadway office buildings, as well as all the roof, were black with men and women, who cheered the young aeronaut as he flew past high above them.

This is the third time that Goodale has flown across the Hudson River from the amusement park, where he makes flights daily, but this flight was by far the most successful he has yet made. There was not a hitch in the ascension or flight and not once did he slight wind that was blowing hamper the aeronaut or make him change his course.

Canada Sponging on the Motherland

The militant Imperialists of this country will have to pass a vote of censure upon His Excellency the Governor-General. While they have been asserting day in and day out that Canada has been negligent of her duty, or to use the unfortunate expression of Sir Hugh Graham, that "long years Canada has been sponging on the Motherland for protection," Earl Grey has been preaching in London the truth that Canada has already done her share and is prepared to do more as the necessity arises. In his speech at the Dominion Day banquet in London His Excellency said, among other things:—

"I am continually amazed as I go through Canada at what a population equivalent to that of Greater London has achieved in a continent the size of Europe. The Canadian Pacific Railway, which was only finished a little more than 25 years ago, was made out of a contribution of public money amounting to 100 million dollars. Who is there that can say that that money put into ten Dreadnoughts would have been of equal value to Imperial defence? There are two more transcontinental railways under construction, and my hope is that we may see Canada advance in population, in strength in prosperity, and in spirit. But whether with a small population or a great one, I have seen enough of the temper and spirit which animates the people of the Dominion from one end of Canada to the other to be convinced that the Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was more than justified in stating that if it was necessary to maintain the naval supremacy of the Crown, Canada was prepared to spend her last dollar and to give her last man."

The Governor-General is the spokesman of the people of Canada, irrespective of party, for he knows no endorse the policy of the Canadian Parliament under both political parties, he is doing a public service to Canada and the Empire at large.

The London Statist has published a statement relative to the vast amount of capital which Great Britain has at its disposal for investment, the Hamilton Spectator says that it is strange that money invested out of the homeland foreign countries get far more than the overseas Dominions. The total for foreign countries for the year under review was 990 million pounds as against 684 million pounds for the countries within the Empire. In interest on investments in American railways alone Britishers received in the year 37 million pounds, while from Canadian railways the returns were only a little over 7½ million pounds. In South American countries Great Britain has no less than 54 million pounds invested and from South American railways the British investor receives annually an income of over 13 million pounds.

Dynamite Exploded at Home of Mine Owner

Glace Bay, July 27. — Dynamite was resorted to again in the Cape Breton Coal strike, when an attempt was made to blow up the home of Manager Simpson of Dominion No. 10, this morning. A portion of the verandah was blown off, all the windows in the front of the house were shattered, and plaster was knocked down. The report of the explosion was clearly heard in Glace Bay, three miles away, and a posse of police were sent out on a special car but no trace of the perpetrators could be found.

This is the most serious affair of the kind that has happened since the strike began three weeks ago. It was 1.40 when the explosion occurred. Everyone in the vicinity was aroused by the report, and crowds quickly gathered. The dynamite had been placed against a post in the verandah, and a fuse attached. A mark left by the burning fuse was plainly to be seen on the verandah floor. It is not thought that whoever placed the dynamite intended to kill the family inside, but only wished to scare them, for the explosion could have been placed in such a manner as to shatter the entire structure.

The output for the mines yesterday was the largest since the strike began amounting to 5,800 tons. Two hundred tons were taken from the banks, as there was little or no shipping to be despatched.

The miners yesterday turned down the proposal of an all-Canadian union based on the dissolution of the Provincial Mine Workers' Union, and the United Mine Workers. This was submitted by Rev. Mr. Feaver and Rev. Goddard Fenwick. They had placed a similar proposition before Mr. Duggan, including a provision for a 10 per cent. advance in wages to men who received 63 per day or under, but he disapproved of it.

The steamer Cabot yesterday brought one hundred men from Chelicamp, C. B., most of whom are experienced miners, and these will be distributed in the various collieries of the Dominion Coal Company.

Sprained Wrist and Ankle

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of "Nerviline" earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. Q. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

TESTIMONIAL No. 4266

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings, muscular pains, and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home, ready for an accident or emergent sickness, a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it today, 25c., or five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CHAS. M. HAYS.
President of the G. T. P.

Charles M. Hays Has Great Hopes for Future

G.T.R. Men Once Had Cold Feet, Now Have Cold Millions—Something About Personality of Great Railroad Man

Mr. Charles M. Hayes, President of the Grand Trunk Pacific, today is back in Montreal from a trip to London, England, where it is announced that he has secured $10,000,000 more for G.T.P. construction. There is now enough cash on hand to carry on this big enterprise for two years at least, according to Mr. Hays.

The building and organizing of a gigantic work like the G.T.P. is a big man's job, and the announcement of the company's success in floating bond issues in England is another indication that a big man is filling the job and that he appeals that way to the capitalists in London.

When Mr. Hays first took charge of the Grand Trunk 75 per cent. of the London directorate had cold feet. Their glances were cold, their hand-shake icy. But when the new manager made good London began to warm up, so that when he was leaving, at the end of his first year, his personal stock was good in London. When he had returned and had changed the Grand Trunk Railway System from a fourth rate single track line to a first-class double track railway, he found himself one of the most popular managers in the railway world. That the cold feet have entirely disappeared is proven by the recent flotations.

It was because Mr. Hays had made good with the old Grand Trunk that he was able to carry through, and to secure the support of the president and board of directors for his scheme for building a new transcontinental railway from ocean to ocean. In all the struggle incident to carrying his plans through at Ottawa and in London, he had a most delicate task to perform. He had to convince the Grand Trunk that they were getting a good bargain in the Grand Trunk Pacific deal, then return to Ottawa, and convince Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his supporters that the Grand Trunk Pacific was a good thing for Canada.

And Mr. Hays was sincere. He believes that within the next ten years vast areas of what is now the sleeping wilderness in Northern Ontario and in Quebec, will be cleared and cultivated. He argues that millions of acres will be planted to wheat along the prairie section that otherwise might have lain idle. He holds that in the last vastness, the mountain section between Edmonton and the ocean, there are opportunities for millions of men, of farmers, of manufacturers, and finally for those who go down to the sea in ships.

MEN WHO SERVE ARE LOYAL.

Mr. Chas. M. Hays is a big broad minded man, whose quiet dignity is sometimes mistaken for hauteur. Probably the best test of a man is that he makes friends and holds them, that as a manager of men, demanding that they give to the railway or to the company they serve the best that is in them, he secures and keeps their loyalty. The men who serve under this commander are devoted to him.

Few railway managers in America have given more thought and have done more for the direct benefit of railway employes under him than has Mr. Hays. Indeed he has been severely criticized in England for doing too much, and as an evidence of the inconsistencies in this life he has been criticized for doing too little in his recently adopted pension scheme.

"When I drop of a west-bound car at St. James and McGill streets," said a Grand Trunk man to the writer in Montreal, the other day; "if it is ten minutes to nine I look back across Victoria Square and up Beaver Hall Hill to see Mr. Hays walking down, using his umbrella as a walking stick, but if it is only five minutes to nine I look down McGill street and hurry up to catch him before he enters his office."

TO ADDRESS UNIONS.

Mr. W. R. Trotter, Representative of the Trades Congress of Canada in the City.

Mr. W. R. Trotter, representative of the Trades Congress of Canada, is in the city, having arrived here Monday evening. Mr. Trotter for the past two years has been the representative of the Congress in England and while there vigorously fought against undesirable emigration to Canada. On Thursday evening he will address a meeting of Trades and Labors Unions in the Catholic Foresters Hall at 8 p.m.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaints. It cures griping, diarrhoea, dysentery, and should be taken at the first unnatural looseness of the bowels. It is equally valuable for children and adults. It always cures.

Reckless Waste by Canadians

Considerable has been written concerning the conservation of our natural resources, but no better contribution to the subject has been made than that of William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R. Winnipeg, who writes an article in the current issue of Canada-West on "Reckless Waste."

Mr. Whyte is a man who knows Canada from coast to coast and what he says must bear influence. In one part of the article he says;

"From Cape Breton to Virginia the original English settlers of America found themselves in a country of natural opulence so great, especially in timber, water and soil that such such an eventuality as exhaustion or even appreciable impairment never suggested itself. That was only three hundred and fifty years ago—and less. They came from a land where thrift and care had been taught by centuries of experience but the old ways were soon forgotten and never renewed. Until very lately, there has been no uneasiness, no economy. On the contrary, a tremendous incoming swirl of humanity swept across the continent after the eighteen sixties, carrying with it the same recklessness, the same waste, so that forests have faded, streams have at some seasons washed bare the lands and at other left them parching. Iron and coal have shrunk on to known supply sufficient at the present rate of use for not much more than a hundred years. Oil and gas fields once thought perpetual have died out; and in some of the older sections the soil itself has become sterile. We have sported with our resources until the end of them has begun to threaten, but we are fortunate in knowing what is left; and beyond that remainder, we know how we may bring out of nature's eternal reservoir a restoration of original opulence to at least the most important of the things we had."

Mr. Whyte's words should revive interest in the subject of conservation and it is to be hoped that the legislature of Canada will not lose another opportunity to pass adequate legislation.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Sheep's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take.

THE WEATHER.

Fine and Warm.

NEW BOAT FOR LINDSAY.

Otonabee Company to Operate on Sturgeon Waters.

The Lindsay Warder says:

Manager Robert Hicks, of the Otonabee Navigation Co., of Peterboro, assured a Warder reporter yesterday that he would put a regular boat on these waters early next spring. He has considered the situation carefully and finally decided to run regular trips from Lindsay to Sturgeon Point, Fenelon Falls and Coboconk.

The company has a number of boats, including the Manita and Ogemah, that at one time ran on these waters. They are also building a fine new excursion boat, and it is very likely that the Otonabee is the one that will be placed on these waters. In the fall when the water gets low she will be taken off and a smaller one put on in her place.

This will be good news to Lindsay and Sturgeon Point citizens as every person that has been on the Otonabee were much taken with the fine excursion boat. She has returned to Peterboro and will not likely be seen on these waters again this season.

MESMERIZED.

A Poisonous Drug Still Used.

Many people are brought up to believe that coffee is a necessity of life and the strong hold that the drug has on the system makes it hard to loosen its grip even when one realizes its injurious effects.

A lady in Baraboo, writes: "I had used coffee for years: it seemed one of the necessities of life. A few months ago, my health, which had been slowly failing, became more impaired, and I knew that unless relief came from some source, I would soon be a physical wreck.

"I was weak and nervous, had sick headaches, no ambition, and felt tired of life. My husband was also losing his health. He was troubled so much with indigestion that at times he could eat only a few mouthfuls of dry bread.

"We concluded that coffee was slowly poisoning us, and stopped it and used hot water. We felt somewhat better, but it wasn't satisfactory.

"Finally, we saw Postum advertised, and bought a package. I followed directions for making carefully, allowing it to boil twenty minutes after it came to the boiling point, and added cream, which turned it to the loveliest rich-looking and tasting drink I ever saw served at any table, and we have used Postum ever since.

"I gained five pounds in weight in so many weeks, and now feel well and strong in every respect. My head aches have gone, and I am a new woman. My husband's indigestion has left him, and he can now eat anything." "There's a Reason."

Cold in the Chest

CURED QUICKLY BY NERVILINE.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment, "Nerviline", I consider it the best remedy for a cold, sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold that settled on my chest, that fourteen remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 3785

You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline.

(Signed) "LUCY MOSHER."

All sorts of aches, pains and sufferings—interna. and external—yields to Nerviline. Accept no substitute; 25c. per bottle, or five for $1.00. All dealers or The Catarrhozones Company.—Kingston, Ont. 12

TIME FOR A CHANGE.

Isn't it pretty nearly time Canada and the United States came to an understanding regarding the eligibility of citizens of either country to cross the frontier? the St. Thomas Times properly asks. Cases of injustice, absurb in the extreme, keep occurring, the latest of which was the barring en route to a Buffalo hospital as the only hope of saving his life. The petty tyranny of subordinate officials, "clothed with a little brief authority," has long been intolerable and there have been many cases of injustice for which there has been no redress. People visiting on either side of the line have been arrested on their journey when they attempted to cross the line on their return to their homes. Cases innumerable could be cited where red tape officialism has halted people who had every right to pass freely backward and forward. The law aims to exclude undesirable aliens, but it should not rest with the agent at the frontier to judge from mere appearances whether a traveller is "undesirable" or not. If the case instanced" of the Canadian going to a Buffalo hospital for an operation is to be accepted as within the interpretation of the law, then every person who has been bitten by a mad dog and is being rushed to the Pasteur Institute at New York, may be turned back at the frontier to die from hydrophobia, a victim of idiotic officialism.

TROOPS WILL STAY.

Output of Coal Yesterday Said to Be the largest Since Strike Began.

Sydney, N.S., July 26.—The announcement come today from an authoritative source that the troops will remain at Glace Bay until the strike is definitely at an end. Conditions at the various collieries showed considerable improvement yesterday over those of the day before. The outcome procured was 9,502 tons, which is the largest of any day since the declaration of the strike. Quite a number of additional men have gone to work today and barring accidents it is expected to materially increase the output.

The SS. Ocean cleared last night for Montreal with a cargo of 6,976 tons of coal and 222 tons in bunkers. Other vessels took smaller cargoes. The Dominion Irion and Steel Company has purchased a couple of cargoes of coal from the Cumberland Railway & Coal Company of Springhill Mines.

It is reported that some clergymen in the strike district were negotiating for a settlement. It transpires that there have been some discussions with some of the strike leaders, but whether with a view to settlement is not definitely known. So far as the Dominion Coal Company is concerned, officials say that there is absolutely no truth in the statement that any clergymen or other persons have been discussing settlement with them.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

MAGISTRATES FINES HIMSELF.

Broke the Auto Speed Law and Ordered a Fine of $5 and Costs.

Vancouver, B. C.—July 25.—Police Magistrate Adolphus Williams sat in judgment on his own case in the Police Court, and fined himself $5 and costs for speeding his automobile. He had just disposed of the cases of two well known citizens held for speeding when his own name was called. In vain the magistrate's eye scanned the court room for another Adolphus Williams.

"Does that charge refer to me?" he asked meekly of Crown Prosecutor Kennedy.

"Yes", said Kennedy, "I think you have a right to try it yourself. It is not worth while sending to another magistrate."

The judge found that he had been going nineteen miles an hour, though the law allows only eight.

"Williams is ordered to pay $5 and costs," he said.

VICTIMS OF AGENTS.

Striking Miners Were Misled by American Agitators.

Montreal, July 27.—Half a dozen of the striking miners of the Dominion Coal Company arrived in Montreal today and they say that if they do not succeed in getting work which they can do they will return to Glace Bay and go into the mines.

Meanwhile they tell of much suffering. For some days there have been several irresponsible labor agents at Glace Bay hiring men for construction work on the Grand Trunk Pacific. The biggest contingent to be sent out consisted of about 160 men. When they arrived at La Tuque, north of Quebec, which was the distributing point they were told that they would, of course, have to walk to the various camps. This was a new feature of the experience as the farthest camp was forty miles. They were also told for the first time that they would only be paid for days when they worked and as there is always the danger of rain the outlook was not favorable. About twenty-six of the men had fairsized wads of money and they decided to return to Glace Bay and take their chances. When they got to Quebec six of them decided on seeing what they could do in Montreal. Over one hundred of the contingent referred to are now distributed in the north.

Bleriot Rescued from Friends

London, July 26.—Louis Bleriot, the Frenchman, who made history yesterday by flying across the English Channel from Les Barques to Dover, a distance of 21 miles, in the remarkable time of little less than half an hour, and his famous little monoplane both reached London this morning, the former to receive the monetary fruits of his achievement in the shape of a check for $5,000.

MOBBED BY HIS FRIENDS.

The famous aviator is finding hero worship much more trying to endure than the strain of navigating the air. Remarkable scenes were witnessed again at Dover this morning when M. Bleriot returned there to attend a civic reception in his honor. The Frenchman was mobbed by the enormous crowds and the police had to come to his protection, so eager were the enthusiasts to greet him at close quarters. A similar ovation awaited the aviatar in London, his compatriots having gathered at Victoria Station in huge numbers, and M. Bleriot must have narrowly escaped suffocation from their embraces. With the help of the police he finally succeeded in getting away and reached his hotel where he was presented with the check at a luncheon party.

"Bleriot fever" seems to have seized a large part of the populace of London. Those unable to see the flyer himself have been besieging the store where the compact little monoplane is installed in a department among other travelling requisities, the machine being so small.

It looks like a large toy rather than the practical flyer which enabled its daring manipulator to carry out his epochal feat. Numerous honors and medals are awaiting M. Bleriot on this side of the channel, the principal prize being a gold cup offered by Captain Wyndham for the first flight across the English channel. It will be presented to the French aviator at the Aeroplane Club dinner, August 9.

VINDICATES THE MONOPLANE.

London, July 16.—Aeronautical experts here regard M. Bleriot's feat as a vindication for the monoplane type of machine over the bi-plane. The Frenchman's machine carries a greater weight in proportion to its plane surface than any other type, which is considered a great advantage. Experts interviewed declare that the greater surface the bi-plane offers to the wind would have tended to make one turn turtle on encountering the aerial whirlpools off the English coast which troubled M. Bleriot so greatly.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

ANXIETY IN ENGLAND.

Insular Position No Longer Safeguard—Bleriot May Retire.

London, July 27.—The London morning newspapers publish editorials on M. Bleriot's feat. A new new point brought out is the striking appeal to the imagination of Englishmen that Great Britain's insular strength is no longer unchallenged that the aeroplane is not a toy, but a possible instrument by soldiers and statesmen, and that it was the one thing needed to awake up the English people to the importance of the science of aviation.

According to the statement made to one of the newspaper writers, M. Bleriot has practically decided to abandon aviation in the near future. He said: "I have five children, and I have promised my wife that my coming attempt at the Rheims races shall by my last flight."

Replying to a question whether it would have been possible to cross the Channel in a biplane, M. Bleriot said emphatically that it would not, because the increased surface of the planes could never have withstood such a wind as he had experienced.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

No one need risk even one single penny.

Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

No risk, no expense, nothing whatever unless health first returns, for 20 full days, and without the risk of a single penny, you can use either of my two famous remedies Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy.

Then why take any chance whatever?

Why purchase any medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

And besides, I am no stranger to you. My "No help-no pay" plan has made Dr. Shoop's Restorative a household word in the land. The whole world knows of it. We take no chance when we do this.

For twenty years Dr. Shoop's medicines have become thoroughly standardized all over America. And I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in every city and village everywhere to act as my agents and return you your money if my medicines fail to help you. These druggists are also supplied with my medicines with the understanding that they are to supply them to the sick—and the entire risk is mine alone.

But write me first for an order.

I have an agent in almost every community—but all druggists are not authorized to grant the 20 day test.

So drop me a line, please—and thus save all disappointments and delays.

Besides, you are free to consult me by letter as you would your home physician. Do so freely and fully—if you desire. My advice and the book both are yours—and without cost. Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan.

Besides, the books will open up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 20 years experience at the bedside in homes and in hospitals. All phases of ailments and self-cure told of here. They point out the inside nerve no larger than a pin's head—the real cause to the Heart its impulse. How the Stomach and Kidney each have their inside or outside nerve. How these organs surely falter when these controlling or master nerves begin to fail. How Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to these failing nerves and rebuilds, and thus quickly restores the lost tone and power. It only can help you—if it is within the power of medicine to do so. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now, while it is fresh in mind for remorse never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

GIVES BIRTH TO FIVE.

Four Were Well Formed, But All of Them Died.

New York, July 27.—Mrs. Thomas Renwick, thirty-three years old, of No. 726 Springfield avenue, Newark gave birth to five children last night in her home. Four of the tiny newcomers, two boys and two girls, were well formed, but the fifth child was undeveloped. All died within a quarter of an hour.

Dr. Peter F. Motzenbecker was in attendance, and he said Mrs. Renwick was well and none the worse for the ordeal. Mrs. Renwick's mother twice gave birth to twins. Mrs. Renwick is the mother of three other children.

TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed tenders endorsed "Tender for Walks," addressed to the Hon. J. O. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, Ontario, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, for the construction of cement walks on the grounds of the Normal School at Peterborough, will be received at this department until noon of July 30th, 1909.

An accepted bank cheque payable to the order of the Honorable the Provincial Treasurer for $100.00, and the bona fide signatures and addresses of two sureties or the name of a guarantee company approved of by this department, prepared to give a bond for the due fulfillment of the contract must accompany each tender. C ues will become forfeit to the Crow in the event of the successful tenderer refusing to carry out the work within ten days after the acceptance.

The Department will not be bound to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
H. F. McNAUGHTON.
Secretary Public Works, Ontario.

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles

By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 36 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

PELEE ISLAND GRAPES.

Wine Industry Promises to Be a Big One on Lake Erie Shore.

One interesting portion of Ontario Province is Pelee Island, lying in the western part of Lake Erie, and which, owing to its southerly position, has a climate highly suitable for the growing of grapes. It is sometimes termed the vineyard of Canada, and since 1866 grapes have been grown and wine made in this favorably situated island. The Vin Villa Co., of Pelee Island, were the pioneers of the native wine industry in Canada, and their work is being continued by the Pelee Island Wine and Vineyard Co., whose yearly demands for grapes run from 75 to 100 tons. In some other districts of Ontario Province, Sandwich, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, etc., and also Quebec Province, wine making is carried on, and the volume of home consumption is by no means inconsiderable. In view, however, of the climatic conditions which prevail in Canada, and the circumscribed area in which grapes can be grown, it is questionable whether the native wine industry will ever attain to such dimensions as in Australia or even the Cape Colony, to say nothing of the vineyard state of California, U.S.A. There is a place for Canadian wines, of that there cannot be the slightest doubt, both at home and, as has already been pointed out, in the West Indies, but they should be sold as products of Canada, and not masquerade under the names of French, Spanish or Portuguese wines, with which they have no connection whatever. Canadian wines labelled as such will be judged upon their merits, but even consumers who do not rank as connoisseurs will hardly be deceived if they pretend to be something else Care and systematic attention to all the processes of manufacture—that of fermentation in particular—will be necessary to an even greater extent than heretofore if the industry is to undergo any material expansion. There is no earthly reason why these desiderata should not be forthcoming.—Standard of Empire.

DIFFERENCE IN CANADA.

English Paper Warns Delegates to Congress of the Hardships.

In connection with the number of English women going to Canada for the meetings in Toronto of the International Council of Women, one of the London ladies' papers had a most sensible and useful article recently on the little differences between England and Canada, which the visitor for the first time might find pitfalls The writer, speaking in the highest terms of the ability, charm, and smartness in dress of the Canadians, reminded her readers that personal attention is something not only expensive in Canada, but hard to get at any price. She warned her readers not to ring bells constantly for a maid to perform various offices, and to remember that Canadian ladies generally cleaned their own shoes, did without early cups of tea in bed, and generally managed without much waiting on. All this seems odd to English women in a country where service is cheap and excellent. For a lady to clean her own shoes is unheard of. The writer of the article hastened to explain, however, that Canadians generally used a dressing in a bottle, which does not seem so dreadful as a brush and a box of blacking She told the would-be travelers that the established custom of leaving boots at the door to be cleaned was not understood in Canada, and some of us have heard of the host creeping down late at night to polish the boots, himself, which have been left innocently outside the guest's door.

HOUSEWIFE HINTS.

Squeeze a few drops of lemon in the water in which potatoes are boiled, just before they are done, and they will not turn black.

If soda is mixed with flour in making ginger cookies with sour milk instead of being dissolved in milk, as is the usual way, they will be lighter.

To keep milk toast from being soggy, as it too frequently is, try serving the boiling hot, buttered milk in a covered pitcher, passing it with crisp, hot toast. In this way each person can have toast as soft or as crisp as desired.

A delicate flavor to homemade ice cream is imparted by dissolving a teaspoonful of arrowroot in a cup of cold milk, adding it to the cream. Beet juice is excellent for coloring sherbets or cream, and the vegetable flavor is not detected.

Good steel knives are better when sharpened at intervals by a professional. Often arrangements can be made with the butcher to take all knives in the house and include them with his knives for sharpening. This is especially convenient in the suburbs, where stores are hard to reach and where the butcher's cart is a frequent visitor.

Light carpets can be cleaned with a mixture of coarse salt and light cornmeal. Put the mixture on plentifully and scrub in the usual manner with a clean, dry scrubbing brush. Afterward sweep the carpet clean and use the carpet sweeper to collect the dust. Magnesia will clean soiled spots on rugs or carpets, and often a badly blemished mark can be removed if washed with the suds from naphtha soap and then rubbed dry with a clean cloth. Naphtha soap is excellent for cleaning colored rugs if the soap is not too liberally used. It does not fade tints, but tends to brighten them.

She Makes Allowances.

The woman whom everybody likes is tolerant and broad minded. She always sees the best side of everybody. She is above reproach herself, but she is the first to make allowances for those who have wandered off the path and to hold out a helping hand of friendship to them. She pities where others blame.

She "stands up" for her friends—and her enemies, too, if she should happen to have any.

And she is thoroughly good natured. She can admire other people's beauty, accomplishments, successes, wholeheartedly. There is nothing envious or mean or petty or small about her. Her philosophy is a bright, stimulating, everyday one. She sees things as they are, takes them as they come and makes the best of them.

Courteous Cabby.

A pompous looking lawyer once chartered a hansom cab, and on reaching his destination he only gave his driver the shilling required by law.

The driver looked at the coin and bit his lip. Then in the most courteous manner he motioned to his fare to get in again.

"Do step in again, sir," he said. "I could ha' drove ye a yard or two further for this 'ere."

Looking Forward.

"Johnny," said Mr. Biggems, "I want you to study hard and learn all you possibly can."

"Did you do that?"

"No, my son, I did not. But I want you to escape the trouble my inattention has caused me. When you grow up and have a son I don't want you to be humiliated by being unable to answer your boy's questions."

CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act in England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert, especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature creche while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, line it with hay and use it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel Islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown in the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constable. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerately left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kind-hearted Sark women, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.—Strand Magazine.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes a special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he settles down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare Indian specimens but little known in the old country at the present time.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The remarkable sneezewood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planking it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes the wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

TRANSFORMATION OF SEOUL.

Japanese Turning Corean Capital Into a Modern City.

In writing about what the Japanese are doing in Corea, Frank G. Carpenter says: They have taken the hermit kingdom by the neck and are shaking its dry bones into action. They are establishing courts, abolishing squeezing and reorganizing the finances. They propose to build roads, to reforest the mountains, to open the mines and to turn this half-barren country into a garden. All those things are in their beginnings, but a start has been made and signs of progress are everywhere to be seen.

The capital, Seoul, is fast becoming a new city. When I came here twenty years ago the trip from the seaport, Chemulpo, took over 12 hours, and I had to have a pony and eight men to bring myself and wife to the walls. I rode the pony and the madam came in a chair, borne on the shoulders of four coolies, with a relay of four others to help them. Toward the end of the journey we had to push on for fear we might not get to Seoul before the gates closed. The city is surrounded by a massive wall nine miles in length and 30 feet high. At that time this wall was entered only by gates, and these were closed at night by heavy doors plated with iron, which were not opened again until the next day. We got in just in time to see the gates close. There was no hotel, and we had to be met by the soldiers of our legation, and were quartered there during our stay.

The city still has its walls, but the gates now stand open day and night, and an electric street car line runs through two of them and on out into the country. An electric light globe prevents the closing of the one which we entered, and another gate has proved too small to accommodate the traffic and has been cut out by the Japanese, wide roads being made through the walls on each side. The gate itself, which is a temple-like structure with a double roof of heavy tiles, has been faced with stone; and it is now proposed to put a commercial museum in the soldiers' guard-room above it. In that old gate all the industries of the new Corea will be shown side by side with those of other nations, and the people will thus be taught the various methods of manufacture and sale.

"All the Winners!"

One gets so accustomed to accepting things as they come that very few of us, when we take up our favorite paper at the breakfast-table, think anything of the number of papers published daily in the world, or of the many singular languages in which some of them are printed. The Imperial Press Conference, which is now being held in London, calls to mind some remarkable newspaper facts.

The entire number of newspapers printed all over the world is somewhere between 5,500 and 6,000, to which America contributes 1,500, Germany 900, and Great Britain 250. In Persia they have six periodicals, and Austria possesses news-sheets printed in no fewer than ten different languages—German, Italian, French Hungarian, Greek, Latin, Polish, Servian, Slavic, and Hebrew to be precise. The "Kecuimo Bulletin," published in the Arctic circle, is an Alaskan paper that appears once a year. It is very "newsy."

China, despite its vast population, boasts only two dozen "dailies," but among these is the oldest paper in the world. This is the "Tsing-Pao," or "Pekin News," which was started 900 years before the Norman Conquest, and is now more than 1,300 years old. They are careful on the "Tsing-Pao." In former days, an error in printing was punished with instant death.

Ocean Cables.

The diameter of the Atlantic cable varies according to the depth of the water, the character of the bottom on which it lies and the probabilities of interference from anchors. It is smallest in midocean depths. There is little or no movement at the bottom, and it is important that the cable should not have great weight. A heavy cable in deep water would be difficult to bring up for repairs if such were needed. In the shallower water a heavier type of cable is used. The types are known as "shore end," "intermediate," and "deep sea." The diameters of the commercial cables are: Shore end, two and three-quarter inches; intermediate, one and three-quarter inches; deep sea, one inch.

Kicking Kindness Into Him.

The benevolent old gentleman got busy when he saw four boys, eight or nine years of age, attack one boy of about the same age.

"You mustn't, you mustn't," he said when he had hauled them off, "attack your little companion this way. What has he done to deserve such harsh treatment?"

The four boys glowered sullenly while the one boy whimpered as he thought what would happen to him when the benevolent gentleman went on his way.

"Well," said one of the four at last, "he won't join the Band of Kindness our teacher wants to get up in school!"

Weeds.

Weeds if they are pulled out of a lawn at a time when they are full of seed will evince a degree of care for the seeds which is almost touching. They will curl their leaves upward as far as each can go to cover the seeds and protect them from the sun till the end, and often one will find weeds that are quite dead, sun killed, whose leaves still are wrapped firmly around the seed pods. No mother could show more striking devotion in death than do these plants.

Returned the Greeting.

A regiment of soldiers were at camp, and a young Scottish recruit was put on sentry outside the general's tent. In the morning the general rose, looked out of his tent and said to the young man in a stern and loud voice, "Who are you?"

The young man turned around smartly and said, "Fine; how's yersel'?"—London Tit-Bits.

Staterooms and Portholes.

An experienced traveler warns the uninitiated against paying from $6 to $10 extra for an outside stateroom on ocean liners. The inside rooms she has found to be perfectly comfortable and perfectly ventilated, and the portholes in the outside ones she considers a doubtful advantage. "They always leaked," she says, "most of the time unless the weather is very pleasant, and even in calm weather they sometimes ship a deluge of salt water. Dirty water, too, swept from a deck above by the cleaners, may pour into a porthole of a room below and the noise from the deck is an annoying." Why then should one pay extra for a porthole?"

SOME STATISTICS.

Startling Facts About the Growth of the Dominion.

Statistics are often dry reading, writes an Ottawa correspondent, but a special grain report just issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce is so illustrative of the growth of the golden West, that a few minutes may well be spared to give thought to the figures which it contains.

Take the great item of wheat, for instance. In 1900, the total wheat production in all Canada was 47,867,017 bushels, of which only 17,000,000 was grown west of the Great Lakes. Last year, Canada's production of wheat reached a total of 126,795,137 bushels, of which 105,613,454 were grown in the western provinces. The acreage under crop in 1900 was 1,870,280, but in 1908 it had risen to 6,813,220. The greatest development has taken place in Saskatchewan. There in 1905 the crop acreage under wheat was only 1,130,084; last year it was 3,703,563 acres.

Saskatchewan is rapidly beating Manitoba as the granary of the West. Three years ago Manitoba produced 55,761,416 bushels of wheat as against 36,107,386 in Saskatchewan; but last year Saskatchewan produced 50,654,629 bushels as compared with 49,654,829 by Manitoba.

And while "wheat is king," the development of the West is shown by the figures that, whereas in 1900 the total production of oats in all Canada was 108,015,481 bushels, last year the West alone grew 106,940,978 bushels, while the total for all Canada was 254,615,670 bushels. In barley, also, the West is rapidly outstripping the East. In 1900 all Canada produced 20,322,666 bushels of barley, last year the West alone produced 23,636,546 bushels out of a total of 47,342,130 bushels.

Another significant illustration of the development of the West is the fact that while in 1900 there were 523 elevators with a capacity of 18,879 bushels, last year there were 1,354, with a capacity of 58,535,700 bushels.

One more striking fact, and this attempt to make a batch of figures interesting will be done. This is that the growth of the grain fields of the West has also meant an increase in Canadian shipping. In 1905 the amount brought east by Canadian vessels from Port Arthur and Fort William was 34,634,671 bushels; last year it was 48,309,104. In the same period the increase carried by United States vessels amounted only to a little over two million bushels.

The Mining Man and His Wad.

These practical mining men have some curious experiences at times during their jaunts about the north country. Mr. G. W. Raynor, of the Macdonald-Raynor mines, was coming down the Montreal river recently, north of Gowganda, in a canoe with one companion, when they ran on a submerged tree and upset. The bow man could not swim but managed to get hold of the overturned canoe and climbed on top. Raynor got hold of one end, and, swimming on his back, succeeded in towing the whole outfit to the bank. The axe and frying pan and several other valuable articles were lost, however, including a roll of bills, secured with an elastic band, which floated away during his squirming in the water.

They spread out the blankets to dry in the sun, and, having wrung the water out of their outer garments, were running up and down the landscape to dry the rest of them. Raynor was 100 yards down the stream, keeping an eye out for anything which might have floated, when he espied his roll of bills clinging by a slender hold to a branch of cedar a few yards out from the shore.

Mr. Raynor was in the city for a few days while the races were on; he remarks philosophically that not every fifty dollars lost in these parts during the last two weeks were so easily regained.

Westerners Buy Autos.

More than 300 automobiles, representing approximately $450,000, have been sold and delivered by local garages this season in the prairie provinces—the most phenomenal spring trade growth that the motor-propelled vehicle has met with in Western Canada. Cars of all makes, powers, and varieties are flooding the market. It has been the most prosperous season in the history of the trade, and agents are not meeting half as much difficulty in selling cars as they are in securing an adequate supply from the various factories. That the proverbial animosity toward the motor of those who engage in agricultural pursuits is a dead letter is evidenced by the fact that this spring more than twenty five cars have been shipped out of Winnipeg to various Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers.

Lady Grey's Adventure.

An amusing occurrence in connection with Countess Grey's trip to these parts last week has just come to light.

The countess was traveling to Grimsby in an automobile, and saw some wild flowers on the side of the road. She requested her chauffeur to dig up a root, and as he was doing so the owner of the property came out and began to abuse her excellency.

Mrs. J. B. Hendrie, who was accompanying the countess, wanted to explain matters, but she would not permit her. The property owner insisted that the flowers be put back, on pain of arrest for trespassing and stealing. The farmer accused the countess of being a Yankee tourist.

An Elderly High Wire Artist.

Caledon East correspondent of Bolton Enterprise: An old man apparently over 70 years of age struck this town last Saturday evening and gave an exhibition of his skill on the slack wire. His appearance on his arrival was rather against him, as he was a perfect guy. His beard, which reached down to his middle, was like "Joseph's coat" of many colors. On each side of his face hung down long, bushy locks of hair. However, his performance on the wire was creditable to one of his years, and he was rewarded by the crowd with many nickels and dimes.

Three Dates Carved on Turtle.

Teeswater, July 24.—The News says: Away back in the summer of 1890, as a bunch of 8th concession school boys were playing on the banks of the Teeswater River, near where it crosses the road, they captured a large mudturtle, that is one with a shell about a foot square. Among the boys was Mr. Mat. Scott, now of Revelstoke, B. C. Scott wished to make a record of the incident and with a pocket knife carved in the shell of the turtle his initials and the date—1890. The reptile was then given its liberty and was not again heard of for ten years. In the summer of 1900 it fell into the hands of Mr. Walter Pinnell who, reading the record of its previous capture, carved on the back of the turtle his initials and the date. These facts were recalled a couple of weeks ago— nineteen years after it first made its acquaintance and nine years after its second adventure—when Mr. Thomas Elliott was the capturer of this old denizen of the river. He very naturally followed the example of Scott and Pinnell and added his initials. The fact that each time, the turtle was caught within a comparatively short reach of the river, would indicate that these creatures live their lonely and sleepy lives within a very limited area. If this one lives out the two hundred years which is said to be the life of a turtle, it may yet be carrying on its back a lengthy history.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally indoses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

MILES OF SALMON.

Long-expected Run on Pacific Has Has Commenced.

Victoria, B. C., July 27.—Three miles of sockeyes passed into the Straits this morning, and the island traps are being well filled. The belated run for which fishermen have been anxiously waiting for sixteen days is now on in earnest. Half an hour after one of the outer traps, the Todd trap, at Coal Creek, was lifted this morning, the crew reported that 10,000 sockeyes had entered the trap and tomorrow's lifts are expected to run high in the thousands. When the tugs arrived this afternoon the fishermen reported that the Straits were thick with fish and the traps were being heavily loaded.

SHOT NEIGHBOR.

Woman Uses Pistol too Freely at Shannonville.

Belleville, July 27.—A shooting affray occurred last evening in the village of Shannonville, a few miles from this city, which fortunately, was not of a very serious nature. It appears that Mrs. William Ryan, of Shannonville, called at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Dean, a neighbor, and it is alleged, without saying a word, fired a shot at her from a revolver. The bullet penetrated Mrs. Dean's right hand, making a rather ugly wound. Today a preliminary investigation of the affair was held, with the result that the accused was committed for trial at the December Sessions. Mrs. Ryan was subsequently liberated on bail.

DEATH PREVENTS A SUICIDE.

Heart Disease Kills Veteran as He is Adjusting Noose.

Philadelphia, July 27.—Death prevented John P. Rodel, sixty-seven years old, a veteran of the Civil War from committing suicide today. After climbing on a barrel, trying a noose about his neck and attaching the other end of the rope to a spike in the wall he was stricken with heart disease.

His son found the barrel, with the noose hanging loosely about the neck. No marks of strangulation were apparent, and the investigation of the coroner's deputy showed that death had resulted from natural causes. Rodel was a member of the 28 Pennsylvania Volunteers, and for years had suffered from a complication of diseases.

Painters' Outing.

One of the chief features of the Master House Painters and Decorators convention this week from a social standpoint, is the trip over the lift lock and up the canal and lakes to Mr. Jas. Acton's cottage. The Painters will be the guests of Mr. Acton at luncheon and afterward will have a trip around the lake and return to the city in time for the band concert in the evening.

VEGETABLES

When you want nice fresh vegetables we can supply you. Our goods arrive twice daily from the growers. Call us up Bell Phone 276— S. A. Otis, 340 George Street, successor to Kennedy.

Band Concert Tonight.

In honor of the visit of the Master Painters here, Mr. Gliddon, bandmaster of the 57th Regimental Band has decided to give a selected program at Victoria Park tonight. The band will play from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mr. Gliddon is making a selection of the numbers and the program will be an interesting one. Mr. W. McIlroy will sing "Love's Old Sweet Song," with band accompaniment.

Rev. Mr. Wilson.

On Sunday morning Stony cottagers had the pleasure of listening to an extremely interesting address by Rev. F. J. Wilson, B.A., of Hamilton, of St. Paul's church, Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carey, at Eagle Mount. Vocal solos were given by Mr. Vansant of Toronto. Kawartha Tourist.

BIG CATCHES.

Of Lunge Reported from the Upper Buckhorn Resort.

Some big catches of both lunge and bass are reported from "Islands," the popular resort of Upper Buckhorn Lake. There is a large registration of New York and Pittsburg fishermen at "Islands," and they are getting their limit of fish every day.

Mr. Wm. Moore, of New York, had an exciting time with a 22-pound lunge the other day, and it took him over an hour to land it. Mr. Moore was bass fishing with an 8-oz. steelrod when the lunge made connections, and it was only after a very trying struggle that the big one was overcome and hauled into the boat. The fish measured 46 inches.—Kawartha Tourist.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite goes away, color bleaches, spirits sink.

Don't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and quite weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Pleasantville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can thus say for a good system medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden. The working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose head aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer excessively from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, pressing down pains, sharp cutting pains stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints void of appetite, and loss of sleep mark the frame. Cure the kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Dandelion Pills, which have cured thousands, 25c at all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

PERSONAL

Mr. A. L. Scott of Messina, N.Y. is home on a ten-days' visit.

Miss Edna Archer of Campbellford, is the guest of friends in the city.

Miss M. A. Watt has returned to her home after an extended visit to Vancouver and the Seattle Exposition.

Mr. Lillie of the office staff of the Quaker Oats Co., is spending a holiday at his home in Norwood.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gently stimulate the liver and bowels to expel poisonous matter, cleanse the system, cure constipation and sick headache.

Miss M. Caulley of Oswego, N.Y., is in the city, the guest of her cousins, the Misses Kelly, 374 Downie street.

Mrs. W. McIntosh and her son and daughter, of Hamilton, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Huston, 54 Sherbrooke street.

Mrs. R. Hicks leaves this morning to spend a couple of days with friends at Stony Lake.

Mr. Leo Borradaile of The Times staff, leaves today for Gore's Landing, where he will spend a week's vacation.

Mrs. T. H. Mather of Syracuse, N.Y., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Layfield, 580 Charlotte street.

Mr. W. C. Morris of the Cereal Co. staff, accompanied by his daughter, Kate, of the T. Eaton staff, Toronto, has gone west to visit his son and daughter in Alta., also a married daughter in British Columbia.

Miss Minnie Huston, of the J. C. Turnbull staff, with Miss Moore and Mrs. C. Best and daughter, Brock street, are holidaying at Old Orchard, Main and Boston.

Rev. R. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church, accompanied by his family leave this morning to spend a month holidaying at Nottawasaga Beach, Georgian Bay.

Miss Rosamond Mulholland left yesterday morning for St. Catharines, where she will join her aunt and start on a holiday trip embracing Buffalo and Detroit and returning, will enjoy a sail on the St. Lawrence.

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure.

Mr. W. Hatfield, eastern representative of the National Laundry Journal of Chicago, is spending a day or two in the city. Mr. Hatfield gave The Times a call and stated that the laundry trade was booming. He will leave for Toronto in the morning to attend a meeting of the Laundrymen's Association of the Queen City

Among the Peterborough people visiting the Kawartha Lakes according to the Kawartha Tourist are:—Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, at Hotel Kawartha, Fenelon Falls; W. H. Rackham and Geo. D. Edwards, at Islands; Chris Moffatt, at Burleigh Falls; G. N. Gordon and Mrs Gordon at Burleigh Falls.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY.

Unanimous Call to Rev. Donald Currie of Hillsdale.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met yesterday in St. Paul's church. A report will be made at the next meeting on the affairs of the Mill street church, Port Hope.

A unanimous call for Omemee and associated stations was presented by Rev. R. Pogue in favor of Rev Donald Currie of Hillsdale, in Barrie Presbytery. The call was signed by 146 members and 25 adherents, and accompanied by a guarantee of stipend of $1,000 and manse. The call was sustained and the clerk was instructed to transmit it with relative documents to the clerk of Barrie Presbytery. Provisional arrangements were made for the induction of Mr. Currie at Omemee. Rev. Mr. Skene, moderator to preside. Rev. R. Pogue to preach, and narrate the steps towards the call. Rev. Mr. Keith will address the minister and Rev. Mr. Johnson the people. Rev. Mr. Pogue and Mr. Lamb were appointed to support the call before the Presbytery of Barrie.

Other minor matters were taken up.

Letter to The Editor

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—In regard to the letter of "Citizen" which appeared in The Times this morning, he does not point out what he would have done to pay the amounts that have been expended on street extensions and filling in the water front. If the bylaw is not passed the money will have to be raised on the rates, and over 2½ mills, will be needed to do it. Would that be wise? If it would then "Citizen" is right; if not, the bylaw should be carried.

Yours truly,
HARRY PHELAN.

His Honor Judge Huycke Sworn in as the County Court Judge

And Local Judge of the High Court of Justice of Canada—Address of Welcome Extended by Several Representative Citizens —His Honor's Reply

His Honor, Judge E. A. S. Huycke, the new judge of the County Court, and local judge of the High Court of Justice of Canada, was duly sworn into his new office last night by Registrar Bernard Morrow, and in the presence of the majority of members of the Law Association and many representative citizens.

Judge Huycke and Mrs. Huycke arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and they were accompanied to the court house last night by Judge Rogers and Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C. The ceremony took place in the County Council chamber, and was presided over by Mr. Louis M. Hayes, K.C., president of the Law Association.

The oath of office was administered by Registrar Morrow, and addresses of welcome were made by several of those present. The occasion, while of a quiet nature, was very interesting and greatly enjoyed.

The members of the bar present were:—Messrs. L. M. Hayes, K.C., D. W. Dumble, K.C., Geo. Edmison, K.C., W. H. Moore, K.C., E. A. Peck, F. D. Kerr, A. P. Poussette, K.C., S. T. Medd, W. J. Johnston, R. F. McWilliams, W. S. Davidson, Geo. H. Hatton, B. D. Hall, R. H. Hall, Judge G. M. Rogers, G. N. Gordon, R. W. Ruddy, John Green, G. W. Bennett.

Mayor Rush, City Clerk Armstrong, Ald. Morgan, County Clerk Elliott, Ald. Gillespie, Robtf Fair, Sheriff Hall, Ald. Turner, School Inspector Brown, E. S. Clarry, J. H. Burnham, R. Winch, and C. A. Culverwell of Cobourg.

Ed. A. S. Huycke, Esq., of Cobourg, was duly sworn in as judge of the County Court of Peterborough. The commission was read by Mr. Louis M. Hayes, K.C., president of the Peterborough Law Association. A second commision was also read by Mr. Hayes, K.C., appointing Mr. Huycke local judge of the High Court of Justice of the County of Peterborough.

The oath of office was given by County Registrar Bernard Horrow, while all stood in silence.

MR. HAYES' ADDRESS.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., on behalf of the Law Association, extended a warm welcome to his Honor Judge Huycke, who he characterized as an able practioner, and he hoped that the cordial feeling would continue between the bench and the bar.

D. W. DUMBLE'S ADDRESS.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., addressed the new judge and in opening up he paid a warm tribute to the late Judge Weller, who was beloved by every member of the bar, and by all the people of the county. He set a high standard for the judges of the Province.

Having in view that standard Mr. Dumble said that they were congratulating themselves upon the able and high standard of the man appointed to fill the position vacated by the death of the late judge. He hoped that the same fellowship of the past would continue with the new judge. He welcomed the judge, the kindly greeting and welcome of the Law Society, and of the people.

He also extended the same welcome to Mrs. Huycke.

CITY'S WELCOME.

His Worship Mayor Rush on behalf of the citizens, extended to his Honor Judge Huycke and Mrs. Huycke a warm welcome.

Sheriff Hall on behalf of the officials of Peterborough, extended their welcome to the new judge, and expressed the opinion that he would well and fittingly fill the position of the late judge.

County Clerk E. M. Elliott on behalf of the county extended the welcome of the county to Judge Huycke.

HIS HONOR'S REPLY

Judge Huycke addressed those present. He thanked all from the bottom of his heart for the splendid welcome extended to him. He thanked them most heartily for the many warm words both written and spoken of and to him. He was glad he was so well thought of here already. He said he was a resident of Cobourg for many years, and was leaving many warm friends there. He paid a tribute to Mr. Dumble.

His honor said he would do all in his power to discharge the duties of his office to the very best of his ability. He asked for the assistance of the members of the bar and he said that it would not be his fault if the kindly relationship between the bench and the bar did not continue.

His honor then thanked the individual speakers for their kind words. He came to be a citizen of Peterborough and of the County of Peterborough, and anything which was for the uplift of the people of the city and county would find him a warm supporter, so far as his position of judge would allow.

At the conclusion of his honor's reply, all present were formally presented to Judge and Mrs. Huycke.

Master Painters and Decorators Wind Up the Convention Business

The sixth annual convention of the Master House Painters and Decorators, was concluded yesterday afternoon by a very appropriate address by Retiring President Booth of London, which followed the election of officers and the passage of serval votes of thanks. The convention has been a most successful and satisfactory one. It was largely attended although this is a hard time of the year for painters to get away from their work.

Mr. Fred Cook of the city, was elected vice-president, and Ald. Geo. H. Duncan was appointed one of the representatives to the International convention.

MORNING SESSION.

One of the finest addresses of the convention was enjoyed in the morning. Prof. Nelson, taking the subject "Tinting in Water Color and Relief Work," dealt with it in a comprehensive manner, and by illustrating his points in an entertaining and thorough manner the address proved to be one of the most profitable so far delivered.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

President Booth occupied the chair and called the meeting to order.

The first thing on the program were the practical oil tests by Mr. A. M. McKenzie of Hamilton and Mr. John Dewer of Pittsburg, gave an excellent talk on legislation. These two items took up the greater part of the afternoon.

There was a discussion on the place for meeting next year. Invitations were received from Niagara Falls, Ottawa and Montreal. The matter was left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

President—Benj. Goodfellow, Galt.
Vice-President—Fred Cook, Peterborough.
Sec.-Treas.—A. W. McKenzie, Hamilton.
Executive—Messrs. Hughes, Toronto; Weathaway, Tilsonburg; Stamp, Hamilton; Delaney, Niagara Falls; Morley, Winnipeg.
Representative on the International Executive Committee—Linington, Toronto.
Scrutineers—Wall, Faireloth, and Dewar.
Organization Committee — J. J. O'Hearn, Toronto; Linington, Toronto; Faireloth, Phinemore, Toronto; McKenzie and Metcalfe, Hamilton.
Representatives to International Committee—Messrs. Morley, Winnipeg; Goldsmith, Toronto; and Duncan, Peterborough.

On behalf of the Peterborough Association, Mr. Fred Cook made a presentation to Mr. J. Hohs, Toronto, for his indefatable work in the form of a signet ring.

Mr. Hohns in a few well chosen words made a fitting reply and stated he would be only too glad to do anything he could for either the local or international associations.

A vote of thanks was passed to Fire Chief Howard and men, and Ald. Geo. Duncan for the demonstration given in the afternoon.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the American visitors, the local press, the trade journals, the Peterborough Association, Barry Bros., of Walkerville, International Varnish Co., of Toronto, and Mr. Jas. Acton of the Acton Publishing Co., Toronto, for their part in the convention.

The meeting was then adjourned by Past President Booth, and the singing of God Save the King.

RECTOR RESIGNED.

Rev. W. J. Carrie of Lakefield Enters New Field of Labor, New Pastors.

Lakefield, July 27th.—Rev. W. J. Creighton, who has been rector of St. John's Baptist church for the past two and a half years, has resigned his charge and leaves at the end of the month to act as assistant to Rev. W. J. Hart, rector of St. Mary's church, Dovercourt, Toronto. During his incumbency Mr. Creighton has been very popular amongst his parishioners and members of the other denominations in the village, and there will be general regret at his departure from Lakefield to take up his new work.

After service on Sunday evening the members of the choir adjourned to the vestry and presented Mr. Creighton with a silk umbrella and the following address:—

Dear Mr. Creighton,—On this the last occasion on which we shall have the pleasure of meeting you as our pastor, we feel that we cannot allow it to pass without evincing in a tangible form, slight though it be, our appreciation of the work which you have accomplished and of the kindly words and actions which have rendered your presence so generally acceptable during your short stay in Lakefield.

Rest assured that in accepting this small token of our regard you take also, with it our best wishes for a prosperous and happy future. We shall remember you always with affection as a kind counsellor and faithful friend.

Signed on behalf of the choir.

K. S. ATWOOD,
O. A. LANGLEY.

Defence Conference Private

Opening of Discussion at London That May Mean Much to the Empire

London, July 28.—After the close of the Imperial Defence Conference's sitting today, it was officially announced that the conference had decided to regard its proceedings as strictly private.

London, July 28.—The Imperial Defence Conference opens today. Mr. Asquith will address the delegates. The Earl of Crewe will preside, and Messrs. McKenna and Haldane will be present. It is expected the conference will last a fortnight. The sittings will be in private.

The principal subjects for discussion are:

Method of local naval defence.
Defence of the trade routes.
Coordination of military training and equipment.
An Imperial headquarters staff.

The Daily Graphic says a united large workable plan adequate to all the needs of the Empire, "will have the effect of convincing those who threaten us of the hopelessness of the enterprize on which they have embarked."

The Mail says: It is the duty of the conference to direct the patriotic sacrifices of the oversea States to practical ends. The scheme that will be discussed involves one novelty, the importance of which would be immediately acknowledged in the creation of a naval force in which the colonies would be the partners of Britain for the protection of the trade routes.

CABLE RATE REDUCTION.

London, July 27. The British, Indian, and Australian governments having agreed to bear their rateable shre in a reduction, tariffs for press telegrams via the Eastern and Indo routes will be reduced from August 1 as follows: India, Burma, Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand, 6d. a word, Ceylon, 9½d a word.

If the German people could only boast of military supremacy or leadership, the outlook though disquieting might not be without encouraging symptoms. But German efficiency in science and manufactures has reached such a pitch that all nations may well be aware of the purposes of so great and carefully trained a people. The comparison between Great Britain and Germany in these respects it must be candidly admitted, says the Stratford Herald, results to the advantage of Germany and Britain's only hope in the long run is to solve the problem of educating and fitting her people for useful lines and eliminating somewhat as the Germans have done, the idler, the non-producer and the vagrant. One of the greatest of recent tributes to Germany which we have seen is the following by the New York Sun's London correspondent:

"The Berlin press publishes statistics to show that Germany is the best educated country in Europe. Germany not only leads with the greatest number of school children, 9,750,000, but also spends the largest amount of money for school purposes, $130,000,000. Her percentage of illiteracy, one-twentieth of one per cent. is the lowest in Europe.

"More than half the recruits for continental conscript armies can neither read nor write. In Bulgaria the percentage of illiteracy among recruits is 52, in Servia and Russia 62, in Portugal and Spain 70, and in Roumania 75."

Flew for One Hour and 23 Minutes

FLEW FOR 1 HOUR, 23 MINUTES

Chalon, Sur Marne, France, July 28.—M. Sommer made an aeroplane flight here yesterday of 1 hour 23 minutes 3 seconds.

WEPT LIKE A CHILD.

Calais, July 28. — M. Levavasseur the constructor of Latham's monoplane, on hearing of Latham's failure yesterday, gave way to uncontrollable disappointment and wept like a child!

ZEPPELIN GOES FOR A FLY.

Friederichsafen, July 28.—Count Zeppelin yesterday personally steered his airship Zeppelin II. for the first trip since his accident. The airship remained up for three hours. Representatives of the War Office were on board. It is expected that Zeppelin el. will proceed to the Frankfort Exposition on Saturday. From there it will go to Cologne, where it will be stationed in the military hall.

ANXIETY IN ENGLAND.

Insular Position No Longer Safeguard—Blleriot May Retire.

London, July 27.—The London morning newspapers publish editorials on M. Bleriot's feat. A new new point brought out is the striking appeal to the imagination of Englishmen that Great Britain's insular strength is no longer unchallenged that the aeroplane is not a toy, but a possible instrument by soldiers and statesmen, and that it was the one thing needed to awake up the English people to the importance of the science of aviation.

According to the statement made to one of the newspaper writers, M. Bleriot has practically decided to abandon aviation in the near future. He said: "I have five children, and I have promised my wife that my coming attempt at the Rheims races shall by my last flight."

Replying to a question whether it would have been possible to cross the Channel in a biplane, M. Bleriot said emphatically that it would not, because the increased surface of the planes could never have withstood such a wind as he had experienced.

TRAINING SHIP LOST.

Mexican Government Fears Ship was Lost in Galveston Storm.

San Antonio, Tex., July 29—Private advices received here say that the Mexican government fears that the sloop Yucatan was lost in the Gulf storm which swept Galveston last week. The sloop was a training ship manned by instructors and cadets from the Mexican National Naval School.

It was out on a practice cruise and had spent several days in the bay at Galveston. Shortly before the storm the sloop sailed for Key West, and so far nothing has been heard from the boat, although it is many days overdue at Key West. The sloop was under the command of Lieutenant Major Rafael Pereyea and the crew consisted of ten graduate students and twenty-five of the lower class.

Mrs. M. Carleton of Toronto, is spending a few days in the city.

Revolution Threatens Spain—Martial Law is in Force Everywhere

(Special to The Times.)

Madrid, July 28. King Alfonso this afternoon issued a decree proclaiming martial law and the suspension of constitutional guarantee throughout Spain.

San Sebastian, July 28. Conde de Allendez, the Spanish Foreign Minister, who accompanied King Alfonso, when his majesty left this city for Madrid today, said the situation in Morocco was improving, but the events in Catalonia were extremely grave. The minister added that troops from Valencia, Saragossa, Lerida, and Pamplon had been despatched to restore order in that Province.

The Principals in Sutton Mystery

Sutton was faund dead with a bullet in his head on the night of Oct. 13, 1907, at Annapolis.

He had been on an auto ride with Adams and Osterman. Both said that in their judgment Sutton had killed himself, though the bullet wound was at the top of the skull.

Now Adams and E. A. Osterman have been brought back from the Philippines, Adams faces court-martial and a criminal court charge of murder.

Miss Stewart is the young lady who has been summering at the Muskoka Lakes, and who the authorities are trying to persuade to return as it is thought that she may be able to throw some light on the mystery.

More Dynamite Used, Not a Person Injured

Glace Bay, July 28.—Last night about 11 o'clock a quantity of powder was exploded in a shack at Reserve. The shack was not much damaged, but caught fire. The fire was soon extinguished by the company's police. There were ten men asleep in the shack at the time.

About 2 o'clock this morning some robutite was exploded at a house at the Gardner mine, occupied by Angus McNeill, brother of Manager Alexander McNeil of Bridgenorth, and James Strangat, who is Mr. McNeil's brother-in-law. The shingles and rough boarding of the house were torn off for a space of about six feet long by the force of the explosion, but no other damage was done. When the explosion occurred the occupants of the house rushed to the door and saw a young man running away from the scene, who succeeded in getting away in the darkness. Mr. McNeil is a member of the P.W.A., and has been working right along. He was also one of the men who were stoned by strikers while being driven to work yesterday morning. Peter McPherson, one of the stone-throwers, was arrested.

The authorities have offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the person who caused the explosion of the house occupied by Manager Simpson of the Emery colliery No. 20 yesterday morning.

COUNCIL MEETING.

To Consider Fire Protection for Lumber Co., Tonight.

An important meeting of the City Council is called for tomorrow evening for the purpose of dealing with the Peterborough Lumber Company, who were recently burned out. The company is considering the advisability of rebuilding their plant, and an important feature in this connection is fire protection. The Water Commissioners' engineer, Mr. Henderson, is preparing an estimate of the cost of placing hydrants in the yards, and will present it to the council tonight. It is important that all the members should be present.

DROWNS BEFORE FAMILY.

Father Loses Life While Picking Lilies for Children.

Bedford, Ind., July 27.—While his wife and two children stood on the bank, helpless to aid him, Austin Withers, 30 years old, was drowned in a pond in front of his home today. He was picking pond lilies for one of his children, and, leaning over too far, pitched headlong into the pond. He was unable to swim.

Laporte, Ind., July 26.—Mandes Myers was drowned this afternoon in Bass Lake, where he went fishing with three friends. The rowboat capsized in the middle of the lake, and each of the four fishermen made his way toward shore, Myers, who was a weak swimmer, sank. He was a resident of Knox and is survived by a widow and one child.

TROOPS WILL STAY.

Output of Coal Yesterday Said to Be the largest Since Strike Began.

Sydney, N.S., July 26.—The announcement come today from an authoritative source that the troops will remain at Glace Bay until the strike is definitely at an end. Conditions at the various collieries showed considerable improvement yesterday over those of the day before. The outcome procured was 9,562 tons, which is the largest of any day since the declaration of the strike. Quite a number of additional men have gone to work today and barring accidents it is expected to materially increase the output.

The SS. Ocean cleared last night for Montreal with a cargo of 6,976 tons of coal and 222 tons in bunkers. Other vessels took smaller cargoes. The Dominion Iriom and Steel Company has purchased a couple of cargoes of coal from the Cumberland Railway & Coal Company of Springhill Mines.

It is reported that some clergymen in the strike district were negotiating for a settlement. It transpires that there have been some discussions with some of the strike leaders, but whether with a view to settlement is not definitely known. In so far as the Dominion Coal Company is concerned, officials say that there is absolutely no truth in the statement that any clergymen or other persons have been discussing settlement with them.

Mr. Lillie of the office staff of the Quaker Oats Co., is spending a holiday at his home in Norwood.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not — and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment, such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment —but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes this pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

A COMING EVENT.

The enterprise in which the city of Winnipeg is now interested of holding in 1912 a Canadian International Exposition and Selkirk Centennial is indicative of the spirit that permeates the Canadian West. For a city of its age, the capital of a comparatively young Province of the Dominion of keen, far-sighted and capable to an Easterner. That the Exposition can be made a success with the spirit of the people of the Prairie City, and of the Province of Manitoba behind it, and under the direction of keen, far-sighted and capable business men, is undoubted. Especially is this the case as the work of promoting the Fair is well under way and there is reason to believe that it will be well supported by the Manitoba Government, and that possibly the Dominion Government will also give the enterprise some assistance.

Canada will have in such an Exposition an excellent means of acquainting the world with the immense advantages it offers to the settler of the right calibre. Thousands upon thousands of the kind of people any country would be proud to have as citizens are not coming to the Dominion merely because they know nothing of the great opportunities we have to offer.

It is to give, as far as can be done, the whole world a right impression of Canada that the 1912 Exposition is to be held, and in this commendable enterprise every Canadian will wish the promoters, and the people of the Prairie City, the greatest success.

CANADA'S POSITION.

As the Imperial Naval Conference is shortly to meet in London it is well to recall the resolution which was adopted unanimously by the Canadian House of Commons at its last session, and which will give the Canadian delegates, Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. L. P. Brodeur, ample authority to commit Canada to the support of any co-operative system of Empire defence that may be proposed. The resolution reads:

"This House fully recognized the duty of the people of Canada as they increase in numbers and wealth to assume in larger measure the responsibilities of national defence. The House is of opinion that under the present constitutional relations between the Mother Country and the self-governing dominions the payment of regular and periodical contributions to the Imperial Treasury for naval and military purposes would not, so far as Canada is concerned, be a satisfactory solution of the question of defence.

"The House will cordially approve of any necessary expenditure designed to promote the speedy organization of a Canadian naval force in co-operation with and in close relation to the Imperial navy along the lines suggested by the Admiralty at the last Imperial Conference, and in full sympathy with the view that the naval supremacy of Britain is essential to the security of commerce, the safety of the Empire, and the peace of the world.

"The House expresses its firm conviction that whenever the need arises the Canadian people will be found ready and willing to make any sacrifice that is required to give to the Imperial authorities the most loyal and hearty co-operation in every movement for the maintenance of the integrity and honor of the Empire."

LIFE-BRIGHTENING AS AN INVESTMENT.

"Brighten some one else's life. Cheer some one else's pathway every day. This is the best investment that any of us in this world can ever hope to make."

We won't

We won't repeat the name of the man who said it. He has announced that he is going to seek obscurity henceforth. Moreover, there are so many other people who both live as he does and talk as he does that it is not necessary to draw the moral upon the particular man.

"Brighten some one else's life." That is most excellent advice. It is good old-fashionable morality, just as good today as it ever was, and just as good for the future as for today.

However, in the sense in which it is used, it is very imperfect, very partial advice. A little active work in brightening some one else's life by direct personal efforts needs to be supplemented more today than ever before by indirect methods of brightening other people's lives, especially through restraint from creating conditions which have the opposite effect.

For many citizens, and especially for those who give the "brightening" advice most freely, the indirect methods of self-restraint are vastly more important socially than the other.

When a man adopts a system of business operations which have as their direct result the driving of competitors out of business by methods always unfair, and often illegal; when he sacrifices families ruthlessly because he is not in immediate contact with the suffering members, when his mechanism of business is so fine that he can dip his hands in the pockets of hundreds families and gain wealth so easily that his main thought is that he is to be personally approved because he takes so little, then indeed, it is but a poor compensation that he makes it a point of directly brightening some neighbor's life every day. To one life that he brightens directly there are thousands that he darkens indirectly.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

The remark which Prince Ito is reported to have made, that the Chinese question is the most serious and important with which Japan has to deal in the near future, attracts renewed attention to the relations between the two great Mongolian nations and the increasing unlikelihood of their co-operation or close alliance. In all the gloomy visions, some of them imperial, of the "yellow peril the central object, without which there would have been nothing worth notice, has been united China and Japan, or at least awakened China under Japan's control, and the world happen if the hundreds of millions of Chinese were to be inspired with Japan's militarism and were to march to conquest under Japan's leadership.

That suggestion was formidable, but it was unfounded. Instead, it is increasingly evident that there will be no union, no alliance, no co-operation between the two powers, but rather a continuance of the jealousy and antipathy which have existed for uncounted centuries. An interesting indication of this is seen in the withdrawal of Chinese students from Japan. A few years ago, just after the Russo-Japanese War, there were between fifteen thousand and twenty thousand young Chinamen studying in Japan under official commission. They were carefully selected from the highest classes of Chinese society, and the expectation was that they would learn the arts of Japan, and especially the secrets of her military and political achievements, so as to be able on their return home to impart them to their countrymen and to leaven the whole lump of China with the spirit of Japan. All this seemed plausible and probable. But now nearly all the students have withdrawn from Japan and gone home. They have done so not on their own volition, but at the instances of the Chinese government, which has recalled them. The Chinese Empire is under the sway of a national movement which has led to the taking over of railroads and the ownership and management of them by the Chinese themselves, and it is as a part of this movement that the Chinese students have been recalled from Japan. In brief, whether she sleeps or wakes, China means to remain China, and not to be in any sense an appanage of Japan.

The grounds for this movement and the cause of China's lack of sympathy with Japan are readily discerned. Sprung from the same numerous racial stock, the two nations have for centuries been opposed to each other in spirit and ideals. Japan has carried the idea of devotion to the central sovereign to an extreme scarcely approximated by any other nation, while China has been and is one of the least centralized and most democratic nations in the world. Japan has despised the merchant and exalted the soldier, while China has done precisely the reverse. While the present awakening has caused some modifying or tempering of the extreme feelings which were once cultivated on these subjects, each nation remains, on the whole, faithful to the general principles of its immemorial traditions. China therefore wants her young men to be educated as Chinese and not as Japanese. That fact accounts for the wholesale exodus of Chinese students from Japan, and suggests the maintenance if not the increase of the traditional estrangement between the two countries.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.

I am the one physician who says to the sick: "I will out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!"

And for 20 years Dr Shoop's Medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr Shoop's Restorative. When the Stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, the good it does is by taken no money risk whatever. They know that when a failure, Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted. Just write me first for an order.

Then Pay

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—for I have appointed an honest and responsible druggist in almost every community. Everywhere, everywhere, he pays, no help, no pay, sick. Tell me also which book you need. The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best efforts is surely worth your simple request to write now, while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 35, Racine, Wis.

DIED AT 108.

He Witnessed the Battle of Waterloo

Quincy, Ill., July 24.—The funeral of John Leonard Roeder, 108 years old, who at the age of 15 years watched the greatest war tragedy of European history, the battle of Waterloo, was held here tonight. By his request a beautifully painted medallion of Napoleon, which he found on the field after the battle, was buried with him.

During the battle Roeder acted as orderly for General Blucher and carried a number of messages, including an ultimatum from General Blucher to Napoleon demanding his surrender.

He afterward became regularly enlisted in General Blucher's army and served three years for the German government.

His death removes probably the last man who was an eyewitness of the battle which broke the power of the Corsican soldier.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles by the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

DR. P. LKEY

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelletier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 36 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tubercolosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to trust his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discrimin ting and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

The Kearns' Ink Company

Toronto, Canada

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert men of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. Rat Bites.

It sometimes takes a year for the bite of a rat to heal up.

Circassian Seeds.

The bright scarlet seeds of Adenanthera pavonina are used as jewelers' weights in India, each being about four grains. They are also strung and made into necklaces. In the West Indies they are known as Circassian seeds.

The Turkish Empire.

The total area of the Turkish empire is 1,002,280 square miles and the total population over 36,000,000.

Siberian Urmans.

The Siberian "urmans" or "targas" are vast woods of pine, larch and cedar at least 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,000 miles from north to south. They are so thick and gloomy that the natives call them "places where the mind is lost."

Angleworms.

Angleworms may live fully ten years, as has been shown by experiments made in Marburg, Germany.

Camphor.

Into a basin of clear water put a few pieces of camphor. They will commence a peculiar motion, traversing every part of the surface of the water, but may instantly be stopped by dropping into the water the minutest quantity of an oily substance.

Lake Huron Islands.

There are some 3,000 islands in Lake Huron.

Scipio Africanus.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Cæsar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on Oct. 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

Opalescent Glass.

Opalescent glass for use in the manufacture of stained glass windows is made in this country in a manner which cannot be duplicated, and this material is shipped all over Europe.

The Bladderwort.

The aquatic plant the bladderwort feeds on animal life. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the eel trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant and is at once swallowed and assimilated.

Ant Proof Woods.

Use is made in the south sea islands of boxes made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

Servian Army Pay.

Of the officers of the army of Servia, a general receives $2,000 a year; a colonel, $1,400; a lieutenant colonel, $1,100; a major, $800; a captain, $630; a first lieutenant, $450; a second lieutenant, $360. Servian commanders use the whistle in the field and control their men by signal without any shouting or confusion during operations. Most of them speak at least one foreign language, and nearly all understand French or German.

Oats in China.

Oats are not raised in China and not fed to horses except to the racers in the training season.

How an Ostrich Hatches Eggs.

It is a curiosity to watch the male ostrich assist the hatching out process. As soon as he sees the beak or toe sticking through the shell he will take the egg up by the protruding bill or foot, lift it two or three feet and drop it on the ground until it breaks.

Holland.

Valuable Paper Secret.

The Oxford Press syndicate values its formula for making the very thin, tough paper used in the Bibles at more than a million dollars. To perfect the process required twenty-five years of hard work and the expenditure of $100,000 in cash.

Dragon Fly Grubs.

Dragon fly grubs are most destructive to the fry of fish. Out of 50,000 turned into a pond one April only fifty-four could be found the following September. The pond was infested by dragon fly.

Criminals in China.

An important factor in the punishment of criminals in China is the power of the government to seize members of the criminal's family and hold them responsible should he escape. Few Chinamen will flee when they know that their father or mother or near relatives may be pounced upon and imprisoned.

Very Limited.

When that very limited monarch Louis Philippe was asked to pardon Barbes he replied, "He has my pardon now I will see if I can get him that of my ministers."

Some Laughs.

An American traveler in Europe remarks the Italian laugh as languid, but musical, the German as deliberate, the French as spasmodic and uncertain, the upper class English as guarded and not always genuine, the lower class English as explosive, the Scotch of all classes as hearty and the Irish as rackking.

Easy to Classify.

The newly married couple had just moved into their new home. On the morning after their arrival a baker called to solicit their trade. He found the young wife in the kitchen. After explaining that his wagon delivered once a day the baker asked, "And may we have your trade, madam?"

"Yes," she replied timidly. "We will give you a trial."

"And about how much bread will you want each day?"

"Well, I don't know exactly. You see, there are only two of us." Then doubtfully, "Would five loaves a day be enough, do you think?"—Judge.

Shoe That Hurt.

Women with narrow heels frequently have trouble with ready made footwear. The shoe rides up at the heel, and a painful blister occurs, which effectively cripples one for the time being. This is especially true of low shoes. To prevent it with your next pair cut a few inches from a piece of old velvet or get a bit of velvet ribbon to fit between the heel and the shoe. It can be either tacked into place or pasted. This renders the heel comfortable without lessening the size of the shoe, which is the disadvantage of the felt sole.

"OXOL"

The word "Oxol" does not mean one feed, or one preparation No; "Oxol" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. & T. C. Windsor of Australia New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen, and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them mean money.

TIMES BOOKSTORE

Exclusive Agents for Peterborough and Vicinity.

SERGEANTS' INN SOLD.

One of London's Landmarks Disposed of Under the Hammer.

At $16,000 a year rent Old Sergeants' Inn was sold at the Mart recently.

There are two Sergeants' Inns. The one sold the other day faces Chancery lane, and backs on to the charming quietude and greenery of Clifford's Inn. The other, which is entered by a gateway on the south side of Fleet street, was entirely rebuilt a good many years ago, and is chiefly notable because Mr. Delane, the famous editor of The Times, lived there.

The sergeants-at-law were a very ancient body of dignitaries. They wore a special dress, with a peculiar cap, or coif, which caused them to be known as the "Order of the Coif." No one could be made a judge who was not already a sergeant.

The Judicature Act abolished the old sergeants, and in 1877 "the Order of the Coif" wound up its affairs and liquidated its assets, amounting to $285,000, among its members. The relics of the inn became the property of Sergeant Cox (at the instance of whose executors the sale took place), whilst the portraits of the famous lawyers which graced the walls, went to the National Portrait Gallery. When the order was abolished and the sergeants decided to sell the property Lord Chief Justice Cockburn presided at the final gathering, whilst the last treasurer was Sergeant Ballantine.

The property submitted was a building lease for ninety-nine years, the lessee having the option of acquiring the freehold at any time within the first three years at the rate of twenty-six years' purchase of the ground rent. The minimum sum to be expended by the lessees in the erection of new buildings is $200,000 over a period of five years, providing half the sum is spent during the first three years. There is a rent charge of $900 per annum to the Bishop of Ely. The property has an area of 16,000 feet.

The purchase price, at four per cent., represents $400,000, and this was regarded as a poor price to get for it. How surprised some of the old sergeants would be to learn how valuable their property had become!

"Who Are Sea Lords?"

Just now the Sea Lords are the best abused of all Britain's public servants; but, frequently as we hear them spoken of, we know very little who these Sea Lords are, and what they really do.

First comes "Jacky" Fisher, as he is familiarly called in the service, who holds the post of Senior Naval Lord. His duty it is to look after the "war efficiency" of the navy, and he is the chief naval adviser of the First Lord—the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna.

Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman is Second Naval Lord. In three years he will be celebrating his jubilee as a naval officer. His special function in the Admiralty is to look after the "personnel" of the fleet.

Next comes the Third Naval Lord and Controller, Rear-Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, far-famed for his gunnery reforms. The construction, the equipment, the upkeep of every ship in the service are under his supervision. He is also responsible for the administration of our dockyards.

The Junior Naval Lord, Vice-Admiral Winsloe, may be termed the "odd job" Sea Lord, and deals with matters of transport, coaling, pay, pensions, medals, naval prisons, etc.; while last comes the Civil Lord, Mr. George Lambert, the M.P., with whose decision rests the fate of Jack Tar's bill of fare.

Mr. McKenna himself, the First Lord, is the Minister immediately responsible to the country for the general efficiency of the navy.

The Irrelevance of Prue.

He came at eight; he stayed till nine;
At ten he still was there,
And he was talking fit and fine
When midnight chilled the air.

Yet he can't get it through his head
Nor comprehend today
What Prue referred to when she said,
"Who mows the first of May?"

Isn't It Always So?

This conversation with the ... s
My bosom with resentment fills.
In case we get to talk with Mars
The pas have got to pay the bills.

His Creditable Purpose.

The Cowboy Sonneteer.

I seen a show las' night at ol' Cheyenne,
And it was 'bout a feller who, like me,
Was rough and wild and ornery as could be,
Same as a brunk that hates the ways of men.
But he gits love struck, like I do, and then
He cuts out all that beats a-lovin' free
And studies nights and makes her see that he
Has got the makin' of a man, by heck!
And I am goin' to try that hombre's game
And spruce myself like all stage lovers do
And show the teacher that, though my nickname
Is Piute Bill, I ain't so bad clear through,
And then I'll see—and darned quick, too, I suppose—
If things in life end like they do in shows.

CHINA'S HOLY DUKE.

Greatest Aristocrat in the Celestial Empire.

The father of the infant Emperor of China, who is acting as Regent during his son's minority, is doing much to abolish the distinctions between the Manchus and the Chinese. Until now the Manchus, that is to say, the conquering race, to which the reigning dynasty belongs, have enjoyed all sorts of special privileges before the law, now all will be treated alike. Should the regent carry into effect his intention of betrothing his son, the three-year-old emperor, to a maiden of pure Chinese blood, probably either a daughter or granddaughter of China's "Holy Duke," instead of to one of the Manchu princesses from whom the monarch's consorts have until now been chosen, he will have made a long step toward reconciling the bulk of the Chinese people to the reigning dynasty and toward obliterating the antagonism that exists between the Chinese and the Manchus.

The Holy Duke is fully alive to the advantages of reform. A man about fifty years of age, and seventy-sixth in unbroken descent in the male line from Confucius, he may be regarded as the most blue blooded noble in the world, the more so as he is still in possession of the landed property which belonged to the illustrious founder of his house more than three thousand years ago; that is to say, some twelve centuries before the birth of Christ. The property is situated in the province of Shantung, and it comprises the tomb of Confucius at Kyfu and his residence. The duke is very rich, since each generation of emperors, Chinese as well as Manchu, has lavished gifts upon the "Holy Duke" of its day. This one's name is Kung Lingi, that is to say, Duke Lingi, and his official designation is Sheng Kung, which means "Holy Duke." He is a tall, heavy faced Chinaman, of somewhat massive build, with a rather majestic presence and a good humored face, the mouth inclined to laughter and in keeping with the shrewd cheery eyes. Though regarded as a saint, he is a very jovial saint, and extremely fond of all the good things of life. Every now and again he visits Pekin, where he is received with imposing honors, and on these occasions he does not disdain to travel by rail.

STORIES OF THE KAISER.

Little Tales Which Are Enjoyed by His Subjects.

William II. of Germany has many acts of kindness to the poor to his credit. One day at the palace of Potsdam he noticed that one of the sentries seemed very melancholy. With much hesitation the man told his story, how he had been on the point of getting married when he lost all his money and now hardly hoped ever to realize his dreams. The emperor, after inquiry had proved that the man was speaking the truth, gave him a generous present for the expenses of his wedding, promoted him corporal and found a place for his wife in the service of the empress.

A poor sewing woman at Cologne, finding it impossible any longer to earn her living with a worn out old sewing machine, appealed to the emperor for assistance. A week later a new machine with all the latest improvements reached her from her sovereign.

When the kaiser told Prince von Buelow he was to be chancellor it was evident from Buelow's face that something about the appointment did not altogether please him. The emperor pressed him to tell what it was, and Von Buelow reluctantly explained that greatly as his wife would rejoice in finding her husband appointed chancellor, she detested the palace of the chancellerie, as she was a great housewife and he was sure that the thought of the two or three months that would be needed to clean the immense palace to the pitch she would want to would terrify her.

"Don't let that bother you, my dear Von Buelow. Present my compliments to the princess and tell her that it will be a great pleasure to me to contribute to making that job less difficult to her."

It was not a regiment of soldiers detailed for house cleaning purposes that came to the princess, only a small parcel, which on being opened was found to contain a hundred pieces of soap.

Love's Young Dream.

The Stern Parent—And if you marry this young Littlecash where do you propose to live?

The Girl—Why, George says we are going to live at the same hotel where he lives now.

The Parent—Don't you know it costs a great deal to live at a hotel?

The Girl—Why, no, papa; it won't cost any more. George says that if you know how to order one portion is ample for two persons. I really won't be the least bit of a burden on George, papa.

That Is the Difference.

"Now, then, boys, if you had to address a large box of tea on the one hand and a schoolmaster on the other, what would be the difference in your form of salutation? Of course, you will reply 'We don't know.' Well, we will tell you. A large box of tea you would address as 'thou teachest,' and a schoolmaster you would salute with 'thou that teachest.' This is the difference, you see."—London Scraps.

The Remedy.

The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg was one day gambling at the Dober an tables and was betting on the same numbers as a rich master potter who stood next to him.

Both having lost their money, the grand duke inquired, "Well, potter, what shall we do now?"

"Oh," replied the master potter, "your highness will screw up the taxes, and I shall make pots."

The University Railway.

Strathcona, the city in which the new University of Alberta is to be located, owes its success very largely to the Canadian Pacific Railway, which retained it as terminal for the Calgary and Edmonton branch. Edmonton is just on the other side of the river, and the forthcoming erection of a high-level bridge by the C.P.R. next September will make the two cities practically one. Both the bridge and the University are estimated to cost the same amount, namely, $1,000,000 each, to build, and it is difficult to tell which will do more for the material prosperity of the district. The other new university, for the Province of Saskatchewan, is to be located at Saskatoon, another Canadian Pacific town

THE BELL MEMORIAL.

Toronto Sculptor's Work Surpassed All That Was Shown.

The successful design for the Bell Memorial at Brantford is particularly interesting, not only as being the the work of a Toronto artist, but also on account of its radical departure from the conventional type of such monuments. As has already been announced, Mr. Walter S. Allward, of Toronto, bore away the palm from such men as Hill, Hebert, and Hamilton McCarthy, of Montreal, Partridge, of New York, and Pausch, of Buffalo. But the accounts so far published give but scanty information as to the nature and meaning of the design, whose superiority was so marked as to lead Partridge, one of the contestants, to state that it was the only one for the purpose, and that there was hardly any use of his leaving his model at all.

The design consists of a central panel carved in low relief and two figures heroic in size, which stand at the extreme ends of the monument, thus suggesting wide distances. And this in fact is the key-note of the whole design, this suggestion of great intervals across which man sends his voice. One of the large figures is speaking and the other listens, and this with the intimation of distance gives the strikingly simple and dignified motive of the design. It is carried out with a little fuller detail in the carvings on the panel. There a half-recumbent figure representing Man sends forth a troop of various messages across a rounded surface, which again conveys the idea of great distance. These messages are represented by shadowy figures depicting the various messages of joy and sorrow and anger and love. Over the recumbent figure of Man hovers a cloudlike, dimly descried form, whose hand touches his with a suggestion of a wire, and which reaches forward in a gesture of boundless power. This is evidently the spirit of Electricity which enables Man to send forth his messages over the rounded earth.

Mr Allward, the author of this excellent design, is still a young man, being only thirty-three years of age, but he has already done some very fine work, among which might be mentioned the Simcoe and Mowat monuments in Toronto, and the Nicholas Flood Davin memorial in Ottawa. Some of his later achievements are the design for the South African monument, the Macdonald statue to be erected in Queen's Park, Toronto, and the Baldyin Lafontaine monument to be placed before the House of Parliament, Ottawa. This last is an especially fine design, and shows the manner in which his work has gone on broadening in scope and gaining in simplicity and dignity. There is every reason to look for big things from this young Toronto artist, who, though almost entirely self-taught, has already such a fine record of accomplishment behind him.

Trouble Over a Veil.

"I have decided to forswear all kinds and conditions of floating cluttering veils henceforth and forever more," announced an attractive young Toronto matron recently.

"Why?" gasped her feminine audience. "They are as fashionable as ever."

"Not for me," responded the Y.T. M., "since my experience of the other day. I was on a Yonge street car, and there was a strong north wind which kept blowing the ends of my veil over my shoulder. Time after time I put it back, on each occasion getting a little more exasperated. When it came over for about the hundredth time, giving me a stinging swipe in the eye, I grabbed it angrily and drawing it down firmly, stuffed the end under my arm. At this juncture there came a squeal from the seat behind me, and a vinegary feminine voice said, 'Madam, what are you trying to do with my veil?'

"I turned hastily to meet the malevolent gaze of a majestic individual whose hat was perched rakishly on the extreme limit of her back hair, while with speechless mortification I realized that the veil depending from it was still clutched in my guilty hand."

Judge McKeown and Judge Barry.

The recent appointments to the supreme court bench of New Brunswick represent the orange and the green. Judge McKeown is prominent among those who walk on the Twelfth, and Judge Barry is the first English-speaking Catholic who has been a supreme court judge, although the province is one-third Catholic. New Brunswick has a divorce court, and Judge McKeown will preside over it.

Both the new judges are relatively young men, Judge Barry being just over fifty, and his confrere several years on the sunny side of it. Both are amiable men, of rather more than average legal ability, and the worst that can be said of Judge McKeown is that he has been in politics, while Judge Barry is free even from that reproach.

Young Man's Town.

Perhaps the secret of Haileybury's aggressiveness is the fact that it is a young man's town. No town in the country can boast of so many young men engaged in active business for themselves as this silver city. The municipal officers, bank managers, proprietors of the large stores, Government officials, mine owners, officers and directors of the navigation companies, and a long list of others too numerous to mention, are, with a few exceptions, all young men whose ages range from 19 to 35 years. Haileybury has more enterprise and energy behind it than any other town of its size in the great Dominion, according to many visitors, and that it takes precedence over a large number of towns that boast a greater population.

Railway Amalgamation.

An application is being made to the Dominion Railway Commissioners for the amalgamation of the Alberta Midland Railway with the C.N.R. This line will be built to establish communications between Calgary and Edmonton, and between Calgary, Lethbridge, and Macleod, and will be approximately 300 miles long.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Midneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become ful ly convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. CEMENT WORKS CLOSED.

Competition Closes Lindsay Cement Works.

Low prices for cement and vigorous competition among the manufacturers during the last six months or more have pinched the small fry of the makers so hard that many of them have closed down on their plants.

It is only a few weeks since the Imperial Cement Co., assigned. Now comes a report from Owen Sound to the effect that the Owen Sound Portland Cement Co., at Shallow Lake, and the Lakefield plant have shut down, while the Sun Cement works are debating whether to follow suit or not.

This condition is said to be the result of the price-slashing which took place about the beginning of the year led by the Leigh Co., which is a Canadian branch of the larger firms, however, claim to be well satisfied with the present prices.

F. G. B. Allen, manager of the Canadian Portland Cement Works, said last night that his two plants were running under full forces, and were not losing money. He pointed out that several new works have been started up during the last two or three years, with the result that the increased production was greater than the increased consumption, and the price naturally dropped. He saw no indication of an early rise of the price. In fact he thought it quite impossible for the price to go up under present conditions.

STEAMER HIT ICEBERG,

St. John's N. B., July 29.—When the steamer Bonavista, bound to St. Johns from Montreal, struck an iceberg off Cape Race yesterday morning in a dense fog, the seventy passengers aboard became panic stricken and for a short time were so excited that they launched the lifeboats, according to the story told by Captain Fraser, when the Bonavista arrived here today. The steamer's bow was badly damaged, but she was able to make port without assistance. Captain Fraser said that after the first excitement his instructions to the crew led to the quieting of the passengers, who were soon under control. They are mostly Welsh and Belgian immigrants, recently landed at Montreal, who are to work in the mines of Newfoundland.

FORMED SUICIDE CLUB.

Factory Employes in Cleveland Form Gruesome Society.

Cleveland, July 29.—A club composed of disheartened factory employees, advocating suicide as the only means within their reach of attaining the peace of mind they crave and to escape the torments of their daily grind, is believed to exist hereof. This fact was advanced by the parents of Miss Rebecca Bosecheck, 18 years old who was found dead in Gordon Park In addition the relatives believe another girl, a companion of Miss Bosechek, will end her life within the next few days. The mother of the second girl says she overhead her daughter and Miss Bosechek planning to kill themselves.

According to those who know of the habits of Miss Bosechek the club consisted of six girls, four young men and a man and his wife. Most of them are employed in cleak factories.

Miss Bosechek shot herself. Her body was found in a clump of bushes It is believed that she was the first chosen by lot in the club to end her life.

SCRATCHES JEWELLERY.

Return Stolen Jewellery Valued at $11,000.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 29.—The return of jewelry valued at $11,000 which was stolen last April from the home of William M. Skinner, in Lakewood, came about in a peculiar manner today. The jewelry was found by Charles Goldstein under the porch of Mr. Skinner's home.

Goldstein says he was watching a chicken scratching for worms, when he noticed something glitter in the claws of the fowl. He investigated, and soon unearthed a lot of jewelry This he turned over to Mr. Skinner, who said it was the loot of the robbery of last April. It is believed that the robber hid the jewelry on the night of the burglary, intending to return when the storm blew over.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. SPECIAL PROGRAM.

Rendered By 57th Band for Benefit Master Painters.

It was indeed a beautiful program the band of the 57th Regiment gave at the concert in Victoria Park last night. Every number was enthusiastically applauded, and several times the musicians, who were under the leadership of Mr. R. Gliddon, had to respond to encores. The vocal solo by Mr. W. Mellroy, accompanied by the band, "Love's Old Sweet Song," was exceptionally well received, and Mr. Mellroy was called upon for an encore. Many new selections were given by the band and they were greatly appreciafeed.

The concert was a special one for the benefit of the delegates to the Master House Painters and Decorators' convention, and the delegates were out en masse. Many warm expressions of praise were heard from the visitors who were not slow in stating that the Peterborough band is one of the best in the Province.

The night was a beautiful one. It was warm, but a balmy breeze made it very pleasant. As a result several thousand citizens congregated at the park and enjoyed the music.

MR. BURNHAM

Must Attend for Examination for Election Trial.

The motion to commit Mr. J. H. Burnham for contempt of court in default of attending for examination and producing the documents he failed to produce upon the 29th of June, and to answer certain questions which he refused to answer at the time of his examination came on before the Hon. Mr. Justice Magee yesterday morning at Osgoode Hall, Toronto. Mr. Jones appeared as counsel for Mr. Burnham, and Mr Smith appeared as counsel for Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Smith, on behalf of Mr. Stratton, contended that under the Election Act, Mr. Burnham was compelled to file with the returning officer a complete return of all his election expenses incurred in connection with the election. Mr. Burnham on his examination admitted that he personally had paid certain detectives for their services in connection with the 6election campaign, and Mr. Smith contended that Mr. Burnham should be compelled to name the detectives to whom he paid the money and the amount he paid, because if payments of this kind were not made known to the public by the publication in etail of election expenses, a way would be opened up to a wholesale system of bribery and corruption.

Mr. Jones contended on behalf of Mr. Burnham that his client should not be called upon to answer questions regarding these expenditures because if he were, then under the Election Act, his client would be charged with an indictable offence.

Mr. Justice Magee intimated that he would give judgment compelling Mr. Burnham to attend for examination and reserved judgment upon the questions which Mr. Burnham refused to answer.

OBITUARY

The death occurred Tuesday evening at the Nicholls Hospital of Mary Ann Picken, aged 63 years, widow of the late Adam Peters of Percy township. The late Mrs. Peters had been ailing for some time with a lingering illness. She was highly respected in the community in which she had lately resided, and her demise will be regretted by a large number of friends and acquaintances. A grown-up family survive her. Mrs. C. Brewer, Albert street, city, is a sister.

The remains were taken to Hastings yesterday morning for interment.

MRS. JANE BEATTY JOHNSTON

The death occurred in Otonabee yesterday of Mrs. Jane Beatty Johnston, relict of the late James Johnston, at the age of 54 years. The funeral will leave the family residence this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and proceed to the Little cemetery.

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, health surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Barton of Lewiston. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depressions, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous. I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

ROAD CONTRACTS.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned will be received up to 12 o'clock noon on MONDAY, AUG. 9TH, 1909.

For chopping, clearing, stumping and grubbing the following wagon roads:

1st. Along the line between Concessions 1 and 2, Township of Glackmeyr, through Lots 20 and 19, thence north along the Road Allowance between Lots 18 and 19, through Concessions 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, of the said Township, a distance of about nine miles.

2nd. From Matheson easterly along the north side of the Black River, through Lots 4, 3, 2, and 1 in the first Concession of the Township of Carr following a line blazed for the purpose by D. Chalmers, to and thence along the southern boundary of Carr and Beatty Townships, a distance of about seven miles.

The work of chopping, clearing, stumping and grubbing to include the cutting of all timber, brush, etc., on the roadway to a width of 66 feet and removing all stumps, brush, timber, etc., from the central 30 feet; cutting, trimming and neatly piling all logs, brush and stumps, etc., from the central 30 feet and burning the same.

The work to be commenced immediately after the awarding of the contract and to be continued to the satisfaction of the Inspector in charge of the work and to be completed by the Thirty-first of October, 1909.

The tenders to be at a rate per lineal mile for each of the sections of the road. Each tender must have the bona fide signatures of two persons as Sureties, or a Guarantee Company's bond approved by the Department, for the due fulfilment of the contract.

A marked cheque of Five per cent. of the total amount of the Contract must accompany each tender.

Specifications of the work to be done may be seen at this Department or at the Office of David Chalmers, Road Inspector, Charlton, or W. E. Kerr, Road Inspector, New Liskeard.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Painters Enraptured with the Pretty Lakes of Kawarthadom

"We were thrilled and enraptured" is what the Painters and Decorators had to say of their trip over the lift lock and up the lakes to Burleigh Falls yesterday. The panoramic scenery was most beautiful and held the party in amazement from start to finish. Outside the local painters none on board had ever been up the Kawartha Lakes before and they were agreeably surprised so much so that they could not find words to express themselves. Mr. W. E. Wall of Boston, Mass., and Mr. John Dewer of Pittsburg, Pa., two of the wealthiest contractors, were particularly delighted and they confessed that they had not the slightest idea that the back country was so fascinating. Those two gentlemen also spoke in high terms of Peterborough and its surroundings.

While yesterday morning the rain was falling, and the Painters and Decorators started their trip under dismal circumstances, it was not long before the sun shone and everything was looking at its best. From start to finish the trip was a huge success abd probably a more delighted or more appreciative excursion never left and returned to the city.

Going up the boat went directly to Burleigh Falls, making the usual round of picturesque Stony Lake. A detachment of the 57th Regiment Band was on board and enlivened the day with a liberal program of pleasing music. Prof. Gliddon conducted the band and won for himself and the band many compliments.

On the return from the falls, the party, which numbered over 200, were guests of Mr. Jas. Acton, at his cottage on Stony Lake. A very choice luncheon was served by a number of young ladies and gentlemen, and afterwards a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Acton for their hospitality, on motion of Messrs. W. E. Wall of Boston, Mass., and Wm. Barrett of Hamilton.

A vote of thanks was also tendered the young ladies and gentlemen, on motion of Ald. Booth of London, and Chas. Reeve of Hamilton.

Happy responses were made by Mr. Jas. Acton and Mr. Len Acton.

The party then embarked for the return trip to Peterborough, and on board the boat votes of thanks were tendered as follows:—

On Motion of Messrs. A. M. McKenzie of Hamilton, and H. G. Hawkins, representative of Painter and Decorator to the local association of Master House Painters and Decorators.

To the captain and crew of the steamer, to Coleman Bros., who looked after the catering so very thoroughly.

The delegates all left last night or will leave this morning for their respective homes, and they will carry with them pleasant memories of Peterborough.

CRUSHING DEFEAT OF SPANISH ARMY--THREE THOUSAND KILLED

Gutters Run with Blood Fierce Fighting is in Progress

Whole Army Fighting Under Walls of Melilla and May be Overwhelmed--Uprising a Protest

The desperate condition of Spain both at home and abroad was disclosed yesterday when the Spanish Government officially admitted the defeat of government troops in a great battle in Morocco and at the same time reports showed that Barcelona was completely in the hands of a revolutionary mob, the streets running with the blood and the Spanish are still using machine guns in a vain attempt to check the onslaught of thi revolutionary element. The battle in Morocco has brought a crushing defeat to the Spanish forces. The casualties on the Spanish side reached 3,000, giving the defeat an aspect akin to that which the Italians met in invading Abyssinia.

(Special to The Times.)

Cerebere, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 29.—Spanish courtiers arriving here today report that artillery is battering the barricades, behind which the insurgents are desperately fighting in Barcelona.

Heavy fighting is now in progress on the Rambla, in San Annes quarter and the Calle del Epino. The gutters are running with blood. The number of dead and wounded cannot be estimated, but it is believed to be heavy. Five convents and several private residences have been burned at Llanza.

CHURCHES IN FLAMES

REVOLUTIONISTS DESTROY RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

Churches and Convents are Burned in Spanish Provinces.

(Special to the Times)

London, July 29.—The Madrid correspondent of the Telegraph says a very disagreeable feature of the revolt is the hostility displayed toward religion. Churches, colleges and and convents are the object of special hostility on the part of the revolutionists. Many have been wrecked or burned. Among the latter is the great College Des Escalapies de San Antonio. The professors and students only escaped with their lives by a miracle. The Church of San Pablo is in flames, and numerous other churches and convents are burning. In the Pueblo Nuevo quarter of Barcelona is the Monastery of the Marists, which was attacked by an enormous crowd. After a frightful conflict, the building was carried by storm, pillaged and burned to the ground. A number of the monks were killed, and many were wounded. After the sack of the building a strong column of infantry and artillery appeared and attacked the revolutionists. A regular battle ensued.

Peterboro' Lumber Co. Start Operations on Their New Mill

The Peterborough Lumber Company will start on the erection of their new mill today, and will rush it through as fast as possible. As a result the city will give them fire protection, as an arrangement which was satisfactory to the company and city was arrived at last night.

The mayor read a letter to the council last night from the Peterborough Lumber Company, asking that the council decide at once whether the city can furnish them with fire protection. They asked that four hydrants be placed in their yards. They wanted this information before they decided to rebuild. They also intimated that they had secured an option on the sawmill at Lakefield. As soon as the city decides what they will do the company will then start erecting new mills at once, providing of course that the fire protection is granted.

Mr. Henderson made a report that the distance to carry the mains from Englenurn avenue, into the company's grounds was 1997 feet and would cost $1.15 per foot, or a total of $2500.

Ald. Hicks asked what it would cost to take the water mains to the company's property and not inside an he was not sure that the city could place hydrants on private property.

Mr. W. H. Moore said that there were 749 feet of city property upon which the mains would have to be laid at a cost of $860. The balance is all on the company's property.

Ald. Hicks said that the city should try to put the water service up to the company's property, but that the service on the property should be left to the company and the water commissioners.

Ald. Morgan suggested that the water works be taken to the company's property by way of Burnham street. This would cost the city $250 less than by way of Engleburn avenue.

In order that the interest and sinking fund, Mr. Moore suggested that the city pay for two hydrants on the part of the work the city has to do.

Mr. J. H. Shook and Mr. D. Davidson were present, and they were asked to meet the council. The mayor told them that the council would give them the same protection as other companies got. That is, the city would lay the mains up to their property, and the company would have to pay for the hydrants on their own property.

Mr. Shook said that there was a public street through their property from the bridge. The city could lay the mains right down the street.

The street, however, was pointed out, was in such a position that it belonged to the company.

Mr. Shook asked what protection the company was entitled to? Was it just what the city desired to give? They were heavy tax payers, and had been heavy losers. They had no fixed assessment or any other favor, and they have no fire protection whatever.

By the water mains being laid via Burnham street to the mill it would require the cost of five hydrants to pay the sinking fund and interest. It was therefore suggested that the company deed the city sufficient land to lay the mains on, and that the city pay for so many hydrants, and the company pay for so many. So long as the mills were in operation. When the mills cease to exist then the company assume the full cost.

It was moved by Ald. Morrow and seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that the city pay for three hydrants and the company pay the balance. The total cost will amount to $141 per year.—Carried.

The work will be completed within two months and the company will start at once and erect new mills. Mr. Davidson said that they would start their mills to morrow, and likely put up a $25,000 building.

Small Pocket of Natural Gas was Located on the Kincaid Farm Wednesday

At a depth of 130 feet or nearly 100 feet into the solid lime stone rock the gas drillers on the Kincaid farm received their first indications of natural gas existing in that locality. The drill struck the pocket on Wednesday night. This find is only a surface pocket, and the drill has yet to be sent down several hundred feet before the real source of supply is located. Drilling has continued since, and yesterday had reached a depth of 175 feet. This will be continued until oil or gas is found or the work abandoned.

Mr. C. E. Dettman of Waynesburg, Pa., arrived in the city on Wednesday, and is looking after the work. He is well pleased with the progress made so far but says that of course the present strike is no indication of what will follow.

Some four or five years ago while excavation for the hydraulic work for the lift lock was being proceeded with considerable quantities of natural gas in pockets were struck, indicating that the gas existed in this locality. Mr. W. H. Robertson being persuaded that the above was a fact, at his own expense brought an expert here from the oil fields in Western Ontario. This gentleman spent several days here inspecting the geological conditions and assured Mr. Robertson and others that there was every reason to believe that gas or petroleum or both were to be found in this neighborhood. The expert stated that he would go so far as to guarantee that gas or oil would be found, and suggested that a company be formed to sink test wells. Local capitalists were, however, somewhat leary of the undertaking, and the result was that nothing was done. There is plenty of evidence bearing out the opinion of the expert. Old residents can remember of an accident which occurred on the Crowley farm thirty years ago, when two well diggers lost their lives, having come in contact with gas while sinking a well. It is also known that a country blacksmith not far from Peterborough, secured gas to heat his irons in the blacksmith shop by sinking a small well.

Efforts were made at Port Hope to locate gas, but were unsuccessful. It is thought that the gas chambers had filtered out into Lake Ontario. Peterborough is directly on what is known as the "Trenton" Rock formation, which is the natural home of gas and oil. Gas or oil is never found other than where "Trenton" rock formation exists.

The present company came here some months ago, no doubt having read the articles in The Times in regard to the foregoing and began operations on the Kincaid farm about 2½ miles from the city. The fact that they have struck pockets of gas does not surprise The Times. No one can say whether it exists in paying quantities or not. This can only be ascertained by the sinking of wells. Should gas or oil be secured here it will mean a great deal for the city and neighborhood, as it will afford cheap fuel.

About 40 years ago a number of Peterborough gentlemen organized a company and sank a well on the bank of the river near the Auburn power house. They had not the modern facilities for penetrating the rocks in those days, and after working for some months the drill remained broken off, and could not be removed. The well at the time had been sunk to a depth of between 700 and 800 feet, and it was thought that oil or gas could not be far off. The only course was to sink another well or abandon the operations. The company chose the latter and ceased work. Those mainly interested in the work were, Rev Mark Burnham, father of Dr. Burnham; Wm. Lundy, father of J. J. and D. J. Lunby; Robt. Romaine, Edmond Chamberlain, father of Mrs H. C. Winch; John Ludgate, father of Mrs. R. R. Hall; Jas. Stenson, father of J. T. Stenson; J. W. Fitzgerald, father of J. W. Fitzgerald, L.T.S.; Jas. English, father of Jas. and S. W. English and others.

Rate-Payers Carry Both St. Extension and Smith St. Bridge By-laws

Both bylaws were carried yesterday, and both had big majorities. There was not a polling sub-division which did not give the bylaws a substantial majority, except No. 3, which polled a tie vote for the bridge bylaw.

The Smith street bridge bylaw received a majority of 159 and the street extension bylaw was carried by 148 of a majority. The total vote cast for the latter bylaw was 422, while the former was 393. This vote compares very favorably with votes on other bylaws for which there is not an active campaign.

The Smith street bridge will be constructed this year. The Board of Works will meet shortly and will then advertise for tenders. It will be a concrete arch bridge and will be one of the first if not the first in this part of the country. There will be three arches and two sidewalks. The roadway will be 18 feet wide. The design is a very attractive one, and when completed it will be a credit to the city.

The street extension bylaw was for the purpose of raising money to pay off a debt that has already been contracted, and to complete the work of filling in the water front and the extension of the streets.

Both bylaws were of considerable importance to the city and in carrying them the artepayers expressed their desire.

Great credit is due Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works Committee for the very active interest he took in the bylaws. He did much to educate the people and he got a lot of votes out. Both bylaws are from his department, and he is naturally delighted with the large majorities secured.

Italians Arrested at Glace Bay--Experimenting with Powder

Glace Bay, N.S., July 29.—Four Italian strikers living in a shack at No. 3 colliery were arrested last night on a charge of disorderly conduct. Two soldiers caught them setting off powder, and when arrested there was found in their possession two large cans of bull dog powder. They were seen making experiments by filling bottles with the powder and igniting it by short fuses. This morning these men were bailed out by the U.M.W. leaders.

TWENTY EVICTION CASES.

Judge Finlayson on Tuesday next will hear twenty eviction cases. These are being made test cases and if it is decided in favor of the company a great many more evictions will speedily follow.

Yesterday's coal output was the largest for the month, totalling 11,300 tons, of which 6,073 tons were freshly mined.

OFFERING REWARDS.

The county of Cape Breton is offering $500 reward for evidence leading to the conviction of persons who attempted to blow up Manager Simpson's residence at Dominion No. 1 and $500 for similar evidence regarding the persons who set off the bomb at Gardener Mines on Wednesday.

President Ross, of the Dominion Coal Company, offers $1,000 reward for the conviction of the persons who assaulted a 77-year-old man named McPherson, while on his way to attend his sister's funeral at Waterford.

SATURDAY'S PARADE.

The parade of the U. M. W. on Saturday will commence in Glace Bay at one o'clock, and by the time the Dominion is reached it is expected that there will be from 10,000 to 12,000 people present. Several bands will be in line. So far no application for an escort of troops has been made to General Drury.

Two Plucky Women Disarm Burglar and Put Him to Flight

New York, July 28.— In the Brownsville section of Brooklyn are two plucky women, one of whom but recently became a bride, who yesterday proved too much for an armed burglar when they seized a big knife and jimmy from him, rejected bribes which he offered for his freedom, and turned him over to a mob which proceeded to put him through a third degree.

The natty clothes which he wore so jauntily when he entered the second floor apartment of Samuel Stellen on Amboy street were almost torn from his body. Some one in the crowd had thought it legitimate to rob the would-be robber, and when the police had rescued him they found that his gold watch and chain and three valuable rings had been stolen.

The prisoner said that he was James Kating and twenty years old. The women who had captured him were Mrs. Stellen and Mrs. Tillie Fishkin, who live in the same house. Mrs. Stellen discovered him in her apartment after he had jimmied his way in, and as he was ransacking the bedroom bureau. He rushed to the hallway and as he reached it, Mrs Fishkin who had heard her neighbor's screams, blocked his path. She and Mrs. Stellen gave him a good pummeling.

When he saw that they were too much for him, he tried to "square matters" by offering to pay for the damage he had done. While he was bargaining for his freedom, he escaped their hold and rushed to the street. The women chased him two blocks and aided by a crowd of men rounded him up.

The fugitive drew a knife. The women took it away from him and then it was time for the crowd to finish the work. When it got through with the man he looked as though he had passed through the vortex of a western tornado. Notwithstanding the accusations of the women he says he is innocent.

A friend of the man's who had been keeping guard in the hallway escaped.

Wedded 12 Years Ago Marriage is Annuled

Montreal, July 28.—A peculiar judgment was rendered today by Judge Dunlop in the case of Jules Archambault v. Georgina Bonin, annulling their marriage, contracted in October, twelve years ago, on the ground that some unknown affinity between the parties had come to light in a recent semi-judicial and semi-religious enquete.

The plaintiff had presented a petition to Mgr. Bruchesi, Archbishop of Montreal, to have the religious authorities annul his marriage, because he was a relative to his wife to a degree which renders a license necessary for a union in the Catholic Church.

In the investigation held before the religious tribunal of the diocese it was established that Georgina Bonin was a collateral affinity of Jules Archambault, her husband since 1897. Mgr. Bruchesi rendered his decision in January last, and declared that according to the Catholic Canons the parties had no right to be married without a special license, and that their marriage had been null. This decision was then carried before the civil courts of this province on the same ground, and as both the Catholic canons and the civil code agree on the point at issue, Mr. Justice Dunlop decided this morning on the line as Mgr. Bruchesi had done previous to him, so that now Jules Archambault and Georgina Bonin, who have lived a marriage life together for more than ten years, are no longer husband and wife, and can get married again to others.

But here comes the interesting point. If they desire to be married again together, and are willing to secure the license to that effect, Jules Archambault and Miss Bonin are entitled to do it as any other relatives may, except between brother and sister.

C. P. R'S. BIRTHDAY

GREAT RAILWAY HAS PASSED 23RD MILESTONE.

The Road Was Then Controlled By Lord Mountstephen—Its Wonderful Progress.

The C. P. R. did not mark in any special way the twenty-third anniversary, which occurred the other week, of the sending of the first transcontinental train across the Dominion. At the same time, in looking back to the achievements of the last twenty-three years, the official breast was inclined to swell a little with satisfaction.

It is twenty-three years since the last lines of the great transcontinental system were put together, making one long whole out of many disjointed parts.

The head offices were then on St. James street, facing Place d'Armes Square. Lord Mount Stephen was president, and Sir William (then Mr. William) Van Horne general manager.

The offices themselves were small and stuffy. All was in the formative stage. The sense of stability had yet to be impressed upon the system The general manager could be found in his shirt sleeves, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was, then purchasing agent of the company. Mr. McNicoll acted as general passenger agent. Business was done, but it was done under crude conditions.

The staff was small, and the thousand or more clerical employes now at the head office were not dreamed of.

Great railway men were then in the making. The highest was accessible. It was desirable to propitiate the public.

The visible assets were slight, and the local cartoonists of the time used to poke fun at the C. P. R. trying, with the aid of Mr. Clouston, the general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and a lighted candle, to find a surplus in the vaults of the bank.

There was the old Dalhousie Square station, which sufficed for all the business offering.

Little was defined. Able men took off their coats, but when any enthusiastic person spoke of dividends, he was greeted with an indulgent smile.

This can be said—that everybody hustled.

As Sir William Van Horne has many times said to the writer, in going over the past, "we literally took off our coats to work."

The offices were removed to Victoria Square, to the building formerly occupied by the Co-operative Association. The annual meetings were then held in secret, and it was a sight to see the local newspaper men holding up Sir William Van Horne after the meeting was over.

The tone of those meetings was vastly different from that which prevails at present. A tremendous undertaking had been espoused, but the future was dark. The Northwest was merely a name—vague, distant. The business had to be made.

Such growth, however, manifested itself in the course of a few years that it was deemed necessary to have a West End station and general offices, which the company itself could control.

In the early years the earnings of the company varied from $9,000,000 to $10,000,000 per annum. They are now something like $75,000,000 per annum.

Even after the new station and general offices were taken possession of, there was days of darkness to be encountered; and it became necessary for Lord Strathcona to come over to reassure the pessimistic stock-holders many of whom openly lamented that they had put their money into such a doubtful enterprise.

"An enterprise," said His Lordship, "which, nevertheless, will, in the course of the next few years be one of the best dividend-earners in the Dominion."

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Team of Mr. I. Eastwood made Wild Ride Down George Street.

One of the most exciting runaways that have been witnessed here for a long time was that of Mr. I. Eastwood's handsome driving team last night. Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood were out driving, and coming down George street, the team became frightened and started to run. Mr. Eastwood did all in his power to control the animals, but was unable to do so, but kept them on George street. They ran down through the city to the end of George street where they turned, and collided with a telephone pole. The rig was upset and broken and Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood were thrown out. The horses were captured, but were not injured materially, neither were the occupants of the rig, except from shock and the shaking up. Many comments were made upon Mrs. Eastwood's pluck inholding her seat and retaining her nerve, until the rig was overturned.

ENGLISH ENGINEERS.

Will Visit Peterborough on August 9th, 10th and 11th.

Mayor Rush notified the Legal and Reception Committee that he had received a couple of letters from Dr. J. A. Neal, stating that a number of eminent engineers from England were going to visit Peterborough on Monday, Aug. 9th, at 5.30 C.P.R. train. They will be here until Wednesday morning. It was requested that the Reception Committee take charge of the visitors and assist in entertaining them.

The visitors are members of the University of London Engineers.

It was decided that the mayor and chairman of the committee with any other member of the committee who could get away should represent the city.

Literature May for Reception Committee

A short session of the Legal and Reception Committee was held last night when it was decided to get out some literature for the use of excursionists. Several legal claims were also dealt with.

Mrs. Murphy of Cricket Place, fell in a hole in the plank walk on Saturday night, and dislocated her shoulder. The plank was out of the walk alright.

The case was laid over.

Remember This
A Thorough Cleansing of the System Now is a Sure Protection against Spring and Summer Sickness.
After the long hard winter, system cleansing is badly needed. The blood must be purged and purified, otherwise pent-up impurities will beat through the skin and all through the summer you'll be tormented with rashes, pimples, humors and boils.
The best of all blood purifiers, and at the same time an unequalled tonic and upbuilder, is Dr. Hamilton's Pills they will build up all the digestion of food, keep the system vigorous, healthy strong. Eating nuts and pleasant in action, you need not hesitate to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Take them at night—note the difference in the morning; how fresh, bright and well you feel. No water health drinks, and health liquor known then Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Get it the best today. At all dealers.

Earache, Toothache!

To Cure the Pain ink Ten Seconds and Get Instant Relief, Nothing Equals.

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of houses this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. To-day Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain-relieving remedies—scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

From Port Hope Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenaway, of the Guide newspaper staff, writes "For twenty years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, toothache, cramps, headache and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline."

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00 all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 14

CANADA'S AGRICULTURAL WEALTH.

The following information relative to the importance, from an agricultural point of view, of the Province of Ontario, has been given the Toronto Board of Trade by Mr. gC. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

The settled area of Ontario includes 24,500,000 acres, of which 14,000,000 acres are cleared. 5,500,000 acres woodland. 2,000,000 acres slashland, and 3,000,000 acres are swamp, marsh or wasteland. Of the 24,500,000 acres, 23,000,000 acres lie in what is known as Old Ontario and were settled between 1783 and 1860. There are besides in the north country scattered tracts of land aggregating 1,500,000 acres in extent and settled within the last few years For agricultural purposes we have to add another area of 16,000,000 acres unoccupied and only partly explored as yet. It is known as the Clay Belt, and is being opened up by the National Transcontinental Railway.

In 1896 Ontario produced $12,000,000 worth of beef, $10,000,000 in bacon and pork, and $9,000,000 in cheese. In 1906 the corresponding figures were $27,200,000, $22,500,000 and $15,000,000. In ten years the aggregate value of these three commodities rose from $31,000,000 to $64,700,000.

The number of horses on Ontario farms increased from 611, 241 in 1896 to 726,421 in 1906, the number of milch cows from 856,000 in 1896 to 1,113,374 in 1906, swine from 1,640,787 in 1896 to 1,816,763 in 1906. In the same decade poultry increased from 9,084,378 to 12,285,613. Live-stock to the value of $29,750,000 was sold or slaughtered in 1896. In 1906 the figures had risen to $61,500,000. The total value of live stock on the farms increased from $104,000,000 in 1896 to $189,500,000 in 1907, and the value of farm lands, buildings and implements from $923,000,000 to $1,222,000,000.

The figures are pleasing, and it is gratifying to note Ontario's supremacy agriculturally is likely to be still further enhanced by the opening up to settlement of the northern portions of the Province.

OUR PAMPERED SPARROWS.

Apparently has the same evi, effect upon the lower orders of life as upon the human family. If all were wealthy there would be no hewers of wood and drawers of water, and while much of the drudgery has been taken from many kinds of labor, thereby increasing the comfort of the individuals engaged in those lines of work, it has always been true, and probably will always continue to be true, that a great majority of the inhabitants of the world are forced to engage in what might be referred to as the lower grades of employment. In the case of our animal friends also necessity is a great incentive to labor. Every householder knows that the pampered feline will not be the one most energetic in destroying the lives of its hereditary enemies, the mouse and the rat, and the house dog which is treated with too great consideration loses its value as a means of protection against burglars, being disposed to look upon all humanity as its friends.

It is more than painful, however, to learn that even the sparrows have succumbed to luxury. After all that has been done by the public to protect them from the small boy and the air gun, it might be supposed that the sparrow family would rise to the occasion when the opportunity came. On the contrary, in this crisis, so the experts say, they refuse to serve us. Among the arrivals in this city a day or two ago were a colony of white moths, which gather in the branches of trees and give object lessons in rapid multiplication. The first suggestion was that the sparrows, grateful for favors received and hopeful of others yet to come, would turn to and eat the insect pests. But the local scientists now tell us that the birds are so well fed, without any effort on their part, that they despise such menial labor as grubbing for insects and moth eggs. If the sparrows don't take advantage of the opportunity and it is not possible to cut off their food supply and encourage their flagging ambitions, there seems to be nothing to do except to follow the precedent established when there is scarcity of human labor—encourage immigration.

IMMORTALITY.

Whether and in what sense immortality is desirable is a question that Mr Lowes Dickinson considers independently of the inquiry Rhether or no immortality is a fact, and it is not on, account of any sympathy with "scientific" skepticism that he limits the discussion in this way. The connection, in our present experience, of body and mind may have encouraged the inference that the soul dies with the brain, yet this is only an inference, and quite possibly a mistaken one. To infer wisely in such matters one must be a poet as well as a man of science, and Mr. Dickinson declares that for his own part he would rather trust the intuitions of Goethe or of Browning than the reasonings of Spencer or of Haeckel, for the poet, while not bringing to the debate a conclusive word, is able to stimulate our imagination and to help us feel our limitations amid the vastness of the iniverse.

Some recognizable qualities must mark any immortality of whose desirableness we are to indge, and the author has an affirmative answer for his main question so long as immortality may be thought of as a state in which "a continuity of experiences analogues to that which we are aware of here is carried on into a life after death, the essence of that life being the continuous unfolding, no doubt through stress and conflict, of those potentialities of Good of which we are aware here as the most significant part of ourselves." If there are few intelligent people who look forward with satisfaction to the traditional Christian heaven, that is because the delineation of a condition of perfect satisfaction and goodness has always been extraordinarily difficult. Only in the faintest symbolica, adumbrations is the unknown object of our desire imaginable. We have allowed ourselves to be offended by metaphorical impediments, and the heaven we really mean is the ultimate term of a process in which we are engaged, of the end of which we can only say that it is Good. With this interpretation of ultimate blessedness Mr. Dickinson is so completely on orthodox ground that one could half expect him to discover to us the philosophy underlying the doctrine of eternal punishment, but the bare idea of future retribution he surns away from with abhorrence. Even as a deterrent of crime the menace of the theological hell is less effective than the penalties of human law, and how any benevolent person could dream of accepting a life in heaven while other mortals were doomed to punishment is for our author, past finding out.

To the reader whose sympathies keep closer to the currents of Catholic thought it will occasion a mild surprise that Mr. Dickinson should try to evade the consequences of his own premises, as he does when, having based a desirable immortality on the fact of a moral order, he turns and rendes the notion of future penalty. In a universe of wills where the Good is the norm and where choice is possible, a man seeing the better part may yet choose the inferior. Granted that moral achievement raised to the bth power is that possibility to which the term "heaven" applies, is there to be no name for the other insistent fact in life, the dingy opposite of holiness, whose outcome, in the verdict of human experience, justifies the doctrines are likely to survive, the one, let us hope, dispensing with the hideous imagery that so get along without too circumstanstantial accounts of the bliss that is to be. But complain as one may of Mr. Dickinson's neglect closely to articulate important moral principles, the reader is nevertheless bound to admire the kindness of heart that would so precipitately annihilate all hells.

One motive that the author offers for raising afresh the question as to what immortality really means is found in the fact that there are pessimistic people who, far from craving immortality, are passionately desirous of extinction; but peop,e who are not pessimists at all are likely to be no less grateful for so careful a search for what is essential in the promise of eternal life. By way of making his own position clearer Mr. Dickinson has described and classified the attitudes assumed by humans toward the perennial theme. Some of us, he tells us, dislike the subject and dodge it whenever we can, after the manner of Frederic Myers's host who in after dinner conversation protested: "Of course, if yod press me, I believe we shall all enter into eternal bliss, but I wish you wouldn't talk about such disagreeable subjects." Others of us, it seems, are dully acquie-cent, and others optimistic and ready for all the immortality available. This way of reducing listeners to anaemic abstractions has its advantages to the lecturer, no doubt; but are we not all, as a matter of fact, capable of more than one way of viewing our interests, earthly or heavenly, which a brief space changing the tune from valiant confidence to a chill unbelief aod the pessimism of fatigue? Classifications according to temperament have at best but the worth of approximations. One day or other each son of man may be a dispirited Elijah at the brook, needing the ministrations of the sensible angel who sees to it that the tired traveller gets a good sleep and is fed with food convenient. And if with apparent disregard for high matters one is, at other times, going about a business which lacks the relish of salvation, it would still argue a poor estimate of the men of our time to suppose many of them absolutely indifferent toward the eternal life. Hamlet's question was no provincial venture, we may be sure, and at length there comes to every man the calm hour wherein he considers with heedfulness "whether 'tis ampler day divinelier lit or homeless night without."

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His tive—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 28 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the CAUSE of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No pain, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely yours for simple request.

So let me send you an order as soon. Take the first step to a new sick bed.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?

No. 2 On the Heart	No. 5 For Men
No. 3 On the Kidneys	No. 6 On Rheumatism

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 20 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

TRANSFORMATION OF SEOUL.

Japanese Turning Corean Capital Into a Modern City.

In writing about what the Japanese are doing in Corea, Frank G. Carpenter says: They have taken the hermit kingdom by the neck and are shaking its dry bones into action. They are establishing courts, abolishing squeezing and reorganizing the finances. They propose to build roads, to reforest the mountains, to open the mines and to turn this half-barren country into a garden. All those things are in their beginnings, but a start has been made and signs of progress are everywhere to be seen.

The capital, Seoul, is fast becoming a new city. When I came here twenty years ago the trip from the seaport, Chemulpo, took over 12 hours, and I had to have a pony and eight men to bring myself and wife to the walls. I rode the pony and the madam came in a chair, borne on the shoulders of four coolies, with a relay of four others to help them. Toward the end of the journey we had to push on for fear we might not get to Seoul before the gates closed. The city is surrounded by a massive wall nine miles in length and 20 feet high. At that time this wall was entered only by gates, and these were closed at night by heavy doors plated with iron, which were not opened again until the next day. We got in just in time to see the gates close. There was no hotel, and we had to be met by the soldiers of our legation, and were quartered there during our stay.

The city still has its walls, but the gates now stand open day and night, and an electric street car line runs through two of them and on out into the country. An electric light globe prevents the closing of the one which we entered, and another gate has proved too small to accommodate the traffic and has been cut out by the Japanese, wide roads being made through the walls on each side. The gate itself, which is a temple-like structure with a double roof of heavy tiles, has been faced with stone; and it is now proposed to put a commercial museum in the soldiers' guard-room above it. In that old gate all the industries of the new Corea will be shown side by side with those of other nations, and the people will thus be taught the various methods of manufacture and sale.

"All the Winners!"

One gets so accustomed to accepting things as they come that very few of us, when we take up our favorite paper at the breakfast-table, think anything of the number of papers published daily in the world, or of the many singular languages in which some of them are printed. The Imperial Press Conference, which is now being held in London, calls to mind some remarkable newspaper facts.

The entire number of newspapers printed all over the world is somewhere between 5,500 and 6,000, to which America contributes 1,500, Germany 900, and Great Britain 250. In Persia they have six periodicals, and Austria possesses news-sheets printed in no fewer than ten different languages—German, Italian, French Hungarian, Greek, Latin, Polish, Servian, Slavic, and Hebrew to be precise. The "Escuimo Bulletin," published in the Arctic circle, is an Alaskan paper that appears once a year. It is very "newsy."

China, despite its vast population, boasts only two dozen "dailies," but among these is the oldest paper in the world. This is the "Taing-Pao," or "Pekin News," which was started 500 years before the Norman Conquest, and is now more than 1,300 years old. They are careful on the "Taing-Pao." In former days, an error in printing was punished with instant death.

Ocean Cables.

The diameter of the Atlantic cable varies according to the depth of the water, the character of the bottom on which it lies and the probabilities of interference from anchors. It is smallest in midocean depths. There is little or no movement at the bottom, and it is important that the cable should not have great weight. A heavy cable in deep water would be difficult to bring up for repairs if such were needed. In the shallower water a heavier type of cable is used. The types are known as "shore end," "intermediate," and "deep sea." The diameters of the commercial cables are: Shore end, two and three-quarter inches; intermediate, one and three-quarter inches; deep sea, one inch.

Kicking Kindness Into Him.

The benevolent old gentleman got busy when he saw four boys, eight or nine years of age, attack one boy of about the same age.

"You mustn't, you mustn't," he said when he had hauled them off, "attack your little companion this way. What has he done to deserve such harsh treatment?"

The four boys glowered sullenly while the one boy whimpered as he thought what would happen to him when the benevolent gentleman went on his way.

"Well," said one of the four at last, "he won't join the Band of Kindness our teacher wants to get up in school!"

Weeds.

Weeds if they are pulled out of a lawn at a time when they are full of seed will evince a degree of care for the seeds which is almost touching. They will curl their leaves upward as far as each can go to cover the seeds and protect them from the sun till the end, and often one will find weeds that are quite dead, sun killed, whose leaves still are wrapped firmly around the seed pods. No mother could show more striking devotion in death than do these plants.

Returned the Greeting.

A regiment of soldiers were at camp, and a young Scottish recruit was put on sentry outside the general's tent. In the morning the general rose, looked out of his tent and said to the young man in a stern and loud voice, "Who are you?"

The young man turned around smartly and said, "Fine; hoo's yersel'?"—London Tit-Bits.

Staterooms and Portholes.

An experienced traveler warns the uninitiated against paying from $5 to $20 extra for an outside stateroom on ocean liners. The inside rooms she has found to be perfectly comfortable and perfectly ventilated, and the portholes in the outside ones she considers a doubtful advantage. "They are kept locked," she says, "most of the time unless the weather is very pleasant, and even in calm weather they sometimes ship a deluge of salt water. Dirty water, too, swept from a deck above by the cleaners, may pour into a porthole of a room below, and the noise from the deck is annoying." Why, then should one pay extra for a porthole?"

Improvement.

"Have you noticed that your daughter has learned much since she has been going to boarding school?"

"Yes. She has become quite expert in her handling of the chafing dish."—Smart Set.

Am satisfied it's true.
But, goodness me, what makes it fly
So fast when I'm with you?

The Voice of the Consumer.

"What difference can a new deal make,"
They heard him tearfully exclaim,
"If still the same old people take
The same old rakeoff in the game?"

SOME STATISTICS.

Startling Facts About the Growth of the Dominion.

Statistics are often dry reading, writes an Ottawa correspondent, but a special grain report just issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce is so illustrative of the growth of the golden West, that a few minutes may well be spared to give thought to the figures which it contains.

Take the great item of wheat, for instance. In 1900, the total wheat production in all Canada was 67,897,917 bushels, of which only 17,000,000 was grown west of the Great Lakes. Last year, Canada's production of wheat reached a total of 136,795,137 bushels, of which 105,613,454 were grown in the western provinces. The acreage under crop in 1900 was 1,870,980, but in 1908 it had risen to 6,813,080. The greatest development has taken place in Saskatchewan. There in 1905 the crop acreage under wheat was only 1,130,084; last year it was 3,703,563 acres.

Saskatchewan is rapidly beating Manitoba as the granary of the West. Three years ago Manitoba produced 55,761,416 bushels of wheat as against 26,107,286 in Saskatchewan; but last year Saskatchewan produced 50,654,629 bushels as compared with 49,654,629 by Manitoba.

And while "wheat is king," the development of the West is shown by the figures that, whereas in 1900 the total production of oats in all Canada was 108,015,681 bushels, last year the West alone grew 195,940,976 bushels, while the total for all Canada was 254,615,670 bushels. In barley, also, the West is rapidly outstripping the East. In 1900 all Canada produced 20,322,666 bushels of barley, last year the West alone produced 23,636,546 bushels out of a total of 47,242,130 bushels.

Another significant illustration of the development of the West is the fact that while in 1900 there were 523 elevators with a capacity of 18,879 bushels, last year there were 1,364, with a capacity of 58,535,700 bushels.

One more striking fact, and this attempt to make a batch of figures interesting will be done. This is that the growth of the grain fields of the West has also meant an increase in Canadian shipping. In 1908 the amount brought east by Canadian vessels from Port Arthur and Fort William was 34,634,671 bushels; last year it was 68,308,104. In the same period the increase carried by United States vessels amounted only to a little over two million bushels.

The Mining Man and His Wad.

These practical mining men have some curious experiences at times during their jaunts about the north country. Mr. G. W. Raynor, of the Macdonald-Raynor mines, was coming down the Montreal river recently, north of Gowganda, in a canoe with one companion, when they ran on a submerged tree and upset. The bow man could not swim but managed to get hold of the overturned canoe and climbed on top. Raynor got hold of one end, and, swimming on his back, succeeded in towing the whole outfit to the bank. The axe and frying pan and several other valuable articles were lost, however, including a roll of bills, secured with an elastic band, which floated away during his squirming in the water.

They spread out the blankets to dry in the sun, and, having wrung the water out of their outer garments, were running up and down the landscape to dry the rest of them. Raynor was 100 yards down the stream, keeping an eye out for anything which might have floated, when he espied his roll of bills clinging by a slender hold to a branch of cedar a few yards out from the shore.

Mr. Raynor was in the city for a few days while the races were on; he remarks philosophically that not every fifty dollars lost in these parts during the last two weeks were so easily regained.

Westerners Buy Autos.

More than 300 automobiles, representing approximately $460,000, have been sold and delivered by local garages this season in the prairie provinces—the most phenomenal spring trade growth that the motor-propelled vehicle has met with in Western Canada. Cars of all makes, powers, and varieties are flooding the market. It has been the most prosperous season in the history of the trade, and agents are not meeting half as much difficulty in selling cars as they are in securing an adequate supply from the various factories. That the proverbial animosity toward the motor of those who engage in agricultural pursuits is a dead letter is evidenced by the fact that this spring more than twenty-five cars have been shipped out of Winnipeg to various Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers.

Lady Grey's Adventure.

An amusing occurrence in connection with Countess Grey's trip to these parts last week has just come to light.

The countess was traveling to Grimsby in an automobile, and saw some wild flowers on the side of the road. She requested her chauffeur to dig up a root, and as he was doing so the owner of the property came out and began to abuse her excellency.

Mrs. J. S. Hendrie, who was accompanying the countess, wanted to explain matters, but she would not permit her. The property owner insisted that the flowers be put back, on pain of arrest for trespassing and stealing. The farmer accused the countess of being a Yankee tourist.

An Elderly High Wire Artist.

Caledon East correspondent of Bolton Enterprise: An old man apparently over 70 years of age struck this town last Saturday evening and gave an exhibition of his skill on the slack wire His appearance on his arrival was rather against him, as he was a perfect guy. His beard, which reached down to his middle, was like "Joseph's coat" of many colors. On each side of his face hung down long, bushy locks of hair. However, his performance on the wire was creditable to one of his years, and he was rewarded by the crowd with many nickels and dimes.

AN INDIAN NEWSPAPER

KAMLOOPS WAWA IS UNIQUE THE WORLD OVER.

Father Le Jeune, a French Catholic Missionary Sent From Brittany Has Taught a System of Shorthand to the Natives and They Get Out a Quaint Little Publication — Has Translated Bible.

Probably the only tribe of real Indian shorthand writers in the world who contribute and subscribe to the queerest newspaper now being published are those belonging to the Kamloops and Douglas River bands living in the interior of British Columbia. Over 2,000 of these natives have mastered the art, and regularly read all the news pertaining to the tribe and individuals in their curious journal, called the "Kamloops Wawa." Bible, hymn and prayer book are likewise printed in this sign language.

This extraordinary advance in Indian culture was brought about through the effort of a French Catholic missionary, Father Le Jeune, sent out from Brittany a few years ago. Kamloops, the headquarters of Father Le Jeune, is some 300 miles and more northeast from Victoria, the capital of British Columbia. Just across the river, a few miles up from the town, is the main Indian village or rancherie. Here the native congregate in large numbers at certain seasons, for this is the important centre of Indian life for some 50 or 100 miles around. The occupation is principally hunting, fishing and ranching, and farming on a limited scale. Prior to the appearance of the priest, the Shamans, pretenders at the curing of disease, claiming, by aid of supernatural or magic powers, to be able to ward off evil spirits and prevent sickness, completely held the people in their superstitious and powerful grasp. Besides hindering their progress in religious matters, a good deal of property was squeezed from the people by their misleading influence. These so-called magical prophets fled at the coming of the French priest, who fully exposed their tricks and false creed to the Indians, and before he began his educational work the tribes of this locality living along the canyons and banks of the Thomson and Fraser Rivers in British Columbia, were unable to write their language, and had no written literature, although each possessed a language which has an extensive mythology, which was preserved by oral tradition.

To-day, nearly all the different tribes, some half-dozen or more, are writing letters to one another in their several languages, reading a newspaper, Bibles, and song books, all by means of shorthand. Father Le Jeune found that to be successful in his mission it would be absolutely necessary to devise a system of communication both to arouse and gain their interest by placing instructive printed matter in their hands. Having no written language or grammar of their own, he conceived the novel and useful idea of teaching the Indians of the various tribes to write their language, and showed them a sign to represent each sound which they uttered in pronouncing their words. The signs were simply the shorthand symbols of the Duployn phonographic system. After working out an Indian vocabulary containing nearly all the words most commonly employed in everyday usage in his shorthand signs, the priest, in early fall, when the village was thickly populated, first showed and explained his system to one of the bright Indian boys. He took to it intuitively and set to work to decipher some Indian prayers which the father gave him. Before Christmas he had pretty thoroughly learned the art of writing his language, and, being so pleased with his rapid success, he set to work at once to instruct his friends. The new "talk language" created widespread interest and the Indians were all eager to learn it. Soon the young as well as the adult members of each habitation for miles around were engaged in practicing the new method of communication.

Father Le Jeune was not satisfied with teaching his Indian parishioners to write letters in their own language by means of shorthand, and to read a paper in their native tongue, but he had published various parts of the Bible in nine different languages spoken by the several tribes in this region, using the same method, and still is laboring on additional publications. Shorthand, he claims, is so many times simpler than English orthography, that he takes no credit to himself for this wonderfully novel work of being the first to teach these natives to write.

On church and feast days the whole community attends services. The church is well lighted by acetylene gas, and illustrated stereoptican lectures are frequently given by the pastor. In the rear of the church are the editorial rooms where Father Le Jeune gets up his quaint shorthand paper. This has sixteen pages, about the size of the average book, devoted to church and various local information. "Wawa" is the word for talk in the Chinook jargon, hence Father Le Jeune chose that name for the quaint newspaper. It was printed on a mimeograph for the first year, but after this the priest succeeded in having type made for it and getting it printed on one of the presses of the nearest city. A full page of this unique publication shows the curious shorthand symbols used in the church services. Several years ago the Passion Play was enacted here by the Indians under the direction of the priest. They are quite proud of their performance, and speak of the event with unusual pride. For a novel picture of progressive Indian life, Father Le Jeune's queer "Wawa," and his band of Indian shorthand writers, quite overshadow all others to be met in British Columbia.

Calgary Has Thirty Thousand.

The census recently taken at Calgary, Alberta, returns the total population of the city at 30,000.

The University Railway.

Strathcona, the city in which the new University of Alberta is to be located, owes its success very largely to the Canadian Pacific Railway, which retained it as terminal for the Calvary and Edmonton branch. Edmonton is just on the other side of the river, and the forthcoming erection of a high-level bridge by the C.P.R. next September will make the two cities practically one. Both the bridge and the University are estimated to cost the same amount, namely, $1,500,000 each, to build, and it is difficult to tell which will do more for the material prosperity of the district. The other new university, for the Province of Saskatchewan, is to be located at Saskatoon, another Canadian Pacific town

THE BETH DIN.

Where Law Comes Cheaper to Jews of the London Ghetto.

In a small turning out of "Petticoat Lane," in the heart of the Jewish quarter of London, or "Ghetto," is situated the Beth Din. It may well be termed the "Poor Jew's Law Court," for not only can disputes of all kinds be settled here, but no charge whatever is made for the use of its services, the expenses of carrying it on being borne by the Jewish community. Its sittings are usually presided over by the Chief Rabbi.

Here resort Jews of all classes and nationalities to adjust differences, and obtain advice, the Russian refugee and the Roumanian outcast, the Polish fugitive and the Portuguese emigrant, old Jews with hooked noses and straggling beards, young Jewesses with glittering eyes and coal-black hair. Here sits an aged Israelite, his small skull-cap stuck far back upon his few remaining hairs. Two long curls, or "peahs," fall on either side of his face. These are regarded by orthodox Jews as evidence of piety and learning, and are never cut. His clawlike nose, his long, matted beard, his olive-tinted skin, complete the picture. You almost expect to hear him claim his "pound of flesh."

His claim is, however, of a less inhuman kind. His friend has called him a "Shabsel Tzirnick"—about the grossest insult one Jew can offer to another, implying he is a follower of the impostor Messiah of that name. The rabbi elicits the fact that the complainant only received this insult after himself calling his friend a "Terdeganov," or horse thief. Oil is poured on the troubled waters, apologies are exchanged, and both parties leave the court friends.

Then follows a claim by "Minyan" men for extra payment. According to Jewish custom, on the "Jahrzeit," or anniversary, of the death of a parent, a special prayer, called the "Kaddish," is offered up for the soul of the departed. At least thirteen male Jews over thirteen years of age must be present, thirteen being regarded by Jews as a lucky number. This is called the "Minyan." Certain of the poorer Jews attend these services to make up the full complement of thirteen, and are paid for their attendance. This dispute is about what amount is to be paid. After much argument, a compromise is arranged.

Now come cases of all kinds. A Jew unsuccessfully seeks damages from a fried-fish vendor, because, he alleges, the oil in which the fish he purchased was fried was not "kosher"—i.e., prepared in accordance with the Jewish law. A servant sues her mistress for wages due. Various money-lending cases, disputes between landlord and tenant, etc., follow.

In the Beth Din no oath is taken. Each party is expected to tell the truth, and generally does. When, however, there is a very distinct and direct conflict of evidence, statements can be repeated on oath.

It must not be supposed that the sole function of the Beth Din is judicial. It also decides questions of ritual, appoints officers for the performance of Jewish rites and ceremonies, and examines converts to Judaism. Questions relating to the Jewish dietary laws are also decided here. There is still in existence a law, although it is obsolete by now, by which water left overnight should not be drunk, for fear lest there might be a serpent's sting in it.

A Cosmopolitan R.A.

"The son of American parents, born in Florence, trained in Paris, living in London, a citizen of the United States, speaking Italian, French, German, and Spanish almost as fluently as he speaks English." Thus has Mr. Sargent, R.A., whose pictures are again amongst the most notable at Burlington House, been described. Mr. Sargeant also pleads guilty to a taste for hunting. There is a story told of a visit he once paid to Fairford, the residence of his compatriot and brother Academician, Edwin Abbey. They had had a long day's hunting, and his host was changing his clothes when he heard cries of "Horrible! Horrible!" proceeding from Sargent's bedroom. Alarmed, he rushed in, only to find his friend woefully surveying the ruins of a new top-hat. "My dear fellow," he cried, "what's the matter?" "You see that hat," said Sargent. "My horse put his foot through it to-day. I was thinking how terrible it would have been if my head had been inside it."

Flower Trade of the Scilly Isles.

The Scilly Isles, five in all, lie out in the Atlantic forty miles off the Cornish coast. The development of their flower trade has changed them from poverty stricken spots into islands of the blessed. Not many years ago the inhabitants eked out a precarious and scanty living by potato culture, but one day a man of wise forethought named Trevelick came to the conclusion that flowers would bring a richer harvest. He could see them growing riotously in the little gardens, and he collected a few bulbs here and a few there until he had enough to start business with, and the first consignment he sent to Covent Gardens brought prices that are now spoken of with something like reverence. With the passing of the years flower culture has settled into a well organized trade, providing occupation for everybody who wants to work on the islands.

Lord Marcus Beresford's Advice.

At the time when Lord Marcus Beresford took over the King's horses His Majesty had only a very moderate lot of animals in training. "Well, what do you think of them, and what would you do with them if they were yours?" he asked Lord Marcus one morning as they were watching the royal string at work on Newmarket Heath. Beresford looked the horses over reflectively for a moment and then said bluntly, "Shoot most of them, I think." "Shoot them by all means, then," retorted the King.

Ingenious Paupers.

Leicester Corporation is bringing into use a new pattern of drain-trap, as it has discovered that many of the poorer inhabitants have been using the old patterns for saucepans or potato boilers.

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

SUICIDE BURNED MONEY.

Mother Didn't Want Son's Wife to Enjoy Savings.

Trenton, N. J. July 30.—Because of jealousy and hatred of her son's wife, whom he married last week, Mrs. Joseph Slovack, a widow, sixty years old, hanged herself this afternoon.

Mrs. Slovack told her son that his wife would never enjoy any of the $400 which she had saved. The son thought his mother meant to spend it all on herself or give it to some one else. This afternoon Mrs. Slovack locked all the doors and windows of her home on the inside and burned the $400 in the kitchen stove. The indications are that she nerved herself to this end to her final act by drinking a half pint of whiskey.

CALLS IT A BLUFF.

Johnson Says He is Not Surprised at Jeffries Posting Forfeit.

New York, July 29.—Actual steps looking to a fight between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world were taken today, when Jeffries, on his arrival from the West, posted $5,000 as a forfeit to bind a match with the negro pugilist for a fight of any where from 20 to 100 rounds. The one-time boilermaker insists that the fight shall be held before the club offering the largest purse and that when articles are signed an additional forfeit of $5,000 shall be posted. The whole sum of $20,000 is to go to the winner.

Jeffries will leave for a short European trip in a few days. He will visit the springs at Carlsbad, in Bohemia, and will do a little preliminary training there. He plans to be ready to fight within five months.

Jackson, Mich., July 29.—"I'll leave Chicago Monday night for New Jack Johnson, the colored champion pugilist of the world this evening when shown a despatch to the effect that Jeffries had posted a forfeit in New York of $5,000 to fight Johnson and again place the honor of championship among the white race.

Johnson said he was not surprised to hear that Jeffries had posted the forfeit "I expected he would do some thing of the kind," said Johnson, "as a sort of bluff and to make good his statement that he would fight.

"I will be ready to fight almost any time. I think I am in condition now to clean up Jeffries within fifteen rounds."

Johnson said he preferred to meet Jeffries in San Francisco. "That is a best place in the country," he said.

Johnson reached this city by automobile late this afternoon, en route to Detroit.

Earl Grey Going to the Yukon.

Ottawa, July 29.—Earl Grey and Lady Sybil Grey, accompanied by Lord Lascelles, A. D. C., will leave Ottawa on Thursday night for Vancouver, en route for the Yukon. They will return to British Columbia about the end of August, where they will be joined by Lady Grey and Lady Evelyn Grey, and go into camp near Windermere, in the Valley of Columbia, south of Golden, for a fortnight's fishing and hunting.

SCRAMBLED EGGS IN THE MAIL.

Package from Canada Disgusts Postmaster at Brattleboro.

Washington, July 30.—Eggs as an article of mail transportation are not popular with United States postal authorities. It was learned today that some one in Canada had mailed three dozen eggs to Brattleboro, Vt., and when Postmaster H. E. Taylor opened a mail bag he found it dripping with eggs freshly scrambled. Addresses were obliterated from letters in many instances and they had to be sent to the Dead Letter Office. Such a situation could not arise from mail originating in the United States, as such things as eggs are not mailable in this country.

INDUSTRIOUS HEN FINDS HOARD OF JEWELS.

New York, July 29.—The return of much valuable jewelry which was taken last April from his home in Lakewood, N. J., is the cause of great rejoicing on the part of William M. Skinner. The whole lot was found by Charles Goldstein under the front porch of Skinner's residence

The scratching of an industrious hen under the porch disclosed the jewls. In the process of scratching a piece of jewelry was turned up, and the attention of Goldstein was attracted to the spot. His investigations were well rewarded for the entire lot taken in April soon was brought forth from the ground. Goldstein returned it to the owner.

It is thought the thief was afraid to attempt the sale of the jewelry for fear of apprehension and hid the loot under the Skinner porch.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. JAP. GAMBLERS FLEE.

Anti-gambling Crusade Swept Ove Plowery Kingdom.

St. Petersburg, July 29.—A despatch from Vladivostock declares that on account of the closing of the betting totalizators in Japan many Japanese race followers have arrived to conduct betting on the Vladivostock tracks. Eighty-two Japanese horses also have arrived here.

The anti-gambling crusade, which swept over Japan late last year, caused the closing of sixteen tracks and left hundreds of high-class horses stranded. A tremendous effort was made by the race-track element to induce the Japanese Government to retract and permit betting upon the tracks, but Premier Katsura held firm, and the horse-owners decided to ship their horses to Vladivostock where betting is allowed.

USED DOG WHIP.

Female Witness Says She Saw Th w Lash Girls in Her House.

White Plains, A.Y., July 28. —In the Thaw case yesterday, during the hearing of the prisoner's application for freedom from the asylum, a pearl-handled dog-whip was exhibited, and Thaw heard Miss Susan Merrill swear that she saw him use it on young girls. The prisoner's wife, Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw was in court and heard most of the testimony.

Miss Merrill's testimony was in marked contrast to that of the two alienists who went on the stand and gave Thaw a clean bill of health, declaring that in their opinion, he was sane. Summarized, her testimony was that during three years she kept in succession two New York lodging houses where Thaw rented rooms under assumed names, and to which he brought at various times more than two hundred girls. After Thaw's imprisonment she said she paid these women at least $25,000 as the price of their silence and to "keep them from bothering Thaw's wife or his mother." One of them, who, she said, passed as Thaw's wife, received $7,000. The money came from Thaw.

Thaw, she said, had posed as a theatrical agent, and had lured the girls to his rooms with promises of engagements. When she remonstrated with him for whipping them, she testified, his excuse was that the girls "weren't smart enough, and could not fill their positions and deserved a beating."

Thaw's pale face flushed during the giving of testimony by Miss Merrill.

STORY OF CRUELTY TO BOY.

Mr. Jerome revealed in his cross-examination of one of the medical witnesses for Thaw that he has been informed that a brutal whipping was inflicted upon a boy by Thaw on the estates of the latter's family in Pennsylvania. This matter was not placed in evidence, but was brought out by confusion of the witness, who believed Mr. Jerome's question related to the alleged whipping of a London hotel bellboy by Thaw as detailed in former proceedings in Thaw's case. The mistake enabled Mr. Jerome to declare the whipping case to which he referred was not that which had been placed in London.

Mr. Jerome in the recess hour remarked on Thaw's evidences of health, and agreed that Thaw was less nervous, more calm, and in better control of himself than he had ever appeared to be in a court room before.

He Fooled Them.

The brethren there, at Billville, had had been a-prayin' for rain;
'Twan dry on the dusty highway—
'twas dry on the hill an' plain;
They prayed in the swelterin' country,
they prayed in the sizzlin' town
'Till they deafened the drowsy angels with Lord, send the big rain down!"

As the heavens did not answer, they tackled another plan;
They got up a big committee an' called on the Weather Man:"
An' he said: "The rain's a'coming"; get back to your homes today.
Or the rivers from the skyland will be washing' you all away!"

'Twas so. The rain in rivers came down from the heavens dim;
It hid the ol'time highway, an' their horses had to swim;
Were the Billville people grateful?
Their wrath like a river ran.
Back to the weather bureau—back to the Weather Man!

Though he'd prophesied them truly,
and given them rainy-proof.
When they took the floor he weakened, for 'twas time to take the roof!
For clubs an' staves were flyin';
their wrath was a flame to view.
For the weather man had fooled 'em
by tellin' the weather true!

The dredge Emerson is at present engaged in the vicinity of Cameron Lake, in making a new steamboat channel between that point and Fenelon Lake. The channel will be about three thousand feet long, one hundred feet wide and ten feet deep. As the dredging will have to be done through the solid rock it is expected that the work will not be completed until late in the fall.

Fixing the Banks.

The banks of the Trent Canal between Lake Simcoe and Kirkfield are receiving some attention just at present. The Hubert and a large staff of men are at present engaged in putting them into shape to withstand the ice and snow of the coming winter. Work will likely be continued until the end of October, when it is expected that the best part of the job will have been finished.

Teacher Engaged.

The teaching staff of the Collegiate is again complete. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. J. H. Adams, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. G. H. Hoffard in his place. Mr. Hoffard will take charge of the junior science department, and will teach largely in the lower school. He has had six years teaching experience in other collegiates and high schools, and comes well recommended. As announced some time ago, Miss Ethel Alford of St. Catharines, will fill the position recently vacated by Miss B. Bauer.

VOL. XXXII NO. 178 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY JULY 31, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Peterboro's Future Prospects are Bright

Is Peterborough growing? All one has to do to get an answer to that question is to look about and see the many new houses going up in all directions and to notice the fact that there is not a poor house in the bunch. They are all of a superior class. Then by calling at the city clerks office one will find the building permit fyle which shows that the total amount invested in buildings this year is double that of last year and with over $14,000 to spare. This is indeed a bright outlook and shows faith in Peterborough's future. The people who are laying up their pile now and getting ready for the harvest days will be in a position to reap within the next year or two. This is no idle boast. There are scores of men in this city who can see past their nose and realize that a chance taken now will be profitable soon.

The total amount of the building permits issued this year up to the present is $193,225, and not $50,000 of that goes into large or commercial buildings; neither does it include the permit for the new library as that has not been taken out yet.

January	2,300	200
February	1,165	50
March	5,605	1,445
April	81,721	28,110
May	42,155	27,340
June	44,322	20,195
July	16,845	12,233
	$193,223	$89,573

Increase in 1909 over 1908 was $103,650 or the increase this year is greater that last years total by $14,077.

Last year of course there were no large buildings erected, but so far this year there have been only three, the largest of which was All Saints church at a cost of $25,000 the Colonial Weaving Cos factory at $11,000 and Lundy's block of stores on George Street at $10,500. Other than those three the great bulk of the money is for new residences or for repairs and additions to residences. There are a great many who have great faith in the future of the city and they are erecting new houses for rent, and for sale. Those people are wise. In a couple of years Peterborough will be several thousand larger and there will at least two more large factories here. The present is the proper time to build houses or to buy houses. Prices are not high and there is bound to be a demand for them in the near future.

New Plans for Isolation Hospital are Under Way

Ald. Bradburn, chairman of the Property Committee, Dr. A. W. McPherson, medical health officer and Mr. Jas. Blackwell, were in Montreal for a couple of days last week. The object of their visit was to see the handsome new isolation hospitals, there which are the most up-to-date and most complete in the Dominion.

The first plan prepared by the architect for the Peterborough hospital would not meet the requirements for which it was intended. The medical health officer went over them and suggested a great many changes which were necessary for hospital purposes. The doctor also suggested that the architect or someone go to Montreal and see just what was necessary.

The Property Committee decided to send the three gentlemen mentioned above. They went and they saw and the old plans are being revised with provision made for the modern conveniences.

The hospital, if built according to the plans which are being prepared, will be three stories high with a basement and every foot of the space will be utilized. The building will be of a moderate size, but it will be modern in every respect.

Dyptheria and scarlet fever will be treated therein, but a solid brick wall will be run through the building from the ground up, so that there will be no direct communication between them, any more than if two buildings had been erected 100 feet apart. Each side is to have its own main entrance, and each is fitted up without any thought of the other.

In the basement will be the general kitchen, the laundry,, pantries, coal and firnace room and sleeping apartments for the help.

On the ground floor will be the reception halls, lavatories, dispensary, doctors' room, examining rooms, matrons' quarters, bath rooms, closets, private wards and general wards.

On the second floor are more private and general wards with bath rooms, closets, serving rooms, etc., while the top floor will be for the nurses as sleeping apartments, etc.

At both ends of the hospital are provided verandahs two stories high, which in the winter time will serve as sun parlors. The fire escapes will also run down the verandahs.

Separate chutes for the laundries are provided as well as dumb waiters to carry the food up and down. These will be encased in brick, the floors throughout are to be mostly of cement as the idea is to make it as near fire proof as possible.

The hospital will accommodate from 25 to 20 patients, although the scarlet fever side will have a few more cots than the other side as are more fever patients as a rule.

The plans will be ready for the Property Committee in a few days, and if satisfactory they will be sent on to the council for approval.

Mr. McLaughlin Makes Explanation re Lease of Burleigh Falls Power

The following letter was sent to the Examiner but as it is in the interest of the public we take the privilege of republishing it.

July 27th, 1909

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In your edition of July 24th you discussed the Burleigh question in an able manner and with a great deal of what you said I perfectly agree, but you appear to be under a misapprehension. You speak about paying $120,000 for a lease partially expired. This is not the title that the Central Ontario Power Company offer the city of Peterborough. The Central Ontario Power Company are the fee simple owners of the property in the main. Their predecessors in title owned the whole water power. The government only expropriated sufficient to build the dam, and the company are the owners of the bed of the river, most of the banks and all the riparian rights from the dam down to Stony Lake. In settling with the government the company took a lease of the government dam and all the government rights in lieu of damages while the owners of other powers along the river received large sums in the way of damages. The true position of the title is that about nine-tenths of the power property belongs to the company now, in fee simple. The other tenth is under the lease from the government which has still fifty years to run. This lease, by itself would be worthless, but the government will never be in a position to lease their portion of the power to anybody else, as it would be entirely worthless to anybody else. If the city of Peterborough purchases Burleigh, they get the control of it for all time to come, and it has all the water of the Otonabee river and twenty-seven feet of head, the natural reservoirs of Lovesick Lake above it, and Stony Lake below, and will thus be enabled to develop fifty per cent. more power than any other power than any other power on the Otonabee river. The people must also consider the economy of development and operation of a large power. It would pay the City of Peterborough better to pay a couple of hundred thousand dollars for Burleigh than to take three or four smaller powers together, and incur the expense of their development and operation. However, it is for the city to pay.

Yours truly,
R. J. McLAUGHLIN.

OFFERS $30,000 TO FLYERS.

Seattle, July 31.—President J. E. Chilberg of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition telegraphed to Louis Blériot and the Wright brothers today, offering a purse of $30,000 for an aeroplane race between them.

This is in addition to the purse of $5,000 and other trophies offered to a number of aeroplane flyers yesterday.

THE WEATHER.

Fine and cool.

BLOOD FLOWED LIKE WATER ROYAL TROOPS GET UPPER HAND

Revolt in Spain Weakens—Ferocity of the Women Passeth Understanding—Bodies Mutilated After Death—Hundreds are Dumped Into Holes

San Sebastian, Spain, via Hendaye, France, July 30.—Official reports received here today from Madrid indicate that the situation in the Catalonian provinces is still most grave. The agitation in the Biscayan provinces is increasing. Capfain General Aguiler, accompanied by his staff, left Madrid today for Bilbao, the capital of the Province of Biscay.

Madrid, July 30.—The news from Barcelona that the cavalry and the troops have gainen the upper hand, captured the main body of insurgents, and that only isolated bands are holding out in the suburbs, creates the greatest relief in official circles here. The work of repression will rapidly be followed up throughout the Catalonian Captain-Generalcy.

Late last night it was announced that the cavalary engaged at Barcelona had succeeded in driving into St. Martin's square the principal band of revolutionists, against which the artillery opened fire. After fighting deliberately and successfully for a long time, the revolutionists were surrounded. Many persons were killed in the fighting, and the survivors surrendered to the troops.

No figures are given of the casualties at Barceloga, but it is certain that blood flowed like water.

HORRIBLE STORIES TOLD.

Cersbere, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 30.—All the reports received here from Spain confirm the terrible fury of the women throughout Catalonia. In Barcelona they fought behind the barricades with the men, urging them to fight to the death, and everywhere they resisted searches by gendarmes for recruits for the reserves, barring the doors of their houses, and firing at the soldiers from the windows.

In Casa de la Salva, the population surrounded and disarmed the civil guard, and locked up the officials in the barracks.

Not only in Barcelonia, but throughout the province church property was the special object of the popular fury.

Horrible stories are recounted of the merciless fashion in which the churches and convents were sacked and burned. The inmates of the institutions were driven into the fields to cries of down with the Church." In Grenollers, sixteen miles northeast of Barcelona, two convents were burned.

In Amer, 15 miles from Gerona, the Carmelite convent was looted and burned. The sisters narrowly escaped with their lives.

FEAR CARLIST RISING.

Bilbao, Spain, via Bayonne, France July 30.—The authorities of Bilbao are greatly disturbed. The fear that Don Jaime, who recently succeeded his father as leader of the Carlists, will take advantage of the situation and create a rising of his followers in Northern Spain, where the Carlists have a political military organization under command of Marquis Corralbo.

TO HEAD REVOLUTION.

Madrid, July 30.—The Madrid authorities fear the arrival in Spain of Alejandre Leroux, who is on his way to Europe from Brazil to place himself at the head of the revolution. He holds the workmen's organizations in the hollow of his hands.

While a member of the Cortes in 1903 Senor Leroux broke with the party because it joined with the Catalonian Solidarists, which included the Carlists, whom he opposed on the ground that they stood for the maintenance of a monaregist regime and clerical reaction. Last year, after a series of bitter articles against the government, he was condemned to two years' imprisonment, but fled to Brazil.

Despite his condemnation of the Republicans, he was re-elected to Parliament at the last elections, and is now on his way home again to assume leadership. The government has issued orders that he be arrested immediately on landing on Spanish soil.

Four Hotels Were Granted Licenses

There was joy in the hearts of the four hotel keepers who have been on an extended license for the past three months, when they learned last night that they had all been granted their licenses for the rest of the year. The license commissioners met last night in the inspector's office, and considered the four licenses still to be granted. These were the Queen's Hotel, Peterborough House, Cavanagh House and the Grand Hotel. All were given their license.

Natural Gas Used in China Many Years Ago

The last addition of Americanized Encyclopedia Britannica, gives the following information about gas, which at this time should prove of much interest to all Peterborough people: "Inflamable gas is formed in great abundance within the tank in connection with carbonaceous deposits, such as coal and petroleum; and similar accumulations not unfrequently occur in connection with deposits of rock salt; the gases from any of these sources escaping by means of figsures or seams to the open air, may be collected and burned in suitable arrangements. Thus the 'eternal fires" of Baku, on the shores of the Caspian Sea, which have been known as burning from remote ages, are due to gaseous hydrocarbons issuing from and through petroleum deposits In the province of Szechun, in China gas is obtained from beds of rock salt. At a depth of from 1500 to 1600 feet: being brought to the surface it is conveyed in bamboo tubes it is used for lighting as well as for evaporating brine; and it is asserted that the Chinese used this naturally evoluted gas as an illuminant long before gas lighting was introduced among European nations. At a salt mine in the comitat of Marmaro, in Hungary, gas is obtained at a depth of about 120 feet and is used for illuminating the works of the mine. Again at Fredonia (New York State) a natural emission of gas was discovered in bituminous limestone, over the orifice of which a gas holder has been erected, and thus about 1000 cubic feet of gas, composed of marsh gas and hydride of ethyl has been made available for illumination. In the city of Erie, Pa., there are 13 gas wells, each yielding from 10,000 to 30,000 feet a day the gas is escaping from one of them at a pressure of 200 pounds per square inch. At Bloomfield, Ontario County, New York, there is a spring which yields daily no less than 800,000 feet of gas of an illuminating power equal to fourteen and one-half candles. The city of East Liverpool, Ohio, is entirely illuminated, and to a large extent heated by gas wells which exist in and around the town. The light is of extraordinary brilliancy, and is so abundant and free that the street lamps are never extinguished, and much of the manufacturing steam power of the town, which embraces twenty-two potteries, giving employment to 2000 hands, is derived from the gas. The first well 150 feet deep was opened in 1850, and up to the present year neither it nor any of those tapped at later dates show any signs of failing. In many other parts of the continent similar gas wells exist and several such natural jets of gas have been observed in England."

PLEA FOR SUNDAY SPORTS.

Clergyman Insists That it Should Be the Workingmen's Holiday.

Beverly, Mass. July 31.—In consequence of public criticisms, the Rev. Paul Drake, pastor of the Beverly Universalist Church, which the Taft family attends reiterates his plea for Sunday baseball and other sports. He says:

"As for the minister, he doesn't need to play baseball on Sunday. He has time for it during the week, if he chooses, but the laboring man has only Sunday to himself. As conditions are he does no wrong, in my opinion, to seek any legitimate mode of amusement and recreation on that day. If the tendency today is for a free Sunday, where all can enjoy themselves in their own way, why try to stem that tendency?

Debentures for Sale Finance Committee to Put Them on Market

The city of Peterborough has for immediate sale $91,500 worth of debentures which are made up of $70,000 for the new water works dam, and $21,500 for the street extension and filling in the water front. The balance of the water works and the Smith street bridge bylaws will not be sold until required.

A meeting of the Finance Committee was held yesterday afternoon when the above action was decided upon.

All. Phelan and City Clerk Armstrong were also appointed delegates from the city to the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Board, which meets in Toronto on Sept. 1 and 2. The clerk was also authorised to pay the city's annual fees of $15.

The assessors were paid $100 each on account.

The annual grant of $500 was made to the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society. This money is used in taking care of the parks.

The committee also considered and passed the usual list of accounts.

ALARM IN FRANCE

FEARS THAT THE SPANISH THRONE MAY BE LOST.

People May Overturn the Government —Strong Feeling Against the War on Riff Coast :

Paris, July 31.—Private advices received here from Madrid say that the feeling against the war on the Riff coast is strong and widespread, and that it is doubtful whether Premier Maura will be able to weather the storm. The masses are described as being instinctively hostile to the war the purpose of which they do not believe to be just. The country knows by experience the fury of the Kabyle tribes, and a costly and bloody campaign in Africa has no temptations for the people.

The position of General Marina, commander of the Spanish forces in Morocco, is described as being inherently weak. He must maintain his base at Melilla and hold Mount Atalayou, four miles distant, which protects his advance post. The intervening country is intersected with ravines and dominated by the foothills of Mount Geruga, offering splendid opportunities for surprises by the Moors.

The "Temps" thinks that the situation in Spain requires the greatest prudence on the part of the Madrid government. It says that no official assurances can make the world believe that the war in Morocco is popular. The paper thinks that the rioting in Catalonia, the hotbed of Separatists, socialists and anarchists, is surprising, but that if troops are ruthlessly employed to repress the disturbances the entire public opinion in Spain is likely to revolt, and the government will run the risk of meeting a national rebellion.

The "Temps" advises Premier Maura immediately to convene Parliament for a debate on the situation. It considers the Spaniards extremely loyal people, and that the malcontents are in the minority, but fears that Spain may be dragged into a crisis.

GREAT WEALTH.

In Mines in Cobalt Says Mr. James Kendry.

Mr. Jas. Kendry has returned from Cobalt where he spent several days looking over the mines in which he is interested. Mr. Kendry says he is well satisfied and that he feels he has one of the richest properties in Cobalt, and the company fully expects to make well out of it.

BALL GAMES TODAY.

City Leagues at Nicholls Oval—Two Big Games.

The T.A.S. and P.A.C., meet in the first game at Nicholls Oval this afternoon, and the West Ends and Stratheonas are billed for the second. It is three weeks since the weather permitted any ball playing and the fans will no doubt be out in large numbers this afternoon.

Place—Nicholls Oval.
Time—Two o'clock.
Admission—Free.
Object—To amuse the public.
Get in line and try to appreciate the boys' efforts.

Wheat Fields are turning to Gold

Winnipeg, Man., July 30.—From the eastern boundaries of Manitoba clear across the three sunset provinces to the foothills of the Rockies, a good 1,000 miles, and in a belt approximately 300 miles wide on an average for that full distance, the wheat fields are rapidly turning from an olive green to an undulating ocean of russet and gold. Preparations have started for the garnering of somewhere in the neighborhood of one hundred million bushels of wheat not to mention other grains. "The bread basket of the Empire" is the term aptly applied to Western Canada, and while reaping of the crop is now a momentous proposition in the West, the matter of conveying the contents of this basket to market is of equally great significance. All of the railways of the West are concentrating their attention just now to the handling of grain shipments offered along their lines, and it can be safely said that in point of adequate facilities the grain this year will be handled with greater despatch and in a more satisfactory manner than ever before. It is ascertained that approximately 35,000 box cars will be available for the movement of the crop with approximately 750 locomotives.

The C. P. R. expects to have 18,000 box cars in operation, which is about 20 per cent. more than last year the Canadian Northern will have about 9,000, the Grand Trunk Pacific 5,000, and the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company, the Midland and the Brandon, Saskatchewan and Hudson's Bay Railway about 3,000 freight cars more.

Five hundred homeseekers from the East passed through the city today, arriving at the C. P. R station by special train at 12.15 and leaving at 1 p. m. Some few stopped off in the city, but the majority continued their journey west. Bruce Walker, Dominion Immigration Agent speaking of the general run of homeseekers, said they usually arrive in the West with considerable money with the intention of taking up homesteads eventually. For a time they will work in the harvest fields and then locate. This year between 5,000 and 6,000 have already arrived

Remarkable Cure Reported from St. Anne De Beaupre

Quebec, July 30.—A little, weazened, decrepit, old beggar made his way up through the immense crowd which daily surge around the Shrine of St. Anne de Baupre, in a little wooden box mounted on two rollers propelled by short sticks. The crowd gave way before the man and his friends, who were intent on having the crippled man touched with the sacred relics.

In the chapel of St. Anne de Beaupre repose what all true Catholics believe to be parts of the body of St. Anne. Upon being touched with these relics they believe that a cure may be affected.

The beggar's weazened face was made radiant by his string faith in the curative properties of the relics. He pleaded to be taken to the priest atonce.

The old man had not set his foot to the ground for thirty years. His shriveled legs were curled underneath his body. He lives entirely in his cart. He had not walked since an injury to his spine sustained when 12 years old.

It was then about 9 o'clock after a few hours' wait he was borne up to the priest, who stood calm and dignified before him. The beggar mumbled a few prayers and said his rosary. Then the receptacle containing the sacred relics were placed near his shrivelled lips. He kissed the relics and the priest applied them to his shrunken limbs.

The story told by his friends is that he stood up transfigured and limped out of the chapel, dragging after him the now useless cart that his cure, while not entirely complete was marvelous.

He has been a character around St. Albans, Vt., for a number of years.

Agricultural Report of Province of Ontario

The following information relative to the importance, from an agricultural point of view, of the Province of Ontario, has been given the Toronto Board of Trade by Mr. gC. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

The settled area of Ontario includes 24,500,000 acres, of which 14,000,000 acres are cleared, 5,500,000 acres woodland, 2,000,000 acres slashland, and 3,000,000 acres are swamp, marsh or wasteland. Of the 24,500,000 acres, 23,000,000 acres lie in what is known as Old Ontario and were settled between 1783 and 1860. There are besides in the north country scattered tracts of land aggregating 1,500,000 acres in extent and settled within the last few years For agricultural purposes we have to add another area of 16,000,000 acres unoccupied and only partly explored as yet. It is known as the Clay Belt, and is being opened up by the National Transcontinental Railway.

In 1896 Ontario produced $12,000,000 worth of beef, $10,000,000 in bacon and pork, and $9,000,000 in cheese. In 1906 the corresponding figures were $27,200,000, $22,500,000 and $15,000,000. In ten years the aggregate value of these three commodities rose from $31,000,000 to $64,700,000.

The number of horses on Ontario farms increased from 611, 241 in 1896 to 726,421 in 1906, the number of milch cows from 856,000 in 1896 to 1,113,374 in 1906, swine from 1,640,787 in 1896 to 1,916,763 in 1906. In the same decade poultry increased from 9,064,278 to 12,285,613. Live-stock to the value of $39,750,000 was sold or slaughtered in 1896. In 1906 the figures had risen to $61,500,000. The total value of live stock on the farms increased from $104,000,000 in 1898 to $139,500,000 in 1907, and the value of farm lands, buildings and implements from $923,000,000 to $1,222,000,000.

The figures are pleasing, and it is gratifying to note Ontario's supremacy agriculturally is likely to be still further enhanced by the opening up to settlement of the northern portions of the Province.

WHAT INDIANS WANT

TRIBES IN THE WEST RESENT WHITE MEN'S APPROACH.

But Serious Trouble is Not Expected—Indians Do Not Understand Conditions in Regard to Land.

Ottawa, July 30.—Official investigation shows that the condition of unrest amongst the Indians of Northern British Columbia is due to the protest of the red man against the invasion of the white man into his ancient precincts.

It is necessary, in order to understand the situation, to refer to the conditions under which British Columbia entered the union. It was then provided that the Indians of that province should be treated as well as those of older Canada and the Hudson's Bay Territory. However, at that time there were no Indian reserves such as existed in Ontario and Quebec and have since been created in the central provinces. The Federal Government therefore in taking steps to carry out its agreement with the province made an arrangement in 1876 whereby Indian lands should be set aside as reserves.

DO NOT UNDERSTAND.

This has now been done in the case of all the lands except those of the extreme north, and even there the work is in progress. In the case of the Skeena Indians, however, one or two of the chiefs, led by Capilano, are endeavoring to convince the Indians that they are to be robbed of their lands.

It will be remembered that some years ago Capilano went to England to interview King Edward, but did not see His Majesty. Since then the influx of white men to northern British Columbia has been enormous and the Indians are less able to understand their position.

The Indian Department accordingly has sent out two commissioners, Messrs. Vowell and Stewart, and they are now at Hazelton completing the reserves.

The department takes the ground that if a white man stakes on Indian land the enforcement of the law against him lies with the provincial government. However, there is no anticipation of serious trouble.

ANNUAL REGETTA.

Chemong Park Yacht Club Will Hold Forth on Aug. 12th.

The annual regatta of the Chemong Yacht Club will be held on August 12th. The committee is making the arrangements now, and the program of events will be a large and attractive one. Excellent prizes will be offered and the regatta promises to be the most successful one yet given.

A dance will be held in the evening, and the 57th Regiment Band will furnish the music.

An excursion on the steamer Otonabee will be run from Chemong to Sturgeon Point on August 5th for the regatta on that date.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Cobalt, July 30.—Robert T. Shillington, M.P.P., for the district, met with an accident yesterday that will lay him up for several weeks.

He was playing baseball with the Haileybury fat men against the New Liskeard fat men, and was the first man on his side to bat. In running running to first he turned his ankle on the base, and in trying to get his balance the other ankle was sprained. He was carried to the grandstand, where it was found that his left leg was broken above the ankle.

A Well-Known Westerner Tells of Suffering, Misery and Pain That He Cured With Nerviline.

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiccoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed; I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

NERVILINE STRENGTHENS WEAK STOMACHS

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in keeping Nerviline for your family remedy. Large 25c. bottles; five for $1.00 Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 15

THE SPANISH UPRISING.

The gross inconsistency of the demonstrations in Spain, which purport to be against the prosecution of the campaign in Morocco, is displayed in the fact that more fighting is being done and more loss and destruction is being caused by them in Spain than would probably occur in the whole of the necessary operations at Merilla. Arson, theft and murder run riot in Catalonia and Valencia, as a protest against the military protection of Spanish lives and property on the Riff littoral.

We have no doubt that some of the earlier protests against sending troops to Morocco were protests sincere. They were inspired by that remarkable antipathy to military service which is to be observed among a large part of the Spanish nation. But it would be grotesque to give such credit to these later activities of the Catalonian mob. The anarchists and other criminals have simply made use of the opportunity to organize an extensive campaign of loot. There is, they think, a fine chance to rob churches and plunder shops. Probably many of the rioters do not even know that there is a campaign in Morocco, and few who do know care. What they are mindful of is the chance to gratify criminal propensities, and to do it more safely as members of a crowd than they could do it alone.

The elements of criminality and unrest are so numerous and strong in Spain, particularly in Catalonia, that the situation must be regarded as serious. The throne is not in danger, and the ministry may not have to resign, though it might be well for the untra-reactionary Prime Minister to retire in favor of a more liberal and progressive man. But it will probably take time and cost many lives and much treasure to suppress the mobs and to re-establish law and order. It is to be hoped that the proclamation of martial law through out the kingdom is an earnest assertion of governmental authority.

BRITISH BIG NAVY PLANS.

It will be just twenty years ago on Tuesday next that Tenniel, in one of his inimitable "Punch" cartoons, represented Queen Victoria as saying to Emperor William, on the latter's visit to England, "Now, Willie, dear you've plenty of soldiers at home; look at these pretty ships—I'm sure you'll be pleased with them!" At that time the easy supremacy of the British navy was unchallenged and unchallengeable, while the German navy was regarded as a negligible quantity. However much or little "Grandson Willie" was pleased with "Grandmother Victoria's" ships, there is no doubt that he was mightily interested in them, and it is quite reasonable to suppose that by contemplation of them he was moved to plan for the building of ships of his own. It is certain that in the twenty years since that memorable visit he has been copying, if not improving upon, British naval models so diligently as to cause some apprehensions lest he should make his own navy actually superior to that of his British kin.

To what extent these apprehensions were justified or were exaggerated may be a prolific theme of discussion. There are those who confidently declare, in view of the tremendous display of naval potency which has just been made on the Thames, that there never was any occasion whatever for them; while others are quite as confidently pointing to the government's final acquiescence in the demand for more Dreadnoughts or super-Dreadnoughts as proof that they were well founded and that the government was brought to realize that fact, of which circumstance its present action is, they say, tantamount to confession. Certainly the statements of the Prime Minister and the First Lord of the Admiralty on Monday strongly indicated that if their former programme had been adhered to there would have been danger of England's navy being surpassed by some other, or at least of its strength falling below the safety mark. However these things may be, it seems certain that the programme which has now been adopted by the British government, in response to the urgings of Lord Charles Beresford and others, will put its naval strength above the reach of present competition.

LEADS A CHARMING LIFE.

Mr. Alfred Pearse, the celebrated black-and-white artist, has probably executed as many drawings as any other living artist. He has had over 7,000 published. He has without doubt met with more accidents than any one of them. In his earliest infancy, when he was being taken across the channel by steamer, a sudden lurch jerked him out of his nurse's arms and sent him flying over the vessel's side. It was only the lucky intervention of a passenger who caught him, that saved him from a watery grave. At the age of seven he was actually certified as dead by a doctor, whose verdict he disputed by an extraordinaly recovery, and as a youth he had a narrow escape from an infuriated bull in Chilham Park.

As a young man he was seized by a madman who held him suspended over the well of a deep staircase and on another occasion, when climbing at St. Moritz, he went careering down a slope towards a precipice with a 500 yards drop, and only managed to pull up within a few feet of the edge When he accompanied the Prince and Princess of Wales on the Royal Colonial tour he was dangerously poisoned by the bite of a red spider.

While at sea in the Bight of Australia, he was informed as he lay in his bunk that there was no hope for the vessel, which was in a sinking condition. Mr. Pearse decided to stop where he was, and the next day the ship having survived the storm, he was the only uninjured first saloon passenger on board.

To give a brief summary of his chapter of accidents, which number over thirty, he has been nearly drowned three times, had concussion of the brain five times, thrown from top of omnibus four times, shot once, fallen down Beachy Head once drugged once, certified as dead twice between the train and the platform once, injured by runaway horse once run down by motor car and nearly killed once, blind for two days, and has had shoulder out of joint, legs and right arm paralyzed and left eye forced out of socket. This does not by any means exhaust Mr. Pearse's list, and his doctors say that by all the laws of medical science he ought to be dead long ago.

The August Rod and Gun.

The holiday feeling pervading the land during the hottest month of the year is well represented in the August issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor at Woodstock, Ont., How the people in the Maritime Provinces, known by reason of the sea breezes as the "Kingdom of Cooldom", enjoy the beautiful summer weather is told in a profusely illustrated article. A delightful paper is "Still Hunting With a Camera"; while of equally absorbing interest is one on similar lines—"Shooting Wild Geese With a Kodak." To detail the list of good things would be to repeat the table of contents, but the article on Voracious Eaters by Martin Hunter is worth attention from all sportsmen. The King of Furbearers is a story of a successful attempt at fox rearing for the sake of pelts. Blood hounds and Trailing will appeal to all dog lovers and Mr. Bartlett's paper on the Wolves follows up the interest created through the Magazine in this important subject. This number should accompany every sportsman on his vacation for in its pages he will find much to make his leisure time pass pleasantly.

HE SET A DATE.

A merchant in a Wisconsin town who had a Swedish clerk sent him out to do some collecting. When the returned from an unsuccessful trip he reported:

"Yim Yonson say he vill pay ven he sells his hogs. Yim Olsen, he vill pay ven he sell him wheat, and Bill Pack say he vill pay in January."

"Well," said the boss, "that's the first time Bill ever set a date to pay. Did he really say he would pay in January?"

"Vell," aye thank so," said the clerk. "He say it ben a dam cold day ven you get that money. I tank that ban in January."

Pain can be easily and quickly stopped. Put Pain Killer—Dr. Sheep's—then Headache, wounds, pain, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes runs. Forever on the bottle. Ask your druggist or dealer about this formula—its fine. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help."

And for 20 years Dr. Sheep's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively endorsed in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr Sheep's Restorative.

When the function of the Heart or Nerves fail, it is now known that Sheep's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Sheep will himself gladly pay the druggist for the cost. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

First

Just write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Sheep's Restoratives and Dr. Sheep's Rheumatic Remedy, but if your druggist is out of either, I will send you a full 30 day treatment, prepaid, on receipt of price. I am honest and responsible druggist in almost every community, everywhere, to issue my "no risk, no pay," medicines to the sick.

Then

Write me also which book you need.

The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to you. Some of them are worth well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book is free.

WOMEN KILLED 15 SNAKES.

They Fell Into Abandoned Mine in the Darkness.

Pittsburg, July 31.—Three women of Latrobe who went out early this morning to pick berries on a farm were rescued late this afternoon by farm-hands, after having been buried in an abandoned coal mine for five hours, during which time they fought continually with a nest of big snakes. Two of the women became hysterical when released and are in a serious condition.

As the women approached an inviting field of berries, the earth suddenly sank, engulfing them. All three fell about twenty-five feet through a break in the roof of an abandoned mine. They killed fifteen snakes in the darkness before the farmers pulled them out by the aid of a team of horses.

PREMIUM FOR NONUNION MEN.

Iron and Steel Company to Share Many Thousands With Employes.

Youngstown, Ohio, July, 31.—One of the most elaborate profit-sharing schemes ever known in the iron and steel business will be put into effect by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company as the result of a meeting of the stockholders today. There will be distributed to the 5,000 employes between $200,000 and $400,000 each year.

The yearly payroll of the company is about $4,000,000.

The plan has not been fully developed, but in a general way it is based on the earnings of the company and will reach as high as 10 per cent of the wages of the men. Every man in the works from the heads of departments down to the laborers will participate except where a wage scale is signed with a union for a year.

Misses Mary and Dreda Coughlin of Hastings, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. McFadden, Elm street.

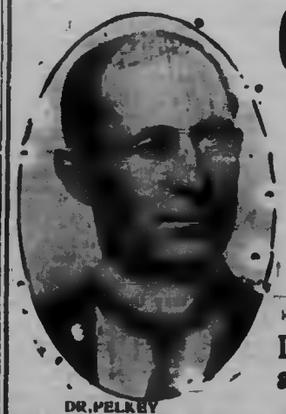
Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor



DR. PELKEY

Dr. pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 20 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and let treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Mexico were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

THE DOGS' CEMETERY.

Little-Known London Burial Ground For Canine Pets.

In an obscure corner of Hyde Park, in the Bayswater road and near the site of old Tyburn, there is a tiny spot of ground known as "The Dogs' Cemetery." Sheltered from observation by tall trees its presence is never suspected by the public, and yet it is one of the strangest and most pathetic sights in London. Here may be seen hundreds of handsome miniature monuments, inscribed with epitaphs. The cemetery is now fully occupied, and has been closed against more burials.

For the most part the owners of the "late lamented" seem to have been ladies, and the inscriptions placed upon the tombstones testify to their devotion to their departed pets. Two of the epitaphs suggest that the owners of the dead dogs believe that there is a hereafter for animals. The first is:

In loving memory of Jessie,
Born at Lintlaw, in Berwickshire, November, 1895;
Died at Ovington Gardens, London, on 13th July, 1907.
"Not one of them is forgotten before God."—Luke xii., 6.

The other is in these terms:

There are men both good and wise,
Who hold that in some future state
Dumb creatures we have cherished here below
Shall give us joyous greeting when we pass the golden gate.
June 11, 1907.

There is a double inscription on this tombstone, the second being:

Also my love Ruby, went asleep
Jan. 29th, 1908,
In her 13th year. So much missed.

Another inscription records a canine tragedy. It is in these terms:

To darling Monty, who was drowned in Old Windsor Lock, Sunday, June 24th, 1900.
Poor little fellow.
Gone but not forgotten.

Some of the inscriptions are in a sentimental vein that seems absurdly exaggerated, as for instance:

My sweet Lady Nell.
Dim, dumb, speck of humanity.
I laid down my heart beside her.
March 24, 1906.

Another, which shows a deep, mutual affection between owner and dog, reads:

Thy memory lasts,
And thou shalt live as long as we.
And after that thou dost not care,
In us was all the world to thee.

It may be doubted if any dog ever received such a glowing testimonial of character as this:

Darling Victor.
Died May 20th, 1900.
Gracious to all, but whose his love was due
So just, so faithful, loyal and true.
Ever missed and deeply mourned,
Sleep on, darling, sleep on.

Of the following it might be said that no loved relative could have expected greater devotion after death than the dog to which it is dedicated:

Never can thy memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts will ever linger
Round the spot where thou art laid.

Severely practical persons may object to the sentimental strain of some of these "doggy" epitaphs, but, at any rate, they testify to a great bond of affection between the dead animals and their owners.

Still Believe in Witchcraft.

A belief in witchcraft still prevails in parts of Lancashire, England; also in the Isle of Man and still more strongly in the Hebrides. A writer in Chambers' Journal gives some interesting anecdotes of the superstitions which persist among the Hebrideans. Belief in witchcraft is said to have a "strong and living hold" on some of the people of those outer isles. An instance is given of a case heard before the Stornoway sheriff's court not many years ago, in which witnesses deposed to there being several witches in the township, one of whom was charged with so bewitching cows that the substance of their milk passed into the milk of the witch's cow. The husband of the alleged witch stated in court that when he heard the rumors about his wife he got three of the constables of the township to come and examine his cow's milk to see if it were any richer than usual, as would be the case if the substance of Mrs. A.'s cow's milk were present in it. Other evidence of this remarkable transubstantiation was given. The sheriff ridiculed the notion of witchcraft, but the Stornowegians stuck to it with absolute faith.

A Dinner in Mexico.

The dinner began with soup, followed by an array of courses, mostly compounds of things I did not recognise and nearly all very hot with chili peppers, but on the whole palatable. Frijoles (beans) were served just before the dulce. That is a warning that you have had all you are going to get and to satisfy yourself upon them if you have not had enough of the other things. They were well cooked and good. The bread was in the form of rolls, sweetened and of poor quality—"pan blanco" it is called. It is the characteristic bread, however, of Mexico—when bread is to be had at all. The coffee was of good quality, but, like all Mexican coffee, muddy and very strong. It is burned black in roasting, ground to a powder, boiled and served, grounds and all. You are supposed to drink the grounds.—Outing.

Unnatural History.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be English and full of affright,
While a rabbit is Welsh and is eaten at night.

Amended.

In a book of musical criticism the author alluded in flattering terms to the works of his friend Herr Q. Unfortunately during the printing of the volume the two friends quarreled. Then the offended author had inserted in each copy of the book a slip of paper with the following note: "Erratum, page 94, line 21, for 'Herr Q., the eminent composer and distinguished musician,' read 'Herr Q., the pretentious violinist and impudent and clumsy plagiarist?'"—London Mail.

Testing Dear Little Fido's Milk.

THE BELL MEMORIAL.

Toronto Sculptor's Work Surpassed All That Was Shewn.

The successful design for the Bell Memorial at Brantford is particularly interesting, not only as being the the work of a Toronto artist, but also on account of its radical departure from the conventional type of such monuments. As has already been announced, Mr. Walter S. Allward, of Toronto, bore away the palm from such men as Hill, Hebert, and Hamilton McCarthy, of Montreal, Partridge, of New York, and Pausch, of Buffalo. But the accounts so far published give but scanty information as to the nature and meaning of the design, whose superiority was so marked as to lead Partridge, one of the contestants, to state that it was the only one for the purpose, and that there was hardly any use of his leaving his model at all.

The design consists of a central panel carved in low relief and two figures heroic in size, which stand at the extreme ends of the monument, thus suggesting wide distances. And this in fact is the key-note of the whole design, this suggestion of great intervals across which man sends his voice. One of the large figures is speaking and the other listens, and this with the intimation of distance gives the strikingly simple and dignified motive of the design. It is carried out with a little fuller detail in the carvings on the panel. There a half-recumbent figure representing Man sends forth a troop of various messages across a rounded surface, which again conveys the idea of great distance. These messages are represented by shadowy figures depicting the various messages of joy and sorrow and anger and love. Over the recumbent figure of Man hovers a cloudlike, dimly descried form, whose hand touches his with a suggestion of a wire, and which reaches forward in a gesture of boundless power. This is evidently the spirit of Electricity which enables Man to send forth his messages over the rounded earth.

Mr. Allward, the author of this excellent design, is still a young man, being only thirty-three years of age, but he has already done some very fine work, among which might be mentioned the Simcoe and Mowat monuments in Toronto, and the Nicholas Flood Davin memorial in Ottawa. Some of his later achievements are the design for the South African monument, the Macdonald statue to be erected in Queen's Park, Toronto, and the Baldyin Lafontaine monument to be placed before the House of Parliament, Ottawa. This last is an especially fine design, and shows the manner in which his work has gone on broadening in scope and gaining in simplicity and dignity. There is every reason to look for big things from this young Toronto artist, who, though almost entirely self-taught, has already such a fine record of accomplishment behind him.

Trouble Over a Veil.

"I have decided to forswear all kinds and conditions of floating flattering veils henceforth and forever more," announced an attractive young Toronto matron recently.

"Why?" gasped her feminine audience. "They are as fashionable as ever."

"Not for me," responded the Y.T.M., "since my experience of the other day. I was on a Yonge street car, and there was a strong north wind which kept blowing the ends of my veil over my shoulder. Time after time I put it back, on each occasion getting a little more exasperated. When it came over for about the hundredth time, giving me a stinging swipe in the eye, I grabbed it angrily and drawing it down firmly, stuffed the end under my arm. At this juncture there came a squeal from the seat behind me, and a vinegary feminine voice said, 'Madam, what are you trying to do with my veil?'

"I turned hastily to meet the malevolent gaze of a majestic individual whose hat was perched rakishly on the extreme limit of her back hair, while with speechless mortification I realised that the veil depending from it was still clutched in my guilty hand."

Judge McKeown and Judge Barry.

The recent appointments to the supreme court bench of New Brunswick represent the orange and the green. Judge McKeown is prominent among those who walk on the Twelfth, and Judge Barry is the first English-speaking Catholic who has been a supreme court judge, although the province is one-third Catholic. New Brunswick has a divorce court, and Judge McKeown will preside over it.

Both the new judges are relatively young men, Judge Barry being just over fifty, and his confrere several years on the sunny side of it. Both are amiable men, of rather more than average legal ability, and the worst that can be said of Judge McKeown is that he has been in politics, while Judge Barry is free even from that reproach.

Young Man's Town.

Perhaps the secret of Haileybury's aggressiveness is the fact that it is a young man's town. No town in the country can boast of so many young men engaged in active business for themselves as this silver city. The municipal officers, bank managers, proprietors of the large stores, Government officials, mine owners, officers and directors of the navigation companies, and a long list of others too numerous to mention, are, with a few exceptions, all young men whose ages range from 19 to 35 years. Haileybury has more enterprise and energy behind it than any other town of its size in the great Dominion, according to many visitors, and that it takes precedence over a large number of towns that boast a greater population.

CHINA'S HOLY DUKE.

Greatest Aristocrat in the Celestial Empire.

The father of the infant Emperor of China, who is acting as Regent during his son's minority, is doing much to abolish the distinctions between the Manchus and the Chinese. Until now the Manchus, that is to say, the conquering race, to which the reigning dynasty belongs, have enjoyed all sorts of special privileges before the law, now all will be treated alike. Should the regent carry into effect his intention of betrothing his son, the three-year-old emperor, to a maiden of pure Chinese blood, probably either a daughter or granddaughter of China's "Holy Duke," instead of to one of the Manchu princesses from whom the monarch's consorts have until now been chosen, he will have made a long step toward reconciling the bulk of the Chinese people to the reigning dynasty and toward obliterating the antagonism that exists between the Chinese and the Manchus.

The Holy Duke is fully alive to the advantages of reform. A man about fifty years of age, and seventy-sixth in unbroken descent in the male line from Confucius, he may be regarded as the most blue blooded noble in the world, the more so as he is still in possession of the landed property which belonged to the illustrious founder of this house more than three thousand years ago; that is to say, some twelve centuries before the birth of Christ. The property is situated in the province of Shantung, and it comprises the tomb of Confucius at Kyfu and his residence. The duke is very rich, since each generation of emperors, Chinese as well as Manchu, has lavished gifts upon the "Holy Duke" of its day. This one's name is Kung Lingi, that is to say, Duke Lingi, and his official designation is Sheng Kung, which means "Holy Duke." He is a tall, heavy faced Chinaman, of somewhat massive build, with a rather majestic presence and a good humored face, the mouth inclined to laughter and in keeping with the shrewd cheery eyes. Though regarded as a saint, he is a very jovial saint, and extremely fond of all the good things of life. Every now and again he visits Pekin, where he is received with imposing honors, and on these occasions he does not disdain to travel by rail.

STORIES OF THE KAISER.

Little Tales Which Are Enjoyed by His Subjects.

William II. of Germany has many acts of kindness to the poor to his credit. One day at the palace of Potsdam he noticed that one of the sentries seemed very melancholy. With much hesitation the man told his story, how he had been on the point of getting married when he lost all his money and now hardly hoped ever to realise his dreams. The emperor, after inquiry had proved that the man was speaking the truth, gave him a generous present for the expenses of his wedding, promoted him corporal and found a place for his wife in the service of the empress.

A poor sewing woman at Cologne, finding it impossible any longer to earn her living with a worn out old sewing machine, appealed to the emperor for assistance. A week later a new machine with all the latest improvements reached her from her sovereign.

When the kaiser told Prince von Buelow he was to be chancellor it was evident from Buelow's face that something about the appointment did not altogether please him. The emperor pressed him to tell what it was, and Von Buelow reluctantly explained that greatly as his wife would rejoice in finding her husband appointed chancellor, she detested the palace of the chancellerie, as she was a great housewife and he was sure that the thought of the two or three months that would be needed to clean the immense palace to the pitch she would want to would terrify her.

"Don't let that bother you, my dear Von Buelow. Present my compliments to the princess and tell her that it will be a great pleasure to me to contribute to making that job less difficult to her."

It was not a regiment of soldiers detailed for house cleaning purposes that came to the princess, only a small parcel, which on being opened was found to contain a hundred pieces of soap.

Love's Young Dream.

The Stern Parent—And if you marry this young Littlecash where do you propose to live?

The Girl—Why, George says we are going to live at the same hotel where he lives now.

The Parent—Don't you know it costs a great deal to live at a hotel?

The Girl—Why, no, papa; it won't cost any more. George says that if you know how to order one portion is ample for two persons. I really won't be the least bit of a burden on George, papa.

That Is the Difference.

"Now, then, boys, if you had to address a large box of tea on the one hand and a schoolmaster on the other, what would be the difference in your form of salutation? Of course you will reply 'We don't know.' Well, we will tell you. A large box of tea you would address as 'thou teachest,' and a schoolmaster you would salute with 'thou that teachest.'" This is the difference, you see."—London Scraps.

The Remedy.

The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg was one day gambling at the Dober an tables and was betting on the same numbers as a rich master potter who stood next to him.

Both having lost their money, the grand duke inquired, "Well, potter, what shall we do now?"

"Oh," replied the master potter, "your highness will screw up the taxes, and I shall make pots."

Dragon fly grubs are most destructive to the fry of fish. Out of 50,000 turned into a pond one April only fifty-four could be found the following September. The pond was infested by dragon fly.

Criminals in China.

An important factor in the punishment of criminals in China is the power of the government to seize members of the criminal's family and hold them responsible should he escape. Few Chinamen will flee when they know that their father or mother or near relatives may be pounced upon and imprisoned.

Rat Bites.

It sometimes takes a year for the bite of a rat to heal up.

Circassian Seeds.

The bright scarlet seeds of Adenanthera pavonina are used as jewelers' weights in India, each being about four grains. They are also strung and made into necklaces. In the West Indies they are known as Circassian seeds.

The Turkish Empire.

The total area of the Turkish empire is 1,602,280 square miles and the total population over 38,000,000.

Siberian Urmans.

The Siberian "urmans" or "targas" are vast woods of pine, larch and cedar at least 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,000 miles from north to south. They are so thick and gloomy that the natives call them "places where the mind is lost."

There are some 3,000 islands in Lake Huron.

Scipio Africanus.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Caesar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on Oct. 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

Opalescent Glass.

Opalescent glass for use in the manufacture of stained glass windows is made in this country in a manner which cannot be duplicated, and this material is shipped all over Europe.

The Bladderwort.

The aquatic plant the bladderwort feeds on animal life. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the eel trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant and is at once swallowed and assimilated.

Ant Proof Woods.

Use is made in the south sea islands of boxes made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

Servian Army Pay.

Of the officers of the army of Servia, a general receives $2,000 a year; a colonel, $1,400; a lieutenant colonel, $1,100; a major, $900; a captain, $630; a first lieutenant, $450; a second lieutenant, $360. Servian commanders use the whistle in the field and control their men by signal without any shouting or confusion during operations. Most of them speak at least one foreign language, and nearly all understand French or German.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.
ANY PERSON WHO IS THE SOLE HEAD of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.
Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.
In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.
A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may purchase a homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

WHEAT BY PACIFIC ROUTE.

Will Be Quite Heavy, Says Prominent British Columbian.

St. John, N. B., July 30.—Attorney General Bowser, of British Columbia, interviewed here regarding wheat shipments from Vancouver, said:— "It looks like a lot of wheat going by the Pacific route. Elevators are being erected on a large scale by private enterprise, with every prospect of returns. The completion of the Panama Canal will mean much not only to Vancouver and British Columbia but to the whole coast as well. We have the lumber, mines, and fish and farm districts, and can supply the world."

AN UNOBTRUSIVE COUNT.

Obtains License in New York to Wed American Girl.

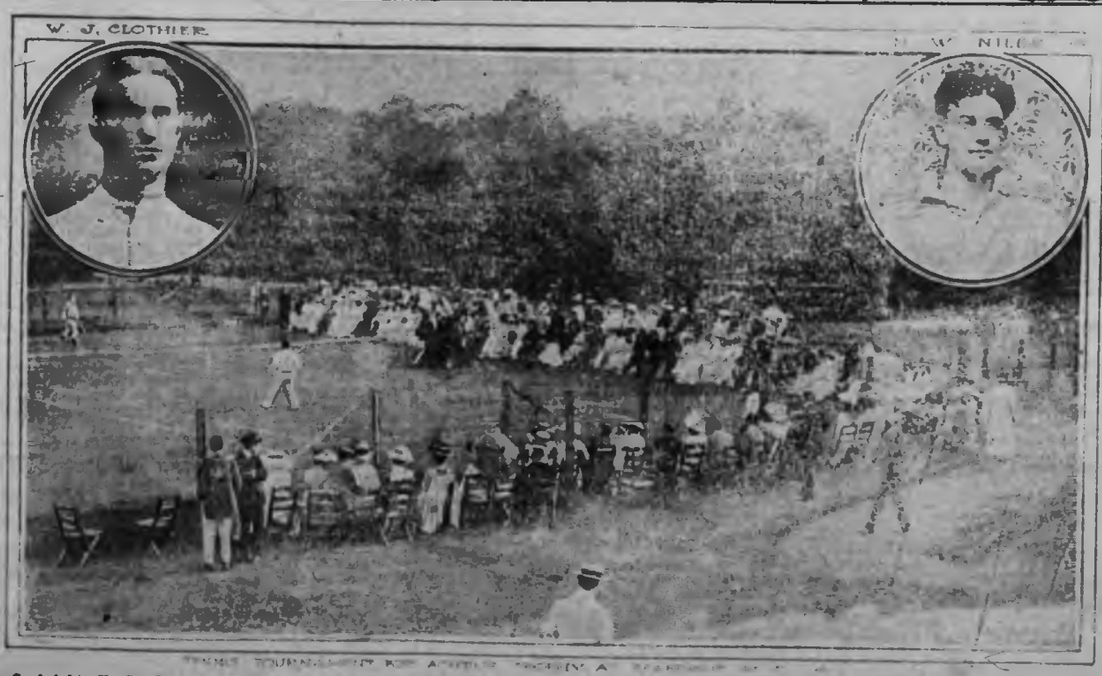
New York, July 30.—Count Robert de la Barge de Certeau, 53 years old, of Paris, France, and Miss Jennie Bell Wolrath, of No 677 Burlington avenue, Los Angeles California, were yesterday granted a license to marry here. Miss Wolrath gave her age as 30, and her birthplace as Buffalo, N. Y. The couple said they would be married in this city before August 1, and leave for Paris immediately after the ceremony.

CENSUS IN CHINA.

Country to Account for 400,000,000 People.

London, July 1.—China is preparing to take a census of her 400,000,000 people. The census is to be a thorough one, and after it is done the facts and figures are to be kept pretty well up to date.

One provision of the regulations for officials reads: "After the completion of this census all births, deaths, marriages and adoptions must be reported by the head of the family to the local census office or police station; the records of families must be revised every two months and records of individuals every six months, and reports must be made annually to the Board of the Interior by the directors general of the census from the various provinces."—London Globe.



Scobright, N. J., July 30.—William J. Clothier, lawn tennis champion of the United States in 1906, won a second leg on the challenge cup presented by the late Mrs. Fritz Ascholle on the courts of the Scobright Cricket and Tennis Club. It was no easy task for the Philadelphian to keep possession of the trophy which he has held since last year, for his opponent in the challenge round, Nathaniel W. Niles, the interscholastic champion, gave him a hard fight before he could claim victory.

Merely a Typographical Error.

"We wish," wrote the editor of the Tarton Trumpet, "to correct an error which crept into our issue of last week. In describing the unfortunate runaway accident on Main street we wrote: 'While waiting the arrival of the ambulance, Doctor Skinner, who was fortunately present took the victim's pulse.' It was the printer who carelessly changed the 'I' in the last word to 'r'. We make this correction in justice to Doctor Skinner, whose fees are always moderate, and who never presents a bill in advance. Office over Joel Kimball's drug store."

Cause for Complaint.

Mrs. Stuckupp—"The editor of the Daily Slasher is a mean old thing, so he is."

Stuckupp—"What's the matter now Mrs. Stuckupp — "I sent him an account of our literary club meeting in which I referred to myself as being 'well known in polite circles.'"

Stuckupp—"Well?"

Mrs. Stuckupp — "The measly paper said I was 'well known in police circles'."

FIRST AIRSHIP COMPANY.

Company Formed to Carry Passengers and Freight.

Columbus, Ohio, July 30.—The first airship company formed in Ohio was chartered by the Secretary of State yesterday. It is the Bostel Airship Company, of Cleveland, capital stock $25,000, which is authorized to manufacture and sell airships, aviators, aeroplanes, and to transport passengers and freight through space. The incorporators are well-known citizens of Cleveland, as follows:—Carl Bostel, Frank E. Dellenbaugh, Allen Doemer, John W. Farley, and Thomas F. Fleming, Dellenbaugh is a former Common Pleas Judge.

SCATTERING OF MINISTERS.

Business Cleared Up at Cabinet Council at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 30.—At yesterday's Cabinet Council business was pretty well cleared up and there will be no more sittings till about the third week in August. Sir Wilfrid Laurier leaves on Sunday to spend a week with friends at the Shawinigan Fish and Game Club. He will then go to Arthabaskaville and remain there two weeks with Lady Laurier.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will return to Murray Bay and Hon. Sydney Fisher will go to the Seattle Exposition. Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King will remain in Ottawa, and Hon. Charles Murphy will return from the West early in the week. Messrs. Fielding and Oliver are expected home about the 20th.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally inducing from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Gasoline and Insurance.

If you have a pint of gasoline in your house for use in your automobile, or for cleaning your clothes, and have no special permit from the fire insurance companies to keep it, and if you expect to collect any insurance in case of fire, you had better hasten and get a permit to keep it and pay 25 per cent extra on your insurance. It does not matter how much insurance you have on your buildings you cannot collect one cent from the insurance companies if you keep even so small a quantity of gasoline on your premises without special insurance.

THE NEW MILL.

Peterborough Lumber Company have Started Operations.

As was stated by The Times yesterday morning the Peterborough Lumber Company commenced operations yesterday on their new mill on Burnham's Point, to replace the old one destroyed by fire last Monday night. The new structure will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000 and it will be modern in every respect. No time will be lost in completing the job.

ANOTHER FIRE.

At Peterborough Lumber Company's Mills.

The Peterborough Lumber Company had another close shave yesterday at noon. Fire was discovered in the planing mill just a couple of minutes after 12 o'clock. An alarm was sent in at once and the firemen responded in good time. When they arrived, however, the employees of the mill had formed a bucket brigade, and had the flames practically out. It was just discovered in time, however, and another big blaze was averted. The cause of the fire is not known. The damage was not very heavy as only about 20 square feet of joist in the basement was burned.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief.

ACTION DISMISSED.

P. C. Adams Has No Claim Against the City.

About the 10th of July Deputy Judge O'Connell gave judgment in the action of P. C. Adams against the city, claiming $20 which was for the reward for apprehending a horse thief, dismissing the claim.

It will be remembered that P. C. Adams arrested a man at Millbrook, who was found guilty of horse stealing and fined by Magistrate Dumble. Previous to this the prisoner had been arrested by Constable T. Miller of Millbrook, and had been allowed to go. Magistrate Dumble gave a certificate ordering the city to pay the reward to P. C. Adams.

City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall said that the city was not called upon to pay it, giving his reasons several technicalities, and the deputy judge sustained him in these.

The world's most successful medicine for bowel complaints is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It has relieved more pain and suffering, and saved more lives than any other medicine in use. Invaluable for children and adults. 5

BAND CONCERT.

Weekly Program Given Before Thousands of Citizens.

It was an especially good program rendered by the 57th band under the leadership of Mr. R. Gliddon at Victoria Park last night. Another crowd numbering thousands listened to the music. The program was as follows:

March—American Republic.
Medley—Overture No. 3.
Coon Song—"My Gushing Rosie," by Mr. Halpany, with band accompaniment.
Selection—Gems of Scotland.
Medley—"The Whistler and His Dog." (By request.)
Selection—Southern Songs.
March—"My Maryland."
Musical Sketch—Down South.
March—Selected.

What Every Woman Requires for Headache Languor

Has your strength given out?
Do you feel languid and tired this spring?
Are you pale, somewhat nervous, finding it hard to do your housework?
Thousands feel just the same. — Some simply postpone that trouble and feel the enervating influence of latent symptoms of disease and weakness. You should do like Mrs. Flannigan of Essex Junction—here is her experience: "I will never again suffer the torture of deadening spring illness—never will I have headaches, such sleepless nights, such pale cheeks and lack of appetite. I lived through it all several times, but now I know the medicine that cures. I urge every person, young and old, to try the invigorating effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. When I was so played out, listless,— Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me appetite— I relished my meals and grew strong. Rosy color came to my cheeks, every day I felt brighter and better. All my old strength has been restored and the great tonic blood purifying powers of Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."
Women who are continually pale, blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, aching muscles, bearing down pains, lack of sleep and loss of appetite—they are the poor women that sorely need Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c at all dealers.

CITY OFFICERS.

Frequently Have Troubles of Their Own.

Being a city official with a steady job and sure income is not as rosy as it first appears. The medical health officer got all kinds of abuse and had lots of trouble during the epidemic years. Now The Collector thinks it up against it. Four out of every five who have paid their taxes have complained bitterly about them being so high. The city engineer is always sure some one who has a grievance. So it goes all down the list. Who wants to be a city official.

Does The Soul Die with the Brain?

Whether and in what sense immortality is desirable is a question that Mr. Lowes Dickinson considers independently of the inquiry Rhether or no immortality is a fact, and it is ot on, account of any sympath with "scientific" skepticism that he limits the discussion in this way. The connection, in our present experience, of body and mind may have encouraged the inference that the soul dies with the brain, yet this is only an inference, and quite possibly a mistaken one. To infer wisely in such matters one must be a poet as well as a man of science, and Mr. Dickinson declares that for his own part he would rather trust the intuitions of Goethe or of Browning than the reasonings of Spencer or of Haeckel, for the poet, while not bringing to the debate a conclusive word, is able to stimulate our imagination and to help us feel our limitations amid the vastness of the iniverse.

Some recognizable qualities must mark any immortality of whose desirableness we are to judge, and the author has an affirmative answer for his main question so long as immortality may be thought of as a state in which "a continuity of experiences analogous to that which we are aware of here is carried on into a life after death, the essence of that life being the continuous unfolding, no doubt through stress and conflict, of those potentialities of Good of which we are aware here as the most significant part of ourselves." If there are few intelligent people who look forward with satisfaction to the traditional Christian heaven, that is because the delineation of a condition of perfect satisfaction and goodness has always been extraordinarily difficult. Only in the faintest symbolica, adumbrations is the unknown object of our desire imaginable. We have allowed ourselves to be offended by metaphorical impediments, and the heaven we really mean is the ultimate term of a process in which we are engaged, of the end of which we can only say that it is Good. With this interpretation of ultimate blessedness Mr. Dickinson is so completely on orthodox ground that one could half expect him to discover to us the philosophy underlying the doctrine of eternal punishment, but the bare idea of future retribution he turns away from with abhorrence. Even as a deterrent of crime the menace of the theological hell is less effective than the penalties of human law, and how any benevolent person could dream of accepting a life in heaven while other mortals were doomed to punishment is for our author, past finding out.

To the reader whose sympathies keep closer to the currents of Catholic thought it will occasion a mild surprise that Mr. Dickinson should try to evade the consequences of his own premises, as he does when, having based a desirable immortality on the fact of a moral order, he turns and reads the notion of future penalty. In a universe of wills where the Good is the norm and where choice is possible, a man seeing the better part may yet choose the inferior. Granted that moral achievement raised to the 5th power is that possibility to which the term "heaven" applies, is there to be no name for the other insistent fact in life, the dingy opposite of holiness, whose outcome, in the verdict of human experience, justifies the doctrines are likely to survive, the one, let us hope, dispensing with the hideous imagery that so get along without too circumstantstantiff accounts of the bliss that is to be. But complain as one may of Mr. Dickinson's neglect closely to articulate important moral principles, the reader is nevertheless bound to admire the kindness of heart that would so precipitately annihilate all hells.

One motive that the author offers for raising afresh the question as to what immortality really means is found in the fact that there are pessimistic people who, far from craving immortality, are passionately desirous of extinction; but peop,e who are not pessimists at all are likely to be no less grateful for so careful a search for what is essential in the promise of eternal life. By way of making his own position clearer Mr. Dickinson has described and classified the attitudes assumed by humans toward the perennial theme. Some of us, he tells us, dislike the subject and dodge it whenever we can, after the manner of Frederic Myers's host who in after dinner conversation protested: "Of course, if god press me, I believe we shall all enter into eternal bliss, but I wish you wouldn't talk about such disagreeable subjects." Others of us, it seems, are dully acquiescent, and others optimistic and ready for all the immortality available. This way of reducing listeners to anaemic abstractions has its advantages to the lecturer, no doubt; but are we not all, as a matter of fact, capable of more than one way of viewing our interests, earthly or heavenly, which a brief space changing the tune from valiant confidence to a chill unbelief and the pessimism of fatigue? Classifications according to temperament have at best but the worth of approximations. One day or other each son of man may be a dispirited Elijah at the brook, needing the ministrations of the sensible angel who sees to it that the tired traveller gets a good sleep and is fed with food convenient. And if with apparent disregard for high matters one is, at other times, going about a business which lacks the relish of salvation, it would still argue a poor estimate of the men of our time to suppose many of them absolutely indifferent toward the eternal life. Hamlet's question was no provincial venture, we may be sure, and at length there comes to every man the calm hour wherein he considers with heedfulness "whether 'tis nobler day divinelier lit or homeless night without."

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the Heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Sheep who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His five—to descend straight for the cause of these ailments—those no doubt clearly explains why the Nerve specific has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days seem because all by continued of the wonderful result. Try it, don't drug the symptoms, the cause of sickness in the only sensible and successful way. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

GREETING SPRING.

An Old and Picturesque Custom in Switzerland.

The first of March is a day of joyful festivity among the school children in most of the Engadine communes in Switzerland. At 4 o'clock in the morning a party of schoolboys march through the village clanging cowbells, big and little, with all their might to proclaim the dawn of a boisterous day to their slumbering schoolmates still abed.

As the day grows bright the boys gather, each one with a huge bell hung around his neck, on the village square, where they form in ranks, according to their size. When the preparations, always conducted amid great excitement and juvenile jubilation, have been completed the procession starts on a tour through the streets to the accompaniment of furious bell ringing and noisy yodeling.

One of the eldest of the demonstrators, with a milk pail on his shoulder and dressed in the costume of a dairyman, with yellow breeches, white stockings, low shoes, finely embroidered braces over a shirt of spotless white, turned up sleeves, displaying a brawny arm, the dairyman's hat perched jauntily on the back of his head, marches proudly at the head of the herd. At the end of the procession is another big boy with a big staff in his hand like a herdsman.

All this reminds us of the way the cows go to the Alps to the sound of bells. The whole festival is nothing but a spring celebration to herald the return of the milder season, which has been looked forward to with longing for months.

The custom is said to be of Roman origin; hence its name, "Chalanda Marz" (from Kalendare), which justifies the assumption that, from the period of the year chosen for the observance of this festival, it must have originated in the mild climate of Italy and not in the cold clime of the Engadine.

In the way described the troop marches on from house to house and is presented by the matrons with rice, chestnuts, sausages, bread and even money. The hotels are all visited, and the guests always contribute some small change. Out of the proceeds a general jollification is provided, in which the girls of the neighborhood take part.

How intense is the youngsters' enjoyment of the Chalanda Marz festivities can scarcely be imagined by any one who has not looked on at these annual junketings.

That's Good.

"My husband has always been one to encourage those who work for him," remarked Mrs. Pike to her sister.

"You mean he is always ready to give praise where praise is due?"

"Yes, indeed. When one of his men does good work he is quick to say so. Night after night, after he has been late at the office, I hear him murmuring in his sleep: 'That's good! That good!' And he always reluctantly confesses that he was dreaming about the good work the men are doing at the office. Oh, I'm so glad!"

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, prodpcing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membrane known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS— PREVENT CATARRH

Come when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

But even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

Montreal Monopolists Have Lost Favor with Canada's Premier

Says That Monopoly Has Ceased to Reign in that City

He Would Like to See Them Adopt the System of Glasgow and London

(Special to The Times.)

Montreal, July 31.—The post-master general says that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is after the Montreal monopolists with a big stick. In the course of his remarks at the inauguration of the works of the Canadian Light and Power Company, at St. Timothee, Hon. Mr. Lemieux said:

"This day marks the beginning of a new era. It proclaims that monopoly has ceased to reign, and competition has appeared, and with it liberty enters the city of Montreal. The event is most important, for Montreal is more than the center of the province, it is the center of Canada.

"Since we are speaking of Montreal, let us mention that the time has come when real control should be had over the municipal administration. I would like to see the metropolis adopt the system of Glasgow and London. On the 20th of next month every one will be given an opportunity to contribute to the reform of our civic administration.

"As far as I am personally concerned, although now living in Ottawa, I still hold a right to vote in Montreal, and that right I will use by voting in favor of a board of control, for the recent revelations have made me feel ashamed like many others.

"In speaking thus, I voice the views of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and of the Hon. Messrs. Brodeur and Fisher, who represent the whole interests of the province and of the city. It is, therefore, important that all English and French-speaking Canadians should unite to endow Montreal with an administration that will give it its due.

The Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier

TREASON IS RAMRANT

IN RANK AND FILE OF SPANISH TROOPS.

King Alfonso is Beset By Enemies Within and Without His Realm.

New York, Aug. 1.—A special cable to the Sun from London sums up the trouble in Spain as follows:—With revolutionary riots at home and unsuccessful fighting in Morocco Spain is now in the midst of a crisis which becomes graver every day. If the crisis is proportionate to the measures taken by the Government its gravity is quite exceptional, for only a peril of the first magnitude could justify such a measure as placing the whole country under martial law.

The situation in Morocco, is grave enough, but the internal complications in Spain overshadow it completely. So strict is the censorship over all news from Spain that details remain very scanty, but official despatches show that Gen. Marina, unsuccessful in his first encounter with the Riffian mountaineers, has been forced to retire and to appeal to Madrid for large reinforcements. Orders for troops to leave Spain in response to this appeal at once revealed a mutinous spirit among the soldiers and people.

Severe measures were adopted immediately against the former, but the latter are apparently difficult to handle. A state of nothing less than civil war now exists in Barcelona and in Catalonia generally, which, while it is the richest and most enterprising province of Spain, is also the most disloyal, never having been reconciled to the general Government at Madrid. King Alfonso has cancelled all his engagements and has returned to the capital. Troops from half a dozen different centres have been despatched to restore order in Catalonia.

Meagre news received at Cerbere on the French frontier states that eleven were killed and fifty injured in police. The troops refused to fire on one occasion between a mob and the police. The troops refused to fire in the rioters, who cheered them and shouted, "Long live the army!" The town is without lights, the street cars are not running, shops are closed and business is at a complete standstill.

The Madrid correspondence of the Daily Mail sends the following, which is illuminative of the extent of the treasonable attitude of the rank and file of the troops: "Breach of discipline is the order of the day in the Spanish ranks, both in the Martilla and Madrid barracks. There are four or five soldiers shot daily for insubordination."

The Madrid correspondent of the Telegraph says a very disagreeable feature of the revolt is the hostility displayed toward religion. Churches,

Park St. A. C. and the West Ends the Winners

Park street A.C. and the West Ends were the winners in Saturday afternoon's games at Nicholls Oval. There was a big crowd present and the collection was a liberal one.

In the first game Park street won in the seventh innings when Quinlan went all to the bad. He allowed five hits and six runs. Had it not been for that the T.A.S. would have been victorious as they played the better game. Quinlan was not in good form. Park street got ten hits and nine runs. They also made nine errors. Dusty, however, was allowed three hits. He got poor support from Bell behind the bat and Pentland at 3rd bag, each having four errors to their discredit. M. O'Brien for the T.A.S. was also on the rough. He had four errors at first base.

The West Ends got a victory over the Strathconas because the latter thought they had a cinch, and did not play nearly as good a game as three weeks ago when they won from the T.A.S. Both pitchers, Kirn for the West Ends, and Gorham for the Strathconas, were in good form and played well.

Oak Orchard Changed Hands--Will Soon be a Popular Resort

Oak Orchard, one of the most picturesque and healthful spots on the whole Kawartha chain of lakes has passed into the hands of Mr. Sam. Pearson, the popular purser on the steamer Manita. The price was in the neighborhood of $6,000, and it was purchased from the Peterborough gentlemen who have had it for some time. The deal was closed last week and Mr. Pearson will start at once to make plans for next year.

Oak Orchard is on Pigeon Lake Narrows, and is composed of about 63 acres. The front or shore part is laid out in a doule row of lots with a beautiful avenue of white oak trees between. It is high and on hot days it gets all the cool breezes. The front part is heavy with white oak, while the back part is heavily wooded with big pines. It is an ideal spot for a month's holidays, where quietness, fresh air, cool breezes, shade and the pine aroma is wanted, while the fishing is the best on the Kawartha Lakes. The boating could not be better, and if Mr. Pearson conducts the place himself as he now intends to do, it will be extremely popular next season.

On the property is a fine hotel, which now has accommodation for ten beds. This will be enlarged and fitted up in the best of shape, and will be conducted for the benefit of the touring and pleasure seeking public.

Oak Orchard will also be made the headquarters for all excursions from the northern waters, and from Peterborough, and there is no doubt in the world but that large numbers of excursions will be run there.

TWO EXCURSIONS.

From Millbrook and Tweed for South Beach.

Two excursions well come to Peterborough this week and will take the steamer Otonabee from the Wolf street wharf and go to South Beach on Clear Lake. The outing includes Little Lake, the lift lock, up the canal and river to Clear Lake. It is a most beautiful trip and it is no wonder that it is popular. The first excursion will arrive from Millbrook tomorrow morning, and the second one on Wednesday from Tweed.

Come to Cobourg on Aug. 6th and see the big Regatta.

Forty-One Bar Rooms are Closed in Toronto

Toronto, July 31.—At seven o'clock the key clicked in 41 barrooms to open no more for the sale of intoxicants.

"I will take my medicine like a man."

"We were the unfortunate ones and that's all."

"I am in debt, but my creditors will wait until I can pay them."

"It was like a lottery and I lost."

Such were the remarks that were made to a reporter by some of the hotelkeepers whose licenses terminated last night at seven o'clock. The total reduction made as a result of the temperance campaign last year is 41, but many proprietors have closed their doors previous to the three months' extension sooner than pay the $400 fee necessary to sell out.

So from today many of the hostelries will be dark or local option places, and no more will they be brilliantly illuminated in the evening, nor will the click of glasses be heard.

The hotels in the outlying districts of the city have suffered heavily, particularly in the vicinity of ward seven. It was the intention of the residents of that district to make a local option belt and they succeeded in doing so. From now on those individuals who are suffering from a parched throat will not be able to obtain any "quenchers" unless they travel as far as Queen street, as the "dry belt" is bounded by Bathurst and Queen streets on the south and east, and the city limits on the north and west. Those unfortunate hotelkeepers who were the sufferers of the reduction are mostly in debt, and have lost the savings of of a lifetime.

City of 750,000 Being Devoured by Flames

Osaka, Japan, July 31.—A fire which threatens to destroy this city started at four o'clock this morning, and in spite of the most energetic efforts to check it, it is still burning.

The firemen, who have been fighting all day, are completely exhausted, and troops have been called out to assist in fighting the flames and to preserve order in the city. Everything is dry on account of the long drought and the water supply is failing.

The fire is being fanned by a strong breeze, and thousands of buildings, including the world famous Buddist Temple, already have been destroyed. The total loss will be large.

A number have been killed and seriously injured by the fire.

Osaka, is one of the three "Imperial cities" of Japan, and as one of the most important manufacturing and commercial cities of the Empire it shelters almost three-quarters of a million people.

Britain's Naval Strength

It will be just twenty years ago on Tuesday next that Tenniel, in one of his inimitable "Punch" cartoons, represented Queen Victoria as saying to Emperor William, on the latter's visit to England, "Now, Willie, dear you've plenty of soldiers at home, look at these pretty ships—I'm sure you'll be pleased with them!" At that time the easy supremacy of the British navy was unchallenged and unchallengeable, while the German navy was regarded as a negligible quantity. However much or little "Grandson Willie" was pleased with "Grandmother Victoria's" ships, there is no doubt that he was mightily interested in them, and it is quite reasonable to suppose that by contemplation of them he was moved to plan for the building of ships of his own. It is certain that in the twenty years since that memorable visit he has been copying, if not improving upon, British naval models so diligently as to cause some apprehensions lest he should make his own navy actually superior to that of his British kin.

To what extent these apprehensions were justified or were exaggerated may be a prolific theme of discussion. There are those who confidently declare, in view of the tremendous display of naval potency which has just been made on the Thames, that there never was any occasion whatever for them; while others are quite as confidently pointing to the government's final acquiescence in the demand for more Dreadnoughts or super-Dreadnoughts as proof that they were well founded and that the government was brought to realize that fact, of which circumstance its present action is, they say, tantamount to confession. Certainly the statements of the Prime Minister and the First Lord of the Admiralty on Monday strongly indicated that if their former programme had been adhered to there would have been danger of England's navy being surpassed by some other, or at least of its strength falling below the safety mark. However these things may be, it seems certain that the programme which has now been adopted by the British government, in response to the urgings of Lord Charles Beresford and others, will put its naval strength above the reach of present competition.

Earthquake Destroyed Lower Part of Town

Fire and Flood Adding to the Horrors---Chilpancingo Wiped Out—A Number of People Perish

Mexico City, July 31. Officials at the observatory here declare that the observatory here declare that paratively little damage by the series of earthquakes yesterday and the night before is due to the fact that the city is built on an old lake bed. The made ground, they say, acts as a spongy, jelly-like mass which neutralized the severity of the shocks. As it was cathedral walls were cracked and scores of dwelling houses practically demolished, and a few lives lost.

[illegible], however, worked great destruction in the State of Guerrero, a region which is known as the home of earthquakes—but as accustomed as the people there are to quakes, they were quite panic stricken with the series of more or more with which they have been visited.

It was reported last night despatches that the [illegible] to the cities of Acapulco and Chilpancingo.

Little Acapulco with its 5000 inhabitants, has achieved world wide fame as a city of misfortune. Twice this year it has been the scene of a catastrophe. On February 15 300 persons were burned to death when the Flores theater was set on fire by a moving picture machine and destroyed at the special performance in honor of Governor Flores. Several times the city has been damaged by severe earthquakes.

Nevertheless Acapulco, beset by tropical currents and cursed by a hot, unhealthy climate, is one of the most beautiful [illegible] in the world. Its game, a corruption and abbreviation of Acapulco [illegible] tiful waters, [illegible] true. The town lies on the [illegible] and about the hills are rich plantations. Its harbor is one of the finest in the world. It lies 241 miles south-west of Mexico City, [illegible] which it was formerly the seaport. It has been for centuries the chief center of commerce with the Philippine Islands, as well as with China and Japan.

Chilpancingo, the capital, reported destroyed, is a small town in the center of the state, about two hundred miles from Mexico City, and about 110 miles from the coast. Its population is about 7,000.

A POPULAR STEAMER.

Otonabee Is Very Popular With Lindsay People.

The people of Lindsay appear to have become attached to the steamer Otonabee, which recently ran a number of excursions out of the Scugog town. Probably the most successful excursion in connection with the visit of the steamer to Lindsay waters was the one run by the Woodmen of the World from Lindsay to Peterborough. The large capacity of the steamer which is nearly double that of any other boat on these waters was taxed to its utmost capacity, by the Lindsay people on almost every occasion.

During the last few days the Woodmen of the World have received so many requests that their trip to Peterborough by steamer and thence to Lindsay by rail be repeated that Ald. Hicks, manager of the company, visited Lindsay on Friday last and completed arrangements to do so.

The steamer Otonabee will also run an excursion from Peterborough to Lindsay on the 10th of August, leaving the Wolfe street wharf at 8 a.m., and reaching Lindsay in time to connect with the 5 o'clock train tickets will be fixed at the low price of $1.00 so that all who care to do may take in this delightful trip. The Woodmen will run their excursion from Lindsay to Peterborough on the 13th, the intervening dates being filled in with excursions to other points on the upper waters.

THE WAR OF 1812

PREPARED TO CELEBRATE ITS CENTENNIAL.

Sir Wilfrid Has Personally Approved of the Idea—Earl Grey Has Also Favored Scheme Which the West May Assist.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Mr. J. S. Neville K. C., of Toronto, secretary of the 1912 Centennial Celebration Association, saw Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday and explained to him the plan which the association has in view for the celebration of 1812, and the century of peace. Sir Wilfrid expressed his personal approval of the scheme, but with held his official approval until the plan has been exhibited in concrete form.

Mr. Neville had a long interview with Earl Grey who was enthusiastic over the proposal, and it had his heartiest sympathy, subject to the approval of the government.

Dr. Doughty, the Dominion archivist, promised to placed his services at the disposal of the association so far as possible.

Mr. Neville said last night that hoped to co-operate with the Winnipeg Selkirk Centennial Exposition Commission and make the celebration truly national.

LONGBOAT LOST.

Shrubb Made Him Quit at 7¼ Miles.

(Special to The Times.)

Toronto, July 31.—Tommy Longboat once more quit the race because the pace was too hot and thereby lost. Alfred Shrubb and Longboat started a 12-mile race before a big crowd of spectators, but at 7¼ miles the red-skin quit. There was no chance for him. Shrubb was breaking records and running away from him all the time; at five miles Shrubb had lowered the American record, and was within seven second of the world's record.

TENNIS GAMES.

Port Hope Players Met Members of St. John's Club.

Messrs. W. C. Grant and C. H. Reid of Port Hope, were in the city on Saturday, and played a couple of games of tennis with members of St. John's Club.

Grant and Reid lost the first game of doubles to C. Downs and Cameron 6—1. In the second game the Port Hope players won [illegible].

Then Grant and Downs played singles, and Downs won [illegible]. Reid and Cameron played, and Reid won 6—4.

Today is Port Hope's civic holiday, and some of the other tennis boys may be up for a game.

Engineer Rankin of the Fire Brigade leaves tonight on a two weeks' holiday. Fireman McBride returns to duty tomorrow morning.

Glowing Crop Reports from Western Provinces.

Winnipeg, July 29.—The Canadian Northern crop report handed out yesterday contains cheering information. The harvest, according to the reports, will be general by August 24, but many points give Aug. 15 as the date of the beginning. From Saskatchewan points particularly the reports speak of bumper yields in the most confident terms. In Alberta it seems the harvest will begin a few days earlier than in Saskatchewan. Reports from points along the main line from Kamsack west are all of the most optimistic nature, as are those from the Saskatoon district. Those points in Manitoba which before complained of lack of moisture are now getting in line with the others, and report a good average crop.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief.

THE WEATHER.

Warm with local thunderstorms.

THE CANADIAN CEMENT PLANTS

Tremendous Capacity for Its Manufacture

Statement of Mr. J. M. Kilbourn, President of Lakefield and Other Plants---Are Running as Usual

Mr. Butchard, manager of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company called at The Times in reference to an item what appeared in these columns, copied from the Toronto World, and requested as to publish the following;

J. M. Kilbourn, president of the allied Lakefield, Shallow Lake and Montreal plants, stated The World from Owen Sound as follows: "Statements in your paper, copied from Owen Sound Sun as to shutting down of cement plants at Shallow Lake, Lakefield and Montreal, are stupid or malicious falsehoods without any foundation in fact. Plants are all running as usual. Please contradict."

Following this telegram, Leigh C. Todd, agent of the Lakefield Company, stated that the production and sales of the companies specially referred to are greater than last year, and they are in a position to fill all orders as heretofore. Mr. Todd stated further that he believes the report to the effect these plants had shut down was inspired by competing American interests.

Our production and economy exercised in manufacturing by the larger and more up-to-date plants have brought about the present situation in the cement industry, according to D. J. Johnson, manager of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company.

He points out that in 1908 2,675,289 barrels were sold in Canada, and that on Jan. 1 of this year there was a surplus stock on hand of 1,214,021 barrels, or 859,586 barrels more than the stock on hand the year previous. This large stock added to the 1909 production by an increased number of plants, he remarked, could not do other than glut the market and lower the price. The consumption was rapidly increasing, but had not been so rapid as the production during the last couple of years.

One reason for the present low quotation, Mr. Johnson said was the fact that rock was being used by the larger plants now, while marl, a more expensive article, was almost entirely used in the production of cement a few years ago. A the Lehigh plant at Belleville, which, he stated was the largest and most complete in the world, rock was entirely used.

The following table is taken from the federal government's report:

	1907	1908	Inc.
Cement sold	2,436,093	2,665,289	229,196
Cement manufactured	2,491,513	3,495,961	1,004,448
Stock on hand Jan 1	299,015	383,349	84,334
Stock on hand Dec. 31	354,435	1,214,021	859,586
Imports of Portland cement	672,630	449,049
Total consumpt'n	3,108,723	3,134,338
No. of completed plants operated	17	23
Total daily capacity	14,400	27,500

An interesting revelation afforded by the table is that while the number of plants has increased from 17 to 23 in 1908, the daily production was practically doubled. In other words the plants increased 35 per cent., in number and the production increased 91 per cent. which shows that the new plants were larger and more up-to-date than those previously in operation.

It is stated by cement dealers that no cement is being imported this year, the entire supply being manufactured in Canadian plants.

The total daily capacity, according to the government return, is therefore set at over 8,000,000 barrels a year.

VESSELS AT AUCTION

THAMES FLEET PUT UP AT PUBLIC SALE.

Twenty-one Crafts Offered But Only Five are Sold.

London, Aug. 1.—Twenty-one London county council steamboats, originally costing £6,500 each were put up for auction at the Baltic Exchange on Tuesday. Five were sold for a total of £2,075, and sixteen withdrawn.

At the outset the boats, which had only had a year's service, and were in good condition, were offered for sale in one lot. Mr. Dalby Williams, who had been prominent on other sales, offered £7,000 cash and £3,000 within three months. He emphasized the fact that none of the boats would be sent out of the country. The auctioneer said he could only accept a cash offer, and after £7,250 had been bid, the boats were withdrawn.

The boats were cut up in sections in vain, and then offered singly. When the bidding for the Brunel reached £400 a man shouted, "I'll give you another quid." The advance was accepted, and the boat was eventually sold for £500.

"It is a miserable price!" remarked the auctioneer.

"Yes," said a man in the crowd, "I think you had better accept Mr. Williams' offer."

Later Mr. Williams asked: Have you received definite instructions to sell them to the foreigner?

The Auctioneer: No; to the highest bidder.

The Alleyn went to a Mr. Jacobs for £705, and the Ben Jonson to a Mr. Stewart for £500; The Colechurch and the Whittington brought $500 each.

Union Men Musta't Own Autos.

Great Falls, Mont., Aug. 1.—Because he was businesslike enough to buy an automobile and then used it to convey himself to and from his work, Otto Klessing, a journeyman plumber, got into trouble with his union, and today was arrested for trying to ship the secretary of the local branch. After the purchase of the automobile Klessig was fined $25 for using it to ride to and from work in alleged violation of the union rules.

Horse's Leg Swelled

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by Nerviline.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. "I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fare leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff sore and swollen. I applied Nerviline and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

NERVILINE IS A TRUSTY LINIMENT

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an allround cure for aches anh pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large 25c. bottles of Nerviline, five for $1.00. All dealers or The Catharrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont. 16

HEALTH INSURANCE.

A few years ago life insurance companies were vying with one another to see which could spend the largest amount of money on its agents to induce them to bring it new business. That was wasteful and hurtful. Today one of the large companies of New York is talking of spending several hundred thousands of dollars on a sanitarium for the care of policyholders who have tuberculosis. It is now applying to the New York state insurance department for authority to buy land for the purpose. How vastly better is this method of spending money than the old!

Primarily, a sanitarium is proposed to cut down the death rate. The particular company in question reports that about forty-five of its policy-holders die every day from this one cause, and it believes it can save many lives. Reducing the mortality in this way will make possible lower premiums. Lower premiums will be the best of advertisements for the company and increase its business. The more of this kind os work the better.

The establishment of such sanitariums would, indeed, change to some extent the very nature of life insurance the company would be providing health insurance, at least so far as this one disease is concerned. The man who buys a policy would not only be protecting his dependent family in case of his death, but he would be protecting himself in case he falls a victim to tuberculosis. That is a kind of protection that would be worth having all by itself.

How far such health insurance is possible of extension is a fair question for consideration. In those countries in which doctors are hired by the year to care for families and keep them in health if possible something of the kind is done on a small scale. Possibly some day the method will be capable of expansion on a great scale by big companies which employ all the best methods of prevention as well as of cure.

Will be Brought Back.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—A sensational climax to the arrest of the McMillan diamond robbers occurred yesterday afternoon. Woods and Conrad, the men arrested at Renfrew, pleaded guilty to the charge, but the police, who had but a charge of vagrancy against the first man arrested, Ja against the first man arrested, James Howard, alias Maward, withdrew this, acting in conjunction with the police department of Weehawkin, N. J. A detective from that city was present and re-arrested Howard before he left the building. The real name of the accused is said to be Fred Smith, and it is charged that he is a notorious pickpocket. He was arrested in Weehawken last April for pocket-picking, and placed on trial, but the jury disagreed, one holding out for acquittal. Smith was then admitted to $5,000 bail till August. Meanwhile he jumped and for weeks his bondsmen have been searching for him. The man has been identified, has waived extradition, and agreed to go back. He will be taken away this afternoon.

ATHLETICS AND RATIONAL EXERCISE.

For some two years Professor William G. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium, has been conducting an investigation for the purpose of ascertaining the effect of athletics upon the heart. It is said that the investigation was started because of the collapse of two Yale oarsmen of different crews in the races with Harvard, and it has been very thorough. There have been more than 600 experiments on the effect of overexertion, and comparisons have been made of the hearts of students who have kept out of athletics with those of the participants in college sports. The inquiry has extended to the condition of young men as they arrive from the preparatory schools, and there has been a careful study also of the effect of oxygen on the heart during periods of exertion.

Professor Anderson's report is not expected until next fall but the news of the experiments has aroused interest already and the New York Times prints a series of interviews on the subject that must add to the interest. William Muldoon, the trainer, who now conducts a rest home for overworked men, declares that much harm is done by college athletics under the present system of management. He says that the rowing men are forced into tremendous overexertion, which must leave its mark upon them, the trouble being that they are brought to the supreme effort too sudden.y. Not only the heart but the mind of the college athlete is injured becauseof wrong methods in training. The mind is imperiled by withdrawing the vitality from it to other parts of the body.

College authorities, however, are quick to defend their methods. Dr. S. T. Stewart of Columbia expresses the opinion that with the present care of preparation and the examination made in college athletics does no harm, Professor C. V. P. Young of Cornell is qdoted as follows: "The great danger in fact the only danger which we have to combat here is not the effect of athletics on the men while they are still in training but when they get through college and abruptly break off the training of their college days." He asserts that carefull records are kept, that the slightest defects are noticed, and that where defects are found participation in athletics is peremptorily forbidden. George Goldie of Princeton holds that there is danger from competitive athletics in preparatory schools because of the age of the boys. But "if a man goes into athletics in the right manner with a good physical foundation it cannot fail to benefit him. Cambridge, Harvard and Yale oarsmen show that their longevity is greater than that of the average man." In more than forty years of experience at Princeton no case of a breakdown during a contest had come under Mr. Goldie's notice.

These college authorities insist that nowadays the state of each athlete is considered individually, and what they say amounts to a defence against the charges of Muldoon The Times, in its comment, lays special emphasis on the fact that "physical development should be carefully adapted to the life which each individual must or prefers to pursue." It says: "The truth is that the big muscles and hypertrophied heart of the athlete are perilous possessions for the man who no longer has the time or the inclination for using them. When he stopes the exercises by which he gained them, instead of simply returning to their original size, they suffer one or another of the many forms of degeneration and become incapable of performing even their original service." Every man, it is urged, "does enough in his customary business and pleasure to keep himself in the condition which that business and pleasure demand, and anything besides is superfluous." We can get fresh air by proper ventilation of our houses, offices and stores, and a man "who has the muscle he needs for doing the things he wants to do and should do has all the muscle he ought to have."

It is a fact undoubtedly that most os us do not need the muscles of the pugilist or wrestler or the special training that goes also that we have only so much vitality to draw upon, and that the man of sedentary pursuits should not tax himself severely with athletic exercises after businesses after business hours. But systematic exercises has its value during college life and later, and the muscles are better for some training that is not derived, for example, from sitting at a desk. What we should strive for is a happy medium, and this often presents a problem that is by no means easy of solution.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until first such time first proves to you its actual worth?

Feeling knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No health, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that old-established idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a new hidden "inside nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, normally gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ceasing action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and pay duties these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these things tell why I am able to say, "It is time it is safe".

This is why I say "take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free as enough use as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will cheer up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

WANT IN LABRADOR.

No Fish to Be Caught on Account Of Ice.

Venison Island, Labrador, Aug. 1.—This coast has been so blocked with ice until a few days ago as to make fishing practically impossible. This is the worst season fishermen have experienced for years, and not half a dozen quintals of fish have been caught up to the present time, whereas the fishermen usually make their harvest before this.

Not half of the vessels are at their destination owing to the ice, and the fishermen say that the people of Labrador will starve unless the fish soon come near land or the Government sends relief.

Several fishermen lost heavily by the gale on the 10th instant. The bays had been clear of ice for a few days, and the fishermen, thinking it would stay out long enough for them to make a catch, set their nets and traps. Hardly had they done so when the storm came upon them so suddenly that they were unable to save them. Some lost two or three traps, each of which cost them at least $400. The fishermen say the prospects for a fair season are very poor.

The footprints of Dyspep-sia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are ailing for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Dealers.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles by the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Pelkey Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 30 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporater at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of a charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelky has been for 27 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

SHAKESPEARE'S LAW.

Citations to Show That He Was In the Fashion of His Time.

No ordinary reader of Shakespeare's works can fail to be struck by the copious and ever-recurring legal phraseology with which they are filled. Not only are law terms frequently employed with an almost professional correctness to give color and intensity to his sentences, but whole scenes are taken up with allusions to or discussions on purely legal matters, as in "The Merchant of Venice," "Henry V." and the grave scene in "Hamlet," not to mention other plays. So profound indeed is the knowledge displayed all through that no less an authority on the subject than Lord Campbell has told us that "to Shakespeare's law, lavishly as he propounds it, there can neither be demurrer nor bill of exceptions nor writ of error." To this marked feature of the works more than to any other one might perhaps with justice attribute the very origin of the whole Baconian theory. The point is naturally of extreme importance in the eyes of those whose only knowledge of the literature of the period is confined to Shakespeare's writings. But that importance shrinks rapidly to insignificance after a course of reading through the general dramatic literature of the time, in which, as a matter of fact, legal similes and allusions are found to occur with about the same frequency as in Shakespeare's works. So strong indeed is the legal coloring of all stage writing at the time that one is forced to believe that law talk must have been more common among laymen in those days and especially among laymen of a play-going disposition than it has ever been during any period since. There are indications besides that some critics were getting tired of all this legal jargon. Dekker, for instance, who writes:

"There is another ordinary at which your London usurer, your stale bachelor and your thrifty attorney do resort—the price, threepence; the rooms as full of company as a jail. If they chance to discourse it is of nothing but statutes, bonds, recognizances, fines, recoveries, audits, rents, subsidies, curtsies inclosures liveries indictments, outlawries, feoffments, judgments, commissions, bankrupts, amercements and of such horrible matter."—Gull's Horn Book. 1609.

Sale of the Hoffbein.

The correspondent of The London Daily Chronicle at Milan says:

The outburst of public feeling in England over the sale of Hoffbein's "Duchess of Milan," and its threatened loss to the British nation has attracted a good deal of interest here. It is remarked that The Daily Chronicle, while calling prominent attention to the law which it has been found necessary to enact in Italy for the safeguarding of the national art treasures, has seemingly overlooked an important new fact bearing very materially on the present situation as regards Italy and Great Britain alike. That fact is the recent revision of tariffs in the United States, which altogether sweeps away the crushing duties on objects of art entering North America.

One of the far-reaching effects of this change is that not only divers American magnates are making arrangements to remove across the Atlantic previous collections, which, to avoid the tax-collector's rapacity, they had hitherto kept stored in Europe, but through their agents dealers are now more eager than ever to pillage countries like Italy of their masterpieces in every branch of art. In Italian cities especially their churches have already been sacked to a far greater extent than is generally known, so that hundreds of art works pointed out to travelers are but clever fakes of originals which have long disappeared, and for the manufacture of which a flourishing school of artists exists in Florence and elsewhere.

THE RIVER SEINE.

It Is the Most Picturesque of the Highways of Paris.

We have heard almost too much of the streets of Paris and not enough of that street most distinctive of all—the river Seine. Flowing through the city for six miles, it is a highway, with its bateaux mouches, its bridges and its quays. Of a dark night the Seine may seem to lugubrious fancy the symbol of death in the city's life abounding—murky death and inky crime, oozy and silent wickedness. Yet normally, even perhaps to suicides, the Seine is but the mirror of a city's mood. There are lights everywhere—lights lengthened in the water. The Louvre and the Conciergerie shown in the stream are things fairer than their originals. It is better to look upon the eddying reflections of the bridges here than to stand in the Place de la Concorde, bright with its orange lamps in honor of an auto show. The lights on the Seine and its images are more alluring, more innately of fairyland and Paris, than the gilded boulevards.

Nor is it only in the moonlight that the Seine has charms. The holiday sculler finds it a paradise for miles above the city, and there are ever such fishermen as Maupassant's Renard. Line fishing is more than a mild sport at Paris. Even to watch its devotees seems to amuse your true Parisian. A legend tells us that in the commune days, when the Hotel de Ville was fired on and a dark page written in the city's history, the Seine fishermen pursued their pastime, imperturbable. And the tale seems likely enough as the saunterer watches the fisher folk, whose leisure may be envied more than their occupation and who are found not on the city quays alone, but in the banlieu, where the Seine's green bank is dabbed with villages in brown and red and gray and where one stops to watch the peasants bathe their horses in the stream itself, rubbing them down soon afterward by the river's brink. Within the city there are the men who clip poodles on the quays and higher book and picture stalls with their merchants and shifting groups of bargain hunters—the Odeon arcade for new books, the rivers for old.

The Need for Woman Servants.

Mr Arnold Haultain of Toronto urges the emigration authorities of Great Britain and the immigration agencies in Canada to work together with a view to furnishing Canada and especially Ontario, homes with an adequate supply of domestic servants. The lack of female help in the home is a serious problem in Toronto and other Canadian cities. Immigrants do not fill the bill. There are good openings for hundreds of capable domestics.

Amended.

In a book of musical criticism the author alluded in flattering terms to the works of his friend Herr Q. Unfortunately during the printing of the volume the two friends quarreled. Then the offended author had inserted in each copy of the book a slip of paper with the following note: "Erratum, page 94, line 21, for 'Herr Q., the eminent composer and distinguished musician,' read 'Herr Q., the pretentious violinist and impudent and clumsy plagiarist.'"—London Mail.

Testing Dear Little Fido's Milk.

"Algy, dear," remarked a young wife to her husband, "I wish you would taste this milk and see if it is perfectly sweet. If it's the least bit sour I mustn't give any of it to dear little Fido!"—London Tit-Bits.

CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act In England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert, especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature creche while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, line it with bag and use it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown in the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constable. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerately left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kind-hearted Sark women, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.—Strand Magazine.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he settles down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare Indian specimens but little known in the old country at the present time.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The remarkable sneezewood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planting it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes the wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Clergymen In Church Pageant.

The allotment of parts in the church pageant in England has now practically been completed. An interesting scene is promised in "the coronation procession of King Edward VI.," in which the mayor of Fulham will represent the lord mayor of London of the period, Rev. P. S. G. Prepert will participate as the Earl of Rutland, Rev. E. H. Gallop will appear as the Bishop of Durham, and Rev. W. L. Marshall will represent Bishop Latimer.

Providing Against Emergencies.

"Is you de insurance gemmen?" asked Erastus Pinkley.

"I am," answered the urbane agent.

"Well, I wants to talk business. I ain' got nuffin' to say agin my neighbors, but I's had a lot of unexpected occurrences. I wants to see if I can't arrange to get some accident insurance on my chicken coop."

SCRAMBLED EGGS IN THE MAIL.

Washington, July 30.—Eggs as an article of mail transportation are not popular with United States postal authorities. It was learned today that some one in Canada had mailed three dozen eggs to Brattleboro, Vt., and when Postmaster H. E. Taylor opened a mail bag he found it dripping with eggs freshly scrambled. Addresses were obliterated from letters in many instances and they had to be sent to the Dead Letter Office. Such a situation could not arise from mail originating in the United States, as such things as eggs are not mailable in this country.

THE BETH DIN.

Where Law Comes Cheaper to Jews of the London Ghetto.

In a small turning out of "Petticoat Lane," in the heart of the Jewish quarter of London, or "Ghetto," is situated the Beth Din. It may well be termed the "Poor Jew's Law Court," for not only can disputes of all kinds be settled here, but no charge whatever is made for the use of its services, the expenses of carrying it on being borne by the Jewish community. Its sittings are usually presided over by the Chief Rabbi.

Here resort Jews of all classes and nationalities to adjust differences, and obtain advice—the Russian refugee and the Roumanian outcast, the Polish fugitive and the Portuguese emigrant, old Jews with hooked noses and straggling beards, young Jewesses with glittering eyes and coal-black hair. Here sits an aged Israelite, his small skull cap stuck far back upon his few remaining hairs. Two long curls, or "peahs," fall on either side of his face. These are regarded by orthodox Jews as evidence of piety and learning, and are never cut. His clawlike nose, his long, matted beard, his olive-tinted skin, complete the picture. You almost expect to hear him claim his "pound of flesh."

His claim is, however, of a less inhuman kind. His friend has called him a "Shabsel Tzirnick" about the grossest insult one Jew can offer to another, implying he is a follower of the impostor Messiah of that name. The rabbi elicits the fact that the complainant only received this insult after himself calling his friend a "Terdeganov," or horse thief. Oil is poured on the troubled waters, apologies are exchanged, and both parties leave the court friends.

Then follows a claim by "Minyan" men for extra payment. According to Jewish custom, on the "Jahrseit," or anniversary, of the death of a parent, a special prayer, called the "Kaddish," is offered up for the soul of the departed. At least thirteen male Jews over thirteen years of age must be present, thirteen being regarded by Jews as a lucky number. This is called the "Minyan." Certain of the poorer Jews attend these services to make up the full complement of thirteen, and are paid for their attendances. This dispute is about what amount is to be paid. After much argument, a compromise is arranged.

Now come cases of all kinds. A Jew unsuccessfully seeks damages from a fried-fish vendor, because, he alleges, the oil in which the fish he purchased was fried was not "kosher"—i.e., prepared in accordance with the Jewish law. A servant sues her mistress for wages due. Various moneylending cases, disputes between landlord and tenant, etc., follow.

In the Beth Din no oath is taken. Each party is expected to tell the truth, and generally does. When, however, there is a very distinct and direct conflict of evidence, statements can be repeated on oath.

It must not be supposed that the sole function of the Beth Din is judicial. It also decides questions of ritual, appoints officers for the performance of Jewish rites and ceremonies, and examines converts to Judaism. Questions relating to the Jewish dietary laws are also decided here. There is still in existence a law, although it is obsolete by now, by which water left overnight should not be drunk, for fear lest there might be a serpent's sting in it.

A Cosmopolitan R.A.

"The son of American parents, born in Florence, trained in Paris, living in London, a citizen of the United States, speaking Italian, French, German, and Spanish almost as fluently as he speaks English." Thus has Mr. Sargent, R.A., whose pictures are again amongst the most notable at Burlington House, been described. Mr Sargeant also pleads guilty to a taste for hunting. There is a story told of a visit he once paid to Fairford, the residence of his compatriot and brother Academician, Edwin Abbey. They had had a long day's hunting, and his host was changing his clothes when he heard cries of "Horrible! Horrible!" preceding from Sargent's bedroom. Alarmed, he rushed in, only to find his friend woefully surveying the ruins of a new top-hat. "My dear fellow," he cried, "what's the matter?" "You see that hat," said Sargent. "My horse put his foot through it to-day. I was thinking how terrible it would have been if my head had been inside it."

Flower Trade of the Scilly Isles.

The Scilly Isles, five in all, lie out in the Atlantic forty miles off the Cornish coast. The development of their flower trade has changed them from poverty stricken spots into islands of the blessed. Not many years ago the inhabitants eked out a precarious and scanty living by potato culture, but one day a man of wise forethought named Trevelick came to the conclusion that flowers would bring a richer harvest. He could see them growing riotously in the little gardens, and he collected a few bulbs here and a few there until he had enough to start business with, and the first consignment he sent to Covent Gardens brought prices that are now spoken of with something like reverence. With the passing of the years flower culture has settled into a well organised trade, providing occupation for everybody who wants to work on the islands.

Lord Marcus Beresford's Advice.

At the time when Lord Marcus Beresford took over the King's horses His Majesty had only a very moderate lot of animals in training. "Well, what do you think of them, and what would you do with them if they were yours?" he asked Lord Marcus one morning as they were watching the royal string at work on Newmarket Heath. Beresford looked the horses over reflectively for a moment and then said bluntly, "Shoot most of them, I think." "Shoot them by all means, then," retorted the King.

Ingenious Paupers.

Leicester Corporation is bringing into use a new pattern of drain-trap, as it has discovered that many of the poorer inhabitants have been using the old patterns for saucepans or potato boilers.

Noisy Avians.

The bellbird, which makes perhaps in its natural state the greatest noise of any known avian, is found both in South America and certain parts of Africa. Its voice will carry on a still day a distance of quite three miles. Its note is like the tolling of a distant church bell and is uttered during the heat of the day, when every other bird has ceased to sing and nature is hushed in silence. The horsbill, a bird which is widely distributed in India, the Malay archipelago and Africa, has also a very loud note. Its call has been described as "between the shriek of a ——— and the bray of a donkey" and can be heard a distance of a couple of miles.

SOME STATISTICS.

Startling Facts About the Growth of the Dominion.

Statistics are often dry reading, writes an Ottawa correspondent, but a special grain report just issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce is so illustrative of the growth of the golden West, that a few minutes may well be spared to give thought to the figures which it contains.

Take the great item of wheat, for instance. In 1900, the total wheat production in all Canada was 47,897,417 bushels, of which only 17,000,000 was grown west of the Great Lakes. Last year, Canada's production of wheat reached a total of 126,796,137 bushels, of which 105,813,484 were grown in the western provinces. The acreage under crop in 1900 was 1,870,200, but in 1908 it had risen to 6,813,000. The greatest development has taken place in Saskatchewan. There in 1905 the crop acreage under wheat was only 1,130,084; last year it was 3,703,563 acres.

Saskatchewan is rapidly beating Manitoba as the granary of the West. Three years ago Manitoba produced 55,761,416 bushels of wheat as against 35,107,296 in Saskatchewan; but last year Saskatchewan produced 50,654,629 bushels as compared with 49,654,629 by Manitoba.

And while "wheat is king," the development of the West is shown by the figures that, whereas in 1900 the total production of oats in all Canada was 108,015,481 bushels, last year the West alone grew 108,940,976 bushels, while the total for all Canada was 254,615,670 bushels. In barley, also, the West is rapidly outstripping the East. In 1900 all Canada produced 20,322,666 bushels of barley, last year the West alone produced 23,635,546 bushels out of a total of 47,242,130 bushels.

Another significant illustration of the development of the West is the fact that while in 1900 there were 523 elevators with a capacity of 18,879 bushels, last year there were 1,354, with a capacity of 58,536,700 bushels.

One more striking fact, and this attempt to make a batch of figures interesting will be done. This is that the growth of the grain fields of the West has also meant an increase in Canadian shipping. In 1908 the amount brought east by Canadian vessels from Port Arthur and Fort William was 34,634,671 bushels; last year it was 48,309,104. In the same period the increase carried by United States vessels amounted only to a little over two million bushels.

The Mining Man and His Wad.

These practical mining men have some curious experiences at times during their jaunts about the north country. Mr. G. W. Raynor, of the Macdonald-Raynor mines, was coming down the Montreal river recently, north of Gowganda, in a canoe with one companion, when they ran on a submerged tree and upset. The bow man could not swim but managed to get hold of the overturned canoe and climbed on top. Raynor got hold of one end, and, swimming on his back, succeeded in towing the whole outfit to the bank. The axe and frying pan and several other valuable articles were lost, however, including a roll of bills, secured with an elastic band, which floated away during his squirming in the water.

They spread out the blankets to dry in the sun, and, having wrung the water out of their outer garments, were running up and down the landscape to dry the rest of them. Raynor was 100 yards down the stream, keeping an eye out for anything which might have floated, when he espied his roll of bills clinging by a slender fold to a branch of cedar a few yards out from the shore.

Mr. Raynor was in the city for a few days while the races were on; he remarks philosophically that not every fifty dollars lost in these parts during the last two weeks were so easily regained.

Westerners Buy Autos.

More than 300 automobiles, representing approximately $450,000, have been sold and delivered by local garages this season in the prairie provinces—the most phenomenal spring trade growth that the motor-propelled vehicle has met with in Western Canada. Cars of all makes, powers, and varieties are flooding the market. It has been the most prosperous season in the history of the trade, and agents are not meeting half as much difficulty in selling cars as they are in securing an adequate supply from the various factories. That the proverbial animosity toward the motor of those who engage in agricultural pursuits is a dead letter is evidenced by the fact that this spring more than twenty five cars have been shipped out of Winnipeg to various Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers.

Lady Grey's Adventure.

An amusing occurrence in connection with Countess Grey's trip to these parts last week has just come to light.

The countess was traveling to Grimsby in an automobile, and saw some wild flowers on the side of the road. She requested her chauffeur to dig up a root, and as he was doing so the owner of the property came out and began to abuse her excellency.

Mrs. J. S. Hendrie, who was accompanying the countess, wanted to explain matters, but she would not permit her. The property owner insisted that the flowers be put back, on pain of arrest for trespassing and stealing. The farmer accused the countess of being a Yankee tourist.

An Elderly High Wire Artist.

Caledon East correspondent of Bolton Enterprise: An old man apparently over 70 years of age struck this town last Saturday evening and gave an exhibition of his skill on the slack wire. His appearance on his arrival was rather against him, as he was a perfect guy. His beard, which reached down to his middle, was like "Joseph's coat" of many colors. On each side of his face hung down long, bushy locks of hair. However, his performance on the wire was creditable to one of his years, and he was rewarded by the crowd with many nickels and dimes.

A NEW SOUTHERN LAW.

Girls May Not Ride Astride in Virginia.

Charleston, W. Va., July 29.—The town Council of Clendennin passed an ordinance prohibiting women riding astride. River bathing is prohibited within a mile of town. Persons swearing in the street will be given jail sentences.

Atlanta, July 29.—A bill was introduced in the Georgia Legislature today forbidding women over twelve years old to ride straddle. Physicians back the bill and the author says it will pass.

A WHIPPING POST.

Illinois Legislature to Be Asked for Special Permit.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Officials of Peoria county have decided to ask the Illinois legislature at its coming special session for a law that will permit a whipping post for men who abandon their wives or who in other ways are convinced of mistreating them.

Five cases of wife abandonment per day is the average for the past 12 months in Peoria county, while beaters and men who fail to support their families make up a total of almost twice as many cases to come before the local courts.

State's Attorney Robert Scholes is earnestly in favor of the whipping post method for errant husbands, while the fact that the workhouse is now filled to overflowing with men who are guilty of abandoning their wives leads the majority of remaining county authorities to favor the old time method as a remedy.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Example That Our Library Board Might Follow.

Ottawa public library board has the giving out to any of its members as many as 10 books at a time. The plan is proving very popular, and might be followed with advantage by the by the Peterborough board.

The Ottawa journal, thus refers to it:

Many are taking advantage of the extra privilege now granted of taking out ten books at a time. This enables those who are spending the season at the summer resorts to come in and get a good supply of reading, enough to do them for a couple of weeks or more before they need to return for another supply. Those who desire to leave the city on a vacation are likewise able to take along a good supply of holiday reading to add to the pleasure of the holidays. From the standpoint of the library it is also good, as it takes a great many books out of the stack room and that is just what is needed now, as the new stacks will be along in a day or so and the work of installing them will be begun. While this work is going on it will be difficult to get books and the ten limit pripilege will overcome any possible disadvantage

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 24 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, Heart and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all Dealers.

GIRLS AS DETECTIVES.

Induce Suspect to Have His Picture Taken With Them.

Belleville, Ill., Aug. 1.—A man believed to be Sidney Baker, a photographer wanted in connection with the mysterious death here several months ago of Peter Waelz, a famer 60 years old and worth $100,000, was arrested last night at Silber Plume, Colo., on information furnished by Miss Mabel Waelz, daughter of the dead man, who was found dead on the stairway leading to Baker's studio here.

The prisoner denies he is Baker, insisting Roy L. Griswold is his right name. Miss Freda Culp, visiting Denver with Miss Waelz, recognized Griswold as Baker, to whom she had sold chloroform the night of Wawls' death when she was clerking in a Belleville drug store.

These girls induced him to have himself photographed with them. They then mailed the photo to Belleville for identification and when a reply was received caused Griswold's arrest.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

TYPHOID TESTS A SUCCESS.

Soldiers Drank Water With 1,000,000 Germs and Come Out Scathless.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 1.—The last of the series of typhoid tests have been applied to Sergeant Fuller and Privates Schmidt and Goodman, of Fort Omaha, and they have been pronounced immune. In June they were vaccinated with typhoid serum and developed the disease in a mild form. Later they were vaccinated, but the serum did not take. Ten days ago they underwent the supreme test, that of drinking freely of a gallon of stagnant water into which one million fever germs had been placed. The men were placed in the hospital and closely watched. They should have developed symptoms within five to seven days, but not one has appeared, they are now declared immune.

Strike in Streets of London, Ont.

London, Ont., Aug. 1.— A large gang of laborers employed by the Barber Asphalt Company, of Buffalo, in putting down pavements on the main streets of London, went out on strike for 20 cents an hour. The men are getting 18 cents now. The company is trying to import others. The strikers are doing everything possible to prevent outsiders coming in. The delay is causing great inconvenience.

AUTO'S BIG LEAP.

Touring Car Ran Away and Leaped 78 Feet.

Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 1—In the recent accident near Watertown N.Y. in which a large touring automobile containing at the time seven persons, was wrecked while descending a hill, the owner of the car, who was in it when the accident occurred says that after the breaking of the differential gear the machine bounded forward with no possible chance of control, and finally as it turned turtle took a leap through the air estimated by him to be about 78 feet.

JAPS PAY CONVICTS

CRIMINALS OF FLOWERY KINGDOM REWARDED.

How the Little Yellow Men Manage Their Criminals—Are Made to Support Their Families, and are Educated in Prison.

London, Aug. 1.—In Japan a convict may earn enough money while in jail to maintain his family. He has the best of food and lodging, is taught a trade, and if he wishes pursues the study of foreign languages. At Sugamo a qualified teacher instructs the younger prisoners in reading, writing and arithmetic. Prisoners of 20 and upward who are in seclusion for the first time are taught geography and history. If on entering the prison a man declares that he has a knowledge of English he is carefully examined by a linguist and omed. He is then allowed to pursue his studies, the necessary books being supplied by the authorities. When there are several in togesher a teacher is obtained from outside and lessons are given regularly. In the offices a record of each prisoner is kept during his stay. This services to show whether the convict is prompt to obey the officials, whether he shows affection for his parents and relatives, whether he writes letters home and whether he makes progress or not in his studies.

The main building at Sugamo is designed in the form of a dumbell, the two ends being divided into five ray stars. From the central watch stand the warder can see along the whole of the rays, which comprise 300 cells. And what cells! Think of it—twenty feet high and double windowed. The convicts are housed in groups. In a cell of eight mats—all rooms in Japan are measured by mats—twelve convicts are accommodated. The floor is covered with mushiro or soft matting, and on this the men's bedding is spread when they are ready to turn in. Everything is spotlessly clean. The chief warder stopped before a door at the extreme end of the corridor, and after trying a dozen keys succeed ed in throwing it open," writes a visitor. "With some misgivings I entered. The room would have gladdened the heart of an amateur photographer. Not a single ray of light penetrated its walls. It was ventilated by means of small tubes that ran through the cement in such a way that they did not admit light.

"There are three forms of shobatsue (punishment) for insubordination and the warder. The first is confinement in an empty room, the offender being compelled to sit on a mat without moving or speaking from morning till night. The second form is confinement in a similar room slightly darkened. The third and most severe is confinement in this totally dark room, the maximum punishment being five days. I have never known a man wish to come here a second time, he added, significantly.

"In the bamboo carving shed were men with large, intellectual foreheads, bright, intelligent eyes, clear-cut mouths. Only one man reminded me of convicts I had seen in England He was short in stature, the eyes were small and oblique, the forehead narrow and receding, the ears large and the jowl flabby. His crime was manslaughter. He was the chief actor in a drama of jealousy that was played to a fatal finish in one of the hovels of Tokio's East End. A faithless wife, a hypocritical friend, a surprise, and in the narrow hovel a fight to the death ha been waged, the guilty wife only witness. He did not look up as I passe him, this humble Othello. With marvelous dexterity he was fashioning in bamboo an angel with outstretched wings."—(Wide World.)

Rat Bites.

It sometimes takes a year for the bite of a rat to heal up.

Circassian Seeds.

The bright scarlet seeds of Adenanthera pavonina are used as jewelers' weights in India, each being about four grains. They are also strung and made into necklaces. In the West Indies they are known as Circassian seeds.

The Turkish Empire.

The total area of the Turkish empire is 1,602,280 square miles and the total population over 38,000,000.

Siberian Urmans.

The Siberian "urmans" or "targas" are vast woods of pine, larch and cedar at least 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,000 miles from north to south. They are so thick and gloomy that the natives call them "places where the mind is lost."

Angleworms.

Angleworms may live fully ten years, as has been shown by experiments made in Marburg, Germany.

Camphor.

Into a basin of clear water put a few pieces of camphor. They will commence a peculiar motion, traversing every part of the surface of the water, but may instantly be stopped by dropping into the water the minutest quantity of an oily substance.

Scipio Africanus.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Caesar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on Oct. 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

Opalescent Glass.

Opalescent glass for use in the manufacture of stained glass windows is made in this country in a manner which cannot be duplicated, and this material is shipped all over Europe.

The Bladderwort.

The aquatic plant the bladderwort feeds on animal life. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the eel trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant and is at once swallowed and assimilated.

Ant Proof Woods.

Use is made in the south sea islands of boxes made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

In spite of all your careful habits it is safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years," says W. B. Sumner of Concord, "I suffered great pain from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and gas, and some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They built me excel. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand home medicine."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a perfect spring medicine, they destroy germs and poisons of every description and strength whereby the system rallies and the patient quickly enjoys the blessings of Perfect Health. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills today—25c. For sale at all dealers.

TRIP TO LINDSAY

Per Steamer Otonabee on Tuesday, August 10th.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Otonabee from the Wolfe street wharf to Lindsay. The date is August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. The Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrh, Discourses.

C. H. Fassett

C. H. Fassett, Ex-Warden of Renfrew County Council, has been mayor of Renfrew for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Renfrew and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I found myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

Followed Dr Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

Peterboro' Won Game from Bowmanville

Fairly Good Crowd Witnessed the Picked Nine from the City League Trim the Visitors

Peterborough's all star bunch won from the Bowman ville aggregation at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 9—4.

Yesterday was Civic Holiday in Bowmanville and a special train was ran to the city carrying 600 excursionists. A good crowd took in the ball game and witnessed a fair exhibition. The grounds at Riverside have not been used for the past three weeks and the grass was very long, only the diamond was cut and raked. This was a decided disadvantage to both the fielders and the batters.

The visitors went to bat first with Dan McCabe officiating behind the pitcher. Quinlan was in the box, and in the first inning he was all to the bad. Bowmanville got four safe hits, and they placed them so that it was impossible to get them. Three went to Curtis in left field, but none were near him. As a result three runs were scored. After this Quinlan saw that it was up to him to deliver the goods, and he settled down and only allowed three hits, with one run, which was scored in the seventh.

When Peterborough went to bat they went out as fast as they came up. Hooper's slow balls were too much for them and it looked like a run away for the visitors. As the game proceeded, however the batters got wise to the slow ones and began to knock them all over the field. OjBrien got a home run in the seventh and scored Kendry also. The ball went over the far fence in left field. Curtis got a three-bagger the first time to bat, but he seemed to fall away after that. Giroux was the heavy weight. It was his first game and out of four times to bat he got one three-bagger and two doubles.

Dusty in right field made three fine catches, one was a beautiful single-handed while he was running backwards. The field for the All Stars played great ball. Weatherstone made one error in the seventh and O'Brien had three on first base but that was all for the game.

The Lake Shore boys played a very fair game. They hit Quinlan freely and they ran bases well, but the locals field was on the job all the time.

PETERBORO' CITIZENS SAID FAREWELL TO JUDGE G. M. ROGER

Complimentary Banquet to Distinguished Citizen was Marked by Good Menu, Eloquent Speeches and Bright Songs—High Tribute to Judge Roger

The citizens of Peterborough said farewell to his Honor Judge G. M. Roger last night, when a complimen ya tary banquet was given to his honor. The guest of the evening has been a life-long resident of the city, having come here the first year that Peterborough was first incorporated a municipality. Since then he has grown up and has been one of the most prominent citizens. In his removal to Cobourg where he will preside as judge of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, this city loses a good citizen, but Cobourg gains one.

The banquet last night at the Oriental Hotel was a huge success in every respect. There were some 75 of the leading citizens present, and the menu provided by Host Graham was ideal, and all were more than satisfied.

His Worship Mayor Rush presided as Honorary chairman, and Mr. R. Fair as honorary secretary.

TOAST LIST.

The following toast list was presented:—

The King—Responded to in the usual hearty manner.

The Parliament of Canada, and the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, was proposed by Mayor Rush, and he coupled with it the names of Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and Mr. T. G. Bradburn, M.P.P.

MR. STRATTON.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., said he appreciated the toast with which his name was connected. The laws of the Dominion were the best, and all knew that the people of Canada kept the laws better than in any other country. The speaker then spoke of the guest of the evening to whom he referred to in highterms. He had been a resident of Peterborough for many years and was one of the foremost citizens being associated with all that pertained to the best interests of the city. He was twice elected mayor of the city and that with this gathering shows the high esteem in which he is held by citizens generally. He is a lawyer of repute and all feel certain that his justice and legal standing will make him a good and rumble judge. Peterborough is losing one of its most respected citizens and Cobourg is getting one that will be an addition to their town. We are sorry to lose him, but glad that he is not going to be veryfar away.

MR. BRADBURN.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., responded in a brief but splendid speech. He paid a high tribute to Judge Roger, whom he had known from the time they went to school together. The speaker was pleased that the judge had not been sent to the wooly west as was first reported.

R. Fair, Esq., read letters of regret from several persons who were unable to be present, including Judge Benson of Port Hope, Sheriff Proctor of Cobourg, and Ald. Phelan.

Mr. Wm. Mellroy sang exceptionally well "Sweet Anneline."

OUR GUEST

His Worship Mayor Rush, then proposed the toast to our Guest, and in doing so he made the following remarks:—

"It is now my pleasant duty to propose the toast of 'Our Guest,' his honor the junior judge of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham. It is difficult for us, despite his added dignity of position to speak of Mr. Roger in any stilted terms of title, for we have known him so long and so familiarly that it comes much more natural to speak of him by his well-known first name, or even by his as well known initials, than by any formal address or title. Born here, brought up here, educated here, and living here all his life, Mr. Roger is essentially one of us. He is not only a fellow-citizen of Peterborough; he is a neighbor, a familiar, cordially respected and beloved friend, and to speak of such a friend on a formal occasion, when perhaps a certain amount of dignified formality is looked for, is not easy. We feel more like using the familiar terms that we are accustomed to in our daily intercourse with him, and saying that we congratulate you on the deserved recognition of your abilities and good qualities by the government, and we congratulate our neighboring municipalities in having a good judge sent to them. We would be pleased in seeing any of our good citizens promoted by the government of the country to a place of responsibility and prominence, and the pleasure is greatly enhanced when the good citizen is a life long, intimate friend, as Mr. Roger is to the most of us. The position of judge is certainly one of responsibility. It requires knowledge of the law, a spirit of fair-dealing, and a love for right, truth, and justice, and when with these qualities are combined a naturally good judgment, we have such a judge as we always like to see on a bench. We who know Mr. Roger so well know that he has these qualties—that no one has a stronger desire for fair and square dealing or a deeper love for truth and justice; we know that his knowledge of the law and his goodjudgmentwill enable him to give effect to his desire to deal justly and that he will be a judge whose decisions will command respect, whose character will win esteem and whose disposition and deportment will draw to him friends who will be staunch and true, but who will, we hope, never displace the friends he will leave here. Mr. Roger has not only lived in this community all his life, but has served the city well. He has given service in his profession, but in addition as an alderman and mayor he has given his time and ability to forward its best interests, and as an active member and elder of St. Paul's Presbyterian church to which he belongs, the church of his fathers—I came near saying the church of his father—he has done much towards elevating the ideals of the people. Mr. Roger's father, the late Rev. J. M. Roger, was a pioneer Presbyterian clergyman here, and his son has assisted to carry on the good work his highly esteemed father helped to establish. Mr. Roger was also one of the founders of the Young Men's Christian Association, and has always taken a deep interest in that excellent work for the uplifting of young men, being at the present time a director and trustee of that institution.

In the lighter affairs of life our friend was at one time deeply interested, and many of us recall with a glow of pride the enthusiasm which the exploits of the famous four-oared crew, of which he was a member, aroused in Peterborough, and recollect the share we all felt in it's triumphs. Mr. Roger's influence will be missed in Peterborough. He has been to a great many of us a good friend, and at all times a good citizen, and while the citizens regret his departure from the city Judge Roger carries with him the respect and esteem and the very heartiest good wished of all. Gentlemen, may I ask you to join me in proposing the good health, success and happiness of the guest of the evening, His Honor Judge Roger.

great reception, and in opening, said that there was always one time in ity (which some one said was 72 press ourselves. He said that he arrivedin Peterborough the first year it was incorporated as an municipality (which some one said was 72 years ago.) He was a school boy and helped sing the song of welcome to his majesty the King when he visited this city as the Prince of Wales, and he saw him again thissummer.

Thespeaker was raised here, was educated here, and his whole professional career was in Peterborough. In leaving Peterborough he was leaving behind him life-long friends which caused him the most sincere regret. But he was going away and he was morethan delighted to receive this farewell which he would remember as one of the greatest honors of his life. He then paid a high tribute to the people of Peterboroogh and he being appointed to the judgship of Peterborough. The speaker then paid a high tribute to Judge Huyeke and closed with again expressing his very great appreciation of this sendoff.

A number of other prominent citizens spoke of the high esteem in which Judge Roger is held by the citizens of this city, and the regret they felt at his departure.

A NEW CHOLEBA THEORY.

Professor Emmerich's Discovery — Action of Bacilli.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—Professor Emmerich, the noted cholera expert of Munich, who has been here for several weeks studying the epidemic announced today that he had determined the mode of action of the cholera bacillus, opening the way for combating the disease. He says that bacilli working on nitrogenous food liberate the free nitric acid, which eats the lining of the intestines and cause a characteristic food poison which is developed in digestion and tranamitted direct to the blood.

Professor Emmerich advises the avoidance of a nitrogenous diet during an epidemic and the treatment of the disease with remedies neutralizing nitric acid. He dissents from the theory that an epidemic is due to infected water. He says that bacilli laden dust is the real danger and attributes the lightness of the 1909 epidemic to frequent showers.

Only forty-one new cases of cholera and seventeen deaths were reported at the municipal hospitals during the twenty-four hours ended at noon today. There were sixty-six recoveries. The number of cases in the hospitals has fallen from 800 to 662.

All Spain in Arms--A Call to the Reverves of Every Class

The Entire Army is Being Placed on a War Footing--Conflicting Reports from Barcelona

San Sebastian (via French frontier,(July 31.—The entire army is being placed on a war footing. The recruits and the reserves of every class have been called out.

In spite of the reports from Madrid direct, trustworthy private reports from Barcelona say the insurgents still hold a large part of the city and that the artillery has been unable till now to dislaidge them.

Commander Burgos and an army corps has arrived at Bilbao, capital of the province of Biscay, to suppress the general strike which has been announced for Monday. There is much excitement in the Basque province, where many hope that the rebels will succeed.

Madrid, July 31.—Official despatches from Barcelona, dated today say the eight thousand troops in Barcelonia have improved the conditions in the city. The complete restoration order is expected when further reinforcements arrive there

The government has adopted the most rigorous precautions against the general strike at Madrid which the workmen's organizations threaten to begin on Monday. Many Republicans and socialist sympathizers have been arrested because of their suspicious attitudes and thrown into prison. The government has refused to receive a petition for the release of these persons. Several Republican deputies say that they will hold meetings of protest against the government's action.

The local committee have been constantly working to get all arrangements completed so that everything will work out according to the program The committee have raised $500 for the general fund and $200 for fireworks, and all the clubs taking part have made generous contributions.

A FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Two Men are Swept Out to Sea.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 3.—A message from Tampico, announces the rescue of James Fairmeir, aged 50 years, and Francis Carleton 39 years old, who were mourned as storm victims carried out of Matagorda Bay in the hurricane last Wednesday, and believed to have been lost.

According to the brief story received, it appears the men, who were fishermen, were carried to sea on the roof of a house built forty years ago. They rode out the storm at terrific speed and were picked up more dead than alive off the Mexican coast by a small schooner and taken to Tepehuajaon Sunday.

Fairmeir can hardly survive, but Carleton will recover. They had traveled about 300 miles in these days without food and water, and every minute was a fight for life. Battered by the seas which washed over them and stripped the roof of all but its frame and an inside lining about four feet wide, the men lashed themselves to the joists with hush nets. Both were unconscious when rescued.

CANADIAN SISTERS OF THE POOR ARE SUFFERERS.

The Order Has Converts in Montreal and Elsewhere.

Montreal Aug. 3.—The attack by rioters on the occupied by the Little Sisters of the Poor at Barcelona has awakened some local excitement, as it is known that several Canadian and American members of the Order are at work in the disaffected districts, although at present it is impossible to tell just how they are placed.

Inquiry at the Home for the Aged Poor, conducted by the Little Sisters of the Poor on Seigneurs street established the fact that Sisters from America were stationed in Spain, but nothing more was known As newspapers are not among the necessities with which the Little Sisters provide themselves, the Mother Superior courteously explained that she had not been aware that Spain was involved in war or that martial law had been established throughout the country, There are in Barcelona, she explained, two or three houses belonging to the Order and it was impossible to say which had been attacked. It was possible that some dissatisfied inmate might have had something to do with the attack, seizing the opportunity offered by the rioting.

The work of the Little Sisters of the Poor began in Spain in 1863, and the country now has many homes operated by the Sisters. In 1903 they were established at Barcelona Manresa, and Glanada, through the efforts of Martiano Lluch, a brother of Cardinal Lluch. The first two sisters to arrive at Barcelona reached there on March 19, the Feast of St. Joseph. The Governor and the Archbishop gave them a hearty welcome and there was great excitement in the town. A house was hired for three thousand francs, and twenty-three old people were brought in. On the day the rent fell due some unknown person sent the amount. They were only able to receive women but soon an old man of eighty presented himself saying: "I have come to stay here." The sisters could not at first receive him, but finally acceded to his request. He was clothed in rags and two Sisters were on the point of going out to beg some suitable garments, when a ring came at the door and a suit of clothes was handed in.

From this small beginning has been revolved the great work of charity which is being carried on in Spain by the Order which now numbers over fifty houses in the country more than one of which is situated in Barcelona itself.

THIRTEEN WAS LUCKY NUMBER.

When Architect Came With Plans for New Building Height Was Fixed at 13 Storeys.

Pittsburg Aug. 3.—The announcement by H. C. Frick here that his new office building in the East-end which was originally intended for an 18-storey building, will go up but 13 storeys, today brought out from one of the fashionable clubs of Pittsburg, to which Mr. Frick belongs, the fact that it was over a game of poker recently that he decided that the number 13 was not unlucky for him at least and that hereafter he would not avoid it. In fact the ex-steel king appears to be of the opinion that this number is lucky for him, so much so that he has made the change in plans for his building.

Sitting in a poker game with some steel men on the 13th of a recent month Mr. Frick, according to the story, is allowed to have won a jackpot with $13,000 in it and the exact time that he racked the pot showed 13 minutes past the hour. Enquiry showed that this was the 13th hand played in the game. At the time this hand was played and won by Mr. Frick there was waiting for him in the club-house a man with plans for his building. Fresh from the winning hand and with his mind full of the number 13, Mr. Frick saw the architects man and said: "We'll make that building 13 storeys high just for luck."

FOR A "DRY" ANNAPOLIS.

Superintendent Bowyer Opposes Sale of Liquor to Naval Students.

Annapolis, Aug. 3.—Captain J. M. Bowyer, superintendent of the Naval Academy, announced in strong language this afternoon his determination to put a stop to the practice he said, was prevalent in Annapolis.

The statement was made to a delegation of ministers who visited him by appointment. He asked the ministers to aid him in his fight to suppress the liquor traffic with the academy. Unless there was a practical prohibition of the practice, he said, he would recommend that candidates prepare for entrance elsewhere than in Annapolis. He said he was supported by the bureau of navigation.

Detectives Round Up Gang of Smugglers

Brooklyn, Aug. 2.—Italian detectives of the Brooklyn bureau began the work yesterday of rounding up a gang of smugglers who, it it reported, have been robbing the government of between $200,000 and $300,000 yearly in duties. The gang makes a specialty of coral in the natural state and in the shape of medaillions The first arrest was made last evening at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge. The man arrested gave his name as Ciro Scorsatino, eighteen years old of No 333 east 6484 St, Manhatten. He said that Vincenzo Onerato, 27 years old, of the same address, had sent him to meet a sailar but the detectives learned that he had just landed at Jersey City from the steamer Taormina, running from Naples.

When the man was searched a large cotton belt was found about his body under his clothes. It had pockets in it like those in a cartridge belt. In the pockets the detectives found a large number of hand carved medallions, vadaged at $1,000. The largest were three-quarters of an inch in diameter and the smallest a quarter of an inch. The medallions were of the kind used in brooches, pins and rings

The detectives also captured Onerato. They found him at his home. A search showed that he had raw coral in his possession of the value of $1,000. He said that he had sent Scorsatino to the ship to meet a sailor and get some sausages from him The detectives took the two men to the Brooklyn headquarters and afterward took them up to the Adams street police station. Both men were well dressed and prosperous appearing.

Onerato is said by the detectives to be a leading member of the gang. The prisoners will be turned over to the federal authorities today. The government has had the police of the seaports of the Atlantic coast on the outlook for the gang for some time, and it is thought that the information now possessed by the police will lead to the breaking up of the band.

A HAMILTON KNIGHT

GIRL WOOED BY BARON HAD EXPERIENCE.

A Concert Violinist Was Engaged to Canadian, and Had to Marry to Europe.

New York, Aug. 3.— A young knight's dash across the ocean to win the heart of an American girl from his rival, an Austrian baron is the romantic story behind cablegram received in Patterson, N.J., yesterday, announcing the marriage in London of Miss Jeanne Vermorel to Sir Henry Neyland of Hamilton, Ontario, says the New York American.

The news came as a complete surprise even to Miss Vermorel's intimate friends in Paterson society, for it had been rumored, when she sailed for Europe seven months ago, that she had broken off her betrothal to Sir Henry. Even her father, Charles Vermorel, head of the Lodi Silk Dyeing Company was quite astonished by the message.

Texas To Sue for 2,000,000 Acres

Austin, Tex., Aug. 3.—An exhaustive investigation of ancient archives of different states of Mexico and of Mexico's federal government, just completed by T. J. Robinson, State Land Commissioner of Texas, failed to disclose any record of the Prieta land grant of two million acres in El Paso County, valued at $50,000,000.

The land is now in possession of private persons who claim title dating back to an alleged grant of the land by a King of Spain two centuries ago. Suit will be filed by the Attorney General for possession of the land on behalf of the state.

The August Rod and Gun.

The holiday feeling pervading the land during the hottest month of the year is well represented in the August issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor at Woodstock, Ont., How the people in the Maritime Provinces, known by reason of the sea breezes as the "Kingdom of Cooldom", enjoy the beautiful summer weather is told in a profusely illustrated article. A delightful paper is "Still Hunting With a Camera"; while of equally absorbing interest is one on similar lines—"Shooting Wild Geese With a Kodak." To detail the list of good things would be to repeat the table of contents, but the article on Voracious Eaters by Martin Hunter is worth attention from all sportsmen. The King of Furbearers is a story of a successful attempt at fox rearing for the sake of pelts. Blood hounds and Trailing will appeal to all dog lovers and Mr. Bartlett's paper on the Wolves follows up the interest created through the Magazine in this important subject. This number should accompany every sportsman on his vacation for in its pages he will find much to make his leisure time pass pleasantly.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Insurance Company May Build Sanitarium for Care of Policy Holders

A few years ago life insurance companies were vying with one another to see which could spend the largest amount of money on its agents to induce them to bring it new business. That was wasteful and hurtful. Today one of the large companies of New York is talking of spending several hundred thousands of dollars on a sanitarium for the care of policyholders who have tuberculosis. It is now applying to the New York state insurance department for authority to buy land for the purpose. How vastly better is this method of spending money than the old!

Primarily, a sanitarium is proposed to cut down the death rate. The particular company in question reports that about forty-five of its policy-holders die every day from this one cause, and it believes it can save many lives. Reducing the mortality in this way will make possible lower premiums. Lower premiums will be the best of advertisements for the company and increase its business. The more of this kind of work the better.

The establishment of such sanitariums would, indeed, change to some extent the very nature to life insurance the company would be providing health insurance, at least so far as this one disease is concerned. The man who buys a policy would not only be protecting his dependent family in case of his death, but he would be protecting himself in case he falls a victim to tuberculosis. That is a kind of protection that would be worth having all by itself.

How far such health insurance is possible of extension is a fair question for consideration. In those countries in which doctors are hired by the year to care for families and keep them in health if possible something of the kind is done on a small scale. Possibly some day the method will be capable of expansion on a great scale by big companies which employ all the best methods of prevention as well as of cure.

Will be Brought Back.

Ottawa, Augt 1.—A sensational climax to the arrest of the McMillan diamond robbers occurred yesterday afternoon. Woods and Conrad, the men arrested at Renfrew, pleaded guilty to the charge, but the police, who had but a charge of vagrancy against the first man arrested, Jas Howard, alias Maward, withdrew this, acting in conjunction with the police department of Weehawkin, N. J. A detective from that city was present and re-arrested Howard before he left the building. The real name of the accused is said to be Fred Smith, and it is charged that he is a notorious pickpocket. He was arrested in Weehawkin last April for pocket picking, and placed on trial, but the jury disagreed, one holding out for acquittal. Smith was then admitted to $5,000 bail till August. Meanwhile he jumped and for weeks his bondsmen have been searching for him. The man has been identified has waived extradition, and agreed to go back. He will be taken away this afternoon.

57TH REGIMENT BAND.

Refused to Play on the Boat With Non-Union Orchestra.

An unfortunate affair occurred on the steamer Otonabee last night just before the boat pulled out on the weekly moonlight trip down the river. The 57th Regiment Band had been engaged to furnish the music, and the boys arrived and boarded the boat and had played one selection. The 57th is a union band, and it was discovered that a non-union orchestra of two pieces, was on board to supply music for dancing. This is strictly against the rules of the union. The secretary of the band went down and asked the two musicians to put in their applications to join the union. One of them positively refused, so there was nothing for the band to do but to leave the boat and this they did. Had the band continued to play with the non-union men each member of the band would have been liable to a fine of $10. The withdrawal was made very quietly and no effort was made to gain the sympathy of the passengers as the band boys felt that the management of the company had not knowingly engaged a non-union orchestra.

Later The Times was informed by Ald. R. Hicks, manager of the Otonabee Navigation Company, that he had not once thought of a union in connected with the band and regretted very much that the incident had occurred. The Navigation Company does not wish to incur any illfavor with the unions.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast By Nerviline.

The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill P O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline knows no equal—one million bottles used every year—fifty years on the market, that's proof enough of its merit. Large 25c. bottles, five for $1.00. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont. 17

TUESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1909.

DUTY OF WIFE TO HUSBAND.

In a metropolitan police court a magistrate the other day rebuked a wage-craning wife who had deserted her husband because he was out of work and his money was gone.

He submitted that a faithful husband, who had come to the end of his resources, had a right to expect his wife to turn in and support the household if she could.

The feeling, shared by many married women, that they are only passengers in the car is no doubt due in part to their hereditary legal and mental suppression.

But, as married women come to have more rights, they must expect also to have more duties.

Certainly the magistrate was right in saying that the woman that stood before him in the court, a childless wife, earning fair wages at a craft she had learned at her husband's expense, ought to have helped him in the day of his need.

DIVORCE LAW.

Lord Gorell, one of the newest peers, is a man with a mission. It is to reform the English divorce as a rich man, His great experience, both as a judge and as president of the Divorce Court, has convinced him that the present law imposes a great hardship on poor people who are unhappily yoked, and who have legal ground for a separation. Because they lack the necessary hundred pounds, they are doomed to either continue living as man and wife or to separate and form irregular alliances. Largely through Lord Gorell's influence, a society for the amendment of the existing divorce law has been formed, with the noble and learned lord as president.

The opening shot in the campaign in favor of a new divorce law was fired in the House of Lords a few days ago, when Lord Gorell asked the peers to agree to the following resolution:—

tion to a limited extent in divorce

That it is expedient that jurisdiction and matrimonial cases should be conferred upon County Courts, in order that the poorer classes may have their cases of that nature heard and determined in such courts.

He said that no one who had not had experience in the Divorce Court could form an idea of the astonishing hardships endured by poor people who were entitled to a divorce, but who were unable to go to the necessary expenses. Cases were common of the petitioners in such cases borrowing the money, and working for years after to discharge the debt. He was familiar with the case of one man who had scraped and saved for twenty years before he could get the money to escape from a partner whose offences were flagrant, repeated and indescribable.

He instanced another case, in which a man who received only 18s. a week wrote to say that his wife had gone to live with another man in a house close by his own. "I can do nothing," the man wrote; "I cannot come to London and bring an action. A rich man could. It is not fair." One result of all this was that men entitled to a divorce, but unable to afford to bring an action, married again, and took the risk of being prosecuted for bigamy. Of course, this was not only a man's grievance for Lord Gorell explained that he had received almost numberless letters from women. It was really a common, every-day occurrence for a man to slip away to America, Canada or Australia, and the deserted wife who could not afford the costs of a Divorce Court action had no remedy. In these days the facilities for people leaving the country are far greater than they were 100 or 150 years ago, and men and women ran away every day, taking up with a new wife or husband, as the case may be, in some other part of the world, while the deserted woman or man in this country if without money, has no remedy.

There was still a worse side to the situation than the case of a man or woman who was legally and morally entitled to a divorce, but who was unable to go to the expense of obtaining one. This was the case of the innocent party to a marriage unjustly accused of misconduct by the other. Suppose a man wanted to rid himself of a wife, but had absolutely no grounds for action. If she happened to be without funds or friends who would come to her assistance, her blackguard husband might make infamous charges against her and have her divorced simply because she had no money to make a defence It might be said that a woman was wellrid of such a scoundrel; but Lord Gorell declared it was the height of injustice that, she would be left under the cloud of an undefended divorce suit.

Lord Wolverhampton said that the present condition of affairs is really a breach of Magna Charta, which says that justice shall not be sold. The poor were virtually told that, although they were by far the largest class in the community, and had a right, under the law, to redress from an intolerable situation, they could not have this justice done them for lack of money. The Lord Chancellor admitted that divorce was a matter of a hundred pounds. If you had a good case and £100 you could have a divorce; but if you lacked £100, you had to suffer. The system was really indefensible on any grounds of either principle or policy. Nevertheless, there was obviously a serious difference of opinion in the Lords on the subject, for Lord Loreburn asked Lord Gorell not to press his resolution to a division. This advice was accepted, after the Lord Chancellor had assured the Lords that he would recommend to the Government that a Royal Commission should be formed to enquire into British marriage laws, there being different laws for England Ireland, Scotland and the colonies and foreign countries.

The Archbishop of Santerbury and Lord Halifax opposed the resolution on the ground that anything that tends to make divorce easy is reprehensible. They viewed with alarm the situation in the United States, where 72,000 divorces were granted every year, and where, in San Francisco, a judge had boasted of having issued seven divorces in 28 minutes Lord Halifax declared that the present Divorce Court was a very sink of perjury and collusion. The suggestion was made that the newspapers should be restrained from printing details of divorce cases; and the idea is a happy one, for particulars of these trials are given in some of the best papers in England that would be blue-penciled by the editor of the Calgary Eye Opener.

KIND OF MAN TO MARRY.

A prominent educationist, whom, we suspect, is a militant suffragist, is out with this admonition to her sex:

"Young woman, marry an ordinary young man."

This advice needs abundant and specific elucidation, we think. What is an "ordinary young man," and how is the young woman to know him?

That is, how is she to know before she marries him that he is ordinary; or what guarantee has she that he will not turn out to be extraordinary despite such antenuptial suspicions as she may have entertained to the contrary?

And having married him, would she ever be willing in circumstances of average domestic felicity, to acknowledge that he really ought to be considered ordinary?

For ourselves, we are by no means sure we should recognize the ordinary young man if we should meet him in the middle of the big road.

Men, as a rule, and despite philosophers of conventional persuasion, are as sharply differentiated the one from the other as women.

The husband who stays away from home at nights is by no means invariably the erstwhile scamp of his class at college; and, by the same token, the sanctimonious student of twenty-one not infrequently develops into a first-class poker player at thirty.

You never can tell, with accuracy about those things, and the locating of the happy medium, therefore, becomes somewhat difficult.

We think it probable that a good during the early days of married life than during the days of courtship, when it comes to guessing what the ultimate outcome will be.

If an ordinary man, and each seeks to regulate life on an ordinary plan, the outcome will be ordinary happiness.

This is as much as anybody has the right to expect. But it is not all one does expect, nevertheless—not by a great deal. One generally expects more than one deserves.

Nothing Doing.

A Kansas editor is guilty of the following: A couple were recently married. The ceremony over, the wife began to weep copiously. "What's the matter?" asked the new husband "I never told you that I didn't know how to cook," sobbed the bride. "Don't fret," said he, "I'll not have anything to cook; I'm an editor."—Reflector.

DR. PELKEY

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are sent cold to the people, but are placed in the house until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 36 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporater at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odorless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tubercolosis cough.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to trust his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier and building-up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Government officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa, who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters, fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Ottawa, Ont.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert men of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. AN INDIAN NEWSPAPER

KAMLOOPS WAWA IS UNIQUE THE WORLD OVER.

Father Le Jeune, a French Catholic Missionary Sent From Brittany Has Taught a System of Shorthand to the Natives and They Get Out a Quaint Little Publication — Has Translated Bible.

Probably the only tribe of real Indian shorthand writers in the world who contribute and subscribe to the queerest newspaper now being published are those belonging to the Kamloops and Douglas River bands living in the interior of British Columbia. Over 2,000 of these natives have mastered the art, and regularly read all the news pertaining to the tribe and individuals in their curious journal, called the "Kamloops Wawa." Bible, hymn and prayer book are likewise printed in this sign language.

This extraordinary advance in Indian culture was brought about through the effort of a French Catholic missionary, Father Le Jeune, sent out from Brittany a few years ago. Kamloops, the headquarters of Father Le Jeune, is some 300 miles and more northeast from Victoria, the capital of British Columbia. Just across the river, a few miles up from the town, is the main Indian village or rancherie. Here the native congregate in large numbers at certain seasons, for this is the important centre of Indian life for some 50 or 100 miles around. The occupation is principally hunting, fishing and ranching, and farming on a limited scale. Prior to the appearance of the priest, the Shamans, pretenders at the curing of disease, claiming, by aid of supernatural or magic powers, to be able to ward off evil spirits and prevent sickness, completely held the people in their superstitious and powerful grasp. Besides hindering their progress in religious matters, a good deal of property was squeezed from the people by their misleading influence These so-called magical prophets fled at the coming of the French priest, who fully exposed their tricks and false creed to the Indians, and before he began his educational work the tribes of this locality living along the canyons and banks of the Thomson and Fraser Rivers in British Columbia, were unable to write their language, and had no written literature, although each possessed a language which has an extensive mythology, which was preserved by oral tradition.

To-day, nearly all the different tribes, some half-dozen or more, are writing letters to one another in their several languages, reading a newspaper, Bible, and song books, all by means of shorthand. Father Le Jeune found that to be successful in his mission it would be absolutely necessary to devise a system of communication both to arouse and gain their interest by placing instructive printed matter in their hands. Having no written language or grammar of their own, he conceived the novel and useful idea of teaching the Indians of the various tribes to write their language, and showed them a sign to represent each sound which they uttered in pronouncing their words. The signs were simply the shorthand symbols of the Duployn phonographic system. After working out an Indian vocabulary containing nearly all the words most commonly employed in everyday usage in his shorthand signs, the priest, in early fall, when the village was thickly populated, first showed and explained his system to one of the bright Indian boys. He took to it intuitively and set to work to decipher some Indian prayers which the father gave him. Before Christmas he had pretty thoroughly learned the art of writing his language, and, being so pleased with his rapid success, he set to work at once to instruct his friends. The new "talk language" created widespread interest and the Indians were all eager to learn it. Soon the young as well as the adult members of each habitation for miles around were engaged in practicing the new method of communication.

Father Le Jeune was not satisfied with teaching his Indian parishioners to write letters in their own language by means of shorthand, and to read a paper in their native tongue, but he had published various parts of the Bible in nine different languages spoken by the several tribes in this region, using the same method, and still is laboring on additional publications Shorthand, he claims, is so many times simpler than English orthography, that he takes no credit to himself for this wonderfully novel work of being the first to teach these natives to write.

On church and feast days the whole community attends services. The church is well lighted by acetylene gas, and illustrated stereoptican lectures are frequently given by the pastor. In the rear of the church are the editorial rooms where Father Le Jeune gets up his quaint shorthand paper. This has sixteen pages, about the size of the average book, devoted to church and various local information. "Wawa" is the word for talk in the Chinook jargon, hence Father Le Jeune chose that name for the quaint newspaper. It was printed on a mimeograph for the first year, but after this the priest succeeded in having type made for it and getting it printed on one of the presses of the nearest city. A full page of this unique publication shows the curious shorthand symbols used in the church services. Several years ago the Passion Play was enacted here by the Indians under the direction of the priest. They are quite proud of their performance, and speak of the event with unusual pride. For a novel picture of progressive Indian life, Father Le Jeune's queer "Wawa," and his band of Indian shorthand writers, quite overshadow all others to be met in British Columbia.

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Ontonabee from the Wolfe street wharf to Lindsay. The date in August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. This Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

PELEE ISLAND GRAPES.

Wine Industry Promises to Be a Big One on Lake Erie Shore.

One interesting portion of Ontario Province is Pelee Island, lying in the western part of Lake Erie, and which, owing to its southerly position, has a climate highly suitable for the growing of grapes. It is sometimes termed the vineyard of Canada, and since 1866 grapes have been grown and wine made in this favorably situated island. The Vin Villa Co., of Pelee Island, were the pioneers of the native wine industry in Canada, and their work is being continued by the Pelee Island Wine and Vineyard Co., whose yearly demands for grapes run from 75 to 100 tons. In some other districts of Ontario Province, Sandwich, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, etc., and also Quebec Province, wine making is carried on, and the volume of home consumption is by no means inconsiderable. In view, however, of the climatic conditions which prevail in Canada, and the circumscribed area in which grapes can be grown, it is questionable whether the native wine industry will ever attain to such dimensions as in Australia or even the Cape Colony, to say nothing of the vineyard state of California, U.S.A. There is a place for Canadian wines, of that there cannot be the slightest doubt, both at home and, as has already been pointed out, in the West Indies, but they should be sold as products of Canada, and not masquerade under the names of French, Spanish or Portuguese wines, with which they have no connection whatever. Canadian wines labelled as such will be judged upon their merits, but even consumers who do not rank as connoisseurs will hardly be deceived if they pretend to be something else. Care and systematic attention to all the processes of manufacture—that of fermentation in particular—will be necessary to an even greater extent than heretofore if the industry is to undergo any material expansion. There is no earthly reason why these desiderata should not be forthcoming.—Standard of Empire.

DIFFERENCE IN CANADA.

English Paper Warns Delegates to Congress of the Hardships.

In connection with the number of English women going to Canada for the meetings in Toronto of the International Council of Women, one of the London ladies' papers had a most sensible and useful article recently on the little differences between England and Canada, which the visitor for the first time might find pitfalls. The writer, speaking in the highest terms of the ability, charm, and smartness in dress of the Canadians, reminded her readers that personal attention is something not only expensive in Canada, but hard to get at any price. She warned her readers not to ring bells constantly for a maid to perform various offices, and to remember that Canadian ladies generally cleaned their own shoes, did without early cups of tea in bed, and generally managed without much waiting on. All this seems odd to English women in a country where service is cheap and excellent. For a lady to clean her own shoes is unheard of. The writer of the article hastened to explain, however, that Canadians generally used a dressing in a bottle, which does not seem so dreadful as a brush and a box of blacking. She told the would-be travelers that the established custom of leaving boots at the door to be cleaned was not understood in Canada, and some of us have heard of the host creeping down late at night to polish the boots, himself, which have been left innocently outside the guest's door.

Valuable Paper Secret.

The Oxford Press syndicate values its formula for making the very thin, tough paper used in the Bibles at more than a million dollars. To perfect the process required twenty-five years of hard work and the expenditure of $100,000 in cash.

Dragon Fly Grubs.

Dragon fly grubs are most destructive to the fry of fish. Out of 50,000 turned into a pond one April only fifty-four could be found the following September. The pond was infested by dragon fly.

Criminals in China.

An important factor in the punishment of criminals in China is the power of the government to seize members of the criminal's family and hold them responsible should he escape. Few Chinamen will flee when they know that their father or mother or near relatives may be pounced upon and imprisoned.

King to Cycle.

Special correspondence of The Standard from London says: King Edward VII has been recommended by his medical advisers to resume cycling after an interval of two years, and the Messrs. Humber, Limited, have modernized one of his old machines for the purpose. The King first rode a Humber tricycle thirteen years ago, and during the eleven years which followed several machines embodying the latest improvements were built for him.

It was originally the King's intention to have a new machine, but as the delivery of a machine of the special make which he favors was impossible within [illegible] time, one of his old tricycles was sent to Messrs. Humber to be overhauled and refitted, and was returned to Buckingham Palace.

The machine has been equipped with all the most modern improvements, so as to avoid all danger of tripping or a fall in mounting and dismounting. One of the features of the machine is the absence of all impediments; it possesses a direct central drive, and thus it is easy to jump on or off.

World's Greatest Bridge-Builder.

Sir William Arrol, who has been denouncing the $50,000 which he estimates is spent every Saturday afternoon in England during the winter season by spectators at football matches as "a gross waste of money," is one of the most remarkable self-made and self-taught men who have hailed from North of the Tweed. He started life in a cotton-mill at eleven years of age, but the work in the mill did not suit him at all. "I wanted an easier life," he explained later, "so I went to work for a blacksmith in Paisley," and it was the clang of the anvil and the sight of the sparks which inspired him with that love of engineering which led him to become the world's greatest bridge-builder.

Farm Boy For Professor's Chair.

The career of Prof Thomas Rees, who has just been appointed principal of Bala-Bangor Welsh Congregational College, is an extraordinary one. He started to earn his living at thirteen as a farm laborer, and at eighteen was working in a colliery. While working as a collier at Aberdare he attended the Ebenezer Chapel in that town, and soon attracted attention by his wonderful preaching powers. When he was twenty-one years of age money was found to enable him to study at Whitland Grammar School. From that time his success was meteoric. Soon he matriculated at the University of London and took his degree. At thirty he was a professor of theology, and at forty years is principal of one of the leading colleges in Wales.

HOUSEWIFE HINTS.

Squeeze a few drops of lemon in the water in which potatoes are boiled, just before they are done, and they will not turn black.

If soda is mixed with flour in making ginger cookies with sour milk instead of being dissolved in milk, as is the usual way, they will be lighter.

To keep milk toast from being soggy, as it too frequently is, try serving the boiling hot, buttered milk in a covered pitcher, passing it with crisp, hot toast. In this way each person can have toast as soft or as crisp as desired.

A delicate flavor to homemade ice cream is imparted by dissolving a teaspoonful of arrowroot in a cup of cold milk, adding it to the cream. Beet juice is excellent for coloring sherbets or cream, and the vegetable flavor is not detected.

Good steel knives are better when sharpened at intervals by a professional. Often arrangements can be made with the butcher to take all knives in the house and include them with his knives for sharpening. This is especially convenient in the suburbs, where stores are hard to reach and where the butcher's cart is a frequent visitor.

Light carpets can be cleaned with a mixture of coarse salt and light cornmeal. Put the mixture on plentifully and scrub in the usual manner with a clean, dry scrubbing brush. Afterward sweep the carpet clean and use the carpet sweeper to collect the dust. Magnesia will clean soiled spots on rugs or carpets, and often a badly blemished mark can be removed if washed with the suds from naphtha soap and then rubbed dry with a clean cloth. Naphtha soap is excellent for cleaning colored rugs if the soap is not too liberally used. It does not fade tints, but tends to brighten them.

She Makes Allowances.

The woman whom everybody likes is tolerant and broad minded. She always sees the best side of everybody. She is above reproach herself, but she is the first to make allowances for those who have wandered off the path and to hold out a helping hand of friendship to them. She pities where others blame.

She "stands up" for her friends—and her enemies, too, if she should happen to have any.

And she is thoroughly good natured. She can admire other people's beauty, accomplishments, successes, whole heartedly. There is nothing envious or mean or petty or small about her. Her philosophy is a bright, stimulating, everyday one. She sees things as they are, takes them as they come and makes the best of them.

Denmark's Old Age Pension.

In Denmark any person who at the age of twenty-one pays to the state a sum of £6 10s. is entitled, if he reaches the age of sixty-five, to an annuity of £12. But if he dies before that age the money is forfeited.—London Mail.

Hazarding a Guess.

"Know anything about golf?"
"Not much. Why?"
"What's a bunker? Do you know?"
"I suppose it's one of those cranks that simply live and sleep on the links."

Rebuked.

Small Tommy (after the slipper séance)—Mamma, I'm glad I'm not a girl. Mamma—Why, Tommy? Small Tommy—'Cause I'd be ashamed to grow up and become a child beater.

Her Choice.

"Can he sing well?"
"Well, I'll tell you. He offered to sing the baby to sleep the other night, and his wife said, 'No; let her keep on crying.'"

Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. It is the weak nerves that are crying out for help. Vitalife the weak inside conerolling nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and see how quickly good health will come to you again. Test it and see! 50c. by All Dealers.

Richard Hall and Son, Limited, have received a letter from their buyer, Mr. S. D. Hall, informing them that he had met Miss Reid and Miss Gardner, who have charge of the two dressmaking departments, in London, and together they had visited all the leading places of fashion and were leaving London the following week for Paris.

CHINA'S HOLY DUKE.

Greatest Aristocrat in the Celestial Empire.

The father of the infant Emperor of China, who is acting as Regent during his son's minority, is doing much to abolish the distinctions between the Manchus and the Chinese. Until now the Manchus, that is to say, the conquering race, to which the reigning dynasty belongs, have enjoyed all sorts of special privileges before the law, now all will be treated alike. Should the regent carry into effect his intention of betrothing his son, the three-year-old emperor, to a maiden of pure Chinese blood, probably either a daughter or granddaughter of China's "Holy Duke," instead of to one of the Manchu princesses from whom the monarch's consorts have until now been chosen, he will have made a long step toward reconciling the bulk of the Chinese people to the reigning dynasty and toward obliterating the antagonism that exists between the Chinese and the Manchus.

The Holy Duke is fully alive to the advantages of reform. A man about fifty years of age, and seventy-sixth in unbroken descent in the male line from Confucius, he may be regarded as the most blue-blooded noble in the world, the more so as he is still in possession of the landed property which belonged to the illustrious founder of his house more than three thousand years ago; that is to say, some twelve centuries before the birth of Christ. The property is situated in the province of Shantung, and it comprises the tomb of Confucius at Kufu and his residence. The duke is very rich, since each generation of emperors, Chinese as well as Manchu has lavished gifts upon the "Holy Duke" of its day. This one's name is Kung Lingi, that is to say, Duke Lingi, and his official designation is Sheng Kung, which means "Holy Duke." He is a tall, heavy faced Chinaman, of somewhat massive build, with a rather majestic presence and a good humored face, the mouth inclined to laughter and in keeping with the shrewd cheery eyes. Though regarded as a saint, he is a very jovial saint, and extremely fond of all the good things of life. Every now and again he visits Pekin, where he is received with imposing honors, and on these occasions he does not disdain to travel by rail.

STORIES OF THE KAISER.

Little Tales Which Are Enjoyed by His Subjects.

William II. of Germany has many acts of kindness to the poor to his credit. One day at the palace of Potsdam he noticed that one of the sentries seemed very melancholy. With much hesitation the man told his story, how he had been on the point of getting married when he lost all his money and now hardly hoped ever to realise his dreams. The emperor, after inquiry had proved that the man was speaking the truth, gave him a generous present for the expenses of his wedding, promoted him corporal and found a place for his wife in the service of the empress.

A poor sewing woman at Cologne, finding it impossible any longer to earn her living with a worn out old sewing machine, appealed to the emperor for assistance. A week later a new machine with all the latest improvements reached her from her sovereign.

When the kaiser told Prince von Buelow he was to be chancellor it was evident from Buelow's face that something about the appointment did not altogether please him. The emperor pressed him to tell what it was, and Von Buelow reluctantly explained that greatly as his wife would rejoice in finding her husband appointed chancellor, she detested the palace of the chancellors, as she was a great housewife and he was sure that the thought of the two or three months that would be needed to clean the immense palace to the pitch she would want it would terrify her.

"Don't let that bother you, my dear Von Buelow. Present my compliments to the princess and tell her that it will be a great pleasure to me to contribute to making that job less difficult to her."

It was not a regiment of soldiers detailed for house cleaning purposes that came to the princess, only a small parcel, which on being opened was found to contain a hundred cakes of soap.

Love's Young Dream.

The Stern Parent—And if you marry this young Littlecash where do you propose to live?

The Girl—Why, George says we are going to live at the same hotel where he lives now.

The Parent—Don't you know it costs a great deal to live at a hotel?

The Girl—Why, no, papa; it won't cost any more. George says that if you know how to order one portion is ample for two persons. I really won't be the least bit of a burden on George, papa.

That Is the Difference.

"Now, then, boys, if you had to address a large box of tea on the one hand and a schoolmaster on the other, what would be the difference in your form of salutation? Of course you will reply 'We don't know.' Well, I will tell you. A large box of tea you would address as 'thou teachest,' and a schoolmaster you would salute with 'thou that teachest.' This is the difference, you see."—London Tit-Bits.

The Remedy.

The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg was one day gambling at the Dober at tables and was betting on the same numbers as a rich master potter who stood next to him.

Both having lost their money, the grand duke inquired, "Well, potter, what shall we do now?"

"Oh," replied the master potter, "your highness will screw up the taxes, and I shall make pots."

August time tells on the nerves. Let that spiritless, no Ambition feeling due to be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course all health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will retain and fall your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside indications appear first the "inside nerves" then the stomach. Heart and Kidneys will usually fall. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all Dealers.

THE BELL MEMORIAL.

Toronto Sculptor's Work Surpassed All That Was Shown.

The successful design for the Bell Memorial at Brantford is particularly interesting, not only as being the the work of a Toronto artist, but also on account of its radical departure from the conventional type of such monuments. As has already been announced, Mr. Walter S. Allward, of Toronto, bore away the palm from such men as Hill, Hebert, and Hamilton McCarthy, of Montreal, Partridge, of New York, and Pausch, of Buffalo. But the accounts so far published give but scanty information as to the nature and meaning of the design, whose superiority was so marked as to lead Partridge, one of the contestants, to state that it was the only one for the purpose, and that there was hardly any use of his leaving his model at all.

The design consists of a central panel carved in low relief and two figures heroic in size, which stand at the extreme ends of the monument, thus suggesting wide distances. And this in fact is the key-note of the whole design, this suggestion of great intervals across which man sends his voice. One of the large figures is speaking and the other listens, and this with the intimation of distance gives the strikingly simple and dignified motive of the design. It is carried out with a little fuller detail in the carvings on the panel. There a half-recumbent figure representing Man sends forth a troop of various messages across a rounded surface, which again conveys the idea of great distance. These messages are represented by shadowy figures depicting the various messages of joy and sorrow and anger and love. Over the recumbent figure of Man hovers a cloudlike, dimly descried form, whose hand touches his with a suggestion of a wire, and which reaches forward in a gesture of boundless power. This is evidently the spirit of Electricity which enables Man to send forth his messages over the rounded earth.

Mr. Allward, the author of this excellent design, is still a young man, being only thirty-three years of age, but he has already done some very fine work, among which might be mentioned the Simcoe and Mowat monuments in Toronto, and the Nicholas Flood Davin memorial in Ottawa. Some of his later achievements are the design for the South African monument, the Macdonald statue to be erected in Queen's Park, Toronto, and the Baldyin Lafontaine monument to be placed before the House of Parliament, Ottawa. This last is an especially fine design, and shows the manner in which his work has gone on broadening in scope and gaining in simplicity and dignity. There is every reason to look for big things from this young Toronto artist, who, though almost entirely self-taught, has already such a fine record of accomplishment behind him.

Trouble Over a Veil.

"I have decided to forswear all kinds and conditions of floating fluttering veils henceforth and forever more," announced an attractive young Toronto matron recently.

"Why?" gasped her feminine audience. "They are as fashionable as ever."

"Not for me," responded the Y.T.M., "since my experience of the other day. I was on a Yonge street car, and there was a strong north wind which kept blowing the ends of my veil over my shoulder. Time after time I put it back, on each occasion getting a little more exasperated. When it came over for about the hundredth time, giving me a stinging swipe in the eye, I grabbed it angrily and drawing it down firmly, stuffed the end under my arm. At this juncture there came a squeal from the seat behind me, and a vinegary feminine voice said, 'Madam, what are you trying to do with my veil?'

"I turned hastily to meet the malevolent gaze of a majestic individual whose hat was perched rakishly on the extreme limit of her back hair, while with speechless mortification I realised that the veil depending from it was still clutched in my guilty hand."

Judge McKeown and Judge Barry.

The recent appointments to the supreme court bench of New Brunswick represent the orange and the green. Judge McKeown is prominent among those who walk on the Twelfth, and Judge Barry is the first English-speaking Catholic who has been a supreme court judge, although the province is one-third Catholic. New Brunswick has a divorce court, and Judge McKeown will preside over it.

Both the new judges are relatively young men, Judge Barry being just over fifty, and his confrere several years on the sunny side of it. Both are amiable men, of rather more than average legal ability, and the worst that can be said of Judge McKeown is that he has been in politics, while Judge Barry is free even from that reproach.

Young Man's Town.

Perhaps the secret of Haileybury's aggressiveness is the fact that it is a young man's town. No town in the country can boast of so many young men engaged in active business for themselves as this silver city. The municipal officers, bank managers, proprietors of the large stores, Government officials, mine owners, officers and directors of the navigation companies, and a long list of others too numerous to mention, are, with a few exceptions, all young men whose ages range from 19 to 35 years. Haileybury has more enterprise and energy behind it than any other town of its size in the great Dominion, according to many visitors, and that it takes precedence over a large number of towns that boast a greater population.

Railway Amalgamation.

An application is being made to the Dominion Railway Commissioners for the amalgamation of the Alberta Midland Railway with the C.N.R. This line will be built to establish communications between Calgary and Edmonton, and between Calgary, Lethbridge, and Macleod, and will be approximately 300 miles long Relaying His Jaws.

Shark stories, with some reason, are commonly received with incredulity. A well authenticated anecdote, however, is told of Dr. Frederic Hill, an English surgeon of distinction. A man fell overboard in the Indian Ocean and almost into a shark's mouth. Hill, who was standing close to the rail, grabbed a belaying pin and without hesitation jumped to save the sailor. The great brute was just turning on his back to bite when Hill drove the belaying pin right through both jaws. Both men were got on board again unharmed.

"Perhaps that fellow won't want another toothpick. Has any one got a clean shirt to lend? This was my last," were the only words of the rescuer.

AMUSING MISTAKES.

Haughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained, with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction become second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a made to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes, I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. What'cha doin'? You are? Where am I? At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stepped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the sunroom windows and also give the children a cookie apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was pertinent, but [illegible] some points of view. They were all brief, care relieving, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which those phones were supplied. But there sat that creature "ugh-huhing and mmhming" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephones and the mirrors so long as she wished she retraced her steps, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of honor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband, and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Dulls.

If the scissors grinder kept his blade in the wholesome sweetness the scissors would soon be useless. The grind that dulls women is not daily household duties, but never letting up on those duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Dealers.

WILL BE BROUGHT BACK.

Jumper of Bail Has Been Caught in Canada.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—A sensational climax to the arrest of the MacMillen diamond robbers occurred yesterday afternoon. Woods and Conrad the men arrested at Renfrew, pleaded guilty to the charge, but the police who had but a charge of vagrancy against the first men arrested, James Howard, alias Maward, withdrew this, acting in conjunction with the police department of Weehawkin, N. J. A detective from that city was present and re-arrested Howard before he he left the building. The real name of the accused is said to be Fred Smith, and it is charged that h is a notorious pickpocket. He was arrested in Weehawken last April for pocket picking, and placed on trial, but the jury disagreed, one holding out for acquittal. Smith was then admitted to $5,000 bail till August. Meanwhile he jumped and for weeks his bondsmen have been identified, has waived extradition, and agreed to go back. He will be taken away this afternoon.

ENTER BEARSKIN BONNET.

Russian Toque Arrives From Paris to Succeed Peach Basket.

New York, Aug. 2.—Peach basket hats will continue in the Barbankian way to bear grapes, apples, pears, plums and other summery artificial fruits. At least they have been temporarily saved from rout on fashion's battlefield by hot weather, which marks one blessing of that degree of temperature, however doubtful the blessing may be.

A New York telegram yesterday heralded the arrival from Paris of a consignment of new headgear for women. The hats, according to the telegram, numbered 200, and were all of one style, to wit:

"Made of fur and suggesting the bearskins of the Old Guard."

They are called Russian toques. The toque does away with rats and the spreading of coiffure that makes a woman's head a good umbrella in a rainstorm. On the other hand it is is an skyscraper, three times the height of a man's silk hat, and crowned with an aigrette.

SOME CURIOUS RECORDS.

Government's Casual Revenue Report Contains Interesting Items.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—The statement of casual revenue for the years contains some curious entries. Samples of them are $2 from the sale of old rope, several nominal rentals of $1 and $15 for an old store. Empty coal oil cans, old window frames, hard tack junk and petty fines imposed on crews of the government steamers figure in the itemized list of casual revenues. The department of finance acknowledges $42 in conscience money. The government having acquired the Sussex street properties for the proposed new departmental block has become, landlord of quite a number of stores and dwellings which are being allowed to remain intact until the time shall come for their removal to make way for the new building. Last year the government collected $10,666 in rents for those buildings.

The department of railways and canals acknowledges receipt of $10.12 for old paper; the militia department accounts for $11.90 for horse-showing and the justice department debits itself with $80.53 received for old police weapons sold from the British Columbia penitentiary.

One marine department contractor returns 20 cents for "an overcharge" on provisions, and a labor department employe returns 6 cents overpaid in salary.

Up Among the Clouds

"Oh yes, I'm always up in the air but you would be too if you got from $5 to $15 a day patching up the works of a clock or polishing a weather vane or gilding a spire. It isn't work to be a sky pilot, it's just fun!"

Steeplejack Joe Leonard came down from his perch on the top of the St. Paul's steeple and condescended to shake hands with a New York Mail representative, who had watched him crawling like a fly through the scaffold he had completed, which from the street, looked like nothing more than a framework of toothpicks, and as we met on terra firma a hundred questions leaped to my lips. He seemed amused at my interest.

"That little steeple—that's nothing but a baby! You ought to be up on the flagpole of the Park Row Building! That's 586 feet. It's great up there when the wind is blowing forty-eight miles an hour. The swing sways back and forth, the city looks as if you could hold it in the hollow of your hand, and people stand below staring up at you like inquisitive little ants. The rivers on either side might be two tiny puddles, and the streets running north and south remind you of the furrows in a field —, most of the things that awe and frighten you down here lose all their importance when you get up there. Why, the city and everything change until you think life in general is only a question of altitude, not attitude."

"How long can I stay up?" Mr. Leonard paused a moment and his squilliee face, with its queer, intense-looking blue eyes and determined chin, relaxed in a smile. "Well, I can stay up for seven hours on a stretch and don't feel any the worse for it.

"No, I don't diet to steady my nerves— I haven't got any nerves. You lose nerves and all that sort of truck when you get up in the 'blue.' True, some morbid fellows get stage struck when a crowd gathers and lose their heads wondering if the crowd isn't half expecting them to fall; and sometimes if they get to thinking about the little patch of black ants below they get fascinated and wretched about it, and if they aren't careful they put the hands of the church clock the wrong way or forget to goldleaf the spire. Then they lose their heads and their jobs."

"Do they ever fall?" I asked breathlessly.

"No, not a professional. You see, the average steeplejack graduates from the ship. They get accustomed to taking chances at great heights at sea. I was a sailor for eight years and it's a great experience, I can tell you. I've been in the business seventeen years, and expect to go into business for myself soon. No, there isn't much competition. Only a few of us are experts. Your experienced steeplejack must excel in several branches of labor—bricklaying, sizing carpentering, goldleafing, tinsmithing, painting."

Asked what was considered the most dangerous and difficult of tasks Mr. Leonard said a stone spire was regarded the least safe of all "easy work."

"You see, we go up and down on ropes attached to pulleys. We use three-quarter manilla rope. There are generally two men on the job, one above and one below. Now, a stone spire cuts the stoutest ropes, and the great danger lies in the stone severing the strands. We are pretty finicky about our ropes before we get the scaffold up. First one man goes up and the 'man below' sees to it that he gets his implements, paint and whatever is necessary to complete the job. Then the second man shinnies up. I've put up some mighty high scaffolds. The American Securities Building is 400 feet, counting pole and all, but that's nothing to compare with the Metropolitan Building, 673 feet, with a genius for attracting freak wind currents that almost drive you mad. The scaffolding is the most laborious part of the work. It takes three days to put up the rigging, no matter what the job and a day to lower it; then the decorating or gilding is the simplest end of it."

Mr. Leonard ran his eye along the flag-staff of the Mail Building and smiled.

"Why the Mail is a baby," he assured me. "I could do that with my eyes shut and my fingers crossed. The St. Paul spire is not difficult, either You get up there and listen to the ticking of that big clock, with its machinery throbbing like a human heart, and forget all about lunch time and dinner time and supper, too. It's all pretty easy now," he concluded, with a twinkle in his eye, "but I don't look much on the future when the airships come crowding up around to watch us work. There is nothing in the world to interfere with our progress now, but when those air bugs begin brushing their wings in our eyes it's going to put the steeplejacks out of business for sure!"

Mr. Will Cochrane of the Quaker Oats office staff, has returned from a two weeks' outing at Stony Lake.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

Port Arthur Man Wanders Into a Dense Forest.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug 3.—Ex-Ald. George Horrigan is lost in the dense woods near Black Bay and searching parties are now out looking for him.

He left his home last Wednesday with George Hodder and W. C. Dalton on a fishing expedition, going by launch down shore. The three left their boat to fish up Pitch Creek. They separated and were to meet at noon, but when Horrigan did not turn up at four o'clock the remainder of the day was spent by the other two in an endeavor to find him.

PRIZES ON EXHIBITION.

For the Printers' Picnic Races in Clarke's Jewellery Store.

A big list of valuable prizes to be competed for at the Printers' picnic are on exhibition in Clarke's jewellery store window. Nearly all the prizes are jewellery including two watches for the boys' races.

Returned the Jewellery

A funny incident happened in a local jewellery store last week, when a valuable pin was missed after a lady and gentleman had left the store where they made a purchase. The couple were in the city with an excursion and went to the jewellery store just before going to the station. They were looking at several trays of pins, and purchased one, then left. The clerk missed another pin, and notified the police who started for the station. In the mean time, however, the couple had stopped at an opticians, and there the lady noticed the pin sticking to her husband's coat sleeve. He immediately returned to the jewellery store with the lost property, and explained the circumstances to the proprietor, who was glad to see him and the pin.

A thousand yatchmen will be in Cobourg on Aug. 6th. Come and enjoy an interesting day.

Railway Extensions Depend Largely Upon Thirty-Year Franchise

Mr John Stuart of Chicago, and Mr. Gray, resident solicitor for the Quakers Oats Co. of Chicago, are in the city in connection with the proposed thirty year franchise for the Peterborough Light and Power Co. He met the Manufacturers' Committee yesterday afternoon and again last night for the purpose of winding up the agreement between the city and the company.

Mr. Stuart explained that the reason they brought this matter up now was to get their affairs in such shape that they would be enabled to go ahead with their plans which included several other propositions besides the light business. Their franchise does not run out for five years yet but they would like to get an extension now if possible. Their plans include also the railway extention and other things. If they are unable to carry out their plans now they will be in an awkward position and would probably have to give up many of their propositions.

If they get the franchise through they will get busy at once as they have a great deal of work to do this fall, and they want to get it started. Mr. Stuart did not say just what extensions to the railway the company proposed to make first, but it is reasonable to suppose that the line to Lakefield will not be delayed longer. There are branches and loops in the city which are planned for.

Drastic Action to Check the Spread of Rabies in Western Ontario

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Dr. Rutherford, chief of the Dominion Veterinary Department, in commenting upon the number of cases of rabies in Western Ontario, says that the department will probably take drastis measures to wipe out the disease.

Over a hundred cases have been reported to the department during the past two years.

FIGHT WHITE PLAGUE

KANSAS TO LEAD IN BATTLE AGAINST PLAGUE.

A Campaign of Education Being Inaugurated—Great Results Foreshadowed.

Lawrence, Kan., Aug. 4.—This month will witness in Kansas the most determined attempt to educate the people in the prevention of tuberculosis ever attempted in any state in the Union. Dr. S. C. Emley associate professor in pathology at the University of Kansas, is in charge of the campaign, which will extend all over the Sunflower state. Dr. Emley will spend a week in Leavenworth, Topeka, Wichita, Pittsburg and other cities, and a day in each of the smaller towns.

For several years Dr. Emley has been making a special study out of tuberculosis, and, at the last meeting of the board of regents of the university, he was granted a leave of absence for two years, in which time he is to work with the state board of health to see what can be done in Kansas toward checking the disease.

The regular plan for this crusade was formulated by Dr. S. J. Crumbine, secretary of the Kansas state board of health. Dr. Crumbine, with Dr. Emley, attended the last meeting of the National Congress for the Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis and it was there they conceived this plan, for which the state of Kansas has set aside $10,000 a year for two years.

Upon arriving in a town, Dr. Emley will work with the local medical raternitu. Public illustrated lectures will be given, at which Dr. Emley will tell the people of the laws by which they must govern themselves to help in the fight against the dread disease.

Over and above all, however, Dr. Emley's visits will accomplish the purpose of starting a sanitary reform, for he will show municipal authorities what they must do in the way of cleaning up their towns and to teach them that there is an imperative need of their seeing that their towns have good drainage.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. 9

France is Giving Aid to Spain

Paris Aug. 4.—Owing to the threatening situation in Morocco the French authorities in Algeria are completing with great rapidity and on a very formidable scale the organization for defence on the Moroccan frontier. Double chains of outposts and blockhouses have been reinforced with infantry and strengthened with quick-firing guns, and three regiments of cavalry have been ordered to the frontier. At present, as is always the case during the Algerian wheat harvest, the country is filled with thousands of Kabyles from Morocco, who work in the field and return after the harvest to their homes with plenty of money and nothing to do. To prevent these hardy fighting men, some twenty thousand in number, from joining in a holy war against the Spaniards at Malilla, the French military authorities in Algeria have adopted drastic measures to prevent their returning in large bands and swelling the ranks of the tribesmen.

The opinion in French military circles is that General Marina will succeed in holding his present positions until reinforcements reach him from Spain.

Information through most trustworthy diplomatic sources has reached Paris, showing that King Alfonso and his Cabinet are fully confident that they can crush the rebellion at home and at the same time dispatch at least thirty thousand men to reinforce General Marina. King Alfonso, who is described today by Henri Rochefort as the most popular crowned head in Europe, because of his youth and his engaging manners, has the thorough good wishes of the French people. Moreover, the Cabinet of Aristide Briand, notwithstanding the Socialist elements which form part of it, may be depended on to act up to the extreme limits of friendly neutrality to aid the Spaniards in their defence of Melilla, and to create no embarrassments for the Spanish government in its struggle with revolution at home.

Hot Fight for Officials.

Oswego, Aug. 4.—A hotter fight than many of the battle-scarred warriors experienced during the late unpleasantness with Spain, is being waged today over the question of officers of the New York department of the United Spanish War Veterans. The election is scheduled the "vets" assembled in annual encampment are divided into warring camps of adherents of the various candidates.

Opens New Tunnel.

New York, Aug. 3.—New subways, giving the Erie and Lackawanna roads direct connection with the Jersey City terminal of the recently opened down-town Hudson tunnels, were opened today. Passengers on these roads, as well as the Pensylvania, may now come direct to the downtown heart of the metropolis without crossing the North river on the antiquated ferries.

Turkey to Start War With Crete

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—The Novoe Vremya today publishes a despatch from Constantinople saying that four transports loaded with Turkish troops, have left the capital for the Island of Crete, and that a Turkish fleet has been ordered to escort them.

The greatest secrecy regarding these naval movements is being observed, and it is supposed that Turkey intends to affect a landing on the island.

Manufacturers' Committee Did Not Grant Thirty-Year Franchise

To The Peterborough Light and Power Company---Spent Over Five Hours Discussing the Agreement---Aldermen Refused to Accept 30 Per Cent. Discount

The Manufacturers' Committee wrangled over the proposal of the Peterborough Light and Power Company for nearly five hours yesterday afternoon and last evening, and adjourned at 10 o'clock without any decision being arrived at. The whole question dwindled down to rates and the company made its final offer, viz., to increase the rebate from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. This the members of the committee who were present would not accept, claiming that all the members of the committee should be present. As a result the meeting adjourned. Another session may be called today.

WHAT THE COMPANY AGREE TO

To reconstruct the pole line on George street, and to erect new poles of uniform size and flush with the curb. This is to be done at once.

At the end of five years to put their wires in the business section in conduits which the city would construct and rent to them.

To aid the city to string wires on.

To allow the city to string wires on their poles if the city desired to go in for street lighting. A reasonable rental to be paid.

To increase the rebate from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent for the next five years and at the end of that time to rearrange the rates before the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

The city was to grant the company a franchise to do business on the streets for 30 years. This is not to be an exclusive franchise.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Those present were Chairman Ald. Gillespie, Ald. Duffus, Ald. Morrow and Mayor Rush.

Mr. John Stuart, son of Mr. R. Stuart, Mr. Gray of Chicago, general solicitor for the company, and Mr. J. H Lormonth, were present as representatives of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

The chairman announced that the object of the meeting was to consider the several clauses in the agreement which the city solicitor had drawn up and which did not meet with the approval of the company. The city clerk then read over the proposed agreement.

There were several objections to the agreement, and it was admitted by both the city and the company that thirty years was a long time to be tied to. Ald. Gillespie suggested that these various points be left to an arbitration board to be adjusted every five years.

Ald. Morrow was of the same opinion, and he would support such an arrangement.

Mr. Staurt and Mr. Larmonth both said that they would desire to keep their plant abreast of the times and would not want the city to get ahead of them.

The first chief obstacle in the way was the poles on the streets in the business section. The committee's object was for only the business sections but the agreement was so worded that any future council could compel all wires to be put under ground.

Mr. Gray suggested that the company remove all poles on George street and erect new poles of a nicer appearance and flush up to the curb. This would get away with much of the unsightliness. Then at the end of five years provision could be made for laying the conduit.

Ald. Morrow suggested that the wires on the main business streets be placed under ground and that no further extensions of the conduits be made until the city had reached a population of 30,000 people, and then the matter would be settled by the board of arbitration. Ald. Morrow's suggestion was that the city would have the right to lay the conduits at any time it was thought advisable. The district included from Murray to Sherbrooke, and Water to Aylmer.

Mr. Gray's idea was that the conduit scheme be left out of existence for five years and the company would rebuild its George street pole line at once. This was agreed to by both parties.

The next question taken up was that of rates. Ald. Morrow wanted the commercial and domestic lighting to be the same, and he suggested a new and lower scale of prices.

To this the company objected but suggested that the rates be left as they are now for the next five years.

Ald. Morrow also wanted a flat rate for domestic lifting and wanted to know why the company would not agree to it.

The representatives of the company stated that there was no telling how much the people would use on a flat rate. Many would use irons, toasters, etc., without making a report to the company. Mr. Larmonth said that he had figured out the amount of current used by their meter customers and the amount used by the flat rate customers and found that the latter used 300 per cent. more. He also claimed that to give a flat rate they would have to place the cost so high that it would be almost prohibitive.

The committee adjourned at 5.30 to meet again at 7.30 in the evening.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening the committee met again with Ald. Metheral, Ald. Duffus, the mayor, and Chairman Ald. Gillespie present.

The committee resumed the discussion on the meter rate question. The chairman asked the representatives of the company if they had any thing to offer.

Mr. Stuart said that they had talked it over a little, and had come to the conclusion that they should be allowed the right to instal meters as the flat rate was not at all fair. As far as the rate is concerned they did not think that they should be asked to reduce it any as no other place had a cheaper rate. But if they secured the franchise they would increase the rebate from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. for domestic lighting. This they thought was a fair concession as they had not made anything out of the plant as yet. By rights they were not justified in making any such concession. They would also agree to continue the flat rate for commercial lighting.

Ald. Duffus said the people were waiting to see what changes were going to be made and they thought this was an opportunity to make some change which would be satisfactory to both the company and the people.

The aldermen and the company discussed the rate business at some length, but did not get much nearer a settlement.

It was pointed out that Peterborough paying 7c. without a meter rate was getting light cheaper than St. Catharines which was paying 5.85c. and 25c. meter rent. As a matter of fact Peterborough will get its light as cheap or cheaper than any other city or town in Ontario with the exception of probably one or two.

Mr. Larmonth said that he would like to have the bylaw submitted to the ratepayers as soon as possible after it passes the council. The company will pay the expense of submitting the bylaw, which will be near $250. This is the usual custom.

Ald. Metheral said he thought the company should give 33 1-3 per cent. discount, and he would not vote for anything else.

Messrs. Stuart, Larmonth and Gray retired from the meeting at a quarter to ten o'clock, and the aldermen discussed the rate among themselves, but they could not come to any agreement, and Ald. Duffus moved that the meeting adjourn.

Mayor Rush said that he had gone into this question pretty well and he would second a motion to send the recommendation to the council, but no such motion was forthcoming and the meeting adjourned.

A Bullet Grazed Woman's Cheek

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 3.—The magistrates' courts are busy these days. Yesterday a striker was sent to jail for sixty days for assaulting a constable. The man charged with assaulting Manager Duggan was fined $20 and a Frenchman was mulcted in fifty dollars for carrying a revolver.

Twenty eviction cases are being heard this morning at Sydney, the county town.

BULLET STRUCK MRS. BREAN.

Last night a bullet entered the house of Shoemaker Brean at No. 3, and after passing through six partitions grazed the cheek of Mrs. Brean and lodged in the wall. Medical aid had to be called to dress Mrs. Brean's wound. It was first thought that a soldier had accidentally discharged his rifle and the officer held a strict examination and found each soldier with the stipulated amount of ammunition and none of the rifles showed signs of being recently discharged. The Brean family is not connected with the fight either one side or the other.

STRIKE AT SPRINKHILL?

Vice-President McCullough and Dan McDougall left last night for Springhill and will likely today call out the miners in the employ of the Cumberland Coal and Railway Company. The Conciliation Board reported against the recognition of the U.M.W. there, hence the decision to call out the men.

Terrible Death of Little Three-Year-Old Girl

Toronto, Aug. 3.—With her body from waist to chin blackened and burned, and with the flesh gone from her arms, Nellie Hill, aged three years and seven months, daughter of Mr. Thos. Hill, dairyman, 162 De Grassi street, died at the Sick Children's Hospital after twenty hours' suffering.

On Sunday morning Mr. Hills' eldest son, Reginald, in company with a friend, was sitting on the steps of his home, smoking. After lighting his pie, he laid on the step beside him a box of parlor matches which he forgot when he went into the house.

Shortly afterwards, Mr. Thos. Hill who was lying down inside the house, heard screams and went out.

PASSERBY USED HIS COAT.

"My wife had got out ahead of me, however," said Mr. Hill to a reporter this morning. "At first, I didnt know what was the matter, and thought a dog had attacked her. In a moment I saw what it was though. Mr. William Dowswell, who lives across the road from us, had Nellie in his arms, and her dress was smouldering. I took her away from him, and the flesh of her arms peeled off in my hands. Some young man, who was passing on a bicycle, had managed to smother the flames in his coat, which he pulled off, and Mr. Dowswell had completed the work."

"I ran out, too," said Mr. Reginald Hill. "I thought of a coat to put the fire out, but discovered that I didn't have one on."

The only one who was with the little girl was her brother, a child of a year older than herself, and he can not tell just how it happened. So far as can be learned, however, the children had found the matches and built a small boudre in a lane beside the house.

"There was a fairly strong breeze blowing down the lane as I found them I went out afterwards," Mr. Hill said. "I think Nellie must have stepped over the fire, which blazed up and caught her skirts. Her dress was only a light summer one, and I wonder that she was burned so badly. Back and chest seemed equally charred, and there was no chance of recovery. She didn't seem to suffer at first, but sat up and asked for a drink of water.

"Shewas not a child given to playing with matches. Earlier in the day she came to me with a handful which she had found somewhere, and have them to me. She hadn't lighted any!"

THIRTEEN OTHER CHILDREN.

Five doctors from the neighborhood came in response to calls, but the little girl was so terribly burned that they decided that her only chance lay in the hospital, where she was taken at full speed in an ambulance. The suffering child became unconscious, and her death took place early on Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill have thirteen other children. Nellie was a great favorite among the neighbors, and the small coffin was covered with flowes, sent, as one card said with sympathy from the neighbors who knew and loved her.

The child was buried this morning at Port Credit, from which place the family came.

Use 24-Hour Clock.

St. Petersbourg, Aug. 4.—This message was filed at seventeen o'clock, the Russian telegraph system having adopted today the use of the twenty-four hour clock, on which the numerals thirteen to twenty-four are used to designate the house from one in the afternoon to midnight.

The Lake Route to Western Canada.

The most attractive route is via the Grand Trunk Railway System, Northern Navigation Co. across Lakes Huron and Superior and Canadian Northern Railway Port Arthur to Winnipeg and the West, offering the best possible railway service and a "fresh water sea voyage" beyond comparison.

THE WEATHER.

Southerly winds; very warm and mostly fine; thunderstorms in a few localities.

Alfonso and His Queen Less and Less Popular

Pretender Will Head an Army if Spain Needs It, But Never Will He Lead Spaniard Against Spaniard

Vienna, Aug. 3.—Don Jaime, the pretender to the Spanish throne, declared in an interview here yesterday that he had no intention of interfering in the present crisis in Spain and said that his retirement to Frehsdorf, in lower Austria, far from the Spanish frontier was proof of his peaceful purpose.

"The Carlist party is a party of order,' said Don Jaime. "I never will take upon myself to bring an entire people into danger for my own ends. Never will I lead Spaniard against Spaniard. Should I return to Spain at the head of an army it will only be to restore order. This might happen should the revolutionaries drive out King Alfonso, or the welfare of the country require it.

MONARCHS LESS POPULAR.

"The popularity of King Alfonso is declining through no fault of his own, and Queen Victoria is certainly less liked than the king. Spaniards dread foreign influence. Victoria has remained a stranger too long and the people will never forgive her."

Don Jaime is of the opinion that the war in Morocco was unavoidable, and he fears that it will last a long time.

REPRESS WITHOUT MERCY.

Madrid, Aug. 3.—An announcement issued by the minister of the interior today declares that tranquility now reigns throughout Spain, except in certain isolated localities of Catalonia. A column of troops composed of artillery, cavalary and infantry today is marching on Sabadell, 20 miles from Barcelonia, where insurgents still are holding out, with orders to repress mercilessly any resistance that may be encountered.

BIG EXCURSIONS.

In the City Yesterday from Beaverton and Millbrook.

The city was besieged yesterday by two large excursions which brought in over fourteen hundred visitors. One special train from Beaverton carried about 800 and a special from Millbrook brought 500. The special attraction was the trip over the lift lock, and up to No. 5 dam. The Otonabee Navigation Co. had the steamers Otonabee and Water Lily on hand to carry the excursionists, and very large crowds took the trip in. Upon their return they had street car rides to the parks and around the city. Many engaged hacks and rigs for the afternoon. The visitors were met by Mayor Rush and Ald. Turner, chairman of the Reception Committee, and were extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the citizens. The train left for Beaverton at seven o'clock and for Millbrook at 8 o'clock.

Hughes in Seattle.

Seattle, Aug. 4.—New York day was celebrated today at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, with Governor Hughes as the guest of honor. A great ovation was given the chief executive of the Empire state, who came here at his own expense, having voted a $15,000 expense allowance proffered by the New York legislature. Before returning to Albany, Governor Hughes will visit the Canadian Rockies and Yellowstone Park.

A thousand yatchsmen will be in Cobourg on Aug. 6th. Come and enjoy an interesting day.

New Parcels Post.

Washington, Aug. 4.—While the express companies still refuse to permit the people of the United States to have a domestic parcels post, the Postmaster-General has entered into an agreement with the postal authorities of Japan and Denmark whereby parcels may be exchanged with those countries, beginning today.

TO CLIMB THE MOUNTAINS.

Famous Mountain Climbers to Try the Rockies.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 4.—Some of the most famous mountain climbers of England and America, including a party of scientists from the British Association will take part in the fourth annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada. Camp was pitched today at Lake O'Hara, on the main range of the Rocky mountains, 6864 feet above sea level, and in that sylvain solitude the scientists and mountain scalers will spend the entire week.

The party is under the leadership of Professor Harold B. Dixon, F. R. S., of the faculty of the University of Manchester, England. Among the mighty climbers at the camp is A. L. Mumm, whose mountaineering record is known the world over, and his famous guide, Moritz Inderbiney, the hero of many daring exploits in the Alps.

Honor Late Emperor.

Pekin, Aug. 3.—Today is the 37th anniversary of the birth of the late Emperor Kuang Hsu and was marked in China by universal mourning for the dead ruler. The dragon flags were at half mast throughout the empire and memorial services were held in all the joss houses.

Fifth Regatta

The Sturgeon Point Association will hold their fifth annual regatta at the point on Thursday, Aug. 5. Programs have been issued, giving the prize list for the nineteen races. A large crowd always attends the regatta at the northern resort and special boats will be run from Chemong Park, Stony Lake, Lindsay and other resorts on the Kawartha Lakes.

ALEX. BELL OF DUNSFORD

Died on Monday—Was in His 107th Year.

Like unto a fully-ripened shock of corn, Mr. Alexander Bell of Dunsford, was gathered to the heavenly garner, Monday afternoon, Aug. 2, in his 107th year from the home of his granddaughter, Ann Burgess, where he had resided for some time past. For seven years over the century mark the deceased has braved the storms of life with christian fortitude. He was perhaps the oldest resident of the County of Victoria, and was exceedingly well known to very large circle of friends. His own family connections are numerous, particularly so around Dunsford and the Scotch Line.

The late Alexander Bell was born in Fermanagh, Ireland, on Nov. 2, 1803, and therefore 107 years of age. Up to within a week or so of his death he was in excellent health, and it can hardly be said that he died of senility, although perhaps his old age hastened death after he was hurt a week ago. He happened to fall while out walking near the village of Dunsford, and was picked up in a very weak condition by Mr. Wilmot F. Webster, and assisted to his home. In the precipitant fall, Mr. Bell injured his head and no doubt the injury was the cause of his death.

The late Mr. Bell has lived for a number of years at Dunsford and altogether he is survived by some fifty-two grandchildren. He has been his second wife, who is still living, married twice, but has no family by the funeral of the deceased will take place today from the residence of his granddaughter, Ann Brugess, lot 6, con. 5, Verulam, at 2 o'clock, and proceed to Dunsford cemetery forinterment.

WILL BE BROUGHT BACK.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—A sensational climax to the arrest of the McMillen diamond robbers occurred yesterday afternoon. Woods and Conrad the men arrested at Renfrew, pleaded guilty to the charge, but the police who had but a charge of vagrancy against the first man arrested, James Howard, alias Maward, withdrew this, acting in conjunction with the police department of Weehawken, N. J. A detective from that city was present and re-arrested Howard before he he left the building. The real name of the accused is said to be Fred Smith, and it is charged that he is a notorious pickpocket. He was arrested in Weehawken last April for pocket picking, and placed on trial, but the jury disagreed, one holding out for acquittal. Smith was then admitted to $2,500 bail till August, Meanwhile he jumped and for weeks his bondsmen have been identified, has waived extradition, and agreed to go back. 7

"Nerviline" Cures Rheumatism

And Here is the Proof—A Solemn Statement from a Four-years' Cripple, Who Says "Nerviline" Did It.

"If I had lived through my sufferings another year it would have been a miracle." This is the opening sentence of the declaration made by Mr. J. Eccles Squires, member of one of the best-known families for twenty miles round Sydney. "My hands were drawn out of shape, even my fingers were gnarled and crooked—my lameness, stiffness and inhability to get about all showed the havoc Rheumatism made with my health. The blessing of it all is that I have heard of Nerviline, and now I am able to tell and advise others how they may get well, too. My system was so weakened that I had to build up with a good tonic, so I took Ferrozone at meals. But I never stopped rubbing on Nerviline—it had a magic influence on my stiff, painful joints, and bottle was rubbed on the painful parts. Nerviline cured me. I am well today—have been well for 4½ years."

CURED 4 1-2 YEARS

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4, 1909.

HARVESTER EXCURSIONS.

The demand of the West for labor in the harvest fields is again in sight and no doubt there will be plenty forthcoming even for handling the splendid crop in immediate prospect Many newly-located settlers will be eager to earn ready money by helping on established farms. Some Ontario farmers who have finished their own harvesting will welcome the chance of seeing the country and returning with a surplus. Home-seekers will as usual improve the opportunity, and there will be the expected recruits from the unemployed and the newly-arrived immigrants.

Experience should suggest provision against former mistakes. The rowdyism that attended last year's excursions should be prevented, both by care on the part of the railway authorities in the distribution of the men, and by the presence of a sufficient number of constables to preserve the peace. The men must not be made to feel that they have grievances, and their tendencies to boyish pranks should be promptly checked. Earlier excursions covered only parts of the railway lines, and tickets were not good to points where sufficient work could be obtained to validate the return checks. The result was that men who could not pay full fares to where work could be obtained were stranded. Men thus treated are easily prompted to acts of violence when an opportunity arises.

Last season was specially unfortunate owing to an unusual excess of laborers. The excursions were held during a severe depression, and men out of work eagerly seized the opportunity. This year conditions are entirely different, and the change suggests preparation for the time when there will be no great surplus of labor available during what is in most industries the busiest season of the year. Every industry must solve the problem of continuous employment for none need expect to find a force of men available for service during a few busy weeks every year. Western farmers will be forced to devise means of keeping their men continuously employed. This can be done by the adoption of mixed farming. The change will serve the further purpose of avoiding any threatened exhaustion of the soil. If the profit is not so large nor so immediate, there will be an attendant advantage in the assurance of labor for the sudden demands of harvest. So far by a confiding trust in chance the labor has been available every season. But such trust may some day be misplaced. The farmers in the prairie country should provide systematically for a supply of labor before the need is impressed by a serious and widespread loss. A harvest without the labor to handle it would be indeed a calamity.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE SPANISH UPRISING.

The gross inconsistency of the demonstrations in Spain, which purport to be against the prosecution of the campaign in Morocco, is displayed in the fact that more fighting is being done and more loss and destruction is being caused by them in Spain than would probably occur in the whole of the necessary operations at Merilla. Arson, theft and murder run riot in Catalonia and Valencia, as a protest against the military protection of Spanish lives and property on the Riff littoral!

We have no doubt that some of the earlier protests against sending troops to Morocco were protests sincere. They were inspired by that remarkable antipathy to military service which is to be observed among a large part of the Spanish nation. But it would be grotesque to give such credit to these later activities of the Catalonian mob. The anarchists and other criminals have simply made use of the opportunity to organize an extensive campaign of loot. There is, they think, a fine chance to rob churches and plunder shops. Probably many of the rioters do not even know that there is a campaign in Morocco, and few who do know care. What they are mindful of is the chance to gratify criminal propensities, and to do it more safely as members of a crowd than they could do it alone.

The elements of criminality and unrest are so numerous and strong in Spain, particularly in Catalonia, that the situation must be regarded as serious. The throne is not in danger, and the ministry may not have to resign, though it might be well for the untra-reactionary Prime Minister to retire in favor of a more liberal and progressive man. But it will probably take time and cost many lives and much treasure to suppress the mobs and to re-establish law and order. It is to be hoped that the proclamation of martial law through out the kingdom is an earnest assertion of governmental authority.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Knights of Columbus.

Mobile, A.a., Aug. 4.—Delegates and visitors representing the quarter of a million members of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic fraternal society, convened in national session in the old Gulf city today. Three days will be occupied by thesions. Besides the transaction of regular business and the entertainments provided by the Mobile committee, there will be sermons by some of the leading churchmen of the country The Knights of Columbus Society was organized in 1882 and since then has disbursed in benefits over $4,000,000.

Examine Soldiers.

Washington, Aug. 4.—By order of the Secretary of War, two boards, sitting at Fort Monroe and Fort Leavenworth, will today begin competitive examinations of enlisted men to determine their fitness for appointment as second lieutenants in the army.

The board at Fort Monroe will examine candidates for appointment to the coast artillery, while at Fort Leavenworth candidates will be examined for appointment to the cavalry, field artillery and infantry.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.
I am the one physician who says to the sick with, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you health—and for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended by every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and as your risk, for other unrecommended and unknown medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the Stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return, Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the fees. And for that reason alone, just test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted. But write me first for an order.
This will save delay and disappointment.
All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—for I have specialized on Shoop and no possible drug-every one—and to know my addition to the which book you talked will surely to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book both are free—and without cost.
Perhaps a word or long book can tell clear as mere nerves ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription of personal advice plan. My best ef-worth your while, while you have it, write to me, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 33, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert men of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. THE BETH DIN.

Where Law Comes Cheaper to Jews of the London Ghetto.

In a small turning out of "Petticoat Lane," in the heart of the Jewish quarter of London, or "Ghetto," is situated the Beth Din. It may well be termed the "Poor Jew's Law Court" for not only can disputes of all kinds be settled here, but no charge whatever is made for the use of its services, the expenses of carrying it on being borne by the Jewish community. Its sittings are usually presided over by the Chief Rabbi.

Here resort Jews of all classes and nationalities to adjust differences, and obtain advice—the Russian refugee and the Roumanian outcast, the Polish fugitive and the Portuguese emigrant, old Jews with hooked noses and straggling beards, young Jewesses with glittering eyes and coal-black hair. Here sits an aged Israelite, his small skull-cap stuck far back upon his few remaining hairs. Two long curls, or "peahs," fall on either side of his face. These are regarded by orthodox Jews as evidence of piety and learning, and are never cut. His clawlike nose, his long, matted beard, his olive-tinted skin, complete the picture. You almost expect to hear him claim his "pound of flesh."

His claim is, however, of a less inhuman kind. His friend has called him a "Shabsel Tairnick"—about the grossest insult one Jew can offer to another, implying he is a follower of the impostor Messiah of that name. The rabbi elicits the fact that the complainant only received this insult after himself calling his friend a "Terdegunov," or horse thief. Oil is poured on the troubled waters, apologies are exchanged, and both parties leave the court friends.

Then follows a claim by "Minyan" men for extra payment. According to Jewish custom, on the "Jahrseit," or anniversary, of the death of a parent, a special prayer, called the "Kaddish," is offered up for the soul of the departed. At least thirteen male Jews over thirteen years of age must be present, thirteen being regarded by Jews as a lucky number. This is called the "Minyan." Certain of the poorer Jews attend these services to make up the full complement of thirteen, and are paid for their attendance. This dispute is about what amount is to be paid. After much argument, a compromise is arranged.

Now come cases of all kinds. A Jew unsuccessfully seeks damages from a fried-fish vendor, because, he alleges, the oil in which the fish he purchased was fried was not "kosher"—i.e., prepared in accordance with the Jewish law. A servant sues her mistress for wages due. Various money-lending cases, disputes between landlord and tenant, etc., follow.

In the Beth Din no oath is taken. Each party is expected to tell the truth, and generally does. When, however, there is a very distinct and direct conflict of evidence, statements can be repeated on oath.

It must not be supposed that the sole function of the Beth Din is judicial. It also decides questions of ritual, appoints officers for the performance of Jewish rites and ceremonies, and examines converts to Judaism. Questions relating to the Jewish dietary laws are also decided here. There is still in existence a law, although it is obsolete by now, by which water left overnight should not be drunk, for fear lest there might be a serpent's sting in it.

A Cosmopolitan R.A.

"The son of American parents, born in Florence, trained in Paris, living in London, a citizen of the United States, speaking Italian, French, German, and Spanish almost as fluently as he speaks English." Thus has Mr. Sargent, R.A., whose pictures are again amongst the most notable at Burlington House, been described. Mr. Sargeant also pleads guilty to a taste for hunting. There is a story told of a visit he once paid to Fairford, the residence of his compatriot and brother Academician, Edwin Abbey. They had had a long day's hunting, and his host was changing his clothes when he heard cries of "Horrible! Horrible!" proceeding from Sargent's bedroom. Alarmed, he rushed in, only to find his friend woefully surveying the ruins of a new top-hat. "My dear fellow," he cried, "what's the matter?" "You see that hat," said Sargent. "My horse put his foot through it to-day. I was thinking how terrible it would have been if my head had been inside it."

Flower Trade of the Scilly Isles.

The Scilly Isles, five in all, lie out in the Atlantic forty miles off the Cornish coast. The development of their flower trade has changed them from poverty stricken spots into islands of the blessed. Not many years ago the inhabitants eked out a precarious and scanty living by potato culture, but one day a man of wise forethought named Trevelick came to the conclusion that flowers would bring a richer harvest. He could see them growing riotously in the little gardens, and he collected a few bulbs here and a few there until he had enough to start business with, and the first consignment he sent to Covent Gardens brought prices that are now spoken of with something like reverence. With the passing of the years flower culture has settled into a well organised trade, providing occupation for everybody who wants to work on the islands.

Lord Marcus Beresford's Advice.

At the time when Lord Marcus Beresford took over the King's horses His Majesty had only a very moderate lot of animals in training. "Well, what do you think of them, and what would you do with them if they were yours?" he asked Lord Marcus one morning as they were watching the royal string at work on Newmarket Heath. Beresford looked the horses over reflectively for a moment and then said bluntly. "Shoot most of them, I think." "Shoot them by all means, then," retorted the King.

Ingenious Paupers.

Leicester Corporation is bringing into use a new pattern of drain-trap, as it has discovered that many of the poorer inhabitants have been using the old patterns for saucepans or potato boilers.

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Otonabee from the Wolfe street wharf to Lindsay. The date is August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. This Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

SHAKESPEARE'S LAW.

Citations to Show That He Was In the Fashion of His Time.

No ordinary reader of Shakespeare's works can fail to be struck by the copious and ever-recurring legal phraseology with which they are filled. Not only are law terms frequently employed with an almost professional correctness to give color and intensity to his sentences, but whole scenes are taken up with allusions to or discussions on purely legal matters, as in "The Merchant of Venice," "Henry V." and the grave scene in "Hamlet," not to mention other plays. So profound indeed is the knowledge displayed all through that no less an authority on the subject than Lord Campbell has told us that "to Shakespeare's law, lavishly as he propounds it, there can neither be demurrer nor bill of exceptions nor writ of error." To this marked feature of the works more than to any other one might perhaps with justice attribute the very origin of the whole Baconian theory. The point is naturally of extreme importance in the eyes of those whose only knowledge of the literature of the period is confined to Shakespeare's writings. But that importance shrinks rapidly to insignificance after a course of reading through the general dramatic literature of the time, in which, as a matter of fact, legal similes and allusions are found to occur with about the same frequency as in Shakespeare's works. So strong indeed is the legal coloring of all stage writing at the time that one is forced to believe that law talk must have been more common among laymen in those days and especially among laymen of a play-going disposition than it has ever been during any period since. There are indications besides that some critics were getting tired of all this legal jargon, Dekker, for instance, who writes:

"There is another ordinary at which your London usurer, your stale bachelor and your thrifty attorney do resort—the price, threepence; the rooms as full of company as a jail. If they chance to discourse it is of nothing but statutes, bonds, recognisances, fines, recoveries, audits, rents, subsidies, sureties, enclosures liveries indictments, outlawries, feoffments, judgments, commissions, bankrupts, amercements and of such horrible matter."—Gull's Horn Book. 1609.

Sale of the Holbein.

The correspondent of The London Daily Chronicle at Milan says:

The outburst of public feeling in England over the sale of Holbein's "Duchess of Milan," and its threatened loss to the British nation has attracted a good deal of interest here. It is remarked that The Daily Chronicle, while calling prominent attention to the law which it has been found necessary to enact in Italy for the safeguarding of the national art treasures, has seemingly overlooked an important new fact bearing very materially on the present situation as regards Italy and Great Britain alike. That fact is the recent revision of tariffs in the United States, which altogether sweeps away the crushing duties on objects of art entering North America.

One of the far-reaching effects of this change is that not only divers American magnates are making arrangements to remove across the Atlantic previous collections, which, to avoid the tax-collector's rapacity, they had hitherto kept stored in Europe, but through their agents dealers are now more eager than ever to pillage countries like Italy of their masterpieces in every branch of art. In Italian cities especially their churches have already been sacked to a far greater extent than is generally known, so that hundreds of art works pointed out to travelers are but clever fakes of originals which have long disappeared, and for the manufacture of which a flourishing school of artists exists in Florence and elsewhere.

Noisy Avians.

The bellbird, which makes perhaps in its natural state the greatest noise of any known avian, is found both in South America and certain parts of Africa. Its voice will carry on a still day a distance of quite three miles. Its note is like the tolling of a distant church bell and is uttered during the heat of the day, when every other bird has ceased to sing and nature is hushed in silence. The hornbill, a bird which is widely distributed in India, the Malay archipelago and Africa, has also a very loud note. Its call has been described as "between the shriek of a locomotive and the bray of a donkey" and can be heard a distance of a couple of miles.

A Dinner in Mexico.

The dinner began with soup, followed by an array of courses, mostly compounds of things I did not recognise and nearly all very hot with chili peppers, but on the whole palatable. Frijoles (beans) were served just before the dulce. That is a warning that you have had all you are going to get and to satisfy yourself upon them if you have not had enough of the other things. They were well cooked and good. The bread was in the form of rolls, sweetened and of poor quality—"pan blanco" it is called. It is the characteristic bread, however, of Mexico—when bread is to be had at all. The coffee was of good quality, but, like all Mexican coffee, muddy and very strong. It is burned black in roasting, ground to a powder, boiled and served, grounds and all. You are supposed to drink the grounds.—Outing.

SOME STATISTICS.

Startling Facts About the Growth of the Dominion.

Statistics are often dry reading, writes an Ottawa correspondent, but a special grain report just issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce is so illustrative of the growth of the golden West, that a few minutes may well be spared to give thought to the figures which it contains.

Take the great item of wheat, for instance. In 1900, the total wheat production in all Canada was 47,857,917 bushels, of which only 17,000,000 was grown west of the Great Lakes. Last year, Canada's production of wheat reached a total of 126,795,137 bushels, of which 105,813,454 were grown in the western provinces. The acreage under crop in 1900 was 1,870,280, but in 1908 it had risen to 6,813,089. The greatest development has taken place in Saskatchewan. There in 1905 the crop acreage under wheat was only 1,130,094; last year it was 3,763,463 acres.

Saskatchewan is rapidly beating Manitoba as the granary of the West. Three years ago Manitoba produced 55,761,416 bushels of wheat as against 25,107,286 in Saskatchewan; but last year Saskatchewan produced 50,854,229 bushels as compared with 49,854,239 by Manitoba.

And while "wheat is king," the development of the West is shown by the figures that, whereas in 1900 the total production of oats in all Canada was 105,015,651 bushels, last year the West alone grew 106,940,978 bushels, while the total for all Canada was 254,615,670 bushels. In barley, also, the West is rapidly outstripping the East. In 1900 all Canada produced 20,323,666 bushels of barley, last year the West alone produced 23,638,946 bushels out of a total of 47,342,130 bushels.

Another significant illustration of the development of the West is the fact that while in 1900 there were 523 elevators with a capacity of 18,879 bushels, last year there were 1,354, with a capacity of 50,538,700 bushels.

One more striking fact, and this attempt to make a batch of figures interesting will be done. This is that the growth of the grain fields of the West has also meant an increase in Canadian shipping. In 1908 the amount brought east by Canadian vessels from Port Arthur and Fort William was 34,634,471 bushels; last year it was 49,308,104. In the same period the increase carried by United States vessels amounted only to a little over two million bushels.

The Mining Man and His Wad.

These practical mining men have some curious experiences at times during their jaunts about the north country. Mr. G. W. Raynor, of the Macdonald-Raynor mines, was coming down the Montreal river recently, north of Gowganda, in a canoe with one companion, when they run on a submerged tree and upset. The bow man could not swim but managed to get hold of the overturned canoe and climbed on top. Raynor got hold of one end, and, swimming on his back, succeeded in towing the whole outfit to the bank. The axe and frying pan and several other valuable articles were lost, however, including a roll of bills, secured with an elastic band, which floated away during his squirming in the water.

They spread out the blankets to dry in the sun, and, having wrung the water out of their outer garments, were running up and down the landscape to dry the rest of them. Raynor was 100 yards down the stream, keeping an eye out for anything which might have floated, when he espied his roll of bills clinging by a slender bold to a branch of cedar a few yards out from the shore.

Mr. Raynor was to the city for a few days while the races were on; he remarks philosophically that not every fifty dollars lost in these parts during the last two weeks were so easily regained.

Westerners Buy Autos.

More than 300 automobiles, representing approximately $400,000, have been sold and delivered by local garages this season in the prairie provinces—the most phenomenal spring trade growth that the motor-propelled vehicle has met with in Western Canada. Cars of all makes, powers, and varieties are flooding the market. It has been the most prosperous season in the history of the trade, and agents are not meeting half as much difficulty in selling cars as they are in securing an adequate supply from the various factories. That the proverbial animosity toward the motor of those who engage in agricultural pursuits is a dead letter is evidenced by the fact that this spring more than twenty-five cars have been shipped out of Winnipeg to various Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers.

Lady Grey's Adventure.

An amusing occurrence in connection with Countess Grey's trip to these parts last week has just come to light.

The countess was traveling to Grimsby in an automobile, and saw some wild flowers on the side of the road. She requested her chauffeur to dig up a root, and as he was doing so the owner of the property came out and began to abuse her excellency.

Mrs. J. S. Hendrie, who was accompanying the countess, wanted to explain matters, but she would not permit her. The property owner insisted that the flowers be put back, on pain of arrest for trespassing and stealing. The farmer accused the countess of being a Yankee tourist.

An Elderly High Wire Artist.

Caledon East correspondent of Bolton Enterprise: An old man apparently over 70 years of age struck this town last Saturday evening and gave an exhibition of his skill on the slack wire. His appearance on his arrival was rather against him, as he was a perfect guy. His beard, which reached down to his middle, was like "Joseph's coat" of many colors. On each side of his face hung down long, bushy locks of hair. However, his performance on the wire was creditable to one of his years, and he was rewarded by the crowd with many nickels and dimes.

ALL NESTS ARE INTERESTING.

But Some Birds Are Much Better Housekeepers Than Others.

An old French proverb says, "Each bird finds its own nest beautiful," but to human eyes there is a mighty difference. The dove, for example, is a mighty bad housekeeper, either wild as the wood-dove or tame as the domestic pigeon. Two sticks, three straws, a suspicion of coarse grass, and Madam Dove is ready to lay her pearl-white eggs and brood them with a touching devotion. Neither she nor her mate has any shame in such a nest, for they always set it where it can be plainly seen.

Robin Redbreast belies the adage that practice makes perfect. He often builds three nests a season, but they are solid, commonplace, mud-plastered affairs, as unpoetic as the mud nests of the house martin. The lee martin puts up a different home for himself and mate. His nest may have a foundation of mud, but it is cushioned within, stuccoed without, with fine wood lichens, into a thing of beauty. It vies, indeed, with the nests of the chimney swallow, the queer angular affairs stuck flat against the sutty chimney side. They are of tiny sticks, built up like elfin log cabins, and cemented at the corners, as well as held fast to the chimney by a sort of glue secreted by the birds themselves.

The warblers are pattern nestbuilders. They generally choose a spot of safe seclusion, "far from the madding crowd," as it were, then pitch upon some cup of twig and line it and cushion it with the finest soft fibers, fine grass, horse hair, human hair, bits of string. In choosing they are curiously intelligent. If a handful of variegated threads be spread out where they can find them, all the sad-colored ones will the used, the gay ones left.

Not so with the cat bird. His outcall has something savage about it, and he has also a savage taste for red. Bits of red flannel are a dear delight to him. He will tug and tug at them, letting go, then seizing them again, until he has found the exact spot at which the weight of this treasure trove least impedes flight. The odd thing is that he does not line his nest with the flannel once he has it safe. He works it into the outer wall, the latter being of rough sticks and thorns.

Mocking birds love a nest in garden shrubbery, orchard tangle or the scented thickets of an abandoned field. They build big nests, soft, elastic and lined with the finest hair, sometimes off my lady's head. They come next to the oriole as aerial architects. Almost everyone who has lived in the country for any great length of time has noticed the pretty purse-shaped oriole houses swung from orchard boughs, but few, perhaps, know the bird's trick of bending down a leafy twig to ambush his precious nest, and holding the twig in place with a loose wrapping of long fibers.

A WONDERFUL BRIDGE.

First Train Run Over Huge Viaduct at Lethbridge.

Recently a great delegation of prominent business men of Winnipeg toured the entire Canadian west promoting interest in the proposed Canadian Exposition to be held in that city in 1912, as a celebration of the centennial anniversary of the arrival of the first contingent of Selkirk settlers upon the banks of the Red River, who thus became the real pioneers of western settlement and development which astonished the world in later years. During the visit of the delegation to the thriving young city of Lethbridge, the capital of sunny southern Alberta, the program of the reception planned by the citizens contained the unique feature of a trip over the great viaduct which the C.P.R. is building across the Belly River at that point. Through the courtesy of the company the special train in which the delegation traveled was run out on the bridge, and they thus had the distinction of being the first passengers on this wonderful triumph of engineering, locally designated the "eighth wonder of the world."

This immense bridge was necessitated by the determination of the C.P.R. to construct a air line from Lethbridge to Macleod and thence to the coal fields of the Crow's Nest, and as a link in their second great transcontinental which will ultimately parallel the boundary. The old line which this cut-off will replace was very circuitous, and crossed between twenty and thirty trestles—a constant source of danger to traffic, and also a constant expense—in the comparatively short distance between Lethbridge and Macleod.

The new bridge is not yet ready for actual traffic, but the permanent tracks will be laid over it early in August, after two years' work by the engineers and an army of men. The last of the 65 big steel towers upon which the bridge rests is now completed, and the great goblin of the foothills will then have assumed its definite shape. Twenty-four million pounds of steel have been consumed in its ribs and girders, every one of which, so far as possible, has been manufactured in Canada; and before the last bolt is riveted this vast structure, 5,327 feet in length, will have cost the railway nearly two million dollars. In spit of the immensity of the work and the omnipresent dangers, only one of the steel workers, these intrepid cowboys of the skies, lost his life in its erection. This fatality occurred a few weeks ago, when one of them slipped while working near the top of a tower and went crashing down hundreds of feet to the valley below. Although he caught a cable in his descent and swung momentarily there, he lost his hold, smashed to the earth, and when his mangled body was picked up every bone in it was broken.

She Knew.

"How stupid you are, Lola!" exclaimed her mother. "I don't believe you know the difference between a fried oyster and a whale."

"Yes, I do, mamma," replied the little miss. "One is cooked and the other isn't."

August time takes on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course old health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves," then the stomach. Heart and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see quickly health, with be yours again. Sold by all Dealers.

A RIVAL'S DOWNFALL

Out of Bitterness the Lovers Snatched Happiness.

By ESTHER AINSLEE.

[Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.]

If Dalzell's store advertised a sale of silk dress goods in the Monday issue of the Rosemont Banner it was a certainty that the paper's Tuesday night number would contain an ad. from Thompson's store across the street telling of bargains in satins, with a side line of embroideries, at which Rosemont smiled appreciatively and reaped the benefit.

The town was proud of the proprietors of the two leading dry goods stores, for most of the young men left for the adjacent big city when it came time to make their way in the world, but Malcolm Dalzell and Lewis Thompson within a year of each other settled down to make a living in their home town.

Perhaps it were better to say Rosemont was proud of their enterprise, for Lewis Thompson was not the type to inspire affection in the hearts of his townsmen. A man cannot be blamed for lack of magnetism and an attractive nature, but nevertheless he suffers for it, and Thompson possessed besides these drawbacks a hot headed, quarrelsome disposition and a theory that every man had a right to look out for himself to the exclusion of any possible rights of others.

His aggressiveness made him enemies where Malcolm Dalzell won friends by his mere cheerfulness and diplomacy. But each flourished on his own side of the street.

Not only were they rivals in business, but from the days of carrying schoolbooks there had seemingly been but one girl in the world in the eyes of each, Milly Wainwright, with the waves of soft brown hair and eyes that matched, with the sweet voice and appealing little ways.

Shrewd people even said the reason both boys stayed in Rosemont was that each was afraid to leave the other a clear field with Milly, who had never shown any preference between the two.

Lewis Thompson was a different man with her. Her mere presence smoothed and softened the aggressive young business man, and she smiled incredulously when stories of his cold shrewdness and overreaching deals came to her ears.

Yet unknown to herself Malcolm Dalzell occupied a place in her life from which no one could dislodge him. Milly was in the delicious and dreamy state of indecision which a girl always prolongs unwittingly. Life was sweet to her, and even the growing wildness of her younger brother, Dick, which was aging her father and mother, had not power to do more than depress her momentarily.

"It's only because Dick is young," she told her mother half indignantly. "He will see the mistake of his ways before he ever does anything really wrong. Why, Dick wouldn't be really bad. It's absurd!"

She was great chums with the handsome eighteen-year-old brother, and because she did have faith in him the boy turned to her always in his rare spells of repentance. At present he had gone to work in a bank in the next town, six miles distant.

The Rosemont Banner had two columns of description, speculation and denunciation when Thompson's store was robbed. Malefactors were rare in Rosemont, and the night watchman's work was perfunctory, but nevertheless Lewis Thompson discovered a back window pried open and nearly $300 worth of silks and laces missing.

Three weeks later he was reduced to explosive rage by the discovery that again his store had been entered. This time a hundred dollars' worth of goods vanished. In his wrath the owner of the store telegraphed for a city detective and established a night patrol for the block. The city detective looked important, smoked good cigars of the leading citizens, who wanted to tell him their theories as to the robbery, had a very pleasant time and departed with dark hints as to future developments.

"At any rate," Lewis Thompson said vigorously, "with Maloney on hand as a watchman the thief won't get another chance!"

"It's hard luck, Lewis," sympathized Malcolm Dalzell with his business rival. Thompson regarded him coldly. Of late Milly had been in Dalzell's company more than he liked.

"Thanks," he said. "It's funny the thief doesn't attack your premises, Malcolm. I don't understand such fastidium unless it's because he knows where the best goods are!" He smiled somewhat maliciously as he made the fling.

"Superiority has its drawbacks, then," Dalzell said quietly, holding his temper. He understood Thompson's grudge against him and could afford to be magnanimous, for he had begun to cherish a certainty that he had distanced Thompson with Milly. For her he would endure much.

Lewis Thompson did not relax his vigilance as the weeks went by. One Thursday night, as he made one of his personal trips of inspection, about 1 o'clock he started for his store on a run after finding the watchman, Maloney, knocked senseless at the corner. And he was rewarded. The revolver in his hand covered the dark form of the man standing at the rear window with the faint gleam of a dark lantern on the floor beside him.

Not even Lewis Thompson was speechless when after his trembling fingers had turned on the rear light he saw the man before him was none other than Malcolm Dalzell, who stood white and quiet facing his captor.

"I—I can't comprehend," Thompson almost stammered, still covering the marauder with his revolver. "Ives—of all people!"

The man before him moistened his lips. "Lewis," he said at last, "will you believe me if I say, in spite of this, I'm not the robber—that it's just unfortunate circumstances that have brought this about? Will you?"

Lewis Thompson recovered his coolness, and he laughed shortly, sarcastically, glancing significantly at the dark lantern. The fallen jimmy, the goods piled at hand for removal.

"I don't see any one but you, Dalzell," he said curtly. "You've got to take your medicine. You can plead kleptomania, you know. Rising young business man, easy circumstances, no need to rob—why, of course, it's kleptomania!"

There was a little triumph edging into his laugh as what this meant to his rival dawned upon him. And it was likewise dawning upon his captive, who shut his jaw when the marshal, hastily summoned, almost refused to obey Thompson's command to take the prisoner to the jail.

"Go ahead, Smith," was all that Malcolm Dalzell would say, and he walked to the lockup with his head in the air.

The whole town shared the sensations of Smith the next morning, and the Rosemont Banner exhausted all its heavy black faced type that evening and paused only for absence of more space. It was paralyzing, horrifying, this downfall of a man like Malcolm Dalzell, one of those queer croppings out of hidden tendencies that sometimes destroy the world's best.

The three days that intervened before his preliminary hearing drew lines in Dalzell's face and gave him a pallor that usually it takes age to bring. Yet he maintained those close shut lips and, further than stating he was not guilty, refused to talk.

When he faced his friends and neighbors at the preliminary hearing there was a trace of proud defiance in his glance that yet was strangely hurt, for on many faces he read a dawning wavering in allegiance to him.

Much talk had bred suspicion, and every one knew of the long rivalry between the two men. What more natural than that Dalzell should attempt to harass, to ruin his opponent? So they waited for the sensational disclosures.

The sensation came. As usual with sensations, it was quite different from what was expected. This white faced girl, with eyes reddened by tears, who suddenly presented herself struck pity from the heart of the hardest. She spoke rapidly, breathlessly.

"Malcolm did not do it!" she protested, with tight clasped hands. "If he won't tell I will, now that I know the truth! It was Dick, my brother, and Malcolm, who also was watching, saw him and entered Thompson's store to save him, to get him away, to help him, and when Lewis Thompson came upon him—he, Malcolm, would not tell because"—

Milly Wainwright's voice died away, but the end of the sentence was furnished by Malcolm Dalzell's quick step to her side and hiding her tears on his shoulder. Both had made their sacrifice for each other and out of the bitterness had snatched happiness. And Rosemont, with the fickleness of the human race, said it served Lewis Thompson right and he should have had more common sense.

Steeplejack Is Wrong.

Bob and Jim were Jacks of all trades and worked together. One summer's morning Bob came round to Jim's house at the early hour of 8 and managed to wake him.

"Now, then," he cried, "hurry up. There's a big factory chimney wants pulling down about a mile away from here, and I got the tip from the factory foreman that if we could knock twenty feet off it before the authorities were about it would save the factory the expenses of a scaffold and it would mean a five pound note apiece for you and me."

"What, ho!" cried Jim. "Let's go."

Their destination reached, they climbed to the top of the chimney, and soon masses of brickwork were falling to earth. A man who lived near was disturbed by the noise and started to make a fuss. "Here, Bob," cried Jim "you climb down and quiet that fellow. Keep him talking while I finish this job up here." So Bob climbed down and engaged the indignant man in conversation.

Suddenly Jim heard Bob calling to him and, looking down, saw his friend gesticulating wildly and beckoning him to come down. So down Jim came. "What's the matter?" he asked "Let's go home, Jim, thundering quick. We've been pulling down the wrong chimney."—London Answers.

D'Auber is a big, healthy, bearded man who looks as though he could lift half hundredweights in each hand as easily as he picks up his palette.

An elderly rustic, who had been standing watching him painting by the roadside, approached him.

"No offense, sir," he began, "but is there anything the matter w' you?"

"No," answered D'Auber. "What makes you ask?"

"Yer hain't lame, are yer?"

"Lame! Good gracious, no!"

"Yer hain't 'ad a misfortune in any way—the chatlear or lumbago—that's kind o' laid yer by?"

"No, I'm as well as I have always been."

The rustic drew himself up and gazed scornfully at the artist.

"An' yer call yerself a man an' can sit theer a-doin' o' that?" he said. "Well, I'm blest!"—Exchange.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be English and full of affright,
While a rabbit is Welsh and is eaten at night.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas bobbing, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Dealers.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE SOLE HEAD of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The application must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Despair and Moral Relaxation in Russia

It is not rare to observe that with the loss of hope comes the loss of self-restraint.

We aim high, but if our great resolve is wrecked among the difficulties of life, we are tempted to plunge, with all our remaining energy, into cynical dissipation.

Some of the most abandoned men and women once dreamed the loftiest dreams.

What is true of individuals seems, at times, to be partly true of whole communities, and of nations

The decadence of Rome was accompanied and probably partly caused by a loss of faith in ancient gods and ethics and national destinies.

Some close and capable observers think they perceive in the most recent developments in Russia both in some aspects of the life and also in the reflecting art and literature, indications that there is at least a temporary tendency in the direction of despair and moral relaxation.

There is, fortunately, no allegation made that this tendency is wide-spread throughout the nation.

It affects a small class of "intellectuals" only; but the influence of that class is large, because it is the one which most widely expresses itself. It is felt in the youth of the university, in literature and in art.

It is said that the boys and girls of the gymnasia, the same class who not so very many years ago were in spirit identified with the revolution and the literature which announced it—such as the work of the great Russian fiction writers, especially, perhaps, Turgenieff—that these enthusiastic young people have too often become the victims of a dissipation vainly fancied to be consoling.

These symptoms of a mind diseased, of a group of minds diseased. will disappear when the hope of young Russia revives, and this probably will not take many years to bring about.

The Russian temperament would appear to be a very moody one, given over to extremes, very emotional.

Beaten in its efforts it does not lie dully quiet for a time, as is the way with the Anglo-Saxon, until new energy comes to begin again or until the opportunity arrives, but its need of emotional expression urges into extreme action.

The national quality of sincerity and depth of expression which has made Russian literature not only great but full of rich sympathy with the best that is in humanity, gives to its declining and despairing mood a peculiar poignancy.

New Job for John D. Rockfeller Controller of Standard Oil Co.

Two clergymen, both Baptists, and both pastors under whom John D. Rockefeller sits when in their respective cities, are at war with each other over the question of immersion.

* * *

One contends that pouring or sprinkling is not in harmony with Baptist theology, while the other contends that any form, whether pouring, sprinkling or immersion, is acceptable to God.

* * *

The latter also admits anyone of any church or of no church to break bread with him, while the former objects to any man participating in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper who has not been immersed, according to the orthodox Baptist custom.

* * *

In other words, according to Baptist belief, salvation is limited to those who have gone completely under the water and does not include those millions whose bodies have escaped the ceremonial of moisture in any form.

* * *

Were we ourselves of the Baptist fold—which, as the old Greek and Latin grammars used to put it, is supposition contrary to fact—we should stand by the immersionist.

For logically as well as morally, any man who accepts ordination in the Baptist Church and agree to conform to its dogma and discipline, should either do so or hand in his resignation.

But we are outsiders and mere logicans. Some one inside the Baptist fold should settle this quarrel amongst two pastors.

We, therefore, suggest that the task be given to John D. Rockefeller, who knows both pastors intimately.

For he, as the controller of the Standard Oil Company, could apply a familiar physical law and settle matters by pouring oil on the troubled water.

A Booze Fighter

A writer in McClure's Magazine, calling himself "An Alcohol Slave," declares that nearly four years out of thirty he has spent in buying drinks at 1860 bars in fifty-eight cities of nineteen states.

In the full period $17,364.60 of his money went to pay for liquor and to settle saloon losses at cards, dice, etc.

Of twenty of his friends who began to drink when young, nine married young and reformed, three killed themselves and three died otherwise tragically from drink, one died of pneumonia at 20 and one of consumption at 27, one became a bartender, one a peddler and one a tramp.

Such testimony has the usual value of experience-meeting material. It furnishes a horrible example.

But it tells us only what we knew before—that liquor is a curse to any man weak enough to have it so; that indulgence can be a strong and costly master; that he who makes an occupation of buying drinks follows a hard trade.

It is impossible to generalize justly or even profitably from such grounds. Among men in general, this case of the confessed "Slave" is exceptional.

The habits of the man led him into such associations that the casualty table of his twenty friends becomes unusual rather than monitory.

One questions if the effects are really beneficial to the world at large of such confessions. Do they inspire among other men who drink more of fear lest they too become slaves than of pride in their own strength of will? Is it not the way of human nature rather to feel contempt of other people's weaknesses than to be warned by them?

Authorities differ notoriously as to the use of alcohol. Dr. Sir James Crichton-Browne says total abstainers on the large scale are of abnormal constitution, not of the finest quality.

The worst case of degradation which can be cited proves only one man who cannot contain himself to produce.

If You Feel Poorly This Spring this Article is Worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health If the nerves are weak, if the stomach liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health —the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I truggled against growing pale, thin ad weak—but it was no good. Spring roughs depressions, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But me life was spared, simply because learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvelous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have clearer blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young

The Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, ONT.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 4, 1909.

First Outing.

The superintendent, assistant superintendent, and the agents of the Peterborough districts of the Prudential Insurance Company, will enjoy their first annual outing at Chemong on August 9th, Civic Holiday.

Successful Students.

The names of successful students who passed the Normal School examinations from Peterborough are:—W. H. Adamson, honors; H. F. Elliott, J. A. Eyres, honors; R. L. Fitzgerald, J. J. Garvey, J. Halliday, J. A. Kerr, P. M. King, K. I. Leary, J. McCarthy, M. Perdue, Z. Paget, E. H. Pue, A. J. Rohil, K. E. Read, honors; M. H. Smith, F. H. Torrance.

Expanding Territory.

The Prudential Insurance Company is expanding its territory from the Peterborough district and Mr. Franklin Cornelius has been transferred to Lindsay, and will open up an office there on Monday, August 9th. THE NEW WOMAN.

Made Over By Quitting Coffee.

Coffee probably wrecks a greater percentage of Southerners than of Northern people for Southerners use it more freely.

The work it does is distressing enough in some instances; as an illustration, a woman of Richmond, Va., writes:

"I was a coffee drinker for years and for about six years my health was completely shattered. I suffered fearfully with headaches and nervousness, also palpitation of the heart and loss of appetite.

"My sight gradually began to fail and finally I lost the sight of one eye altogether. The eye was operated upon and the sight partially restored, then I became totally blind in the other eye.

"My doctor used to urge me to give up coffee but I was wilful and continued to drink it until finally in a case of severe illness the doctor insisted that I must give up the coffee so I began using Postum and in a month I felt like a new creature.

"I steadily gained in health and strength. About a month ago I began using Grape-Nuts food and the effect has been wonderful. I really feel like a new woman and have gained about 25 pounds.

"I am quite an elderly lady and before using Postum and Grape-Nuts I could not walk a square without exceeding fatigue, now I walk ten or twelve without feeling it. Formerly in reading I could remember but little but now my memory holds fast what I read.

"Several friends who have seen the remarkable effects of Postum and Grape-Nuts on me have urged that I give the facts to the public for the sake of suffering humanity, so, although I dislike publicity, you can publish this letter if you like."

Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Mrs. Lloyd Fish of Toronto, is in the city visiting friends. She was formerly the wife of Rev. Mr. Lloyd of Warsaw, who passed away there some years ago. Mrs. Fish is now actively engaged in Christian Science work, and this week will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Singleton, 168 Stewart street.

Costly Railroad.

New York, Aug. 4.—Officials of the New York Central Lines state that the new Franklin & Clearfield branch in Pennsylvania, opened today, is one of the costliest pieces of railway engineering work in the world. One mile of the road has two bridges and three tunnels and cost $1,250,000 to build.

Missouri Pacific Finances.

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—Following this week's meeting of Missouri Pacific stockholders, the detailed plan of financing the road will be made public. The issue will increase the bonded indebtedness of the road about $75,000,000, and it is stated that the entire amount was provided for before President Gould left for Europe.

Want Missouri "Dry."

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—St. Louis is going to attain the honor now held by Memphis, of being the largest "dry" city in America, if the Constitutional Amendment Association, in session today at the Planters' Hotel, accomplishes its purpose. The prohibitionists hope to force the secretary of state to submit prohibition to a popular vote next year. The work of securing signatures to an initiative petition will be pushed vigorously. St. Louis is next to Milwaukee the most important center of the brewing industry in the United States, and the adoption of statewide prohibition would destroy the business of millions of dollars worth of property and put thousands of men out of employment.

Thirty-Year Franchise Goes on to the Council

The Company Desires to Have the Question Settled at Once so as to Get a Vote of the People

Whether or not the people will get an opportunity to grant or reject a thirty-year franchise to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, depends upon the council. The Manufacturers' Committee met again yesterday afternoon with Messrs. Larmonth and Stuart, and finally decided to send it on to council to consider, which was really the only thing they could do.

In all probability the Council will hold a special meeting in a few days so as to either pass the bylaw the two readings and send it on to the people or throw it out altogether. The company desires to have the question settled at once so as to get a vote of the people taken about the first week in September.

Mr. John Stuart of Chicago, stayed over, and he and Mr. Larmonth again met the Manufacturers' Committee in reference to the thirty-year franchise for the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and more particularly the rates of the light.

The progress made the day before was gone over for the benefit of those who were not present at the former meetings. Then the aldermen talked the matter over among themselves, and Ald. Hicks said that one great point in favor of the franchise was that the city was getting a greater control over their streets. He did not think, however, that the council should be rushed in the matter, as thirty years was a long time to be tied up for.

Ald. Morrow agreed with that also. If it was only for a ten-year franchise he would not hesitate for a moment to grant it.

Ald. Bradburn thought that the company should state publicly if the railway extension depended upon the granting of this franchise.

It was moved that the report be referred to the council to be dealt with. This was moved by Ald. Morrow and Ald. Duffus.

The members present at the meeting were Ald. Gillespie, chairman; Aldermen Duffus, Hicks, Morrow, Bradburn and Mayor Rush.

TEN MILLION DAYS

LOST IN USELESS STRIKES IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Record of One Year in England — How Strikes were Settled.

London, Aug. 4.—The fact that over 10,000,000 working days were wasted during the year 1908 by strikes and lockouts is a telling argument against these methods of industrial warfare. A further one is supplied by a statement showing in how many cases either party got its own way and in how many cases a compromise was effected. Thus (one learns from the official report) 399 disputes occurred during last year, and the results were as follows (in percentages).

	Per cent
Ended in favor of workers	8.5
Ended in favor of masters	25.2
Compromised	65.6
Unsettled	0.7

"As usual," adds the report, "the great majority of the disputes were settled by direct negotiations between the parties involved or their representatives."

Among the longer disputes of the year, with the number of workers affected and the loss in working days, were the following:—

	Persons.	Days lost.
Shipbuilding	85,000	1,700,000
Engineering	11,000	11700,000
Cotton spinning	120,000	4,750,000

"Taking all the disputes of the year together," says the report, "only 1.9 of the workpeople directly involved in them were successful in attaining their object, while 1.9 per cent. effected compromises."

The number of disputes settled by conciliation or arbitration in 1908 was 56, and the number of workpeople involved in them 200,279. These numbers were the highest in the period 1898-1908. The most important feature of the year, in this connection, was the formation of Conciliation Boards in connection with the principal railway companies—47 in number—of the United Kingdom. The following figures—for 1908—are also interesting:

Boards taking action	115
Cases considered	1,812
Cases settled by Boards	554
Cases settled by umpires	254

Of the 808 cases settled, only 11 involved a stoppage of work.

A.B.C. Excursion.

The A. B. C. excursion from Tweed was in the city yesterday, and four hundred passengers came in on the special train. They boarded the steamer Otonabee at the Wolfe St. wharf, and enjoyed the trip up the canal to Stony Lake. They returned to the city about seven o'clock, and after a short stay here left for their homes.

GOT TO

Have Sharp Brains Nowadays or Drop Back.

The man of today, no matter what his calling, needs a sharp brain, and to get this he needs food that not only gives muscles and strength but brain and nerve power as well.

A carpenter and builder of Marquette, who is energetic and wants to advance in his business read an article about food in a religious paper and in speaking of his experience he said:

"Up to three years ago I had not been able to study or use my thinking powers to any extent. There was something lacking and I know now that it was due to the fact that my food was not rebuilding my brain.

"About this time I began the use of Grape-Nuts food, and the result has been that now I can think and plan with some success. It has not only rebuilt my brain until it is stronger and surer and more active but my muscles are also harder and more firm, where they used to be loose and soft and my stomach is now in perfect condition.

"I can endure more than twice the amount of fatigue and my rest at night always completely restores me. In other words, I am enjoying life and I attribute it to the fact that I have found a perfect food." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

STRIKE OF TAILORS

NEW YORK HAS BIG STRIKE ON HAND.

Thirty Thousand Men Quit Work — Fight to a Finish Promised.

New York, Aug. 5.—A mass meeting of the locals in and near New York of the Brotherhood of Tailors was held yesterday afternoon at Clinton Hall, No. 151 Clinton street at which a general strike involving thirty thousand coat tailors was declared. Before the meeting took place seven thousand coat tailors went on strike in 150 shops in Manhattan, in addition to the six thousand who struck in Brooklyn last week.

The strike ordered at yesterday's mass meeting is the largest that has taken place in the clothing trades in this city in six years. The Brotherhood of Tailors which consists of the coat tailors, is affiliated with the United Garment Workers of America. The New York district council of the latter did not want a strike of the coat tailors this year, but sanctioned the strike on the condition that none of the shops which have a specific agreement with the union should be involved. This was agreed to by the brotherhood.

ENDURANCE TEST.

Gig Infantry Will Drive from St. Catharines to Petawawa.

St Catharines, Ont., Aug. 5.—Two gigs of the Leonard Gig Infantry have left the city, bound for Petawawa Camp, on an endurance test. The first gig left this city early Friday evening last, and was in charge of Capt. Gander, of the 19th Regiment, and with him was Dr. Wilson, of the 9th Mississauga Horse, Toronto. The officers camped out at Stoney Creek on Friday night, and resumed their journey early Saturday morning. A second gig, in charge of Capt Cossens, who was accompanied by Lieut. Soudan, of the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, left St. Catharines on Saturday, and will follow the first gig to Petawawa Camp.

EVERYTHING BUT GAS.

Galt Syndicate Struck Salt, Sulphur and Pure Water.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 3.—A Galt citizen returned to-night from the neighboring Village of Plattsville, and reports the extraordinary experiences of a local syndicate formed to bore for natural gas. With a capital of $10,000, and the services of a Petrolea expert, operations were begun in the east end. At a depth of $1,000 feet a salt vein was struck. Fresh boring was then undertaken at a point west, with the result that a sulphur well developed. A third effort to reach gas was made, at what was pronounced the most likely spot, but only an artesian well of great volume and force was the result.

METHODISTS TO GATHER.

Huge Conference Will Meet in Toronto Next October.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Representatives of Methodism from the wide world will gather in Toronto in the month of October, 1911. This was decided at a meeting of the convening officers of the western section of the London Methodist Council of 1901, held at Ocean Grove, N. Y., in response to a call signed by Bishop Goodsell and fourth ecumenical Methodist conferences.

The meeting also decided to ex-Bishop Hurst, to prepare for the trust the arrangements for the conference, including the settling of dates to an executive committee of twenty-five.

The executive committee organized by the election of Bishop Hoss, as chairman, and Dr. H. K. Carroll, secretary. Headquarters were fixed in New York, and will probably be at No. 150 Fifth avenue. Sub-committees were also appointed. The number of delegates was fixed at 500, and the executive committee was authorised to allot delegates to Methodist bodies not represented in 01. The estimated expense of the coming conference is $15,000.

Everybody is Arming for Protection

People of Stockholm All Armed for Self-Protection During Labor War.

TOURISTS CLEARING

The Trouble Threatens to Become More Acute — Troops Guard Plants.

Stockholm, Aug. 4.—The labor conflict in Sweden shows signs today of becoming more acute, and the ranks of the strikers are considerably swelled. But the general strike called for today has not yet become entirely effective. Many organization although sympathising with the strikers, hesitate to join them actively.

The employes of the street car lines and the cab drivers stopped work and neither street cars or cabs are available. The troops are protecting the gas works and the electric light plant, and this step has incensed the workmen, whose leaders threaten to call a strike unless soldiers are withdrawn. The printers union held a meeting today, but resolved to postpone for the present any decision in the matter of going on strike.

A corps of workmen, some thousand strong, is being organized, with the object of maintaining order, and the people generally, bankers, merchants, etc., are arming themselves for protection. The gun shops of the city are practically denuded of revolvers and small arms.

All the tourists have left Stockholm, and the number of visitors in the city now is smaller than for many years past.

Although the railroad men have not decided to strike the government is taking the precaution to guard the tracks with troops, fearing the attempt to blow up bridges or injure the permanent way. Quantities of dynamite are reported to have mysteriously disappeared recently from the government stores.

The leaders of the strike claim that the end of the week will see a notable spread of the movement; that the railroad, posatal telegraph and telephone employes and the printers, will have joined by that time.

This afternoon guards were posted in the market places and the railroad stations.

Outdoor Sport and Zam Buk.

Every athlete, every ball-player, every swimmer, every canoeist, every man or woman who loves outdoor life and exercise, should keep a box of Zam-Buk handy.

Zam-Buk is a purely herbal preparation which, as soon as applied to cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, blisters etc., sets up highly beneficial operations. First, its antiseptic properties render the wound free from all danger from blood-poisoning. Next, its soothing properties relieve and ease the pain. Then its rich herbal balms penetrate the tissue and set up the wonderful process of healing. Barbed wire scratches, insect stings, skin diseases, such as eczema, heat rashes ringworm, babies' heat sores, chafed places, sore feet—all come within Zam-Buk's power. It also eases and cures piles. All druggists and stores.

All Eyes are Seaward at Town of Cobourg

Cobourg, Aug. 1.—The approach of the Spanish Armada never caused more excitement in England than approach of the fleet of yachts bound from Charlotte. They are expected any time this afternoon or tonight, although there is barely a breath of wind blowing here. If it is no better out in midlake the fleet may not arrive until even later. The Cobourg harbor is unfinished, the breakwaters being only partly constructed, so it will be a problem where to put all the yachts. It is a certainty that a great many will have to anchor in the open lake. When the big car ferry gets into the harbor too, it will be very much crowded. In fact, as one inhabitant of Cobourg says, "When the car ferry gets into the harbor there is barely room for anything else."

Early this morning the residents of this beautiful little spot were awakened by the rude "spud, spud, spud," of the motor boats, which were coming in one by one. It was not long after they arrived before sunburnt, hungry-looking "tars" were wending their way to the hotel for something to eat.

YACHTSMEN HERE.

The advance guard of the yachtsmen who have recently registered at the different hotels are as follows.—

At the British, from Toronto—W. A. Hart, Walter Moore, T. R. Caldwell, J. C. Wilson, W. Sturdy, al, of the good ship "Buzz;" Arthur Blight, William Taylor, George Taylor and J. McGill, all of the good ship "Miss Hasty."

From Rochester—J. G. Armey, E. W. Bullock, E. B. Stewart, J. D. Henry, J. C. Wright.

At the Arlington, from Belleville—S. E. Carman, B. L. Hyman, J. X. Doyle, and A. P. Allen, who compose the crew of the Cythia.

At the Columbian—The crew of the Mavis, of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club, C. H. O. Cook, Sydney Pook, S. B. Beatty and John McCullough.

A Perilous Trip--To Fly Across the Ottawa at Height of 475 Ft.

Canadian Aviators Have an Ambitious Program for Next Monday---Hope to Make a Record Breaking Flight

Petawawa Camp, Ont., Aug. 4.—Though, for geographical reasons, Messrs. J. A. D. McCurdy and "Casey" Baldwin cannot fly the English Channel in the Baddeck No. 1, Mr. McCurdy has announced his intention of flying across the Ottawa River, from Petawawa Military Camp to Fort William (not the city of that name), and back, a distance all told of ten miles. He will be accompanied by one passenger, presumably Mr. Baldwin, and will make the trip in the Baddeck No. 1, alighting on the plains to the north of Fort William. The trip will be a perilous one, as the aeroplane will have to reach a height of 175 feet in order to sail over the large ridge between the airship shed and the camp. From this ridge to the water level there is a sheer drop of 375 feet, and on the top of the ridge itself runs a network of telephone and telegraph wires. On the brink of the ridge too, are the water tanks and the officers' tents and houses; so that Mr. McCurdy will have to ascend probably an additional 100 feet to clear the obstructions. This will make his height above the river 475 feet. Certainly this feat will thoroughly test the flying abilities of the Baddeck No. 1.

This proposed flight is scheduled to take place on Monday next after the tests, which will probably take place in the early hours of Thursday or Friday morning.

AVERSE TO THE CAMERA.

Mr. McCurdy is particularly averse to having newspaper men's cameras on the scene when the tests are held, so it is expected that they will take place in the "wee sma' hours." Mr. McCurdy is confident that the Baddeck No. 1, equipped with the engine used successfully in the Silver Dart, and with all the improvements warranted from the tests of the Silver Dark, will make not only also accomulish the ten-mile flight of the Ottawa River.

Dr. Graham Bell sent a telegram of congratulations for the successful trials of the engine and grounds, and Dr. Bell also expressed regrets that the victory-crowned Silver Dart should have been wrecked. It is more than likely that Dr. Bell will be present at the trials of the Baddeck No. 1.

To Lay Bare Stanford White's Villainy

White Plains, N.Y., Aug. 4.—"Yesterday was the best day I have had yet," said Harry K. Thaw today, while waiting for the continuance of hearing in his application for discharge from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane. In spite of the fact that the State and county prosecutors consider that yesterday's evidence closed the doors of Thaw's prison tighter than ever before, the prisoner displays his accustomed confidence. Last night he spent several hours with his counsel, Charles Morschauser, preparing for his rebuttal evidence that will follow the testimony of the State today.

Thaw's attorney, it became known today, is getting ready to prove that his client's alleged delusions regarding Stanford White's treatment of young girls are well founded. He prepared the way for this yesterday when he had Thaw identify the affidavit of Ada G. Rickhart. This document has not yet been offered in evidence, but around it Mr. Morschauser, it is supposed, will build up the remainder of his case after he finishes cross-examining the opposition experts.

He continued his questioning along that line this morning with Dr. Austin Flint on the stand, as the first witness. Dr. Flint yesterday asserted that Thaw was a paranoiac and incurable.

Mr. Morschauser examined the witness regarding the sanity proceeding of Mrs. Penelope Osborne, in which he appeared as an expert in May, 1907. Thaw's lawyer asserts that Dr. Flint's testimony resulted in this woman's discharge from restraint, although he classed her as a paranoiac.

It was hinted yesterday that Dr. Hirsch, one of the State's alienists, had written that Jesus Christ was a paranoiac. He refused to express an opinion on this line in court.

DANGER AHEAD.

Trouble Brewing for the Contractor Who Attempts to Cut Armory Weeds.

It is feared by the officers of the 57th Regiment and the officers of the Horticultural Society and the members of the Board of Education that the Dominion Government has evil designs upon the Peterborough armories as it has awarded a contract to Mr. Jas. Bogue to destroy that beautiful crop of weeds around the property and replace them with sod. Such action is little short of an outrage. The crop gives promise of being a most bountiful one. It is heading up well and will soon be ready for the fall breezes which will scatter seeds of discord broadcast over the beautiful lawns of the surrounding district.

It is rumored that there is great dissatisfaction among the organizations and citizens interested and an injunction will be applied for to prevent Mr. Bogue carrying out the contract until after seeds have been well sown on adjoining lawns. If the application fails them the military will take the law in their own hands and surround the park with the cavalry, place the rapid firing guns on top of the armories and station the infantry around the park, and thus protect the crop of noxious weeds. It is awful what these government fellows take upon themselves. Peterborough is one city that will not stand for it. No weeds are to be destroyed here before they go to seed.

NURSES STRIKE.

Walked Out of Detroit Hospital with Superintendent.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—When Miss Amy Murray, superintendent of the City Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Grand Rapids, Mich., left that institution, every patient and nurse in the sanitarium went out on a strike and walked out of the hospital with her.

Since taking charge of the sanitarium Miss Murray has had many troubles and stormy times. There has never been a time she has not had trouble of some kind, financial or otherwise. A few days ago she decided to leave the sanitarium, and go to another hospital, and when the nurses and patients learned of her determination they decided to leave with her which they did.

Both nurses and patients are much attached to Miss Murray and they declare they will go with her to any hospital she is connected with.

Miss Marie Monkhouse of Markham, is spending a few days with Miss Reeser, city.

TURKEY AND CRETE.

Will Ottoman Empire Siege Little Island?

St. Petersburg, Aug. 5.—The Novoe Vremya today publishes a despatch from Constantinople saying that four transports loaded with Turkish troops have left the capital for the Island of Crete and that a Turkish fleet has been ordered to escort them.

The greatest secrecy regarding these naval movements is being observed, and it is supposed that Turkey intends to effect a landing on the island.

MOVED BIG BOILER.

Which Weighed Seven Tons for the Bishop Construction Co.

The Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company successfully moved a seven-ton boiler from the G.T.R. siding near the Nicholls Hospital to the site of the new waterworks dam for the Bishop Construction Company. The big boiler was loaded on to a single wagon, and was drawn by one team of horses. This is a feat worthy of mention and when asked how it was done the manager of the Fuel and Cartage Company said that the team was an exceptionally good one, but that the driver was an expert at that business.

Popular Point.

Popular Point, on the Otonabee River, was the scene of a lively time the other evening. The Minden Club from the city were down the guests of Mr. F. H. J. MacPherson. There are several camps at this spot and they are having a good time. The fishing is fine. Mr. MacPherson and his son Joseph got a nice bass the other afternoon.

Ald. and Mrs. Bullet and family are among the new arrivals at Pop Point. They have pitched their tent Point. They have pitched their tent and will spend a couple of weeks under canvas.

Knights of Columbus.

Mobile, A.a., Aug. 4.—Delegates and visitors representing the quarter of a million members of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic fraternal society, convened in national session in the old Gulf city today. Three days will be occupied by theeions. Besides the transaction of regular business and the entertainments provided by the Mobile committee, there will be sermons by some of the leading churchmen of the country. The Knights of Columbus Society was organized in 1882 and since then has disbursed in benefits over $4,000,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A Boon to Stock Raisers

To Know How to Cure Colic, Distemper, Colds, Swellings, Etc.—Saves Thousands Each Year.

It is matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner and stock-raiser to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank F. Dullerton, which we print below, gives information of inestimable value, and tells of his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years.

SAVED $1,000 BY NERVILINE

"Several years ago when my horses took colic I used to give them Cayenne Pepper in hot milk, but in a few cases only did it help, and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling, of Brockville, Ont., had in his racing stables with "Nerviline", so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000.00. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died, had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out distemper lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand.

Mr. Fullerton is one of the best known residents of Stormont, and his recommendation as an experienced and practical horseman proved beyond question how valuable Nerviline really is.

Give Nerviline a trial. It's good for man or beast, internally or externally. 25c. per bottle of five for $1.00. At all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 19

THE CZAR IN ENGLAND.

The Czar's visit to England is one of the most interesting and may prove to be one of the most profitable of all the royal expeditions in our time. A visit to England it, of course, actually is, despite the diplomatic fiction of the Czar's remaining on Russian territory while aboard the Standart; and we do not have to go so far back as 1814 to find a precedent for it, as some dispatches strangely declare. In fact, we should prefer not to recall that unhappy visit of Alexander I as a precedent, seeing that it was so closely followed by the formation of the Holy Alliance, which may be reckoned as the beginning of the Anglo-Russian estrangement. But it must be remembered that Nicholas I visited England and was there invested with the Order of the Garter in 1827 and that he was a guest of that country again in 1844. Alexander II also was in England for a week in the spring of 1874, and the present Czar visited Queen Victoria at Balmoral in 1896. The unhappy Alexander III was thus the only Czar for more than a hundred years who did not visit the United Kingdom, and his reign was marked not only by the prevalence of a terrorism which kept him much of the time a recluse but also by the most acute stages of the suspicion and animosity which for many years existed between the two countries.

Relations between Russia and the United Kingdom ought logically to be intimate. It was Richard Chancellor and other Englishmen in the English Russian Company who, in the middle of the sixteenth century, founded the foreign commerce of Russia. It was in England that Peter the Great learned much about the shipbuilding trade. The late Czar was married to a sister of the present Queen of England, a Russian grand duchess became the wife of the King's eldest brother, and the present Czar is married to a these things have not prevented the rise and the long prevalence of a niece of the English King. But all condition of ill feeling which more than once was inflamed to a degree just short of open war. Probably there was blame on both sides. Assuredly never was a time when an amicable understanding and co-operation—such, for example, as that which has been established between them in respect to Persia—would not have been for the good of both powers.

Addressing the sovereign of Austria-Hungary at St. Petersburg in 1884, Alexander II said: "It is the friendship which binds us and also Emperor William and Queen Victoria. I see a most sure guarantee of peace." That was just before his visit to England. Of the four sovereigns referred to in that speech only one survives. But Nicholas II and Edward VII are as amicably and as peaceably disposed as were Alexander II and Victoria, and in their friendship and that of the French President— and, we may add, the popular good feeling among the three nations—a welcome and potent guarantee of peace is discernible. This visit of the Czar, returning the visit of the King to Russia, may mean in lands where personal sovereignty is still a vital force much more than a spectacle and a courtly function.

RURAL ROAD MAKING.

This if the rather truthful way in which the Toronto Globe puts it:—Every spring the farmers in many sections of the province show their public spirit by turning out in gangs and spoiling a piece of road. This is done most successfully where stiff, wet clay can be secured from the bottoms of roadside ditches. If spaded out in large blocks and scattered about carelessly, the sun can be counted upon to bake it into a fair sample of adobe, and it can be guaranteed to make any road impassable for a whole summer. Anyone wishing a wide and capable revenge on a motorist needs only to tamper with his road map so that when he takes an outing he will encounter a few stretches of road that have been treated in this manner and will do no searching while within the area of disturbance.

"The merry sport of bringing roads into this condition is known as doing statute labor. The custom has come down to us from our fathers, to whom road work was a serious business. In order to have roads of any kind they were obliged to make them. To this end they wrought manfully, felled trees grubbed out stumps, dug ditches, and built corduroys that shook their livers into excellent condition. Whether they did their shares honestly cannot be known, but it is certain that amongst their descendants doing road work is largely a farce. Here and there a public spirited path master sees to it that necessary work is done, but where such a man can be found he should be appointed road superintendent for a township or county. As a rule, however, the path-master is a neighborly person who allows the time assessed to be put in by the lame and the halt, and is satisfied if he gets the weeds and thistles cut on his beat.

Valuing a day's work at a dollar, enough time is employed in Ontario every year to build at least a thousand miles of the best roads or to put many thousands into a good state of repair. It is doubtful if as many rods are properly treated. In some townships it is found more profitable to commute the statute labor at twenty five or thirty cents a day and spend the money so collected in securing efficient work. No further comment is needed on the value of the services rendered by the ratepayers in such localities. If all the time devoted to statute labor throughout the province could be commuted at a dollar a day and the money expended wisely one generation would see all the roads brought to a high state of efficiency without the expenditure of other money. But with the Provincial Government ready to contribute one third of the expense of building country roads and one third of the cost of necessary machinery, there is no excuse for the continuation of present conditions. There may be places where statute labor is still useful, but where scientific roadmaking has become a necessity, it should be promptly discarded. Only men trained to the work and under the guidance of an efficient superintendent can build permanent roads. As a method of doing our most needed public work statute labor has outlived its usefulness. As a joke it is too expensive to be kept up, and should be allowed to pass into history.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity!

Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer!

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that the maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strongly restored, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when the maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Book on Kidney Remedy—and that remedy is proved by the same identical test. Both, we pay protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is at your service.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 6 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 6 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 17, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

The Kearns' Ink Company

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert users of INK discussing the relative merits of the various Brands of WRITING INKS, especially for Commercial and Mercantile use, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times its present output; provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most zealous care. MADE FAMOUS BY PUBLIC FAVOR

CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act in England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert, especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature creche while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, line it with hay and use it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel Islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown in the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constable. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerately left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kind-hearted Sark women, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.—Strand Magazine.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes a special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he settles down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare Indian specimens but little known in the old country at the present time.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The remarkable sneezewood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planting it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes the wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Clergymen In Church Pageant.

The allotment of parts in the church pageant in England has now practically been completed. An interesting scene is promised in "the coronation procession of King Edward VI.," in which the mayor of Fulham will represent the lord mayor of London of the period, Rev. F. S. G. Prepert will participate as the Earl of Rutland, Rev. E. H. Gallop will appear as the Bishop of Durham, and Rev. W. L. Marshall will represent Bishop Latimer.

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Ottonabee from the Wolfe street wharf to Lindsay. The date is August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. This Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

TOO OSTENTATIOUS.

Gratitude of Immigrant Woman Had Its Unpleasant Features.

One of the branches of the public service at Ottawa which does its work quietly and without any of the glare of the limelight which attaches to the political departments, is that section of the Department of Justice which looks after the exercise of the power of pardon by the Governor-General. It may not be generally known that since Mr. Aylesworth has been Minister of Justice he has insisted upon personally reading over the file in every case in which executive clemency is asked, whether it be pardon for a well-behaved or a sick convict or the more serious matter of deciding what action shall be taken in regard to death sentences. All such petitions are, however, first considered by Mr. Augustus Power, who probably has a greater store of stories of the schemes to which convicts or their friends will resort in order to procure a pardon, than any other man in Canada.

It is not a pleasant task—this of deciding the fate of your fellow men and women, but sometimes it has its humorous side. One of these comical incidents took place not long ago. A young immigrant woman with two small children, one of them a baby in arms, arrived in Ottawa by train from Montreal to plead for pardon for her husband, who had fallen foul of the law. She was herself not a walking illustration of the advantages of the daily use of soap and water; but the children were even dirtier than the mother. Doubtless it was not their fault, poor things; they had had a dusty journey on the train and probably were not much used to washing anyway. They were introduced into "Gus" Power's office, and the mother told her story and presented her petition to the official. He went over the file and after due consideration decided that it was a case where he could advise the Minister to recommend the exercise of clemency. And he told the woman so. But he was sorry immediately, for with tears of gratitude rolling down her cheeks the mother pushed forward the dirty baby in her arms, saying:

"Kiss the good, kind gentleman, baby!"

They do say that Mr. Power's face was a study, and that there and then he registered a vow never again to inform a petitioner for pardon of his recommendation except at the safe range of through the letter-post, especially when she was accompanied by her family!

Signs of Storms.

As stormy weather comes on, seabirds fly inland in search of food; wild fowl leave the marshy grounds for higher localities; swallows and rooks fly low before and during bad weather; frogs are unusually noisy before rain; sheep huddle together near bushes and trees.

Runs In the Family.

Rev. W. E. A. Lewis, rector of Mt Clemens, Mich., was born and bred in Wellington County, Ontario, and while loyal to the country of his adoption will not let the land of his birth be maligned. Righting some gross misstatements regarding Canada while at the summer camp of a number of youthful Yankees last year, his quick wit and the laugh which followed extricated him from what bade fair to be a heated argument.

"If you have such a high opinion of Canada why did you leave there?" questioned one lad hotly.

"I came to this country, my boy," said the rector with a smile, "as a missionary."

Mrs. Lewis, his mother, is a staunch Canadian, and from her he has inherited both his wit and his love for the land of the maple. Mrs. Lewis' eldest daughter is the wife of Rev. R. T. W. Webb of St. John's Church, Detroit. Some of the ladies of the parish were particularly anxious to enroll Mrs. Webb as a Daughter of the Revolution. Mrs. Webb protesting she was not eligible, they appealed to her mother, asking if she could not think of some way in which her daughter could trace back a connection with 1776.

"Well, yes," replied Mrs. Lewis, her blue eyes, undimmed by time and many troubles, twinkling merrily, "my mother's people left Pennsylvania rather than fight against the King."

The Memorial Tower.

The finances in regard to the erection of the Memorial Tower at the Northwest Arm, Halifax, to commemorate the establishment of representative government in Overseas Britain are progressing satisfactorily The Dominion Government will give $5,000 towards the erection of the tower, and the Nova Scotian Government is expected to contribute generously. The Quebec and British Columbia Government will make donations, and it is expected that all the Provincial Governments in Canada will contribute something. Pending the erection of the tower, the property in the vicinity, given by Sir Sandford Fleming for a public park for the citizens, has been transferred by Sir Sandford to Lieutenant-Governor Fraser in trust, and will be handed over to the city on the completion of the tower.

Roseland Ore Find.

After being conceded to have been practically worked out by former owners, the Canadian Consolidated Co. has uncovered an ore body in the War Eagle that contains a million dollars. It is on the ninth level, and is the most important discovery in the history of Roseland. It is 400 feet long and 80 feet wide, and the 3,000 tons thus far taken from it have averaged $30 per ton. A downward continuation of this body has been located on the tenth level, and it is supposed to continue above the ninth level to the surface. The south belt, on which hundreds of thousands were spent in the early days of the camp, is experiencing a new era of development with rich results in silver and gold, as compared with the copper-gold ores of the other portions of the camp.

Must Boost Goods.

W. T. R. Preston reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce that the chief need of this country to develop trade with Japan is a more active boosting of Canadian products. This, he says, must be done by direct representation as correspondence is comparatively little use.

AMUSING MISTAKES.

Haughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained, with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction become second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a made to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes, I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. Whatchdoin? You are? Where am I? At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stopped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the bedroom windows and also give the children a cooky apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was business, too, from some points of view. They were all brief, care relieving, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which these phones were supplied. But there sat that creature "sigh-hahing and mahahing" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephone and the mirrors as long as she wished she retraced her steps, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of humor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband, and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Dulls.

If the scissors grinder kept his blade in the whetstone unceasingly the scissors would soon be useless. The grind that dulls women is not daily household duties, but never letting up on those duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. It is the weak nerves that are crying out for help. VitaMis these weak inside controlling nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and see how quickly good health will come to you again. Test it and see! Sold by All Dealers.

Mrs. Lloyd Fish of Toronto, is in the city visiting friends. She was formerly the wife of Rev. Mr. Lloyd of Warsaw, who passed away there some years ago. Rat Bites.

It sometimes takes a year for the bite of a rat to heal up.

Circassian Seeds.

The bright scarlet seeds of Adenanthera pavonina are used as jewelers' weights in India, each being about four grains. They are also strung and made into necklaces. In the West Indies they are known as Circassian seeds.

The Turkish Empire.

The total area of the Turkish empire is 1,602,280 square miles and the total population over 38,000,000.

Siberian Urmans.

The Siberian "urmans" or "largas" are vast woods of pine, larch and cedar at least 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,000 miles from north to south. They are so thick and gloomy that the natives call them "places where the mind is lost."

Angleworms.

Angleworms may live fully ten years, as has been shown by experiments made in Marburg, Germany.

Camphor.

Into a basin of clear water put a few pieces of camphor. They will commence a peculiar motion, traversing every part of the surface of the water, but may instantly be stopped by dropping into the water the minutest quantity of an oily substance.

A Few Timely Don'ts.

Don't go out in the woods to fly a kite. Only birds fly there.

Don't climb trees after strawberries.

Don't try swimming in a muddy creek.

Don't smile at a strange bull.

Don't cry like a goose if a goose cries at you.

Don't get angry after going to bed after the chickens to be awakened by the rooster.

Don't use the barn roof for a toboggan slide. You may find the shingles rough.

Don't eat up your picnic lunch before you start out.

Don't sit under the tree and wait for the weathercock to crow.

Don't expect to find straws in a dish of strawberries.

Don't try to pick geese from the gooseberry bush.

The Pup Didn't Mind.

Uncle Caleb—Have you named your dog yet, Clarence?

Little Clarence—Yes, sir; I called him after you.

Uncle Caleb—That isn't complimentary.

Little Clarence—Oh, well, he hasn't got sense enough to care.

A Riddle.

What is that which will go up a pipe down, but will not go down a pipe up, or will go down a pipe down, but not up a pipe up, and yet when it has gone up a pipe or down a pipe will go up or down? Answer—An umbrella.

A Birdseye View.

Birdie, birdie, on the tree,
Singing sweetly as can be.
What have you to make you so
Happy? I should like to know.

Says birdie, "I've a roomy nest,
With all the dear ones I love best,
And of the lovely landscape, too,
I find I have a 'birdseye view.'"

—Philadelphia Record.

Long-Lived Fish.

Fishes, especially the large species, live a very long time. According to Bacon, eels live fifty years. Carp have been known to exist at least 150 years, while dolphins, sturgeons and sharks live more than a century and attain huge size. A pike caught at Kaiserslautern, Germany, in 1497 was nineteen feet long and weighed 350 pounds. It bore in its gills a copper ring with an inscription stating that it had been put in the pond of Lautern by order of the Emperor Frederick II. —that is, 284 years before.

Noble is Sharpshooter.

In his younger days Lord Waleran, who was sixty the other day, was a crack shot with the rifle, and only by a piece of bad luck missed winning the Queen's Prize. He is also remembered as one of the most energetic Whips the Unionist party ever had.

English Politeness.

The expression "Thank you" is much more current in England than in America. It is also used with much wider significance, often as the equivalent of "I beg your pardon." For instance, an English person passing before another or perhaps jostling one or even treading on his foot will say in apology, "Thank you." The phrase is heard constantly. If a salesman in a shop or a newsboy on the streets solicits your custom and you refuse it he will say "Thank you" quite as cheerfully as if you made a purchase. There is a difference in the utterance too. The English emphasize the second word very strongly and finish with a rising inflection, as if asking a question. An American is recognized at once by his accenting the word "thank" and closing with the falling inflection.

Her Proposals.

Talking of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Lord Houghton said: "Miss Coutts likes me because I never proposed to her. Almost all the young men of good family did. Those who did their duty by their family always did. Mrs. Browne (Miss Coutts' companion) used to pop it coming and took herself out of the way for ten minutes, but she only went into the next room and left the door open, and then the proposal took place, and immediately it was done Miss Coutts coughed, and Mrs. Browne came in again."—Augustus J. C. Hare's Recollections.

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves"; then the stomach. Heart and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and the new quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all Druggists.

A MUTUAL SURPRISE.

The Meeting Between an Ambitious Hunter and His First Grizzly.

In "Sketches of Life in the Golden State" Colonel Albert S. Evans tells an amusing anecdote of an ambitious hunter who met his first grizzly bear—in procession. The incident occurred in the woods near the site of the present town of Monterey.

The hunter sat down to rest in the shade of a tree and unwittingly went to sleep. When he woke it was near sunset, and he sat up, rubbing his eyes and contemplating a return to his hotel, several miles distant.

Just then a rustling and crackling noise from a clump of chaparral about 100 yards away attracted his attention. Out walked a grizzly bear, a monarch of his kind. He yawned, licked his jaws and then advanced toward the tree where our hunter sat, but evidently was unconscious of his presence.

His grizzly majesty had proceeded about twenty paces when a female bear followed him, and an instant later a third grizzly followed her at a slow, shambling pace.

The hunter sat spellbound with terror as the procession came toward him until the forward grizzly was within thirty yards. Then, scarcely realizing what he did, he sprang to his feet and uttered a frenzied yell—yell upon yell!

The effect was magical. The foremost bear sprang into the air, turned sharply about, knocked the female down, rolled over her, gathered himself up and bolted "like forty cart loads of rock going down a chute" straight for the chaparral again, the other two bears close at his heels and never turning to see what had frightened them.

The hunter, seeing the enemy retreating, sprang to his feet and fled at top speed for the hotel, leaving hat and gun behind. The truth of his wild and startling tale was proved the next day by the numerous bear tracks of different sizes found in the marshy ground near by. But the three bears had gone off beyond pursuit.

THE WITCHES' TREE.

Superstitions Regarding the Influence of the Elder.

Country people speak of the elder tree as "the witches' tree" and planted it near farm buildings and dairies to keep off witches. They also say that the roots should never come near a well, still less grow into it, or the water will be spoiled. Evelyn's opinion was also unfavorable. The diarist says: "I do by no means commend the scent of it, which is very noxious to the air.

"We learn from Blesius that a certain house in Spain, seated among many elder trees, diseased and killed nearly all its inhabitants, which, when at last they were grubbed up, became a very healthy and wholesome place."

Cattle scarcely touch the elder, and the mole is driven away by the scent. Carters often placed branches on their horses' heads to keep off flies. Nothing will grow well in the company of the elder, and when it has been removed and all its roots carefully grubbed up it is some few years before the ground becomes perfectly sweet and good for anything.

The berries, besides feeding the birds, make excellent country wine, delicious with soda water in summer or taken hot in winter. The wood is particularly good for skewers, and a curious red fungus grows on elder stumps. A species of elder in the Tyrol is covered with beautiful scarlet berries.—Selborne's Magazine.

Smart Electors.

At an open air political meeting in the north of England a man cried, "Hurrah for Jackson!" to which a bystander replied sarcastically, "Hurrah for a jackass!" "All right, my friend," exclaimed the first speaker. "You can hurrah for your candidate, and I'll do the same for mine!"

All electors are not so gifted, as the following experience of a canvasser in Devonshire clearly indicates:

"Whom are you voting for, my good fellow?" he asked.

"I votes for the lady."

"But there is no lady candidate standing."

"Well," replied Hodge, "Poll Barty comes on my voting paper before the names of the two men, and I thought I'd vote for her. See?"

Contentment.

Who lives for love must sorrow know,
Who lives for gain must rest forego,
Who lives for power must trample joy,
Who lives for fame stakes all for toy.
More blest are they who toil all day
And sleep the sleep of
Just Plain
Clay.

Unnatural History.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be English and full of affright,
While a rabbit is Welsh and is eaten at night.

First Omnibus.

"Omnibus" was an almost brand new word in its modern sense when Shillibeer took it from the French in 1828, and in France the name possessed a special significance for those who know their history, for from 1672 to 1676 Paris had already seen a regular service of roomy public vehicles, "carosses a cinq sous." Only these predecessors of the modern bus were not "omnibus"—for all. The letters patent which instituted them for the benefit of middle class people laid down that they were not to be used by soldiers, lackeys or any other wearers of livery or artisans and laborers. These exclusive vehicles faded out of existence, and the new ones, which were started in Paris in 1828, were named "omnibus" expressly to signify their democratic character.—London Chronicle.

Widows' Caps.

The widow's cap is a survival of an old Roman custom. Widows were obliged to wear their weeds for ten months, and the bereaved woman shaved her head as a token of mourning. Naturally the widow could not very well appear in public with a bald head, so dainty caps were made in order to hide the disfigurement. The cap still remains, though the immediate necessity for its existence has long passed away.

TRANSFORMATION OF SEOUL.

Japanese Turning Corean Capital Into a Modern City.

In writing about what the Japanese are doing in Corea, Frank G. Carpenter says: They have taken the hermit kingdom by the neck and are shaking its dry bones into action. They are establishing courts, abolishing squeezing and reorganizing the finances. They propose to build roads, to reforest the mountains, to open the mines and to turn this half-barren country into a garden. All those things are in their beginnings, but a start has been made and signs of progress are everywhere to be seen.

The capital, Seoul, is fast becoming a new city. When I came here twenty years ago the trip from the seaport, Chemulpo, took over 12 hours, and I had to have a pony and eight men to bring myself and wife to the walls. I rode the pony and the madam came in a chair, borne on the shoulders of four coolies, with a relay of four others to help them. Toward the end of the journey we had to push on for fear we might not get to Seoul before the gates closed. The city is surrounded by a massive wall nine miles in length and 30 feet high. At that time this wall was entered only by gates, and these were closed at night by heavy doors plated with iron, which were not opened again until the next day. We got in just in time to see the gates close. There was no hotel, and we had to be put by the soldiers of our legation, and were quartered there during our stay.

The city still has its walls, but the gates now stand open day and night, and an electric street car line runs through two of them and on out into the country. An electric light globe prevents the closing of the one which we entered, and another gate has proved too small to accommodate the traffic and has been cut out by the Japanese, wide roads being made through the walls on each side. The gate itself, which is a temple-like structure with a double roof of heavy tiles, has been faced with stone; and it is now proposed to put a commercial museum in the soldiers' guard-room above it. In that old gate all the industries of the new Corea will be shown side by side with those of other nations, and the people will thus be taught the various methods of manufacture and sale.

"All the Winners!"

One gets so accustomed to accepting things as they come that very few of us, when we take up our favorite paper at the breakfast-table, think anything of the number of papers published daily in the world, or of the many singular languages in which some of them are printed. The Imperial Press Conference, which is now being held in London, calls to mind some remarkable newspaper facts.

The entire number of newspapers printed all over the world is somewhere between 5,500 and 6,000, to which America contributes 1,500, Germany 900, and Great Britain 280. In Persia they have six periodicals, and Austria possesses news-sheets printed in no fewer than ten different languages—German, Italian, French Hungarian, Greek, Latin, Polish, Servian, Slavic, and Hebrew to be precise. The "Esquimo Bulletin," published in the Arctic circle, is an Alaskan paper that appears once a year. It is very "newsy."

China, despite its vast population, boasts only two dozen "dailies," but among these is the oldest paper in the world. This is the "Tsing-Pao," or "Pekin News," which was started 500 years before the Norman Conquest, and is now more than 1,300 years old. They are careful on the "Tsing-Pao." In former days, an error in printing was punished with instant death.

Courteous Cabby.

A pompous looking lawyer once chartered a hansom cab, and on reaching his destination he only gave his driver the shilling required by law.

The driver looked at the coin and bit his lip. Then in the most courteous manner he motioned to his fare to get in again.

"Do step in again, sir," he said. "I could na' drive ye a yard or two further for this 'ere."

Looking Forward.

"Johnny," said Mr. Bliggens, "I want you to study hard and learn all you possibly can."

"Did you do that?"

"No, my son, I did not. But I want you to escape the trouble my inattention has caused me. When you grow up and have a son I don't want you to be humiliated by being unable to answer your boy's questions."

Scipio Africanus.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Cæsar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on Oct. 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

The Bladderwort.

The aquatic plant the bladderwort feeds on animal life. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the eel trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant and is at once swallowed and assimilated.

Ant Proof Woods.

Use is made in the south sea islands of beams made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas, belching, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen those failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Druggists.

The Experiment of Oiling the Streets

Two Months' Trial in Laying the Dust

Toronto, Aug. 4.—After a trial of close on to two months, Toronto's experiment of oiling macadam streets for the purpose of laying the dust seems to have given entire satisfaction. This is the emphatic declaration of Dr. Sheard, who is officially the medical health officer of the city while, for several years he has also fulfilled with complete acceptance the duties formerly discharged by the street commissioner. It was under his direction that the experiment was initiated and carried out, and it is probable that within a short time the system will be adopted permanently by the city.

Dr. Sheard yesterday gave The Journal a sketch of the city's experience. He began with a brief history of the use of oil as a dust layer. It was first used in Egypt for that purpose hundreds of years ago, but its first modern adoption was by the railways twenty-five or more years ago. While completely successful in abolishing the duet nuisance, it had to be dropped by the railway for several reasons. One was the cost of treating hundreds of miles of track, and another was the impossibility of keeping it off the rails, where it caused the wheels of the locomotives and cars to skid. On public roads and park roadways, however, it has been successfully used in California, Texas and in Philadelphia and other Pennsylvania cities where oil is native. The oils used have been of various kinds, but mostly petroleum. Various experiments have been tried by mixing it with other substances, such as tar, soap, fatty derivatives, etc., but the most general satisfaction has been given by the use of oil alone In Pennsylvania the oil has no smell while in Texas the crude oil is miscible with water. The latter oil has been tried in Buffalo with satisfactory results.

LARGELY A WASTE PROJECT.

The oil used for the Toronto experiment is called crude petroleum residue, and is a by-product of the distillation of petroleum, and owing to the small demand, it is largely a waste product! It is used occasionally for firing purposes, being called fuel oil, and producing an enormous heat. As it comes on the market as a product for which there is comparatively little demand, it is cheap, that used in Toronto being procurable in large consignments for 4 cents a gallon. It is put on the streets in the crude, undiluted state, by means of ordinary watering carts.

The oil is sprinkled lightly, the object being to have it deposited in separate drops and not in puddles. Where puddles occur by accident they should be broomed up by an ordinary broom and not allowed to remain. After an interval of three or four days this is repeated, and a third application is made about a week later This constitutes one full treatment, and on an ordinary road should last from one to two months. If the road is in good condition and is shaded, the treatment should last for the whole season. Better results are obtained by preparing the road surface by levelling ruts and removing holes and declivities. If a moderate coating of dust is left on the road it is better than if the oil is applied directly on the bare stones and packed

SATISFACTORY RESULTS

The oil has been found to give satisfactory results on a sandy road that has not been macadamized. As an experiment, St. Clair avenue, in the extreme north of the city, was oiled. Before the application there was a coating of about six inches of fine dust on the road. One watering only served to produce bead-like drops of mud on the dust surface, and the road had to be sluiced with water to lay the dust. It required a heavier application of oil than a macadam bottom, but the result was to give a firmer and a dustless surface.

Two treatments of oil suffice for the average road for the season. The quantity of oil required for the three sprinklings embraced in one treatment is about 1,500 gallons per mile This costs $60, while the labor to put it on costs $10 more. As already stated, on an average road this will last for about six weeks, and in favorable circumstances longer. The cost of watering the street twice a day would exceed this figure, while there is the additional advantage that the dust is laid for every hour in the twenty-four, instead of only for two or three hours after each watering Rain does not seem to injure the process. On the contrary, the rainfall seems to wash the oil to the surface again, and so rain is benefit rather than an injury to the oiled road.

CHEAPER THAN WATERING.

Up to July 13, 20,000 gallons of oil were applied to the streets of Toronto, and this quantity served to oil over 60 per cent. of the macadam streets of Toronto, and this quantity served to oil over 60 per cent. of the macadam streets of the city The records to that date to date show that the oiling was 25 per cent. cheaper than street watering would have been Nine water waggons, costing $30 each per week to operate, have been dispensed with.

Of course, there have been objections to the scheme, based principally on the disagreeable and sometimes sickening odor of the oil when it is first applied to the road. With the oil used in Toronto, however this smell disappears in half a day or at most a day, as the oil soaks into the road surface, and no further annoyance is felt from it. Considering the extensive use of the oil in Toronto, the complaints have not been numerous, and Dr. Sheard states that he did not receive more than 15 in all. The objection on the ground of odor is practically the only one that can be urged against the use of the oil. On the other hand, citizens whose roadways have been oiled are enthusiastically in favor of the scheme and desire its continuance, while residents on other streets have clamored for its extension, and Dr. Sheard has more requests of this nature than he can undertake to grant at the present time.

Another minor complaint that is made is that ladies have their skirts soiled by the oil. To this Dr. Sheard answers that a dusty or muddy road is open to the same objection if skirts are allowed to trail, while he also states that the oil sinks so rapidly into the roadway that two hours after its application he found it impossible to soil a handkerchief by laying it on the road and standing upon it.

NOT THE CASE.

It was at first thought that the oiled streets would injure the rubber tires of automobiles and bicycles, but this has not been the case. One of the streets oiled six weeks ago was Temperance street, which in its length of a single block has three automobile supply houses and garages. There has not been a single complaint of injury to tires. On the contrary, automobile owners and drivers are among the most ardent supporters of the innovation, as apart from the physical discomfort caused by dust, they find that great injury is caused to the intricate machinery of their cars is caused by dust and mud splashes.

Ottawa is not the only municipality that is enquiring into the merits of oil as a dust-layer. The progressive town of Barrie has written for information, and other cities and towns are taking the matter up. Perhaps it is not too much to hope that the thrifty farmer may be brought to see the advantages of oil sprinkling and that thereby driving in the country may lose its most unpleasant feature.

Bill Sykes, the Murderer

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 5.—A tragic revival of "Who Killed Cock Robin" is being staged at the world-famed Cincinnati Zoo. As a result of damaging evidence found after a search, Bill Sykes, the Maribou stork, is locked up in a double-barred cage, charged with the killing of Cleopatra, the beautiful sacred Chinese peahen.

It's the sole topic of conversation in zoo society these days—this cold-blooded killing of Cleopatra.

Supt. Sol Stephan when he started an official investigation and who understands animal talk, couldn't find the guilty bird because Bill Sykes is the zoo bully, and the other birds were afraid to tell.

Two days ago all that was mortal of Cleopatra was found in her cage, except a few feathers. These were found on the bill of old Bill Sykes, together with bloodstains.

On this evedence Bill was jailed, and is kept on a diet of four herring and a bucket of water daily.

The night of the tragedy piercing shrieks were heard from Cleopatra's cage under a towering hackberry tree

Dick, an African spur-winged duck and Pat, the widower of Cleopatra, both told in bird language how they feared Bill Sykes.

"I think when this case comes to trial," said Stephen, "Bill's plea will be insanity. I've noticed lately that he hasn't been acting right. The food-pouch under his bill has shrunk like a punctured balloon. Raich shows he wasn't taking any thought for the future."

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore, —that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirits droop.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr Hamilton's Pills," writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells. Bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints, lack of appetite, and loss of sleep teach the cause. Cure the kidneys Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands. 35c at all dealers.

Barns Scorched.

An alarm was sent in to the fire station yesterday morning at 11.12 from box 34. The brigade responded to the call, and on their arrival on Rogers street, Ashburnham, found a barn on fire. A quantity of shingles on the roof were scorched, but otherwise the barn, which was empty at the time, was not damaged. The cause of the blaze was hot ashes.

As to the Title of Burleigh Falls Power.

(Special to The Times.)

Toronto, Augt 4.—Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., of Lindsay and Toronto, has written a letter to the Peterborough newspapers regarding the title of Burleigh Falls power owned by the Central Ontario Power Co., Limited, which shows that the recent underhand work of competitors or their assistants mean a cipher. Peterborough wants cheap power, got monopoly and stagnation and every alderman who has at heart the interests of the ratepayers who elected him, whether at the head or near the foot of the polls, should even then work for cheap power, and not monopoly.

VALUABLE DINNER SET.

One of the Prizes for the Printers' Picnic Donated By Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., has notified the secretary of the local Typographical Union that he desires to contribute again this year a valuable dinner set for competition at the Printers' picnic next Monday. This prize was gladly accepted, and will be greatly appreciated by the one who wins it.

The Printers' picnic will take a record crowd on Monday. The steamer Otonabee is chartered for the day.

D. B. McRae, one of the star performers for the Review bunch of hot air artists and ball tossers may be out of the game for this year, unless the telegraph operators are strangers to the truth. Mac went home on a week's holidays, and has not yet returned. His home is some where down east, this side of the Atlantic. A telegram was received the other day stating that he had cut his right hand while trying to blaze a path through the bush to the nearest railway station. If this is true Mac will have to pull out of the ball game and content himself with entering the wheel barrow race

Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The laying out of the line for the new Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through British Columbia has verified many predictions and revealed new facts regarding the character of the character of the country.

Inland from Prince Rupert some 200 miles, cuttained off from for ranching and dairying. The most interesting of these is the Bulkley Valley. The Bulkley River which empties into the Skeena River near Haxleton has a beautiful valley lightly timbered with an occasional cedar swamp but exceedingly fertile. Pen-Vine in this valley grows high enough to hide a horse. Cattle and horses are fed on an average of 90 days in the year here in this sheltered vale. There Mr. Thompson on Thompson River, are in the Bulkley Valley already established a number of ranches which are in reality experimental farms. A small stream flowing into the Bulkley, is an old Colorado ranchman and he declares this section is the most delightful in which he has ever lived. At the junction of the Maurice River the country is called Pleasant Valley and it is aptly named.

The little lakes that lie up among the hills are literally alive with fish and salmon run up the Bulkley to a distance of 300 miles from the sea. Mr. Barrett of Lake Barrett has a splendid ranch and is the owner of 150 head of mules. These ranchmen have experimented with wheat, oats, barley and almost every variety of fruit and vegetable and seem to be able to produce almost anything that grows even in the fruit valleys of southern British Columbia.

Another sure indication of the desirable character of the climate and soil is the presence of wild strawberries, blackberries, high and low bush blueberries, cranberries and many other varieties. Where berries grow wild as they do here it is easy to imagine what might be done by cultivation.

The ranching, stock-raising, dairying and agricultural possibilities of this section are sufficient to make it a most attractive territory but this is not all. The mineral prospects of the region round about are most encouraging. This is especially true of the Talqua River district. In fact the whole territory inland for 500 miles is good prospecting. Everything in here provided to make a great country and there is an abundance of timber and coal.

Comprehensive.

Some "home-made" advertisements are quite amusing when they get into print, says an exchange. Here is the soul-thrilling announcement of an exterprising in hie own town paper:

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Big Steamer Nearly Floated Over the Falls.

Buffalo, Aug. 3.— The big steel steamer John C. Boland, Captain John O'Hagen, narrowly escaped a fate like that of the barge Massasoit, Sunday afternoon, when she became disabled at the head of Niagara River and was carried by the swift current against the waterwork intake pier.

The big boat quivered from stem to stern and the current swung caught her bow and swung it toward the Canadian shore. In another moment the stern cleared the pier and the boat shot bow first down the stream. Every bucket in her wheel was broken against the stone and only the hub remained.

Captain McMurray saw the impending accident from his office at the foot of Perry street, and was alongside with the tug Interpatient as the big boat started on her ram page down stream. A line was passed, but it was some minutes before the tug halted the larger boat.

SPENT NIGHT ON DECK.

Algonac, Mich., Aug. 3.— The 15 members of the crew of the steamer Cadillac, which was sunk in the channel at St. Clair Flats Sunday night, after she had a great hole torn in her hull just forward of the boiler room by the anchor of the George L. Craig, spent the night on the steeply-inclined deck of the partly-submerged boat.

The Cadillac was loaded with coal and was bound from Lorain, O., to Two Harbors, when the Maratana, of the Steel Trust fleet, which attempted to pass, struck the Cadillac a glancing blow on the bow. This swerved the latter over in the channel and into the path of the Craig, which was bound down ore laden. The anchor of the Craig caught the Cadillac and tore a big hole in the side, the anchor dropping inside the hold of the latter.

QUEEN FATALLY ILL.

Widow of King Humbert of Italy, Suffers from Cancer.

Rome, Aug. 5.—Queen Dowager Margaret of Savoy, widow of King Humbert of Italy, is still lingering between life and death, notwithstanding the prognostications of the attending court specialists, who are constant visitors to her bedside at the Quirinal, the royal Italian residence in Rome.

Her complaint, cancer of the throat is incurable, and, as it generally is a slow but surely advancing disease it was feared that the stricken woman would suffer from it a long time before her death.

The cable dispatches to Italian papers published in America, announcing her death two weeks ago, were only founded on rumors.

EPIDEMIC OF BABIES.

Dogs of Ottawa are Suffering from the Disease.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 5.—The prevalence of rabies among dogs in many districts of Western Ontario is causing the veterinary branch of the Agricultural Department considerable concern. Within the past eighteen months approximately a hundred cases have been reported. In each of them the dog was promptly killed, but the disease is still prevalent as several of the infected canines have got away. Where brain analysis has disclosed the germ parties who have been bitten have been removed to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. The Department is urging drastic methods to stamp out cases where there is the least suspicion.

Wesley Howell Gets Six Months in the Central for Assaulting Policeman

And Thereby Inflicting Serious Injuries to the Police Officer--Wilson was Committed for Trial

For assaulting a policeman on the night of last Thursday, and thereby inflicting serious injuries to the officer, Wesley Howell was sentenced to serve six months in the Central Prison at hard labor by Magistrate Dumble at the afternoon session of the police court yesterday. On the charge of escaping from custody, he was committed for trial.

Robert Wilson who was charged with assisting Howell to escape, was also committed for trial, but will probably be allowed out on bail this morning as the magistrate stated that he would take $500 in two sureties of $250 each.

Mr. G. N. Gordon conducted the case in the interest of the two defendants and County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution.

P. C. McGinnty was the first witness, and in his evidence gave the facts concerning the escape of Howell from the police station Friday morning.

P. C. Newhall next told of the arrest of Howell at the home of Robt. Wilson on the night of the same day. Accompanied by Officers Meharry and Meagher, they went over to Wilson's home about ten o'clock. Both men could be seen in the back kitchen. He placed himself in such a position that he could hear the conversation of the two men, in which they expressed great satisfaction as a result of eluding the officers. Both men were very bitter against one of the officers, and used considerable bad language when referring to him during the talk together. It was about eleven o'clock when Howell bid good-bye to Wilson and it was on leaving the house that the arrests were made.

The witness also gave evidence in regard to the assault which took place in the station as the prisoner Thursday night. He stated that from the result of the kick received from Howell, medical attendance was necessary, and he still felt the effects of the blow. The magistrate was not slow in giving judgment in which he stated that the actions of Howell were cowardly and the fact that he had been drinking was no excuse.

Unknown Lady Called at Murray St. House. Object was Unstated

There is danger in leaving front doors open and unguarded in the hot weather or a Murray street lady is wrong in her guess. She was alone in the house yesterday morning when coming toward the front she noticed a fairly well-dressed woman entering the hall without the formality of ringing the bell. She advanced to meet her when the stranger asked if she might not have a glass of water as she was not feeling well.

The lady went at once to the kitchen to procure it, but felt rather suspicious. As she hurried back she noticed the stranger disappear into the drawing room. When followed she excused herself by saying that she had hurt her ankle by getting off a street car and asked permission to lie down for a while. Doing so she expressed the hope that she was not keeping the lady from her house work, and suggested that she would be all right alone. This was not satisfactory to the housekeeper, however, so after remaining a few minutes with the unbidden guest she suggested that perhaps she could proceed on her way.

Then the visitor asked for car tickets and when these were refused for money to pay her fare. She was quite cool about it and when she found she could get nothing, left without any sign of a sore ankle or other weakness. The lady of the house fears that if she had not seen her enter she would have picked up anything which took her fancy and departed unknown.

WALKING IN CANADA

NEW FORM OF ENTERTAINMENT VERY POPULAR.

A Washington Paper Tells of How Canadians Gain Health With Pleasure.

The Washington Post says:

"Did you ever hear of a walking party?" asked a young woman who had just returned from a long stay in Canada. "No, I don't mean little walking trips across country in which a group of persons engage, but a form of evening's entertainment. Those Canadian girls seem to be taking exercise continually, and any social affair is all the more enjoyable across the border if it includes what seems to some of us a lot of hard work.

"Invitations to a walking party are sent out with just as much ceremony as if the affair was to be a dance or a theatre party. It is essential for a perfect walking party that there shall be an equal number of young men and young women. Those invited meet at the home of the hostess at the usual time for an evening affair. The guests are paired off and the route of the walk is announced.

"It isn't any walk around the block by any means. Five miles at the least. One man acts as a master of ceremonies, and he and his partner lead the procession from the house. When the parade has moved a certain specified distance the leader calls a halt and turns his partner over to the man of the next leading couple. Then each man moves up one the leader taking the girl at the foot of the line.

"The march is resumed until the next stage is reached, and then another change of partners goes into effect. By the time the party returns to the house there has been usually a complete change of partners all around.

"This isn't any summer amusement. In fact a tramp through the snow with the thermometer somewhere down near zero is considered awfully good sport. But be it summer or winter, the participants in a walking party return ready to enjoy the supper which winds up the evening.

"One thing against these walking parties, to my mind, is the continual changing of partners. You no sooner get interested in your companion than you have to turn him over to another girl. Nay be you draw a good partner at the start and a few minutes later get a stick. Of course, it is eminently fair to every girl and to every man, but some girls you know, delight in being unfair when there is a man in the case. As an aid to flirtation these walking parties aren't worth one of those big Canadian cents you see sometimes, but as an exerciser they are all to the good. And, after all, the exercise is what these Canadians are looking for."

PLEASANT EVENING.

Friends Say Farewell to Mr. John Crowley, Otonabee.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the residence of Mr. John Crowley, the genial blacksmith of the the River road, Otonabee, where a number of friends sat down to a sumptuous repast on the eve of his departure for the West.

Mr. Jas. McMartin, postmaster, presided. Speeches were made by Messrs. John Howden, Steve Shaughnessy, W. Jackson, etc., terminating with the singing of "Will ye no come back again." The McMartinville Orchestra played appropriate music during the evening.

CHILD SUICIDED.

Hanged Herself to Tree Where Father Could See Her on His Return from the Fields.

Harrisburg, Ont., Aug. 5.—Clara Braithwaite, the 13-year-old daughter of G. J. Braithwaite, hotelkeeper was found this evening by the neck to a limb of an old tree in her father's orchard, near the G. T. R. embankment, close to her father's home A strap was around her neck, and she had drawn her legs up so that she was clear of the ground. The strap was one which had been used to tie a cow in the stable. The deliberate nature of the act was shown by the fact that her knees almost touched the ground, her legs being doubled under her. Some men found her in this position at 6.50 p. m. She was cut down by friends of the family and taken into the hotel.

As the telephone wires were out of order it was impossible to get a doctor until about 8.30 p. m., when Dr. Gibson, of Lynden, and Dr. Reed, of St. George, arrived. Faint signs of life are said to have been apparent when she was cut down.

It appears that for some childish misdemeanor she had received a whipping from her stepmother this morning. The punishment was very light, but she brooded over it. She was around the village this afternoon in a very despondent mood. About six o'clock she was seen going over to where she was found hanging. She had previously been out gathering apples at a neighbor's house. It would appear that she selected a spot where she expected her father would find her when he returned from his farm, as he would likely pass by this tree.

Dr. Ashton, coroner of Brantford, came to Harrisburg tonight, and after investigating the circumstances decided that it was a clear case of suicide and that no inquest was necessary. The dead child will be buried in Mount Hope Cemetery, Brantford, beside her mother, who died about six years ago.

Picking Off the Murderers One by One

New York, Aug. 5.—Six years have passed since the dismembered body of Madonia Benedetto was found stuffed in a sugar barrel at the footof East Eleventh street, but thework of avenging his death goes on as relentless as ever.

Giovanni Zaconm, who was riddled with bullets as he was about to enter his home at Danbury on Tuesday night was the fourth man of those arrested in connected with Benedetto's murder to be shot to death.

While the police are morally certain that friends of Benedetto are picking off his alleged murderers one by one, no arrested have been made in any of the cases.

All the killings have been as carefully planned as that of Zaconni, and the assassins have escaped in the same speedy fashion. Zaconni was shot down from ambush under cover of darkness. One of his relatives who reached the spot while the shooting was in progress says he saw at least seven men disappear inthe woods near Zaconni's home. To make certain that Zaconni should not get away with his life one of the band poured the contents of a shotgun into him after he had fallen to the ground.

Excavating Solid Rock for the Wheel Pit at Waterworks Dam

The wheel pit at the new wter works dam is occupying the minds of the Bishop Construction people just now. The coffer dam is completed and the water is pumped out and for some time a big gang of men have been busy digging the wheel pit. This is no small job. The river bed is of solid rock which is in thin layers and exceptionally hard to excavate. Dynamite is used freely and after each blast the men with single horse dump carts get down in the hole and hustle the debris out. Besides the horses the dump cars on the overhead cable are also used to great advantage. The material taken out is carted just north of the dam and dumped down the river bank to serve as a ballast and prevent the bank washing away.

Yesterday afternoon the wheel pit had been cut down several feet and there is still two feet to be taken out yet. This will not be finished until the middle of next week, and then the concrete work will be started. There are over half a hundred men employed besides horses.

Three pumps are kept going all the time to keep the water out of the coffer dam. The water runs in through the gravel which is on top of the rock formation in the river bed. The power for these pumps is furnished by the big seven-ton boiler which arrived a few days ago.

On the east side of theriver the company has a big gang working on the railway siding from the G.T.R. branch to the Quaker Oats, to a site where the company's store house will be erected. This work was completed last night, and now the men will be started on the erection of thestore house for the cement.

The weather has been very favorable for this work and the Bishop Construction Company have certainly been losing no time.

VOTING BY MAIL

AUSTRALIA MAKES A NEW LAW.

Will Help Out the Women—Said to Work Well.

London, Aug. 5.—In certain parts of Australia, where adult franchise has been in force for some years, and where woman has an equal share with man in the election of representatives to attend the Legislature, they have overcome this great difficulty, namely, the manner of recording the ballot. They have provided that women may vote by mail from their own homes or at a Government office before the regular election days. This provision originally was made in the electoral law of Queensland, the northernmost state of Australia—when woman suffrage first was granted by the state— as a means of enabling women who lived at great distances from polling stations to record their votes; also to be taken advantage of by women who were ill and could not travel.

In Australia, the country of great distances, there are isolated farms and ranches (known as "runs,") for the convenience of which it would be impossible to establish separate polling booths, with presiding officers and the rest, and so, in order not to exclude women living in such places from the privileges of the franchise, this emergency provision was inserted in the electoral law of Queensland. The provision worked so well that the state of Queensland later decided to make the clause apply to women generally throughout the country, and now, instead of having to dress and go out, rain or shine, and mix with the excited crowds on election day, the women of the cities, as well as those of the rural places, may record their votes in privacy.

The system has been found to work so well that it probably will be adopted by the Federal Government throughout Australia. At present it operates only in connection with some state elections, but there is a promising agitation to have the same system adopted for the federal elections. In fact, the federal Prime Minister has agreed to insert the necessary provision in the electoral act to be amended at the next session of Parliament.

Platsville Wells are Not Total Failures

Mr. Jas. Peat, who with his sons, has the contract of sinking the gas wells on the Kincaid farm, called on The Times yesterday with regard to an item which appeared in these columns. The article in question referred to the wells which were being sunk at Plattsville in Oxford county. Mr. Peat's firm had the contract for sinking this well and states that the item was incorrect in almost every particular. It appears that at the depth of 210 feet water was struck which spurted 50 feet above the ground. The pressure of the well prevented further work and the well was subsequently sold at a figure sufficient to pay the cost of sinking. It is now running and is quite an attraction for the people of Plattsville and district.

A second well was begun about 600 feet from the first, and at 500 feet mineral water was struck. After casing the well the work proceeded and the well is now down 1,000 feet, but the work has been stopped for the lack of funds.

Mr. Peat expects that the syndicate will have no trouble to meet the financial difficulties.

Several miles distance there are several gas wells in operation, one of which has a flow of 250,000 cubic feet per day.

A SHOCKING MURDER

SMASHED OUT BRAINS OF LITTLE GIRL.

Two Other Boys In Case—They are Held as Accomplices.

Guysboro, N.S., Aug. 5.—A shocking murder, committed a week ago at Boylston, few miles outside of this town, has just come to light.

On Thursday afternoon the adopted 13-year-old son of Joseph Issert, a negro, living at Boylston, in the absence of his foster parents, tied their six-year-old daughter to a tree and beat her brains out. The Isserts were away on a picnic, and, returning home found the child dead. They applied to the overseers of the poor for assistance to bury the child, and this was granted.

Later, the suspicions of the authorities were aroused, and it was decided to exhume the body and hold an autopsy. This was done, and then it was ascertained that the child had been murdered. The boy was arrested and will come up for preliminary examination today. An inquiry was held before Coroner Ewart, and a verdict of murder returned.

Two other boys also are held as accomplices. The preliminary examination is before Stipendiary DesBarres.

OFF TOCOBOURG.

Big Excursion Going to the Lake Town for the Regatta.

A big excursion will leave the city today for Cobourg via the Grand Trunk. The attraction is the big regatta and motor races. The special train will leave the city at 10.40, and returning it will leave Cobourg at 10 o'clock after the grand fire works display.

Quebec is Free from Divorce Evil

Quebec is free from the divorce evil. Marriage there is a sacrament, an indissoluble union cemented by Holy Church and blessed by God. It is impious, discreditable, disgraceful in Quebec to be divorced. But, occasionally, some vile sinner wants to get rid of his wife, for or without cause, and he sometimes succeeds. The other day, for instance, one Jules Archambault after a union of ten years, decided that he would like to get out of his matrimonial noose, and he discovered a way to do so with the sanction of the law and the blessing of the church. He revealed the fact that although he had married his cousin, he had neglected to pay for a special church license to marry, and the authorities clerical and lay, have annulled the marriage and declared him free from his nuptial vows! God din't join these two together, because the special license required by the church hadn't been issued! It was not a sacrament at all, even though a solemn service at the altar had united the couple, because the man had not taken out the prescribed special license!

Now this is all right, of course, and we are not finding the slightest fault with it. Churches have rules, and rules must be obeyed. But if the Chicago courts sever marital bonds on any more technical or frivolous pretext than this, as seen with the eye of common sense, we would like to know what it is.

And still the balmy summer air of pious Quebec is disturbed every Sunday by denunciations of the wickedness of those who grant or obtain dissolutions of the sacramental bonds of holy matrimony!

Rich Find of Gold Near Matheson

Matheson, Aug. 5.—A new gold field has been discovered, which promises to make this town a rival of the Silver City of Cobalt, and each investigation only serves to confirm the rumors which are leaking out of an area rich in the yellow metal.

So far the discoveries have been kept for the most part a secret, while development was going on, but your correspondent is able to give details in connection with a number of the claims which show rich possibilities.

The center of the gold discoveries is the townships of Guibord, Munroe and Beatty, east of Matheson. Here, 102 miles north of Cobalt, a new gold kingdom would seem to have been found, and the rush to rush to new Gow Ganda of last year and this promises to change into a rush to Matheson.

The principal discoveries in Munroe and Guibord townships are the claims held by the Guelph Syndicate Surprise, Green and Kennedy.

On the Guelph Syndicate property, known as the Munroe Mines, situated on concession one of Munroe township, a shaft has been sunk 28 feet and some fine specimensof visible gold have been taken out. The vein is about 12 inches inwidth, being composed of milk-white quartz with an occasional speck of pyrite.

The Green claim on concession six of Guibord, has been slightly stripped, several quartz veins being exposed, from which faorly rich specimens have been taken.

TheKennedy claim was recently sold to "Big Pete" Fornh and associates, of New Liskeard, for a consideration, it is said, of $30,000. Several quartz veins have been uncovered and a pit sunk a few feet on one of themwhichshowed some coarse gold in the white quartz.

Like the Kennedy, the Surprise claim recently changed hands, now being held by Assyrians. On a quartz lead a shaft has been sunk eight or ten feet, in which some nice gold values have been shown.

Temporary Isolation Hospital to be Built

Scarlet Fever Cases will be Handled in a Systematic Manner—Effort will be Made to Stamp Out Disease

Scarletfever is to be handled in future in a systematic manner and every effort will be made to stamp it out before the schools open in less than a month. There has been a large number of cases in the city the past four months and many families have suffered heavy expense on account of quarantine. This was all caused by the city having no isolation hospital or temporary place to take the patients. They had to be confined in their own homes and so did all the other members of the family. The revenue of the house was completely shut off while the expenses were greater. Still the council took no action to provide a place neither did the Board of Health.

The medical health officer did all in his power to maintain this quarantine, but in spite of him some of the inmates went out and no doubt many new cases were caused in this way, and more families were put to great expense. Dr. MacPherson drew the attention of the Board of Health to the condition ofaffairs, and yesterday morning that body held a meeting and authorized Dr. MacPherson and Ald. Bradburn to provise a temporary house for the scarlet fever patients.

The idea is to erect a cheap frame shack on the Hilliard farm where the patients will be taken and cared for until such times as the isolation hospital is ready for use. This will enable other members of the family to go about their duties without interruption. All that is necessary is that the house and clothing be fumigated.

The above will mean some expense to the city, but it will be borne by all the ratepayers instead of the few, who in many cases will be crippled financially for many months.

The Property Committe of the council now have the matter in hand and will meet in a day or so to complete arrangements.

Contractor Confident of Striking Good Flow of Oil or Gas Here

Mr. Jas. Peat, who is sinking a gas well on the Kincaid farm, informed The Times yesterday that owing to a mishap work is suspended. He says that in a few days it will be resumed. The well is now down 200 feet, and Mr. Peat expects to strike oil or gas before 600 feet is reached. He further added that the geogical formation there indicates that gas or oil exists. The only thing he fears that the Trenton rock may not be sufficiently deep. It appears that the rock becomes more shallow as you approach the west. He thinks better results might be obtained a few miles further east. By this he does not mean to convey the idea that gas or oilwill not be found here. He is hopeful that this test will produce satisfactory results. It may be necessary to sink other wells, as the wealthy Pennsylvania syndicate, who are operating here have every confidence that they will be completely successful

FOUR YEARS ASLEEP.

Veteran Starts on Same Road as Rip Van Winkle.

New York, Aug. 6.—A despatch to the Herald from Lockport, N. Y., says: Reuben Wood, a veteran of the Civil War, a member of the fourteenth Heavy Artillery and of the Fifty-fifth Infantry, relates a marvelous experience. At Antietam he was wounded in the head and a silver plate was inserted in the frontal bone. He was an inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Bath, and in May 1905, started for Hampton Roads. At Waverley his silver plate dropped down on his brain, and he fell into a sleep which lasted four years.

He had troubled dreams through the long slumber, and at times he thought enemies were trying to arouse him. Several times he heard the call to arms, but was unable to get his eyes open, and something seemed to pinion his arms. He told a surgeon of the silver plate in his head, and the plate was lifted by the surgeon and fastened in place with gold threads, and Wood immediately recovered his normal condition. He is on his way to Buffalo to present his papers and collect back pension due him since 1905.

FIND HIDDEN FORTUNE.

Over $100,000 Concealed By Eccentric Woman in Odd Places.

Fort Plains, N. Y. Aug. 6.—More than $100,000 in bonds, banknotes and gold has been found hidden in the house of Elizabeth Diefendorf, the eccentric maiden recluse who died here last Saturday, leaving an estate estimated at $1,000,000. The rear yard is to be ploughed and the house torn down in search of further returns.

Many of the bonds found had run to maturity. They were found unclipped, under a loose board or tucked beneath a carpet or sewed into the lining of a dress that had not been worn for years.

One nest egg was found in a bonnet fashionable in days before the Civil War; another in the bustle of a hoopskirt of the same period. Some of the banknotes, notwithstanding their age, were as clean as when they were first counted out from the bank They had evidently never been handled since.

EXPECT THE MILLENIUM.

Cooneyites Holding Continuous Prayer Meetings.

Dublin, August 6.—In the belief that the millennium may be ushered in any moment, over 2,000 "Cooneyites" are holding continuous prayer meetings at Ballinamallard, county Fermanagh. The pilgrims have arrived from all parts of the country and remarkable scenes are being witnessed. Hundreds of persons are baptised publicly in the river every day, and the converts are sleeping out in the open air on the farm of one of the leaders.

Big Hunting Party.

San Francisco, Aug. 6.—One of the largest hunting parties ever organized in California, composed of over a thousand men, will spend the next ten days in beating the country in Mendocino county for bears, deer and coyotes. A great circle will be formed by the thousand Nimrods, and this will gradually close in on the doomed beasts.

STIRRING CAREER

London Man Came of a Long Lived Scotch Family.

London, Ont., Aug. 5.—Alex. M. Scott died here tonight aged 100 years and 2 months. He served under Papineau in 1837, was in California during the gold rush and was a veteran of the American Civil War. He lived here 40 years. His father lived to be 107 and a sister died in Scotland three years ago aged 102. Of a family of six, the youngest to die was 96.

TRAINLOAD OF CHINAMEN.

And Four Cars of Silk Valued at a Quarter of aMillion.

Sudbury, Aug. 6.—A special train carrying 250 Chinamen routed from Hong Kong to Boston and other eastern cities, passed through here for the east today. There was also included in the train four car loads of silk valued at upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. The Chinamen were all in bond and locked in the cars with guards stationed at all the doors so that they could not disembark.

A POCKET GATLING.

Automatic and Will Pierce Half an Inch of Bessemer Steel.

Boston, Aug. 6.—A powerful new automatic gun, whose projectiles, it is said, will pierce half-inch Bessemer steel at ten thousand yards, has been invented by Alexander E. McKeen, of Roxbury.

The gun carries a 9-millimetre cartridge, taking five of these, which, the inventor says, can be fired in three seconds by the recoil shoulder action. The receiver is five inches long, much smaller than any other automatic gun. It is really a 'gatling gun' for the pocket. The interior mechanism he is keeping secret, as the gun is not yet patented.

Tenders Wanted.

—"Moved by——, seconded by—— that tenders be asked for the printing of twenty-five committee cards."

Consternation swept over the minds of the local newspaper men when they heard the foregoing resolution read and carried at the council meeting last Monday evening.

Only a short twelvemonth ago, the Argus, with high hopes, printed those committee cards and was paid therefor the sum of one dollar and fifty cents. We were vain enough to think that the committee cards might keep a-comin' and a-comin' as the swift years rolled on at the same old price and we had golden visions and things.

Where, oh, where, are those visions? Gone, vanished, evaporated, faded away.

In our careless editorial way we figured that on that dollar and a half job we had a profit of thirty cents. Shall we tender for this job?

Shall we be made to look like THIRTY CENTS? No, not for Venlee—or rather, St. Mary's.

Dying of Cholera

Local Physician Says Thousands Dying in Europe Can Be Saved With Proper Medicine.

What is it that keeps down cholera cramps, and summer complaints in America? Ask any doctor or live druggist and he will tell you "Nerviline" just fancy, a million bottles are sold every year to people who use Nerviline for stomach disorder, cramps, flatulence, and summer complaint. For fifty years in most Canadian homes no other pain relieving medicine but Nerviline is kept. Nothing cures the aches, pains and sickness of the entire family so quickly as Nerviline.

LETTER NO. 4672

"As far back as I can remember, at least 50 years ago, there was never a time that our house was without 'Nerviline'. In the summer time, when the children ate green apples and got sick with diarrhoea and cramps, it was Nerviline that cured them. My father used Nehviline frequently to cure gas on his stomach and acute indigestion. There are but few minor ailments that Nerviline does not cure, and I know of no medicine so useful; in fact, so indispensable around the home as Nerviline."

This letter, written by Mrs. N. C. Butcher, a well known resident in Battersea, shows the high opinion entertained of Nerviline by those who have used it constantly for nearly half a century.

You'll never regret using Nerviline. Get it today, keep it on hand for an accident or sudden case of sickness in your home. Refuse anything else offered you instead of Nerviline. 25c. per bottle, or five for $1.00. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 20.

THE CZAR'S VISIT.

Of the Czar's visit to Britain the significance is well understood both at home and abroad. The Russian and the British Governments have taken pains to make sure that it shall be understood. All the circumstances of it are designed to impress it upon the world as an outward and visible sign of the concord of the two great powers in the foreign policy upon which the maintenance of the balance of power in Europe depends.

That Britain and Russia are in agreement, and in practical alliance for the upholding of their interests in the Middle East is a well known fact of quite long standing. But it is doubtful if either the commenders of the Anglo-Russian Treaty perceived the more distant objects its negotiations had in view. As a settlement of the Persian question, and as a conclusion of the rather dangerous status of the relations of the two countries in respect to India—of quite as great value as was the convention in which France and Britain closed their disputes over colonial differences. But, as we have said, like the colonial agreement with France, the Anglo-Russian Treaty made changes in respect to matters outside of its scope that were of much greater importance than those set forth as its specific objects. As the Anglo-French settlement of colonial differences was but the first step of the high contracting parties towards the Entente Cordiale, so the Anglo-Russian agreement in relation to the Middle East ushered the two principal parties into something very like an alliance for the promoting of objects common to them as European powers. As France and Russia are allies, the improvement of Britain's relations towards each of them had the effect of associating the three powers on the same side of a great question of world politics—that of the equilibrium of Europe. The war in the Far East had exerted more than most discerning observers expected it would upon the situation in Europe. Russia having been defeated, her navy destroyed, and discontented people plunged into revolution, Germany at once changed her attitude towards France. Up to that time Germany had shown her respect for Russia's puissance by her neighborly demeanor towards France. But the shattering of Russia's sea forces and the repeated defeat of her armies were quickly followed by aggressiveness on the part of Germany in its dealings with France. France was interfered with and domineered over in Morocco. It was at this stage that Britain's new friendship became useful to France, for at the Algeciras Conference, called to deal with the matters at issue between France and Germany, the British delegates stood by the representatives of France. Austria-Hungary's representatives voted with those of Germany. Eventually, after failing to make mischief between France and Britain, and after rousing France to an attitude of defiance, Germany dropped out of the Moroccan trouble she had created. In the meantime, Austria-Hungary, instigated and supported by Germany, had taken courage to offend Russia, whose power was believed to be still too far reduced to retaliate. Austria Hungary projected herself into the Balkan situation, grabbed Bosnia and Herzegovina and terrorized Servia. Russia, inclined to take action in behalf of the Slav people of Servia, was at once menaced by the mailed fist of Germany. Russia, apparently not relying upon the support of France, yielded. Germany will probably find that the lot of the bully is not in the long run a happy one. She has driven Russia, France and Britain into a coalition that will prove more than a match for her and Austria-Hungary. Though Italy is in the Triple Alliance, her adhesion thereto is but nominal, for the terms on which she and Austria stand towards each other are not those of mutual confidence, whereas she is very friendly to Britain, and is steadily drawing closer to France.

Already Germany shows signs of ruing her brutality toward Russia. The Emperor William has made much of his recent meeting with the Czar as a presage of peace. Germany has also been turning to account the revolution in Persia, her newspapers doing their best to make that an occasion of difference between Russia and Britain. For the same purpose the stupid firing upon a British steamer in the Baltic was made use of by German news agencies to provoke bad feeling between the two powers. The folly and boorishness of the Labor members of the British Parliament, who are constantly making offensive references to the Czar, are similarly being made capital of. But Russia and Britain understand each other, and, along with France, they will maintain the balance of power against German aggression.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE.

Sir Felix Schuster, the Chairman of one of the largest banks in London, addressing the shareholders of the Bank on a few days ago, referred to the striking revival which had occurred in the commercial situation in Canada. It is satisfactory to find that some at least of the leading financiers in London understand the real state of affairs in the Dominion. By giving expression to that fact they render a real service to Canada at a time when recognition of the actual situation in this country is particularly valuable. We referred a few days ago to the criticism of the London Morning Post on the loans which were being sought in London for carrying on the construction of railways in this country and for other enterprises, and expressed the opinion that such adverse comments proceeded from a lack of understanding of the actual situation and the character of the undertaking for the use of which the money was sought. While this new capital can be utilised to great advantage in the development of Canada, there is no reasonable doubt that the manner in which it will be expended will assure its safety to those who furnish it and at the same time yield them a satisfactory return on their investments.

There is also another aspect of this matter that it will be well not to overlook and which admirably presented by Lord Grey in a speech at the Dominion Day banquet in London. That is the circumstance that in carrying out these great railway undertaking by the assistance of money contributed from the public treasury, Canada is doing much for the defence of the Empire. Referring to the contribution of public money and lands to the extent of one hundred million dollars to the cost of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Lord Grey said: "Who is there that can say that that money put into ten Dreadnoughts would have been of equal value to Imperial Defence?" So in the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway the money granted to that undertaking from the Federal Treasury will also form a contribution of no small importance to Imperial defence. Indirectly also it will benefit British trade, as it will promote settlement, lead to the cultivation of immense areas of virgin soil, and create new markets for the products of the factories and shops of Manchester and Birmingham, and of other industrial centres in the Old Country.

There is also another view which seems to have been overlooked in any consideration of the value that railway extension in Canada must be to the Empire and particularly to the people of the United Kingdom. That is the greater assurance that it gives them of an ample supply of bread-stuffs in time of war. It is admitted that the Canadian northwest territories can be made the granary of the Empire. Thirty year ago that great Imperial statesman, Lord Beaconsfield, expressed that view and each year that has passed since then has confirmed it. From no other outlying part of the Empire can the carriage of grain to the United Kingdom be so easily protected as is possible from Canada. To the Dominion therefore, will the teeming millions in the Mother Country look chiefly for the supply of their daily food, and whatever tends to increase that supply and facilitate it reaching them must be a matter of Imperial concern and one which under certain conceivable circumstances might mean the safety, even the existence, of the Empire.

But to point out these things does not imply that Canadians regard them as showing that they have met all their obligations to the Empire. On the contrary, as Lord Grey said on the occasion already mentioned, if it is necessary to maintain the naval supremacy of the Crown, Canada is prepared to spend her last dollar and to give her last man. In no part of the Empire is the fact more fully realised than in the Dominion that the interests of all the scattered communities which comprise it, their freedom and their constitutional institutions are dependent on the maintenance of that great Imperial fabric their heritage from the courage and energy of their forefathers.

FLYING MACHINES.

Although Mons. Blering has crossed the English Channel in a monoplane it would be a mistake to jump at the conclusion that flying machines have become anything more as yet than an inventor's toy. The daring aeronaut says he will not try to do it ever again. One of the Wrights said the other day that the reason why they both did not go up in a machine was the fear that both might be killed. Mr. Douglas McCurdy in one of his interviews speaks of the pleasure of aerial navigation, but he had his share of minor mishaps. Every day or so we hear of a flying machine coming to grief by collision with a tree or building. So with the dirigible balloons. Occasionally we hear of wonderful performances, but unless conditions are nearly ideal they also get into trouble. It is quite true that men have discovered how to send a balloon into the air and direct its course under favorable conditions. It is true that men have demonstrated the possibility of navigating the air with a machine heavier than air. These are great achievements, the latter especially. It is a very wonderful thing to be able to make out of steel and cloth a machine with an engine attached to it than can ascend in the air and be driven through it in any desired direction, even if this can only be done under the most favorable circumstances conceivable, and it is of course more wonderful that is can be done when conditions are not ideal. But between this and dirigible balloons and flying machines that are fit for the regular business of transportation there is a wide gulf, which at present seems unbridgeable. We do not say that it cannot be bridged, for we believe it can be, but the trick has yet to be done. It is much too soon to sell your railway or steamship stock, if you happen to have any. The world is not going to fly in a business way for some time to come yet.

MADE FAMOUS BY PUBLIC FAVOR

CHILDREN AND DRINK.

The Working of the New Liquor Act in England.

A recent public holiday in England on which the masses in London are wont to disport themselves on Hampstead Heath, in Epping Forest and other open spaces within easy reach of the city, offered an opportunity to study the effect of the new Children's Act, especially that part which excludes children from drinking saloons and bars.

The day turned out wet and both the police and saloonkeepers had to be on the alert, especially at night, when the crowds returned from their day's outing, weary and drenched and with stimulated appetites for drink. The spectacle of scores of little children left in groups on the pavement in charge of one parent while the other entered a gorgeously illuminated bar, furnished food for reflection.

Perhaps the most pathetic circumstance was the various devices by which loafers, both men and women, sought to earn pence by taking charge of the tired children while their parents sat in warmth and comparative comfort, regardless of the whimperings of the little ones outside. An eye-witness noticed during the afternoon a little girl waiting outside a saloon in the rain. Two hours later he passed the house again and saw the same child shivering in her thin dress.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked her.

"I don't know my way home without father," she said.

That the new profession which has sprung up of minding children outside saloons by loafers of the worst type is dangerous needs no argument. Some saloonkeepers now provide their own nurses in uniform who attend to the children of customers.

In the East End bands of boys have discovered a new source of income by "minding kids at a penny a head." On Easter Monday a cab driver on his route, eager not to miss an opportunity furnished by the downpour of rain accepted the offer of a party of holiday makers and turned his vehicle into a miniature creche while the parents passed a convivial hour in the nearest tavern.

In another case an hostler cleared out a water trough, lined it with hay and use it as a cot for infants whose parents were away drinking.

The Prison of Sark.

Sark, the loveliest of the Channel Islands, possesses a quaint old prison of two cells more as a matter of form than of necessity, for serious crime is almost unknown in the island, which has no paid police, but simply elected constable. It is some years since the prison was called into requisition, and on the last occasion the bolt was found to be so rusty that it had to be broken before the door could be opened. The prisoner was then put in, left all night with the door open and made no attempt to escape.

On another occasion a young English servant who had stolen some clothes was sentenced to three days' imprisonment. The prospect so terrified her that the authorities took pity on her loneliness and considerately left the cell open. The little maid sat in the doorway and was consoled by kind-hearted flark women, who came to keep her company. A still more curious incident is told of a man who was convicted for neglecting his wife and children. He was ordered to betake himself to the prison and there wait for the arrival of the constable. This he did, sitting outside until the door was opened.—Strand Magazine.

Kitchener as an Orchid Grower.

The Commander-in-Chief of the Indian forces has been described as one whose work is his hobby—a man with no recreation. This, however, is a mistake. For many years past Lord Kitchener has devoted his spare time to gardening, and takes a special interest in orchid culture. There is no more enthusiastic amateur than his lordship, and it is said to be his intention, when he retires down in England after August, when he resigns his command, to purchase a small estate somewhere within easy reach of London, where there is space to collect orchids on a rather large scale. He will then devote his special attention to the cultivation of many rare Indian specimens that are little known in the old country at the present time.

The Snowwood Tree.

The remarkable snowwood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its funny name was given to it because one cannot cut it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to [illegible] when they are planting it. If a piece of the wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the snowwood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes the wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

Clergymen in Church Pageant.

The allotment of parts in the church pageant in England has now practically been completed. An interesting scene is promised in "the coronation procession of King Edward VI.," in which the mayor of Fulham will represent the lord mayor of London of the period, Rev. P. S. G. Propert will participate as the Earl of Rutland, Rev. E. H. Galley will appear as the Bishop of Durham, and Rev. W. L. Marshall will represent Bishop Latimer.

Providing Against Emergencies.

"Is you de insurance gemmen?" asked Erastus Pinkley.

"I am," answered the urbane agent.

"Well, I wants to talk business. I ain' got nuffin' to say 'gin my neighbors, but I's had a lot of unexpected extravagances. I wants to see if I can't arrange to get some accident insurance on my chicken coop."

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Otonabee from the Wolfe street wharf to Lindsay. The date is August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. This Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were more delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

TOO OSTENTATIOUS.

Gratitude of Immigrant Woman Had Its Unpleasant Features.

One of the branches of the public service at Ottawa which does its work quietly and without any of the glare of the limelight which attaches to the political departments, is that section of the Department of Justice which looks after the exercise of the power of pardon by the Governor-General. It may not be generally known that since Mr. Aylesworth has been Minister of Justice he has insisted upon personally reading over the fyle in every case in which executive clemency is asked, whether it be pardon for a well-behaved or a sick convict or the more serious matter of deciding what action shall be taken in regard to death sentences. All such petitions are, however, first considered by Mr. Augustus Power, who probably has a greater store of stories of the schemes to which convicts or their friends will resort in order to procure a pardon, than any other man in Canada.

It is not a pleasant task—this of deciding the fate of your fellow men and women, but sometimes it has its humorous side. One of these comical incidents took place not long ago. A young immigrant woman with two small children, one of them a baby in arms, arrived in Ottawa by train from Montreal to plead for pardon for her husband, who had fallen foul of the law. She was herself not a walking illustration of the advantages of the daily use of soap and water; but the children were even dirtier than the mother. Doubtless it was not their fault, poor things; they had had a dusty journey on the train and probably were not much used to washing anyway. They were introduced into "Gus" Power's office, and the mother told her story and presented her petition to the official. He went over the fyle and after due consideration decided that it was a case where he could advise the Minister to recommend the exercise of clemency. And he told the woman so. But he was sorry immediately, for with tears of gratitude rolling down her cheeks the mother pushed forward the dirty baby in her arms, saying:

"Kiss the good, kind gentleman, baby!"

They do say that Mr. Power's face was a study, and that there and then he registered a vow never again to inform a petitioner for pardon of his recommendation except at the safe range of through the letter-post, especially when she was accompanied by her family!

Considerate.

Young Writer (to editor of newly-established journal)—If you find this little story available for your columns I don't ask any pay for it beyond a life subscription to your paper.

Editor—But, great goodness, young man, you may live for fifty years!

Young Writer—Oh, I don't mean during my life—during the life of your paper, you know!—London Tit-Bits.

Signs of Storms.

As stormy weather comes on, seabirds fly inland in search of food; wild fowl leave the marshy grounds for higher localities; swallows and rooks fly low before and during bad weather; frogs are unusually noisy before rain; sheep huddle together near bushes and trees.

Runs in the Family.

Rev. W. E. A. Lewis, rector of Mt. Clemens, Mich., was born and bred in Wellington County, Ontario, and while loyal to the country of his adoption will not let the land of his birth be maligned. Righting some gross misstatements regarding Canada while at the summer camp of a number of youthful Yankees last year, his quick wit and the laugh which followed extricated him from what bade fair to be a heated argument.

"If you have such a high opinion of Canada why did you leave there?" questioned one lad hotly.

"I came to this country, my boy," said the rector with a smile, "as a missionary."

Mrs. Lewis, his mother, is a staunch Canadian, and from her he has inherited both his wit and his love for the land of the maple. Mrs. Lewis' eldest daughter is the wife of Rev. R. T. W. Webb of St. John's Church, Detroit. Some of the ladies of the parish were particularly anxious to enroll Mrs. Webb as a Daughter of the Revolution. Mrs. Webb protesting she was not eligible, they appealed to her mother, asking if she could not think of some way in which her daughter could trace back a connection with 1776.

"Well, yes," replied Mrs. Lewis, her blue eyes, undimmed by time and many troubles, twinkling merrily, "my mother's people left Pennsylvania rather than fight against the King."

The Memorial Tower.

The finances in regard to the erection of the Memorial Tower at the Northwest Arm, Halifax, to commemorate the establishment of representative government in Overseas Britain are progressing satisfactorily. The Dominion Government will give $5,000 towards the erection of the tower, and the Nova Scotian Government is expected to contribute generously. The Quebec and British Columbia Government will make donations, and it is expected that all the Provincial Governments in Canada will contribute something. Pending the erection of the tower, the property in the vicinity, given by Sir Sandford Fleming for a public park for the citizens, has been transferred by Sir Sandford to Lieutenant-Governor Fraser in trust, and will be handed over to the city on the completion of the tower.

Rossland Ore Find.

After being conceded to have been practically worked out by former owners, the Canadian Consolidated Co. has uncovered an ore body in the War Eagle that contains a million dollars. It is on the ninth level, and is the most important discovery in the history of Rossland. It is 400 feet long and 80 feet wide, and the 3,500 tons thus far taken from it have averaged $30 per ton. A downward continuation of this body has been located on the tenth level, and it is supposed to continue above the ninth level to the surface. The south belt, on which hundreds of thousands were spent in the early days of the camp, is experiencing a new era of development with rich results in silver and gold, as compared with the copper-gold ores of the other portions of the camp.

Most Recent Goods.

W. T. R. Preston reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce that the chief need of this country to develop trade with Japan is a more active boosting of Canadian products. This, he says, must be done by direct representation of big firms. Correspondence is comparatively little use.

AMUSING MISTAKES.

Haughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained, with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction became second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a mate to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes, I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. What-cha-din? You are? Where am I? At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stopped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the bedroom windows and also give the children a cooky apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was business, too, from some points of view. They were all brief, care rolling, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which those phones were supplied. But there sat that creature "ugh-huhing and mmhming" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephone and the minute or so long as she wished she returned her chair, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of honor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband, and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Grits.

If the coloseum grinder kept his blade in the wholesome exceedingly fine edge we would soon be useless. The grind that daily worries is not daily household duties, but never letting up on those duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. It is the weak nerves that are crying out for help. Vitalize these weak inside controlling nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and see how quickly good health will come to you again. Test it and see! Sold by All Dealers.

Mrs. Lloyd Fish of Toronto, is in the city visiting friends. She was formerly the wife of Rev. Mr. Lloyd of Warsaw, who passed away there some years ago. Mrs. Fish is now actively engaged in Christian Science work, and this week will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Singleton, 128 Stewart street.

Rat Bites.

It sometimes takes a year for the bite of a rat to heal up.

Circassian Seeds.

The bright scarlet seeds of Adenanthera pavonina are used as jewelers' weights in India, each being about four grains. They are also strung and made into necklaces. In the West Indies they are known as Circassian seeds.

The Turkish Empire.

The total area of the Turkish empire is 1,682,380 square miles and the total population over 36,000,000.

Siberian Urmans.

The Siberian "urmans" or "targas" are vast woods of pine, larch and cedar at least 3,000 miles from east to west and 1,000 miles from north to south. They are so thick and gloomy that the natives call them "places where the mind is lost."

Angleworms.

Angleworms may live fully ten years, as has been shown by experiments made in Marburg, Germany.

Camphor.

Into a basin of clear water put a few pieces of camphor. They will commence a peculiar motion, traversing every part of the surface of the water, but may instantly be stopped by dropping into the water the minutest quantity of an oily substance.

A Few Timely Don'ts.

Don't go out in the woods to fly a kite. Only birds fly there.

Don't climb trees after strawberries.

Don't try swimming in a muddy creek.

Don't smile at a strange ball.

Don't try to catch a whale with a bent pin.

Don't cry like a goose if a goose cries at you.

Don't get angry after going to bed after the chickens to be awakened by the rooster.

Don't use the barn roof for a toboggan slide. You may find the shingles rough.

Don't eat up your picnic lunch before you start out.

Don't sit under the tree and wait for the weatherrock to crow.

Don't expect to find straws in a dish of strawberries.

Don't try to pick geese from the gooseberry bush.

The Pup Didn't Mind.

Uncle Caleb—Have you named your dog yet, Clarence?

Little Clarence—Yes, sir; I called him after you.

Uncle Caleb—That isn't complimentary.

Little Clarence—Oh, well, he hasn't got sense enough to care.

A Riddle.

What is that which will go up a pipe down, but will not go down a pipe up, or will go down a pipe down, but not up a pipe up, and yet when it has gone up a pipe or down a pipe will go up or down? Answer—An umbrella.

A Birdseye View.

Birdie, birdie, on the tree,
Singing sweetly as can be,
What have you to make you so
Happy? I should like to know.

Says birdie, "I've a roomy nest,
With all the dear ones I love best,
And of the lovely landscape, too,
I find I have a 'birdseye view.'"
—Philadelphia Record.

Long-Lived Fish.

Fishes, especially the large species, live a very long time. According to Recon, eels live fifty years. Carp have been known to exist at least 150 years, while dolphins, sturgeons and sharks live more than a century and attain huge size. A pike caught at Konradsmeiern, Germany, in 1497 was nineteen feet long and weighed 350 pounds. It bore in its gills a copper ring with an inscription stating that it had been put in the pond of Lauten by order of the Emperor Frederick II. —that is, 283 years before.

Noble is Sharpshooter.

In his younger days Lord Walsram, who was sixty the other day, was a crack shot with the rifle, and only by a piece of bad luck missed winning the Queen's Prize. He is also remembered as one of the most energetic Whips the Unionist party ever had.

English Politeness.

The expression "Thank you" is much more current in England than in America. It is also used with much wider significance, often as the equivalent of "I beg your pardon." For instance, an English person passing before another or perhaps jostling one or even treading on his foot will say in apology, "Thank you." The phrase is heard constantly. If a salesman in a shop or a newsboy on the streets solicits your custom and you refuse it he will say "Thank you" quite as cheerfully as if you made a purchase. There is a difference in the utterance too. The English emphasize the second word very strongly and finish with a rising inflection, as if asking a question. An American is recognized at once by his accenting the word "thank" and closing with the falling inflection.

Her Proposals.

Talking of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Lord Houghton said: "Miss Coutts likes me because I never proposed to her. Almost all the young men of good family did. Those who did their duty by their family always did. Mrs. Browne (Miss Coutts' companion) used to see it coming and took herself out of the way for ten minutes, but she only went into the next room and left the door open, and then the proposal took place, and immediately it was done Miss Coutts coughed, and Mrs. Browne came in again."—Augustus J. C. Hare's Recollections.

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, Heart and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all Dealers.

A MUTUAL SURPRISE.

The Meeting Between an Ambitious Hunter and His First Grizzly.

In "Sketches of Life in the Golden State" Colonel Albert S. Evans tells an amusing anecdote of an ambitious hunter who met his first grizzly bear—in procession. The incident occurred in the woods near the site of the present town of Monterey.

The hunter sat down to rest in the shade of a tree and unwittingly went to sleep. When he woke it was near sunset, and he sat up, rubbing his eyes and contemplating a return to his hotel, several miles distant.

Just then a rustling and crackling noise from a clump of chaparral about 100 yards away attracted his attention. Out walked a grizzly bear, a monarch of his kind. He yawned, licked his jaws and then advanced toward the tree where our hunter sat, but evidently was unconscious of his presence.

His grizzly majesty had proceeded about twenty paces when a female bear followed him, and an instant later a third grizzly followed her at a slow, shambling pace.

The hunter sat spellbound with terror as the procession came toward him until the forward grizzly was within thirty yards. Then, scarcely realizing what he did, he sprang to his feet and uttered a frenzied yell—yell upon yell!

The effect was magical. The foremost bear sprang into the air, turned sharply about, knocked the female down, rolled over her, gathered himself up and bolted "like forty cart loads of rock going down a chute" straight for the chaparral again, the other two bears close at his heels and never turning to see what had frightened them.

The hunter, seeing the enemy retreating, sprang to his feet and fled at top speed for the hotel, leaving hat and gun behind. The truth of his wild and startling tale was proved the next day by the numerous bear tracks of different sizes found in the marshy ground near by. But the three bears had gone off beyond pursuit.

THE WITCHES' TREE.

Superstitions Regarding the Influence of the Elder.

Country people speak of the elder tree as "the witches' tree" and planted it near farm buildings and dairies to keep off witches. They also say that the roots should never come near a well, still less grow into it, or the water will be spoiled. Evelyn's opinion was also unfavorable. The diarist says: "I do by no means commend the scent of it, which is very noxious to the air.

"We learn from Blesius that a certain house in Spain, seated among many elder trees, diseased and killed nearly all its inhabitants, which, when at last they were grubbed up, became a very healthy and wholesome place."

Cattle scarcely touch the elder, and the mole is driven away by the scent. Carters often placed branches on their horses' heads to keep off flies. Nothing will grow well in the company of the elder, and when it has been removed and all its roots carefully grubbed up it is some few years before the ground becomes perfectly sweet and good for anything.

The berries, besides feeding the birds, make excellent country wine, delicious with soda water in summer or taken hot in winter. The wood is particularly good for skewers, and a curious red fungus grows on elder stumps. A species of elder in the Tyrol is covered with beautiful scarlet berries.—Selborne's Magazine.

Smart Electors.

At an open air political meeting in the north of England a man cried, "Hurrah for Jackson!" to which a bystander replied sarcastically, "Hurrah for a jackass!" "All right, my friend," exclaimed the first speaker. "You can hurrah for your candidate, and I'll do the same for mine!"

All electors are not so gifted, as the following experience of a canvasser in Devonshire clearly indicates:

"Whom are you voting for, my good fellow?" he asked.

"I votes for the lady."

"But there is no lady candidate standing."

"Well," replied Hodge, "Poll Barty comes on my voting paper before the names of the two men, and I thought I'd vote for her. See?"

Contentment.

Who lives for love must sorrow know,
Who lives for gain must rest forego,
Who lives for power must trample joy,
Who lives for fame stakes all for toy.
More blest are they who toil all day
And sleep the sleep of
Just Plain
Clay.

Unnatural History.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be English and full of affright,
While a rabbit is Welsh and is eaten at night.
—First Omnibus.

"Omnibus" was an almost brand new word in its modern sense when Shillibeer took it from the French in 1829, and in France the name possessed a special significance for those who knew their history, for from 1672 to 1676 Paris had already seen a regular service of roomy public vehicles, "carosses a cinq sous." Only these predecessors of the modern bus were not "omnibus"—for all. The letters patent which instituted them for the benefit of middle class people laid down that they were not to be used by soldiers, lackeys or any other wearers of livery or artisans and laborers. These exclusive vehicles faded out of existence, and the new ones, which were started in Paris in 1828, were named "omnibus" expressly to signify their democratic character.—London Chronicle.

Widows' Caps.

The widow's cap is a survival of an old Roman custom. Widows were obliged to wear their weeds for ten months, and the bereaved woman shaved her head as a token of mourning. Naturally the widow could not very well appear in public with a bald head, so dainty caps were made in order to hide the disfigurement. The cap still remains, though the immediate necessity for its existence has long passed away.

TRANSFORMATION OF SEOUL.

Japanese Turning Corean Capital Into a Modern City.

In writing about what the Japanese are doing in Corea, Frank G. Carpenter says: They have taken the hermit kingdom by the neck and are shaking its dry bones into action. They are establishing courts, abolishing squeezing and reorganizing the finances. They propose to build roads, to reforest the mountains, to open the mines and to turn this half-barren country into a garden. All these things are in their beginnings, but a start has been made and signs of progress are everywhere to be seen.

The capital, Seoul, is fast becoming a new city. When I came here twenty years ago the trip from the seaport, Chemulpo, took over 12 hours, and I had to have a pony and eight men to bring myself and wife to the walls. I rode the pony and the madam came in a chair, borne on the shoulders of four coolies, with a relay of four others to help them. Toward the end of the journey we had to push on for fear we might not get to Seoul before the gates closed. The city is surrounded by a massive wall nine miles in length and 30 feet high. At that time this wall was entered only by gates, and these were closed at night by heavy doors plated with iron, which were not opened again until the next day. We got in just in time to see the gates close. There was no hotel, and we had to be met by the soldiers of our legation, and were quartered there during our stay.

The city still has its walls, but the gates now stand open day and night, and an electric street car line runs through two of them and on out into the country. An electric light globe prevents the closing of the one which we entered, and another gate has proved too small to accommodate the traffic and has been cut out by the Japanese, wide roads being made through the walls on each side. The gate itself, which is a temple-like structure with a double roof of heavy tiles, has been faced with stone; and it is now proposed to put a commercial museum in the soldiers' guardroom above it. In that old gate all the industries of the new Corea will be shown side by side with those of other nations, and the people will thus be taught the various methods of manufacture and sale.

"All the Winners!"

One gets so accustomed to accepting things as they come that very few of us, when we take up our favorite paper at the breakfast-table, think anything of the number of papers published daily in the world, or of the many singular languages in which some of them are printed. The Imperial Press Conference, which is now being held in London, calls to mind some remarkable newspaper facts.

The entire number of newspapers printed all over the world is somewhere between 5,500 and 6,000, to which America contributes 1,500, Germany 900, and Great Britain 250. In Persia they have six periodicals, and Austria possesses news-sheets printed in no fewer than ten different languages—German, Italian, French Hungarian, Greek, Latin, Polish, Servian, Slavic, and Hebrew to be precise. The "Esquimo Bulletin," published in the Arctic circle, is an Alaskan paper that appears once a year. It is very "newsy."

China, despite its vast population, boasts only two dozen "dailies," but among these is the oldest paper in the world. This is the "Tsing-Pao," or "Pekin News," which was started 500 years before the Norman Conquest, and is now more than 1,300 years old. They are careful on the "Tsing-Pao." In former days, an error in printing was punished with instant death.

Courteous Cabby.

A pompous looking lawyer once chartered a hansom cab, and on reaching his destination he only gave his driver the shilling required by law.

The driver looked at the coin and bit his lip. Then in the most courteous manner he motioned to his fare to get in again.

"Do step in again, sir," he said. "I could ha' drove ye a yard or two further for this 'ere."

Looking Forward.

"Johnny," said Mr. Bliggens, "I want you to study hard and learn all you possibly can."

"Did you do that?"

"No, my son, I did not. But I want you to escape the trouble my irastention has caused me. When you grow up and have a son I don't want you to be humiliated by being unable to answer your boy's questions."

Lake Huron Islands.

There are some 2,000 islands in Lake Huron.

Scipio Africanus.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Caesar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on Oct. 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

Opalescent Glass.

Opalescent glass for use in the manufacture of stained glass windows is made in this country in a manner which cannot be duplicated, and this material is shipped all over Europe.

The Bladderwort.

The aquatic plant the bladderwort feeds on animal life. The tiny bladders attached to the leaves and leaf stalks are each furnished with a door, the whole acting on the rat trap principle. Any small water creature that ventures to peep in is seized in the clutches of the murderous plant and is at once swallowed and assimilated.

Ant Proof Woods.

Use is made in the south sea islands of boxes made of camphor wood or American white cedar, because ants and other insects have an aversion for those woods. The natives use such boxes for trunks.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas beloking, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Dealers.

The Work for Peace

This year is the twentieth anniversary of the first International Peace Congress in Paris and the tenth anniversary of the Universal Peace Congress held at The Hague in response to a call issued by Emperor Nicholas of Russia. Both of these memorable events, so important in the movement for world peace, will be fittingly commemorated when the International Peace Congress meets in Stockholm the latter part of this month. A meeting of the British section was held in London a few days ago to further the plans for a successful meeting when the opponents of war gather in the Swedish capital three weeks from next Saturday.

Despite the fact that the English people are agitated by visions of a coming conflict with Germany, the friends of peace are hopeful and many at today's meeting declared that the last great war in the world's history has been fought. It is pointed out that there has been a great growth in the movement for international peace since 1889, when a few friends of peace from the United States, Great Britain, France, and two or three other European countries, met at the French capital, and held the first of the modern series of International Peace Congresses. Their meetings passed quite unnoticed by the press and the public, or were ridiculed as the sentimental performances of visionaries. Last year in London, after nineteen years of congresses held in the great capitals and chief cities of the world, and growing in numbers and power from year to year, the pacifists met for their seventeenth international gathering. They were welcomed by the King and Queen of England and by the British Cabinet with a cordiality and generosity of hospitality rarely extended in those days to any body of philanthropic workers. King Edward and the Queen received in Buckingham Palace a large deputation from the congress, and the great closing banquet in the Hotel Cecil, in which the prime minister was the chief speaker, was given the delegates by the government itself out of the hospitality fund, then just established by the chancellor of the exchequer. This congress represented more than 500 peace organizations and a great body of peace workers throughout the world.

During this same period the International Union, founded also in 1889, grew into a powerful organization of more than 2,500 statesmen, members and ex-members of Parliament, banded together solely to foster international friendship and the supplanting of war by rational pacific methods of settlement. The standing which this union has made for itself and the governments shows perhaps more than any other one thing the enormous progress which the cause has made within twenty years.

National peace congresses have been held for several years in France England, Germany, the United States and other countries.

Within the latter half of the twenty-year period the two Hague conferences were held and brought all the governments of the world into active and sympathetic co-operation for the avoidance of war and the maintenance of international justice by judicial methods. The Permanent International Court of Arbitration was instituted in 1899, put into successful operation two years later, and became after 1907 the arbitration tribunal of the world. The foundations of a permanent world congress or parliament were laid by the second Hague Conference before the twenty years expired, and the decision was reached that a Permanent International Court of Arbitral Justice be established as soon as the governments can reach an agreement as to the method of selecting the judges. In the meantime nearly one hundred treaties of obligatory arbitration have been concluded between the governments two and two.

In no other countries is the cause of peace farther advanced than in the Scandinavian. Several peace congresses of Scandinavians have been held within a few years. Christiania has entertained the Interparliamentary Union at one of its conferences; and likewise the International Law Association—in both cases most generously and elaborately. The Scandinavian Parliaments have more than once—one or two of them in fact have four or five times—voted direct contributions to the support of the work of the Interparliamentary Union and of the International Peace Bureau at Berne, and Denmark, through its finance minister, is contemplating the immediate creation of a hospitality fund, like that of Great Britain.

Decrease of Rural Population

The press in Ontario is discussing the decrease of the rural population in that Province. It is stated that the decrease in Ontario, not including New Ontario, from 1885 to 1905, the last year for which figures are available, was 114,971. It is also stated that there are 188,000 acres less under wheat and 80,000 less logs got out this year than there were last year. These facts are not very pleasing to those interested in the welfare of the Premier Province of the Dominion and have not unnaturally called forth discussion as to the cause of these changes. Two main causes are, generally speaking, given as the explanation. One is the tendency of the farmers' sons and daughters, all well educated, to seek careers in the towns and cities, instead of remaining in the country and following the pursuits of their parents. In this respect what is taking place in Ontario is similar to that elsewhere. The same flow of population from the rural to the urban districts is going on in many of the States in the Union, while in the United Kingdom one of the problems with British statesmen are wrestling is the best plan to adopt to get the people "back to the land."

The second cause which is decreasing the rural population in Ontario is the large exodus from that Province to Western Canada. This westward flow is likely to continue and to become even greater as long as fertile lands in the Canadian North West are to be obtained at a merely nominal price or under easy terms of settlement. Nor, from a National point of view, should this westward flow of population now going into the three Prairie Provinces, there should be a substantial quota from the fine type of men and women that compose the agricultural classes in the Eastern Provinces. In one respect this emigration will be not without benefit to Ontario. That Province has become the chief industrial and manufacturing section of the Dominion, and in the West it will find a valuable and evergrowing market for the products of its shops and factories. Still the loss of a considerable fraction of one of the best elements in its population is a matter which the Provincial Government cannot afford to ignore. It realises this and has established an immigration bureau with the object of filling up the places made vacant by the emigration to the West. It has always seemed to us that in many respects the locations best adapted to the circumstances of a very large proportion of the immigrants from the United Kingdom are to be found in the older provinces of the Dominion rather than in the wider expanses of unsettled prairie in Western Canada. In the former the newcomer will find conditions more like those which he has left in the Old Country, and will not be placed among surroundings that can scarcely fail to be serious to one accustomed to the circumstances of old established communities. That Ontario agriculture will be permanently depressed by these changes in the population is not likely. But the situation is one that must receive the attention of the Government in order to avoid a dislocation in the Provincial economic system which might temporarily check the progress of the common-wealth.

VALUABLE DINNER SET.

One of the Prizes for the Printers' Picnic Donated By Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., has notified the secretary of the local Typographical Union that he desires to contribute again this year a valuable dinner set for competition at the Printers' picnic next Monday. This prize was gladly accepted, and will be greatly appreciated by the one who wins it.

The Printers' picnic will take a record crowd on Monday. The steamer Otonabee is chartered for the day.

REFERS TO POWERS.

Declines to Call Her Officers from Crete.

Constantinople, Aug. 5.—Greece has replied to the Turkish note presented today, which practically demands the recall of the Greek officers serving in Crete, saying in effect that the question is in the hands of the four protecting powers of Crete, with whose knowledge and consent the officers in question were sent to the island.

Turkey is appealing to the four powers and she intimates that her friendly request to Greece will be followed unless satisfaction is obtained by a more energetic demand.

Sequel of Visit of the Regiments.

Mr. A. P. Poussette, K.C., in The Times' authority for the statement that on behalf of his client, Alfred Kingscote, he has written a letter to Ald. J. J. Turner to the effect that by virtue of his relations to the contract with the city for the decorating of the streets on the occasion of the visit of the Brantford Rifles and the St. Catharines regiment, he has invalidated his position as alderman. In his letter Mr. Poussette stated that Ald. Turner had jeopardized his position on the council and asked him to resign. His client states that he will take the case to court if his demand is not complied with. The grounds of Mr. Kingscote's action is not alone confined to the case of May 24th. It is learned that an alderman who has any contract with the city through the council, invalidates his position.

Excursion Committee on the Printers' Picnic Their Various Duties

The Printers have taken to the water wagon. (Birds will eat dry crumbs when they can't get worms.) The water wagons were the biggest and the most noticeable bill boards that could be found, and the printers are using every possible means to tell the people about their picnic on Monday next.

The Typos have a good "string" of sports that day, and no one will kick for a lack of "sorts." In addition to the original program the "devil" will be along with a whole "hell" box full of "side sticks," "rollers" and "slabs" for the children, while a case—we mean a chase will be stowed away for dad

Another feature of the trip will be Arthur Rogers, the big-hearted Jumbo of the Examiner, and his Times automobile. Arthur has volunteered to give an exhibition of motoring in the air with a machine heavier than air. He will honk! honk! from the ship to the land and leave a bad smell beland. The result of this sensational, hair-raising dare devil feat will be awaited the world over with breathless impatience. It may be witnessed by all who go with the Printers to Idyl Wyld next Monday.

Mr. P. J. Kennedy the smiling night hawk on The Times will be there with lard in his hair and his ears pinned back. Jimmie will be in charge of the lunch baskets and those who know him best will ask no questions if anything is missing at dinner time.

Scotty Galbraith, the water wagon advocate has posted $1.00 as a forfeit to be collected by any two Union Printers who can beat him at his own game There are two at the Review who will accept the challenge and a special cage is being erected on the bow of the Otonabee in which this exhibition will take place. Do not miss it. Get on the boat early and get up near the front.

Danny Dobbin, an all-round athlete who counts "dupes" at the Review every Friday, is acting as sort of business manager of the baseball team. He has been in training for some time and is in pretty fair shape.

CharlieBrownlee and his cane rack —"6 for 5, or 20 for a dime"— is scheduled to amuse the youngsters, after they are beyond control of their parents.

The ladies are well provided for. Jack Thompson, that tall, sweet, handsome and inoffensive fellow on the Review, got that "take" off the "hook." He will direct the fair ones and no "revise" will be necessary. If the "job" is too heavy for Jack then Geordie Cairns is something of an artist, and may be called upon.

J. P. Canniff, the box maker, is chairman of the Reception Committee, and will personally greet each and every passenger as he or she goes over the gang plank at the wharf. Jim once worked in a boiler shop and has a bum ear, which will be turned on all who try to skin the Printers

Ernie Bartlett is the Handy Andy of the Union. He hates work but likes to boss a job, so he will run to and fro, picking up all the stray oars he can find. Ernest is the big curly-haired boy who plastered the signs on the water carts.

The above persons are the personnel of the Printers' Excursion Committee. Further particulars will be given tomorrow.

PRESENTATION TO

Miss H. Howson at Peterborough Business College.

Yesterday at noon before the students of the Peterborough Business College, adjourned for luncheon, they took advantage of the opportunity to make a presentation to Miss Helen Howson, teacher of stenography, who leaves on Friday for Calgary, Alta., where she has accepted a position with the Garbutt Business College. Miss Howson will be greatly missed by the students. By her patience and ever genial disposition she won the esteem of every one who attended the college and her place will be hard to fill.

An address was read by Miss Amy Lake and a beautiful gold ring was presented Miss Howson by Mr. Jas. Mather.

The address was as follows:

Dear Miss Howson:

We, the teachers and students of the P.B.C., have learned with much regret that you are about to severe your connection with the institution. Therefore, we take this opportunity of testifying to the high esteem in which you are held by us and we ask you to accept this small token of our high regard for you both as a teacher and a friend. Our relations have been of the most pleasant kind and we deeply regret that you are about to leave us, but we trust and hope that you will meet with the greatest measure of success in your new sphere of usefulness. We shall ever be pleased to hear of your success and trust that in the future we may often meet again.

Signed on behalf of the P.B.C.

Miss Howson made a suitable reply, thanking her friends for their kindness. She will leave on Friday for Sarnia, and from there by boat to Port Arthur, where she will visit Mrs. Pringle, formerly of Peterborough, before going to Calgary, where she commences her new duties on September first.

ABSOLUTELY NO TRUTH.

In Rumors re Burleigh Falls Power Lease.

To the Editor of The Times,

Dear Sir:—I have been told that statements have been made in the city of Peterborough that the Central Ontario Power Company's title to Burleigh Falls Power is a lease and that the city might get this cancelled and obtain the power from the Dominion Government.

I am well satisfied that no underhand work would be thought of by the Aldermen of Peterborough, but to allay all doubts I wish to distinctly say that the original title of the Company is a patent in fee simple from the Crown issued more than fifty years ago. An agreement was made since between the company and the Dominion Government for the use, by the Government of water for lockage purposes, and the use by the company of the dam at the head of the rapids for sixty years, including any rights that the Government might have.

This agreement was made between the Company and the Government in lieu of the company receiving cash damages for abstraction of water for canal purposes.

For instance the owners of the Nassau Power received some Twenty three thousand dollars cash damages for abstraction of water for canal purposes. The owners of Burleigh Power, instead, simply accepted the agreement of the Government to maintain the dam at the head of the rapids for sixty years and allow the Company the use of it.

The title of the Central Ontario Power Company Limited to Burleigh Falls Power is good against the Crown and all other persons just as good as the title to any piece of real estate in the city of Peterborough. The City Solicitor can easily verify this.

Appetite Gone---Nerves Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified in Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E. P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tired her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Waimore, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, biliousness and depressing headache. I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfected. For a good cleaning, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut—today—25c. at all dealers.

Pain anywhere stopped in twenty minutes sure with one of Dr. Shoops Pink Pain Tablets. The formula is on the 25-cent box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula! Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The laying out of the line for the new Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through British Columbia has verified many predictions and revealed new facts regarding the character of the character of the country. Inland from Prince Rupert some 200 miles, cuttained off from for ranching and dairying. The most interesting of these is the Bulkley Valley. The Bulkley River which empties into the Skeena River near Hazleton has a beautiful valley lightly timbered with an occasional cedar swamp but exceedingly fertile. Pea-Vine in this valley grows high enough to hide a horse. Cattle and horses are fed on an average of 90 days in the year here in this sheltered vale. There Mr. Thompson on Thompson River, are in the Bulkley Valley already established a number of ranches which are in reality experimental farms. a small stream flowing into the Bulkley, is an old Colorado ranchman and he declares this section is the most delightful in which he has ever lived. At the junction of the Maurie River the country is called Pleasant Valley and it is aptly named.

The little lakes that lie up among the hills are literally alive with fish and salmon run up the Bulkley to a distance of 360 miles from the sea. Mr. Barrett of Lake Barrett has a splendid ranch and is the owner of 150 head of mules. These ranchmen have experimented with wheat, oats, barley and almost every variety of fruit and vegetable and seem to be able to produce almost anything that grows even in the fruit valleys of southern British Columbia.

Another sure indication of the desirable character of the climate and soil is the presence of wild strawberries, blackberries, high and low bush blueberries, cranberries and many other varieties. Where berries grow wild as they do here it is easy to imagine what might be done by cultivation.

The ranching, stock-raising, dairying and agricultural possibilities of this section are sufficient to make it a most attractive territory but this is not all. The mineral prospects of the region round about are most encouraging. This is especially true of the Takana River district. In fact the whole territory tributary to [illegible] miles is good prospecting. Everything is here necessary to make a great country and [illegible] is an abundance of timber and coal.

Thousands Converted to "Dippers" Life

Cooneyites, a Sect That Despises Wordly Possessions, Held a Remarkable Revival in Toronto

Dublin, Aug. 6.—The third annual convention of "The Dippers," as the Cooneyite revival in progress at Ballinamallard, County Fermanagh, is called, presents strange scenes of religious enthusiasm. It is the belief of the sect that the millenium may be ushered in at any moment and prayer meetings are being held almost continuously.

John West, a well-to-do member of the sect, has placed his large house and grounds, Crocknacrieve, at Ballinamallard, at the disposal of the convention. The house accommodates one hundred persons and the other of the pilgrims utilize the outbuildings and the spacious marquee erected on the lawn for sleeping purposes. Over 2,000 pilgrims are attending the convention.

RISE WITH THE SUN.

The little colony is the realization of the idea of Simple self-supporting communial life and should go far to please a Tolstoi. Sunrise each morning find the encampment full of life and activity. All the pilgrims are dressed in coarse plain clothing. The men are unshaven and wear rubber collars; on the heads of the women are straw sailor hats.

All are busily engaged in manual labor or domestic duties—milking, butter making, cooking, sewing, boot making, carpentering, etc.,—everyone being assigned a daily task. Then follow intervals of devotional and baptisms. Energy is the keynote of the campaign.

Edward Cooney, the leader of the sect, is the son of an Enniskillen magistrate. He has a wonderful flow of language, and his sermons are interspersed with racy anecdotes. He easily holds his followers during his long discourses. He preaches on the unworthiness of all existing churches and the uselessness of worldly possessions. One of the favorite hymns of the sects concluded:

"Neither carry scrip nor raiment,
Neither shoes nor staves;
Walk unburdened thro' the deserts,
Through the waves.

"WHO WILL BE NEXT?"

The baptismal ceremony is performed in an adjacent stream running along the valley. The leader doffs his boots and wades into the water to the center of the stream. Then he gently lowers the convert backward until the entire body is immersed, after which the convert is assisted to the shore, while the pilgrims sing "Who will be next?"

No money collections are taken up Dinner and tea are given freely to all visitors to the convention, hog crowds of whom flock daily to see "The Dippers."

Many persons are being converted to the sect by the reason of the energetic sincerity of the campaign, and are promptly admitted to the brotherhood. The converts already number over 2,000. Thus far the convention has suffered no molestation. The pilgrims claim that they travel without money, earning their way by manual labor.

Five Hundred Men Search for the Missing Youngster

Earl Hines Disappeared as Completely as if Earth Swallowed Him—was at S. S. Picnic

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 6.—The little boy, Earl Hines, who wandered away Wednesday from the picnic grounds at Princess Lodge, once the residence of the Duke of Kent, about six miles from the city, has not yet been found, though hundreds of men have been searching the woods back of the lodge day and night.

Today about five hundred men were engaged in the search. They started off from the road in line, the men being only a few feet apart, and went into the woods, intending to proceed in that order as far as possible, probably to go a few miles back in the woods.

The party includes one hundred soldiers from the Canadian troops of the garrison, and a number of militia men, as well as citizens of Halifax, and residents of the village along the Bedford road, whereon Princess Lodge is situated looking out upon Bedford Basin.

A squad of city police searched continuously from Wednesday night until last night, and today another squad replaced them. Dogs were tried yesterday, but they were not blood hounds, and their scent seemed uncertain.

Last Call for the Big Event of the Year

Fire Chief Howard and Mr. Geo. Paxman, an ex-"comp," have both kindly donated a box of cigars as prizes to be competed for at the fellows, we'll smoke your good health. A cigar is always good. It's the only friend who will keep his mouth closed when you want to think.

There'll be music in the air. Joe Halpany the musician and entertainer, who has won much popularity in the city will be on board the Otona bee with his five-piece orchestra. Joe has got a "scoop" on the new music and he promises to exceed the "dead line" with a "modern series."

Mr. F. H. Dobbin, the king pin at the Review, has kindly donated a beautiful piece of Royal Nippon China, to be competed for by the married ladies at the Printers' Picnic. This race will be conducted "from the publishers' standpoint." The china is on exhibition in the China Hall Window.

The Printers will all put on a new "tympan" and wear a clean "draw sheet" as a good "impression" is necessary. Those not properly "made ready" will be placed on the "dead stone" to sort out the "pi" for the rest of the day, or if any are particularly "dirty" they will be "pulled" and "corrected" before being "locked in the chase and sent down."

Just before going to press a last minute despatch from the committee's headquarters announces that Sam Jamieson, the only original Peterborough skeleton will do a hundred yard dash unless his "form" drops down the "hoist."

"Thin-space" Mcland dropped an adv. just before "going down" and has since worn a "long primer" face. He will, however, be on the boat and do his juggling stunt with the "mallett" just the same.

Fire Chief Howard will not be able to go with the boys on Monday, but has promised to be ready with the hose and "wet down" the "double royal" for Tuesday's sheet.

See the "string" of races and prizes the Printers have "clipped" from the "exchanges."

The Steamer Otonabee leaves the Wolfe street wharf at 8 o'clock, and the street railway wharf at 8.30. Do not miss the boat as there is only one going down that day.

Walter Blythe is Well and Cheerful

Toronto, Aug. 6.—Rumor had it this morning that Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., had received a message from Ottawa, that conveyed sad news for Walter Blythe, the condemned murderer, now lying in the jail awaiting the result of the appeal in his case that is to be tried on September 20.

"Aot a word of truth in it," said Mr. Robinette, when seen by a reporter this morning.

"I don't expect to hear from the government until the minister of justice returns," continued he. "The case is to be reheard before the Court of Appeal about the middle of September, and I am busy collecting evidence now. The longer I work in this case the more hopeful I am of being successful of gaining my point.

"Have you seen Blythe lately?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, I was down there yesterday and he was looking extremely well, and seems to be feeling cheerful and happy. He is very hopeful, too, but of course, does not say much about it."

Spotters in Fear Spent Night in Jail

Cobalt, Aug. 6.—The way of the whisky informer is very hard in Cobalt, as two young men, Edward Leetz and Albert Liedkie, have found. Leetz, until a few days ago kept a "blind pig," and did a thriving business. He suddenly turned spotter, and in the last week has secured convictions of several men who carried wet goods on their hips or kept small "pigs" in the town, the fines netting the town and government nearly $1000.

As most of the men fined pleaded guilty, the spotters did not have to appear in court, and so kept their identity pretty well hidden until a couple of days ago. Since then they have been hounded by friends of the parties convicted to such an alarming extent that they were afraid to appear in court against a man named R. C. Pearce, Wednesday afternoon.

AUSTRALIA MAKES A NEW LAW.

Will Help Out the Women—Said to Work Well.

London, Aug. 5.—In certain parts of Australia, where adult franchise has been in force for some years, and where woman has an equal share with man in the election of representatives to attend the Legislature, they have overcome this great difficulty, namely, the manner of recording the ballot. They have provided that women may vote by mail from their own homes or at a Government office before the regular election days. This provision originally was made in the electoral law of Queensland, the northernmost state of Australia—when woman suffrage first was granted by the state— as a means of enabling women who lived at great distances from polling stations to record their votes; also to be taken advantage of by women who were ill and could not travel.

Mother of Late Lieutenant Sutton Promises A Most Interesting Story

Ferreting Into Mysterious Death of Lieut. James Sutton at Annapolis.

WAS HE MURDERED?

Witness May Reveal the Truth, Says Major Leonard, Member of Naval Court of Inquiry.

Annapolis, Aug. 6.—"Even if I were priveleged to talk as a layman I wouldn't want to hazard even a guess on the outcome of the investigation of the circumstances leading up to the death of Lieut. James Sutton," said Major Harry Leonard, judge advocate of the naval court of inquiry which has resumed its sittings at Annapolis. "We have yet to examine a number of witnesses, and the testimony of at least four of them may throw a different light on the case altogether."

Mrs. Sutton and her daughter Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker, are here. Mrs. Parker declined to discuss the rumor that E. H. Harriman is lending financial and moral support to the effort to clear the name of Lieut Sutton from the stigma of suicide. The Suttons themselves have considerable means.

Mrs. Sutton says she will present some of the most unusual testimony ever heard in a court room. It will include a recital of how she collected evidence from those who were with Lieut. Sutton at the time of his death. Mrs. Sutton is a woman of fine presence with a decided taste for the dramatic.

It is understood that Capt. Gibbon of the Marine Corps is to be associated with Capt. Arthur Brown and A. A. Birney, who have been representing Lieut. Adams, and Lieuts. Osterman, Bevan, Willing and Utley and Sergt De Hart will instruct the defence, if defence becomes necessary to the three attorneys.

From the officers' standpoint the testimony of Lieut. Utley is most important. The lieutenant has a number of points to clear up, for his name has figured in the testimony of practically every witness. He was on duty and senior in command when the fight occurred. The one point above all others that the court wants Utley to explain is the statement made by Private Kennedy who says he witnessed the fight from his sentry post, and who said that Utley told him next morning to say "nothing about it." That he knew anything was discovered by accident, as he says his mouth would have remained "shut" under Utley's orders.

A TIP TO MINISTERS.

Wealthy Parishioner Gives Preacher Farm for Short Sermons.

Pine Village, Ind., August 7.—Burgoyne Davis, a wealthy farmer and member of the Methodist Church at which the Rev J. M. Williams preached for four years, has made the minister a present of sixty acres of land, valued at $125 an acre.

Rev. Mr. Williams preached very short sermons, and it was because of this fact that Mr. Davis and his wife took such a liking to him. The deed states that the consideration of the land is the deference that Mr. Williams paid to the wishes of his parishioners by making his sermons short and to the point.

PREMIER GOING WEST.

Sir Wilfrid Asked to Lay Corner Stones.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is contemplating a trip to the West in a few weeks' time. He was received invitations from Premier Scott of Saskatchewan and Premier Rutherford of Alberta to lay the corner stones of the parliament buildings in the two new provinces, and so much pressure has been brought to bear upon him by both western Liberals and his own cabinet ministers that it is potsible he will accept the invitations.

$100 REWARD.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A GRUESOME STRIKE

GRAVE DIGGERS JOIN IN LABOR WAR.

Latest Incident in Swedish Labor War—Food Rapidly Becoming Scarce.

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 7.— The grave diggers employed in the northern cemetry struck yesterday in sympathy with the general strike movement.

The strike is by no means general in the provincial towns and industrial centres of Sweden. In most places the street cars are running and city employees are at work as usual. Work in a number of factories has been suspended, but this condition is not universal as have been reported.

The strikers total about 45,000 men, of whom 8,000 are at Malboa, but barring the fact that some factories are closed there is little change in the ordinary life of the port of Malmo. The loading of shipments at Gotheberg, where 10,000 men are on strike, is being done by the troops.

Food supplies is rapidly becoming scarce, when arachy is sure to ensue.

AN ATROCIOUS ACT.

Young Negro Tied Sister to Ladder and Beat Her to Death.

Halifax, Aug. 6.—Belated information has come to hand of the alleged atrocious act of a negro boy at Boyleston, near Guysboro. The lad is a son of Joseph Issett. The father and mother were away on a picnic on Thursday and upon returning home it is stated they found that the son, 13 or 14 years of age, had tied his little 6-year-old sister to a ladder and beaten her to death. The mother applied to the overseers of the poor for assistance to bury the child, and an order was given her to have this done.

Subsequently suspicion was aroused and the local authorities had the body disinterred and exhumed. Coroner Atwater held an inquest and Dr. Buckley, who made the autopsy testified as to the cause of death. The boy who is charged with the deed was arrested, while two brothers, one younger and another older, by a couple of years, are held as accomplices.

REQUEST NIGHT.

Immense Crowd at Band Concert in Victoria Park.

There was an immense crowd at Victoria Park last night. Practically the whole of the upper half was covered, while another thousand loitered or promenaded on the green below. It was an ideal night for sitting around the park, while the music was exceptionally good. It was a request program and every number was well received.

The program was given as follows:
March—Tipperary.
Overture—Zampa.
Intermezzo—Dublin Daisies.
Selection—Yankee Consul.
Oriental Sketch—Dervish Chorus in the Soudan.
Selection—The Explorers.
Scotch Selection—Gems of Scotland.
Descriptive—Forge in a Forest.

CANADA'S BIG BOOM

SEVENTY THOUSAND AMERICAN SETTLERS COMING.

A Conservative Estimate of the Number of Settlers Boomed for Canadian West.

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—A careful estimate has been prepared by the emigration people of the number of American Settlers which are likely to come into Canada this year, and the figure.

The United States settlers who have taken up land this year are of a very superior class. Many of them bring with them in the first instance a full farming equipment, including good horses and, in many instances, purebred stock. These United States farmers naturally bring with them methods, customs and practices which are not common in the older settled districts of the Dominion, but it is a matter of public knowledge that they quickly assimilate with those among whom they come to live. In so far as some of these settlers are professional homesteaders, it is doubtful if, in all its aspects, this United States invasion of the Canadian West is an unmixed blessing. Nevertheless, if the conservative estimate of 70,000 settlers be accepted, and, further, that each settler brought with him $1,000 the addition of the consequent $70,000,000 to the national wealth is well worth the attention of those who have the best interests of the West at heart.

BATTLEFIELDS COMMISSION.

May Have Powers Extended to All National Landmarks.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 7.— It is probable that the government will extend the powers of the national battlefields commission, appointed to take charge of the Champlain tercentenary celebration at Quebec and to convert the battlefields at Quebec into a national park, to include the whole work of preserving for the people of Canada the various sights of historic interest throughout the Dominion.

The commission now has about $4,000,000 on hand to apply to the further carrying out of the Quebec battlefields scheme, and already has secured deeds to a considerable portion of the lands required on the Plains of Abraham.

REFERS TO POWERS.

Jealous Chinaman Murders White Girl

Frankfort, Aug. 6.—The murder of a white woman by a Chinaman, somewhat similar to the murder of Elsie Sigel in New York last June, occurred in this city today.

Tien Yon, a Chinese merchant of Berlin, actuated by jealousy, shot Hildegard Hoffman, a music hall singer, and then turned his revolver on himself.

Both died within a few minutes.

Invaluable to Every Farmer

Its Wonderful Power in Curing Sick Cattle and Colicky Horses Makes "Nerviline" Worth Its Weight in Gold.

The stockman or farmer that doesn't know of the thousand and one uses of "Nerviline" around the stable, has a great deal to learn. "Why, I wouldn't think of locking my stable door at night without knowing I had a supply of Nerviline on hand. I always get a dozen bottles at a time from my druggist.

"To cure colic, in-
NERVILINE digestion and bad stomach in a horse or cow there is no
CURES remedy on earth in the same class as COLICKLY Nerviline. Last summer I had a $250
HORSES horse that got the scours, and I would have lost him if I hadn't been able to give him Nerviline. I poured a full bottle of Nerviline in a pint of water down his throat and saved his life. I know of neighbors who have saved many heads of valuable stock, stricken with colic, just by using Nerviline. It is equally good as a rub-on liniment, and I know from my experience that for man or beasts, internally or externally, Nerviline is worth a dollar a drop."

James E. McCullough,
Stock Breeder, etc.

You will not regret using Nerviline—but see you get it and not something else. 25c. per bottle; or five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont. 21

DR. ELIOT'S NEW RELIGION.

The ex-President of Harvard says we are to have a new religion. The first thought that arises in connection with this statement is that Dr. Eliot has a distinct advantage over the Apostle Paul, for he can send out his theories to all corners of the earth without having to leave his comfortable library in Charlestown. It took Paul the best part of a year to get from Tarshis to Rome, and he came near not getting there at all; but it was known all over the North American Continent the other morning that the learned Doctor had on the previous day made some observation as to a new religion.

Dr. Eliot's new religion may be defined as Christianity with Jewish traditions, Oriental imagery and mediaeval logic left out. It will square pretty well with the Sermon on the Mount, but he expresses his ideas in Twentieth Century language looks at things from the standpoint of modern philosophy and discards the logic of the' ecclesiastics of the Middle Ages. Hence of necessity he cuts himself loose from all previous dogma and fine-spun theories. In Dr. Eliot's religion the supernatural is to have no place, but probably if he were asked to define the supernatural, he would be compelled to take refuge in a cloud of words that would convey no definite meaning. In one sense of the word there can be nothing supernatural. Most people use the expression to signify that which they cannot understand or what appears uncanny or simply what is unusual. Dr. Eliot would hardly attach these meanings to it. We must be content to remain ignorant of just what he did mean. It may be that there are agencies of an occult character which determine human action, and we feel certain that Dr. Eliot would not dispute such a proposition

The ex-President says there will be no dogma in his new religion, and forthwith proceeds to dogmatize a little on his own account by telling us that there will be no such idea entertained that character can be changed quickly. In other words he does not permit the doctrine of conversion to have a place in the new system. With all respect to so distinguished a scholar, we venture the opinion that he is both unscientific and unphilosophical in such an opinion. Science and philosophy both require that theories should be in accordance with facts, and there are too many instances on record where character has been changed instantly to warrant any one in discarding such a possibility. No rational man contends that a man whose whole sentiments are debased and evil can in a single moment become pure and righteous; but surely Dr. Eliot will not contend that the direction of a man's course may not be altered in a moment. He will not assert that it is impossible for an evil man to "right about face" and mount upwards instead of continuing downwards.

The object of the new religion is to be "the development of the doctrine of co-operative good will." There is nothing specially new in that. Most of us had supposed Christianity to aim at this very object. But while we feel that to some extent Dr. Eliot must be convicted of phrase-making, we are in accord with him when he perceives in the tendency of religious thought today a trend towards simplicity. The day of elaborate doctrine is passing. Men are learning to look at Christianity through Twentieth Century glasses, and not through the distorting lenses of mediaevalism. The religion of the future will make little of beliefs and much of good works.

CANADIANS ALL.

The fact that the tide of Canadian emigration is turning towards our own Northwest was referred to by Hon. Frank Oliver, minister of the interior, in the course of an interview in old London recently. He pointed out that in every centre little or big, in the West the lawyer, the doctor, the preacher, the teacher the merchant, the banker, is almost always an Eastern Canadian and these are the people who largely direct public opinion. We used to lose our best people to the United States but now our own west is the attraction. All the governments of the prairie provinces are composed of Eastern Canadians. Of the representation of the provinces in the Dominion House of Commons all but three of the twenty-seven members are Eastern Canadians, two being British and one American-born.

Another point to be remembered is that the Government's first efforts in the way of obtaining immigrants from the United States were directed towards getting back some of our own people. It should also be taken into account that there are many Europeans who go through the same experience in the United States. These people have no particular loyalty to the republic. After the country of their birth they would be most loyal to the country that offered them the best opportunities. The American, who is especially enthusiastic about his country, does not, as a rule, leave it. The man who comes to Canada from the States is the immigrant who comes to better his condition. He comes here because of what we offer— good institutions, cheap land, low taxes, liberty, law and order. There is no reason why these people should not be loyal to Canada. Many nationalities are to be found in this Dominion, but the tendency of all is to become good Canadians. The fact that they must speak English in order that each such group may communicate with the other, tends to make them so.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Toward the end of this month the British Association for the Advancement of Science will hold its annual meeting. Winnipeg is to be the place. It may safely be said that a thousand or more scientists will come from across the Atlantic, and that they will be joined there by a large number of Americans and Canadians of similar interests.

The habit of migration seems to be fixing itself upon the British association in a manner nothing less than remarkable, considering the fact that financeal profits are in no way brought to the members and that the costs of their journeys are inevitably large in proportion to incomes. The first meeting away from the home soil was held in 1884 at Montreal. It was a great success, more, perhaps, because Canada made a huge effort to give the visitors the freedom of the country and show them how great the destiny of the Dominion appeared to be than because of strictly scientific purposes and achievements. No such visit was attempted again until 1897, when Toronto became the host. In 1905 the association went to British South Africa, and this year comes the turn of Winnipeg. The westward progression from Montreal through Toronto to Winnipeg may very probably be followed later by a visit to Vancouver, through not impossibly Australia or India will first assert claims to the honor.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use My Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are wrong, then but Dr Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

Them books also tell of a tiny hidden "inside nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power. No tonic, no nerve-quieting soothing or impulse.

Those books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell why the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails".

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to issue my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also what book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan—My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evidenthonesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

"FROM INKLETS"

Some time ago we heard a number of expert men at INK discussing the relative merits of the various brands of WRITING INKS, especially the Commercial and Mercantile sort, and the unanimous conclusion was that there was not a better INK for this purpose than KEARNS'. We suppose the KEARNS INK COMPANY could sell two or three times the present output provided they would permit the amount of their sales to take precedence over the quality of their INK, which they guard with the most jealous care. Food High at Stockholm

SUPPLIES ARE BECOMING EXHAUSTED AND FAMINE STARES PEOPLE IN THE FACE.

Stockholm, Aug. 6.—Stockholm today is suffering seriously from a shortage of food, which so far is the most notable result of the labor conflict that has reached its acute stage since the beginning of the week. Those who from lack of foresight or other reasons failed to layin a supply before the strike began are the worst sufferers. The stock of bread is at terms practically prohibitive, the restaurants have raised their prices for meals and the figures today are prohibitive except for persons possessed of ample means.

The strikers themselves are living practically upon fish. Some are in tents, but many are without shelter on the shores on Lake Malar, and the islands of the archipelago where they spend their time in angling.

The authorities have taken charge of the milk supply of the city and soldiers are distributing milk at the railway stations. The deliveries of ice have ceased. This is especially trying, as the weather is very hot. Paupers from the state poor houses have been enlisted to replace the striking grave diggers and undertakers, and instead of hearses stretchers are being used to convey corpses through the streets to the cemeteries. The funerals proceed under military escort.

The employes of gas works and electric plants have gone out on strike and as a result military guards have been placed over the establishments.

The authorities contend that this protection is necessary and assert that last night they frustrated an attempt to blow up the works with dynamite.

Agunboat has been stationed opposite the gas works and no boats are allowed to pass between it and the shore.

A battalion of grenadiers from Linkeping and a detachment of 200 men from the Nestergotland regiment have been ordered into Stockholm.

At Gotenbyrg work in all the slaughter houses have come to an end, and the general strike committee has issued orders on the railroad men and the printers to join the movement.

Yacht Exploded at Kingston

Kingston, Aug. 5.— Last night fire occurred in the motor yacht Emily, which was lying at government wharf, and William Little and Frank Woodrow sustained burns. They saved their lives by jumping overboard.

The young men were looking for a defect in the craft when the explosion occurred.

Little has experienced his second blow-up, as he was in the explosion on the Caprice several weeks ago The fire brigade was called out and speedily subdued the fire. The damage is not great.

Will Try To Reach The Southern Pole

Los Angles, Cal., Aug. 5.—Captain Howland V. Webster, who was appointed by the Royal Geographical Society to lead an expedition to the South Pole left here today for New London to prepare for the antartic trip, which will begin next August.

Notification came to Capt. Webster just as he reached San Francisco his 25th journey araund the world. Capt. Webster earned his title in the Soudan with Lord Kitchener. He served also in the Boer war.

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Ottawa from the Wolfe street wharf to Lindsay. The date is August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. This Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

Stealing a Ride But Got Nabbed

Dunkirk, Aug. 5.—The night ticket agent at the Lake Shore depot received a message from Detective Burch of Buffalo, late Wednesday evening stating that four men were riding on the head of the baggage car of train No. 8, and to notify the authorities here to arrest them. Officers Parsons, Quandt and Smorowski were at the station and as soon as the quartette caught sight of the blue coats they jumped from the rapidly moving train and started on a run down Beaver street with the officers in pursuit. After disregarding the command to halt several times the officers felt sure the men were thieves and sent a volley of shots over the heads of the fleeing men, who were finally captured near the lake front. When arraigned before Justice Kilburn yesterday the young men gave the names of Arthur Dentz, Charles Miller, Martin Turney and James Thalman all of Buffalo. Denz said he was a Buffalo barber and was on his way to Erie to look for work. Miller was a dentist's apprentice on a sight-seeing tour. Turney was traveling for his health, which had been impaired by working overtime in a restaurant, and Thalman was a bell hop in a club in Buffalo, who said he was on his way to West Virginia to see his mother who was very ill. After hearing their story the judge gave them some fatherly advice on jumping trains, and discharged the youths from custody.

TWO OF THEM.

I'm fond of Kitty and her cat.
She truly is a pearl—
I mean the kitten, but at that
I also mean the girl.
She is so shiny, sleek and fat—
The cat I mean—I love
To stroke her fur the while we chat—
The girl I'm speaking of.

I chat with one and with my hand
The other softly pat.
I trust that you can understand
What I am driving at.
She doesn't like to have me stroke
Her back—I mean the girl—
No, dare it; cat! Well, that's a joke.
My head is in a whirl.

I mean that Kitty doesn't care
To have me pat her kitten,
For when I'm with my Kitty there—
With her I'm sorely smitten—
I lean so close to pat her head—
The cat's—and talk to her—
I mean the girl—her cheeks grow red,
And she will loudly purr.

It is the cat that purs, you see.
I wish I could be clearer.
Now, Kitty's bashful as can be.
And I keep edging nearer,
But when she jumps upon my knee—
Of course I mean the kitten—
And Kitty runs away from me
I'm stung, not scratched nor bitten.

Presbyterian Leader Passes Away

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Rev. William MacLaren, ex-principal of Knox College, Toronto, died at his home, 57 St. George street, this morning at the age of 81.

His death marks the passibg of an other of the older men connected with the Presbyterian Church and the University of Toronto. Since he resigned from the position of Principal of Knox College, he has been living in the retirement necessary on account of his advanced years.

He was born in Torbolton, Ontario; educated at the Ottawa Grammar Schooli the Toronto Academy, and Knox College; and ordained as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Amhertsburg in 1853. He was afterwards successively pastor of Knox church, Boston, from 1851 to 1858; of Belleville church, from 1859 to 1870; and of Knox church, Ottawa from 1870 to 1873. In 1872, he was appointed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada to the chair of Systematic Theology, Knox College. Queen's University recognized his scholarship by conferring upon him the degree of D.D., in 1883.

Chinaman Has Young Couple Arrested

Toronto, Aug. 5.—As Policeman Brown stood at the corner of Yonge and Cottingham streets last evening an angry Chinaman rushed up and pointing excitedly at a young couple just passing, said that they had stolen some money from him. Whereupon the constable suggested that they go to No. 5 police station and tell it to the sergeant.

The young woman, Barbara Williams, or Hattie Delaney, as her names are had been working for the Celestial at his Richmond Hill laundry for some time, and the Chink had grown to love her, so he had offered her his heart and laundry. She evidently accepted, for the happy event was set for last evening, the marroage license was bought, and the mibister invited to be present. But Miss Delaney tried to keep two strings on her bow, it seems, for the young man arrested with her, whose name is Charles Henry, 168 Euclid avenue, had been calling for her pretty regularly of late. Then last night when the chink was out, Hattie, according to his story, skipped with $35 from the till. When he returned to the laundry and discovered everything gone, he got on his bicycle, chased the car Hattie had taken, caught it, saw Hattie and her young man inside, and followed them until he secured their arrest.

They will be tried by a county magistrate.

Senator Stone Was Justified

Baltimore, Aug. 5.—Declaring that in the circumstances the assault was justifiable, Police Magistrate Eugene Grannan of the Central district dismissed the charge against Senator William J. Stone of Missouri, of having assaulted Lawrence G. Brown, a waiter on a Pennsylvania railroad train.

Justice Grannan said: "Senator Stone, I have traveled a great deal in my time. I can fully appreciate the treatment you received at the hands of Brown, who, it has been shown, was discourteous in the extreme. I feel that you had sufficient provocation and that you were abused and striking Brown. I dismiss you."

The case grew out of an incident of the trip Tuesday of Senator Stone from Philadelphia to Washington, and which was interrupted at Union station when a policeman of the Pennsylvania railroad entered his car and placed him under arrest, sending him to the station house in the patrol wagon accompanied by Brown, who charged the senator with having assaulted him.

Fines in Owen Sound Exceeds $1,200

Owen Sound, Ont., Aug. 6.—Fines totalling $1,150 were collected yesterday from three hotels and one drug store as a result of a campaign by Chief Inspector John Ayerst's men. William Duncan and Donald McQueen, of the Dingan House, had two convictions each registered against them and were assessed $100 on each charge. Herb Wilkins, of the Central, and his barkeeper were assessed $250, one hundred on the first charge and $150 on the second. T. C. Hatton, druggist, pleaded guilty to two charges and was fined $200 on each charge, $400 and costs. John Corbet, of the Royal Hotel, contributed $100 on one charge. The costs were added in each case. A charge against Bert Howard, of the Parkerson House, was adjourned for one week. License Inspector Beckett assisted in the prosecution. The total amount in fines and costs will exceed $1,200.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroting the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WEALTHY POETS.

Bardship Does Not Always Mean Starvation.

That poetry is not so badly paid after all is proved by Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne's will, the probate of which was recently granted in London. His estate has been valued by the sole executor, Mr. Walter Theodore Watts-Dunton, at $121,000 gross, including personalty of the net value of $99,500. The whole of the property has been left to Mr. Watts-Dunton.

Tennyson left $286,000. He appointed his son his literary executor, and bequeathed to him all his manuscripts, literary works, and copyrights subject to the payment of the income therefrom to Lady Tennyson for her life. Lord Tennyson's estate of Aldworth, the Farringford estate, the manor of Priors, and the rest of his real estate were put under trustees for Lady Tennyson for her life. The copyrights of the late Poet Laureate's works were valuable, and Tennyson was paid by the publishers handsome sums for his poems.

Robert Browning, of whose will "A. Tennyson" and "F. T. Palgrave" were the attesting witnesses, left personality in England of the value of $83,000. The will was in Browning's own handwriting, with the initial letters of all the nouns substantive in capitals, after the old style. Victor Hugo, who, like Lord Tennyson, attained the age of eighty-three years, had personal estate in England to the amount of $460,000. Dr. Charles Mackay's property was valued at $13,000, and that of Eliza Cook at $10,000. Matthew Arnold's estate amounted to $5,000. His will, in his own handwriting, was one of the shortest that have ever come under probate. It was "I leave everything of which I die possessed to my wife, Frances Lucy." Mr. Frederick Locker-Lampson left $150,000. Mr. Coventry Patmore $43,000, and Mr. William Morris, who died in 1896, $225,000. In the last-named case, however, it is tolerably certain that poetry did not contribute a very large share of the total.

Medical Women in India.

A very strong presentment of a case for reorganization of the Countess of Dufferin's Fund for providing female medical aid to the women of India is contained in a report upon its working published in the journal of the Association of Medical Women in India. The criticisms are directed at the inefficiency of much of the present surgical and nursing service, at the management of women's hospitals by inexperienced local committees, at the misapplication of funds, and many material matters of administration in hospitals supported by the fund. As regards the first of these criticisms, considering the conditions under which medical women are appointed, it would be remarkable if the highest medical talent were attracted. The women doctors are badly paid, they have no chance of promotion, and no pension to look forward to, while even definite rules for leave are not in existence.

As regards the other points, a sufficient explanation is to be found in the fact that the fund is organised and controlled entirely by men, and the women doctors have practically no voice in the hundred and one questions upon which they alone are able to speak with any authority. Naturally, a civil surgeon or political agent cannot be in a position to report on the inner working and efficiency of a purdah or zenana hospital to which his sex prevents him having access, and yet that is the system now in force. What, in fact, is wanted is the appointment of fully qualified medical women to superintend and organise the whole work.

Universal Penny Postage.

"I hope the day may not be far distant when any inhabitant of our planet—white, black, or yellow—may be enabled for the sum of one penny to communicate with any other at the lowest possible rate and the highest attainable speed." Such is the avowed ideal of Mr. John Henniker Heaton, who celebrated his sixty-first birthday recently. Amongst the most notable reforms which Mr. Heaton has brought about might be mentioned the Imperial Penny Postage scheme and the introduction of Anglo-American Penny Postage. He also introduced telegraph money orders in England, as well as parcel post to France. Mr. Heaton is a self-made man who went out to Australia in his teens and took a post as clerk in a country store.

A Man of Many Titles.

The Duke of Abercorn, who, as chairman of the West London Hospital, has made a special appeal for help on behalf of a girl who lost both arms in a tramway accident, is a nobleman who holds the proud distinction of possessing a peerage in each of the three kingdoms, and is further distinguished by being the Duke of Chatelherault in France. In Ireland the duke has a marquessate, a viscounty, and three baronies, and an earldom, six baronies, and a baronetcy in Scotland. The Duchess of Abercorn, by the way, is in the dairy business. At her Irish home she runs a model dairy on practical lines, supplying several large Belfast firms with butter and cream.

Who Watched the Archdeacon?

No man has a greater love for animals than Archdeacon Wilberforce, whose wife died a few days ago, and it was while speaking at a meeting of Our Dumb Friends' League that he told an amusing story of the days of his youth. He and a few chums escaped from school, and saw Blink Bonny, whom they each backed for 5s. win the Derby. The horse won at 20 to 1. "It ran as no other horse ran before," said the archdeacon, when telling the story, "but the bookmaker who had our money ran a good deal faster."

Manitoba Crop Acreage.

The Manitoba Government Bureau of Statistics estimate the increased crop acreage of 648,370. The estimates are: Wheat, 3,912,627 acres; oats, 2,193,416; barley, 228,563; flax, 293,333

WHEN RAIN IS COMING.

Weather Changes Foretold by Birds, Frogs and Insects.

Those who live by the coast do not want a better weather sign than the sea gulls, which in the various winds that will bring the rain collect in big flocks and gather in the fields or circle high over the land, wheeling and screaming uneasily. They will not come in on a false alarm, and none need fear they will make a mistake.

As long as frogs remain yellow in color nothing but fine weather may be expected. Should, however, their coats begin to assume a brown hue it is a sign that bad weather will shortly arrive. A good frog barometer may be made by keeping two of them in a large glass bowl filled with water and furnished with small wooden ladders. As long as the frogs keep at the bottom of the vessel sunny days will continue, but if they climb up to the top of the ladder there is a storm coming.

A spider spinning its web is a sign of fine days. If in the morning a day's excursion may be taken without fear of summer costumes becoming spoiled by the wet, and if in the evening then at least the whole of the night and the following morning will be fine.

If it is raining and the owl screeches a change for the better in the weather will shortly ensue, but should the peacock screech bad weather is to come or continue.

Snails are also valuable weather prophets. As long as they are to be seen jogging along in the orthodox manner fine weather may be confidently looked forward to. If there is rain in the atmosphere the snails may be seen to seek shelter up the stems of trees and shrubs, under leaves and, in fact, anywhere where they can be safely out of the wet. Only when all immediate danger of a recurrence of rain is over will they emerge again.

THE SMALLEST LOAF.

Story of a Generous Baker and a Modest Little Girl.

There once lived an old baker who was very fond of children. Often he would plan pleasant surprises for them. One day he invited a large number of girls and boys to come to his bakery shop. To each child as he walked down the street the old baker said, "Well, my child, can you come to my bakery at 4 o'clock?"

At 4 o'clock a large crowd had gathered. The children felt sure he had some pleasant surprise for them. They were not disappointed, for there was a large basket filled with nice, fresh loaves of bread. How the children pushed and scrambled for them!

Among the crowd was a little girl. She was so small that she did not wish to scramble into the crowd, but stood quietly aside. After the children had each snatched a loaf and run gleefully away she stepped up to the basket and took the first loaf. It was very small.

She thanked the baker and ran home with it. When she cut it out fell a brand new gold piece. Thinking there had been a mistake, she ran back to tell the baker.

"No," said the baker, "there is no mistake. I put it into the smallest loaf. It is yours."

Hand Washing.

"Let's go to swim," said this white duck.
"I've dust on every feather."
"I'm dingy, too," said this white duck.
"Let's go to swim together."
They found a pool of water near
And soon were playing in it.

They floated, dived and swam about,
Enjoying every minute.
"Now I am clean," said this white duck.
"I've not a dusty feather."
"And I'm clean, too," said this white duck.
"Let's go ashore together."

A Splendid Find.

One day in the year 1858 as the gold seekers at Ballarat hill, Ballarat, in Australia, were pursuing their usual tasks one of their number unearthed from the gravel in which he was digging a nugget of the precious metal. So heavy was it that his unaided efforts were not enough to clear it from its surroundings, and when at last this was done few could believe that the "find" was not a dream. Never before had any gold mine yielded such a treasure, for when carried to the scales it was found to weigh 2,217 ounces 16 pennyweights. It realised $52,500 and is known in the history of mining as the "Welcome Nugget."

Can See Without Eyes.

To be "blind as a bat" is not to be very blind, after all. It can have the eyes removed and "see" to fly as well as before. It can dodge around a corner and avoid all obstacles in its flight. It guides itself by some sixth sense that warns it of obstructions.

Contentment.

Who lives for love must never mourn,
Who lives for gain must rest forsook,
Who lives for power must trample hope,
Who lives for fame chokes all for luck,
Blest there are they who toil all day
And sleep the sleep of
Just

Unnatural History.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be fruitful and full of affright,
While a rabbit is weak and is eaten at night.

ARREST AN ARCH FIEND.

How the British Troops Followed and Caught Surajah Dowlah.

The loss of Calcutta and the hideous tragedy of the Black Hole were no sooner reported in Madras than an English expedition was despatched under Colonel Clive to recover the captured fortress and avenge the crime perpetrated on the unfortunate garrison. In the hostilities that followed, Clive defeated the forces of the guilty nabob, Surajah Dowlah, on the plains of Plassy, and regained Calcutta, while the conquered prince fled in trepidation back to his capital of Moorshedabad, being the first to bear to his subjects there the news of his own disgrace. The royal fugitive was, however, followed up by the English in conjunction with Meer Jaffier, a native chief, who now became the recognised nabob in place of the fallen ruler of Bengal. The deposed prince held a council with his advisers about midnight after the battle, and there refused all advice to surrender, expressing his determination to proceed further up the river to Patna, where, through the fidelity of the governor, he expected to find safety.

Accordingly, he disguised himself in humble garb, and with a favorite wife and one attendant, who carried a casket of his most precious jewels, he boarded a barge and set out. Arriving at Rajemahl, a good distance from the starting-point, his boatmen insisted upon resting for the night after their exertions, and the exnabob sought concealment in a deserted garden. In the morning, however, a man of low caste, whose ears the prince, in a fit of rage, had formerly caused to be cut off, discovered him, and in revenge betrayed the presence of the enemy to a brother of Meer Jaffier.

A band of the new nabob's soldiers at once hastened to the vicinity to seize their prey, and surrounded and arrested Surajah Dowlah while still in the garden. The captors then conveyed their prisoner back to the capital, subjecting him during the passage to every species of indignity. Arriving there, the wretched prince was dragged like a felon into the palace he had so lately occupied with all the pomp of eastern royalty, and Meer Jaffier at once gave orders that the captive be withdrawn while the council deliberated on his fate.

Some recommended clemency, others, among them his son Meeran, a mere youth, urged the safe expedient of instant death. The new nabob hesitated, and in the meantime, Meeran persuaded him to retire and leave the care of the prisoner to his hands. With some presentiment of what would follow, the nabob yielded, and Meeran lost no time in sending a band of assassins to the apartments of the captive. The latter met his fate with weak and abject lamentations, and his remains were a little later borne through the streets upon an elephant, an act which served to reduce his servile followers to implicit obedience to Meer Jaffier, behind whom was the might of a power which later established the Indian Empire under British rule.

The Prize Puzzle of the House.

So Sir John Gorst, who recently surrendered a pension of $6,000, has been described, on account of his independent political views. In fact, it was said, when he cut himself off from the Primrose League, of which he was a trustee, no one but himself could understand them. Be that as it may, Sir John has proved himself a clever and successful politician, and has filled many offices. At one time it appeared as though he would some day be a bishop in New Zealand; he was one of several young Cambridge graduates who enlisted with Bishop Selwyn and went out to New Zealand to help in the evangelisation of the Maoris. He edited a paper in the interests of the natives called "The Lone Sparrow on the Housetop," but it only ran for six numbers. The Maoris wanted bullets. They had no lead, so they raided the office, stole the type, and melted it down.

When Bathing Was Rare.

In some old English court memoirs of the eighteenth century it is stated that when George IV. was a baby he was bathed only once a fortnight. That was thought to be plenty often enough in those days for a child to be washed. When one of George's little sisters had measles the royal mother gave most careful instructions that the child's linen was not to be changed too soon, as she feared that some careless attendant would clothe it in garments insufficiently aired and so "drive in the rash." In those days people were much afraid of clean linen and bathing. It was believed the complete bodily ablutions were weakening, yet prince, peer and peasant alike called in at every ailment the doctors of the period, who bled them into a state of weakness and sometimes death.

"The Surrey Poet."

At the moment thousands of cricket followers are wishing Mr. Walter Craig, "the Surrey Poet," a speedy recovery from a serious illness. Craig is the man whose rhymes on cricket and football, and the men who play the games, have sold by the million. His witticisms are famous. At Lord's one day, after a short speech to a group of spectators, who were being told of the literary gems he was willing to dispose of for one penny, a coarse-witted listener shouted out "Liar!" "Yes," said Craig, "there are two of us, and the man who lies for nothing is a fool. I make money by it." "Good old Craig!" remarked a listener; "he always gets his own back."

So It Would Seem.

They were talking about silverware down at the general store the other day. Farmer Bellows said he thought this firm turned out more silverware than any other, and some of the rest disagreed with him. It was Farmer Stubbs settled it.

"Seems teh me," said Farmer Stubbs, "these here Sterling people do a lot o' business Yeh see their name on most everything."

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas bloating, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realise the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Druggists.

Warriors from Europe

An enterprising American in the Western States has trained his ducks to eat his potato bugs. He starves the former for a few days, and then throws them a few bugs. They are reluctant to eat them; but present ly hunger conquers their fastidiousness, and in a week they have grown to like the new diet. Then the ducks are turned loose among the potato plants, which they clear of parasites far more certainly and speedily than would doses of Paris green. Whether the plan invented by the Westerner will become the Solution of the potato bug pest or not, it is to be said that he is working on sound scientific lines when he trains one animate object to destroy another that is less useful to man. Just at present a series of important experiments is going forward at a laboratory near Boston, where a Federal entomologist, co-operating with the Massachusetts authorities, is breeding parasites of the gipsy and brown-tailed moths for distribution in different parts of the United States where these moths have become a veritable curse of vegetation

MOTHS AND THEIR DESTRUCTION.

It is estimated that these two moths have cost the farmers in the United States billions of dollars. Every green thing is food for them, and they are hardly less destructive than a plague of locusts, or a swarm of army ants. Even great trees fall before their attack, and in some parts of the United States, notably in Massachusetts, they would make the growth of vegetation an impossibility were it not that hundreds of thousands of dollars a year have been spent in attempts to exterminate them. But spraying, however industriously and thoroughly carried out, has not coped with the situation. Some other plan of campaign had to be devised; and the scientists at Washington turned their attention to the parasites of the moths. Their observations revealed the apparently astonishing fact that the brown-tailed and gipsy moths had not "little bugs upon their back to bite 'em." They were free from parasites; and thus the mystery of their alarming increase in numbers was understood.

THE WARRIORS FROM EUROPE

Fortunately for the crops of the Eastern States, the moths are not indigenuous to this continent. They were imported, accidentally, of course, from Europe. An investigation was then set on foot to find out why in Europe there was not a scourge of the moths. It was learned from the entomologists there that in Europe the moths were kept in abeyance by their parasites. Occasionally they develop alarmingly, and then it is found that, for some reason, their parasites have been held in check. The balance is soon restored by artificially assisting their foes. Generally speaking, therefore, the brown-tailed and gipsy moths in Europe are no more of a problem there than are black snakes in Ontario. It is evident that for some inexplicable reason the originally imported moths were free from parasites; or else that the parasites failed to as quickly adapt themselves to their new environment.

The latter hypothesis is made untenable from the fact that in the past couple of years, since the parasites have been imported to renew their conflict with their natural rapidly than their involuntary hosts. prey, they have multiplied even more rapidly than their involuntary hosts. They thrive just as well as the moths and partake of the latter just as heartily as did their ancestors years ago in Germany of France, There is every hope, therefore, that in a few years the natural balance between the moths and their foes will have been restored. The parasites are of three or four kinds. One is a beetle whose eggs are laid in the earth near trees, infested by the caterpillars that will presently change into gipsy moths. As soon as the beetle's larvae are hatched, they climb the tree and attack their prey, they being strong enough at this stage to master even full grown specimens. A few weeks later the larvae enter the earth, to emerge as full fledged beetles. In this character they wage incessant war upon the young gipsies during the several years of their life.

A true parasite of the moths is a tiny fly, which attacks the brown-tailed caterpillar in the Autumn, by laying its eggs in the body of its ultimate victim. When they hatch, the maggots devour the caterpillar and then develop into flies, which repeat the process. Another deadly foe of the moths is a fly, not unlike an ordinary house fly in appearance which lays its innumerable eggs upon the trees where the caterpillars by the caterpillars with the rest of are feeding. The eggs are swallowed the salad, and soon hatch inside the body of the embryo moths, which they then feed upon and destroy. The fecundity of this fly is in excess of that of the moth itself. Still another friend of mankind is a fungus growth that propagates in the body of the caterpillar, which it attacks and quickly kills. Within a week of the time it infects the insect the fungus ripens and discharges a great number of minute spores, or seeds, which are shot violently into the air and are scattered over a considerable distance.

Centenary of Alfred Tennyson

On Friday the centenary of Alfred Tennyson will be celebrated; and we may be sure that in a year illustrious for its centenaries, its bicentenaries and its tercentenaries, the memory of no more illustrious name will be recalled than that of Tennyson! It is more than fifty years since his poems became standard works where ever the English language is spoken and the lances of a thousand criticisms have been shivered against them in vain. Since criticism too often concerns itself with externals, there is no reason to suppose that in another hundred years the fame of Tennyson will not be as great as it is today; for the work of no writer of prose or poetry in all our literature is freer from technical flaws than such poems as "In Memoriam" or the "Idylls of the King." It has been said that Tennyson did not reach down as deeply to the heart of things as some other great poets; and that he was always an aristocrat who had little sympathy with the lot of the masses. It is true that he was not a Burns, who followed the plow. Nor was there anything of Byronic passion and feeling about him; but if Tennyson's poetry could satisfy philosophers like Wordsworth and Carlyle it ought to be deep enough for most people.

WORDSWORTH AND CARLYLE

It has been related by Aubrey de Vere, the Irish poet; that once he visited Wordsworth, and recited to the old Laureate those lines of Tennyson beginning.

"Of old sat Freedom on the heights"

Wordsworth listened with deepening attention, and finally said, "I must acknowledge that these poems are very solid and noble in thought. Their diction also seems singularly stately." Carlyle, who was one of Tennyson's intimate friends, and at first tried to persuade the young man to stick to prose, wrote to him as follows: "I have just been reading your poems; I have read certain of them over again, and mean to read them over and over again until they become my poems.....Truly, it is long sines in any English book, poetry or prose, I have felt the pulse of a real man's heart as I do in this same." Edward Fitzgerald, whose translation of Omar Khayyam is probably as beautiful a piece of work as anything that ever left Tennyson's hand, predicted in 1842, before Tennyson's great poems had appeared: "He will publish such a volume as has never been published since the days of Keats, and which, one published, will never be suffered to die."

COLERIDGE AND KIPLING

At variance with these eulogies, and ludicrously falsified by after events, was the opinion expressed by Coleridge. In 1827 Alfred and his brother Charles issued a slim volume of verse entitled, "Poems, by Two Brothers," and reading it Coleridge observed that only the poems signed "C. F." gave promise of a coming poet. Of course, Coleridge did not have much data on which to form an opinion of Alfred Tennyson's greatness; but the incident illustrates the grave peril of even an insignificant prophecy. That was a prettily turned compliment that Kipling offered Tennyson when, in the full blaze of the Poet Laureate's glory, he wrote a kindly note of encouragement to the young Anglo-Indian versifier, who was just beginning to be heard piping at intervals In answer to Tennyson, Kipling said "When the private in the ranks is praised by the General he cannot presume to thank him; but he fights the better next day."

TENNYSON'S MUSIC.

Perhaps the most remarkable tribute ever paid to the wonderful music of Tennyson's verse was that of a Japanese poet, an old man of eighty who asked an English visitor, as a great favor, to read to him from a copy of "In Memoriam," which the Japanese poet produced. The visitor complied, and then the old fellow thanked him, saying that although he did not understand English, "the music speaks to me, and the great poet in England talks to me across the waters." William Watson's lines on Tennyson have been compared with Shelley's lament on Keats:

Yea, I beheld thee, and behold thee yet;
Thou hast forgotten, but can I forget?
The accents of thy pure and sovereign tongue,
Are they not over goldenly impressed
On memory's palimpsest?
I see the wizard locks like night that hung,
I tread the floor thy hallowing feet have trod;
I see the hands a nation's lyre that strung,
The eyes that looked through life and gazed on God.

Tennyson's whole life stands as a refutation of the theory that poets must almost of necessity be men of convivial habits, childishly impractical, and somewhat above conventions of morality. There are no shady episodes in his career that have to be ignored or explained away by his biographers. It is true that he lost the savings of his early years in an unsuccessful invention; but he did not sink into chronic impecuniosity, although a Government pension of £900 came in very handy for some years. However, he knew little or nothing of that squalid struggle with poverty that has overwhelmed so many other geniuses in the history of the world's art and literature; and when he accepted a peerage, in 1883, Tennyson was financially able to sustain its traditions. It is not the least pleasing of the reflections incident to the occasion that his sons are preserving immaculate the great name that they have inherited.

Got a Fish.

Ald. Buller reports having caught a 15-pound lunge in the Otonabee river. If the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee would go up to Burleigh he could catch bigger ones than that. The power to pull them out is also at Burleigh waiting for him.

Accident at C.G.E.

A somewhat serious accident happened yesterday morning at the C.A.E. works, and as a result Miss Lily Stocker will be confined to her home for some time to come. One of the electric fans in the office stopped working and Miss Stocker undertook to set it in action again. Unfortunately the fan started to move when altogether unexpected, and as a result it cut a rather painful gash in Miss Stocker's hand. Dr. Young was called and dressed the wound, and it is now doing as nicely as could be expected.

Open Air Services.

Owing to the construction work going on at the Barracks, the Salvation Army will devote themselves entirely to open air services until the 16th inst., except for the regular Sunday services, which will be held, as usual in the hall. After the 16th the Army will occupy the evangelistic tent on George street until the hall is put in commission again.

Girls Have a Scrap.

An incident that caused quite an excitement occurred on Robinson street yesterday at noon, when a number of girls were returning from their work at the Quaker Oats Co. Two of them got into an argument that finally resulted in a fistic encounter. They became so angry that they pulled each other's hair, and fine creations that are much worn in the hair by ladies were seen flying in all directions. Their clothes became torn in the melee and they fought like demons. Several witnessed the scuffle and were greatly amused. No injury was done save that both girls were pretty much ruffled in their appearances.

"There's a Reason"

SAYS THIS MEDICINE HAS MYSTIC POWERS.

Will Assist Anyone in Weak, Pale, Nervous Condition to Robust Hearty Health.

It's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged

If you've reached this state read what J. W. Jervell, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health tired. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, late and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills—They possess magic powers surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—comprised from the storehouse of Nature to the form of vegetable juices and extracts,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which revitalize delicate glands, search out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficient aid that comes from this king of all tonics. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills today. 25c, 25c. box today. At all dealers.

Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

The interest in the mountain districts that are being opened up by the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is becoming keen to the Alpine climber and the lover of adventure.

Mr. L. Stennett Amery of all Souls College, Oxford, England, was a visitor at the Grand Trunk Pacific Offices yesterday en route to the Yellowhead Pass via Edmonton and the new Transcontinental survey route, for the purpose of exploring the mountains in that locality and with the principal object of making the ascent to Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies and the highest mountain in Canada. Mr. Amery's party consists of five members including a Swiss Guide and the party will be joined at Edmonton by Mr. Amery's brother, who is coming directly from South Africa for the purpose of making this trip.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. 84.

TWO GAMES TODAY.

Strathconas Play P.A.C. at Two O'clock—West Ends and T.A.S. at 3.30.

It is reported that Park street and the T.A.S. teams are suffering from an attack of nervousness on account of the City League games at the Oval this afternoon Both are aware that a great deal depends upon the outcome of the contests. Should the Strathconas win from the Baptists in the first game, the latter's show of winning the league will be considerably lessened, especially if the T.A.S. take a fall out of the West Ends, which by the way, the Abstainers are confident of doing. Both exhibitions should be interesting and there will no doubt be a large number of fans at the oval to cheer and encourage their favorite teams.

BOAT TRIP TO LINDSAY.

On August 10th steamer Otonabee will run from Peterboro'to Lindsay, leaving Wolfe street wharf at seven a.m. Passengers may return by train in the evening. Round trip $1.00.

Horse Broke Loose

At midnight standing alone on Hunter street, two young men were surprised to see a horse attached to a buggy coming down George street without a driver. The night hawks ran out and stopped the animal and took it to the police station and from there to a livery stable where it was taken care of. Where it came from is not known, probably from Nassau, where a dance was held last night. Judging from the appearance of the harness the horse had evidently been tied to a post with the rein, as that part of the harness was broken close to the bit. The owner may get his horse and buggy at the livery barn.

Special Train

A special train from Cobourg arrived at the G.T.R. station last night about midnight with the sports who had been down at the regatta. There were eight coaches. After unloading the Peterborough contingent the train proceeded to Campbellford. One of those who had seen the regatta said that he never saw so many handsome craft in his life before. He estimated that a thousand yachtsmen were there and nearly as many yachts. There is a big time at Cobourg and the regatta has been a huge success.

MATRICULATION CANDIDATES.

List of Junior Passes in Recent Examinations.

The following list contains the names of two classes of candidates—

1. Those who have written upon and fulfilled the requirements of the University of Toronto in a sufficient number of subjects for complete pass junior matriculation.

2. Those who have written upon one or more papers or part papers of this examination and have obtained 40 per cent. on each paper written.

Matriculation candidates who also wrote on the Normal Entrance examination, in whole or in part, should note that the fact of their names appearing in this list indicates only that they passed on the actual matriculation papers taken.

The matriculation value of the standing obtained on the Normal entrance examination can be ascertained only by presenting the certificate of standing to the registrar of the university or college concerned.

The certificate containing the mark will be sent to the principals of the Collegiate schools in about a week. Candidates will apply to these officials, not to the department, for their reports in detail.

The names of the successful candidates are; W. Adamson, M. Anderson, T. J. Campbell, E. Corkery, C. A. Dean, H. F. Elliott, J. A. Eyres D. Fessendea, E. Fitzgerald, W. T. Fortye, B. Gerratt, J. M. The C.P.R. Earnings.

The following statement is issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company:—Gross earnings for June, $6,550,154; working expenses, $4,661,729; net profits, $1,688,425. In June 1908, the net profits were $1,675,406, and for the twelve months ended June 30, 1909, the figures are as follows:—Gross earnings, $76,313,321; working expenses, $53,357,748; net profits, $22,955,573. For the twelve months ended June 30, 1908, there was a net profit of $21,792,866. And for the twelve months ended June 30, there was an increase of $1,163,207.

OILING THE STREETS.

Is Becoming Popular With City Councils in Ontario.

In Thursday's issue The Times gave Dr. Sheard's opinion of street sprinkling with oil which has been adopted with much satisfaction in Toronto. Now it appears that the city engineer of Ottawa, has become an advocate and will recommend the council of the Capital to give it a trial. Peterborough's aldermen have been giving the new scheme some thought and it is expected that at the next council meeting there will be a report on the subject. It costs the city several thousand dollars yearly to lay the dust, and if oil is as cheap or gives greater satisfaction it will pay the city fathers to adopt it.

TOO MUCH DELAY.

Council is Very Backward in Dealing With Burleigh Falls.

Since the council succeeded in securing an extension of one month to their option on Burleigh Falls power, the question has been allowed to die. Not a thing has been heard of it and there is no explanation of the delay. If any of the aldermen have anything up their sleeve the people want to know it. There has been too much delay in municipal business lately and especially where large and important questions are concerned.

The people want electric power and they want to know how much it will cost to develop it and how much power is available. The aldermen need not fear to proceed that far. This information must be secured no matter whether the Dominion Government can present the power to the city or not. After the information is forthcoming it will not take the people long in deciding what is best to be done. The people are responsible for all the things they vote on. Therefore further delay is quite unnecessary.

AN EXAMINATION OF THOSE DESIRING to qualify as Cullers to measure timber cut on Crown Lands, will be held at North Bay and Kenora on August 25th, at Arnprior on August 27th, and at Thessalon on August 30th next, respectively.

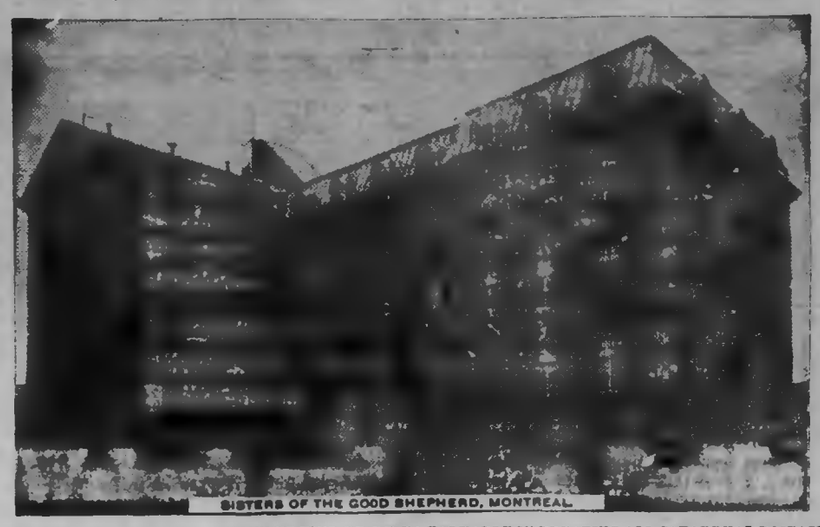
PROMINENT HOSPITALS SAY

PE-RU-NA IS EFFICIENT

IN RELIEVING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.



SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, MONTREAL.

HOSPITALS ALL OVER THE CONTINENT FIND PE-RU-NA VALUABLE IN TREATING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES

CATARRH of the respiratory organs is a common ailment in Canada for at least two-thirds of the year

This condition is no doubt caused by the long, severe winters experienced in this part of the continent.

Therefore, when Peruna was discovered by Canadian people to be a reliable remedy for these catarrhal diseases, it at once became a popular medicine, not only among individuals and in families but in the great hospitals, where it was used as a preventive and relief in hundreds of cases.

These institutions do not hesitate to give their endorsement of the remedy which has been so helpful in the treatment of their poor and sick.

Among these institutions is that of the Sisters of Good Shepherd, who gave the following endorsement:

The Peruna Company,
Columbus, Ohio,

Having used Peruna for the past few months, for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd,
August 30, 1903. Montreal.

After a continued use of the remedy, this institution has found no reason to change its good opinion of the remedy and expresses its satisfaction in the following terms:

Montreal, Nov. 7, 1903.

We found Peruna a relief in several cases.

We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful.

Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

When catarrh once fastens itself upon the system it becomes an obstinate disease to eradicate.

A systemic remedy—one that reaches every internal organ of the body—is an absolute necessity.

Peruna is just such a remedy. It searches out the cause of the disease, healing and strengthening the mucous membranes, and thus giving Nature an opportunity to perform her part of the restorative process.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital St. John, who write as follows:

"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old Renoul Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

"A young girl, 15 years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

"Before the treatment I could not walk for a quarter of an hour without experiencing much fatigue. Now I can walk a mile easily.

"Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy."

Hospital St. John, of St. Johns, Province of Quebec.

A later letter received from the same institution reads as follows:

"Three weeks ago I wrote to tell you how satisfactory we found Peruna. We recommend it highly for colds, coughs, catarrh and neuralgia.

"I have used it myself as a tonic with the best results, taken as directed, half a teaspoonful every half hour."

Mrs. Etta Booker, Dundurn, Sask., N. W. T., Canada, writes:

"I suffered with internal catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised, I can say I am now cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I think Peruna the best medicine for catarrh. I never felt better in my life than I do at present."

Peruna not only promptly relieves coughs and colds in their first stages, but is equally prompt and efficient for catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage.

Of course, it is only reasonable to suppose that a great deal less medicine will be necessary to cure a slight attack of catarrh than would be required to relieve the ailment after it had been allowed to become chronic.

Mrs. G. H. Williamson Died Very Suddenly from Heart Failure

At midnight on Saturday night death removed from this city one of its brightest young women in the person of Mrs. Geo. H. Williamson. The deceased was in the best of health and on Saturday did the marketing for the household. It was not until just before her death that the family knew that anything was wrong, and then it was too late to be of much assistance to the stricken one. Mrs. Williamson was the daughter of Mrs. J. Coyle Brown, and the wife of Mr. Geo. H. William son, formerly secretary of the Y.M. C.A., here, but now of Port Arthur She was 34 years of age and was born in Norwood, where she resided until moving to Peterborough in 1888 with Mr. and Mrs. Brown with whom she has always lived.

The deceased was brought up a member of the Presbyterian Church. but after her marriage she went with her husband to the Methodist church. She was always an active christian worker and had a very large circle of friends and admirers to whom the announcement of her death came as a great shock.

Besides a mother and husband, the deceased is survived by one son, Andrew, and one brother, Dr. J. Patterson, of Adanac, Sask., and to them is extended the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

The funeral will probably be held on Tuesday, andtheremainstaken to on Tuesday, and the remains will be taken to Norwood for interment.

Mix-Up in the City League Only One Game Played

There is a screw loose or a cog has dropped out in the City Senior Baseball League, and unless the management wants to make a monkey of the thing they had better get down to business. For two weeks or more there have been disagreements between the different teams over officials, and on Saturday after noon the thing came to a head. The T.A.S. and West Ends gave an exhibition of child's play when they refused to play with the officials they themselves chose. Each team went out on the field and threw three balls over the plate, and then claimed the game by default.

At the beginning of the season Dan McCabe was appointed the official umpire for the season. He officiated at the games until a couple of weeks ago, and why any change was made is hard to understand. He always gave the best of satisfaction and his decisions were taken as final He should continue the work and it is up to the president of the league to get his executive together and settle the grievances before next Saturday. Otherwise it will be foolish to announce any games.

Only one game was played on Saturday afternoon at the Oval, and the good crowd present was very much disgusted with the performance of the other two teams.

The Strathconas had a patched up team and even at that they put up a very fair argument with the Park street nine. The score was nine to seven in favor of the church boys. The teams lined up as follows:

Hot Words at the Police Court Saturday

The remark. "I'll give you another free cigar," made to P. C. Newhall by one of the young men in police court Saturday morning had a very bad effect, for it caused a clash between that officer and Mr. G. N. Gordon, who had conducted the case for the above defendant.

In the previous case a statement had been made in regard to the policeman getting free lunches at a local restaurant, where one of the defendants was engaged. After the magistrate had dismissed the case and the principals were leaving the court room, the words were said to P. C. Newhall, "I'll give you another free cigar," and added to this were the words, "Your lies don't count all the time. I called you back one night for the price of ten cents. That's the kind of a guy you are."

P.C. Newhall took offence at these statements, and refused to allow the person who made them to leave the station, placing himself against the door at the same time. Mr. Gordon advised the young man to ask the officer to allow him to leave. This he did, but P. C. Newhall refused, stating that he would lay an information against him for using insulting language. One word led to another. The young man accused the officer of securing a lunch in a restaurant and not paying for it, and referring to P. C. Newhall, said "That's how cheap you are." The officer met this statement with the remark that he would eat anything in the restaurant, and further called the young man a smart Alec, The two parties adjourned to the court room, but on hearing the facts of the occurrence, the magistrate refused to do anything in the matter. He, however, stated that the officer should not have paid any attention to the remarks against him, and advised him not to take offence so readily in the future.

RETURNED FROM THE SOUTH.

Mr. E. M. Taylor, well known to many of our citizens especially to the older residents, is paying his annual visit to Peterborough. Mr. Taylor has been a resident of St. Louis, Mo., since he left here some forty years ago. In his southern home he has grown to be a distinguished citizen and amongst other important positions of trust and honor to which he has attained, there is perhaps none so fitting or so popular as that of Chaplain of the Jim Lewis Fishing Club. Mr. Taylor will go to Stony Lake for a short time, and will spend a few weeks at the various resorts on the Hawartha Lakes. As being the fully accredited representative of the great and only J. L. Club, he will naturally have close communion with the deciples of Izaak Walton at the various fishing places on these waters. It might be mentioned that Mr. Taylor's father was the first rector of St. John's Church in Peterborough.

Will Change Course of the Lakefield Roadway

A special session of the County Council was held Saturday afternoon for the purpose of considering a proposition from the Peterborough Water Commissioners to remove the roadway at the new water works dam a short distance west. At the rans right alongside the works and there is not room to erect a power house. The commissioners propose to purchase about an acre of land from the adjoining farm and change the course of the roadway.

The County Council, after hearing the commissioners and considering the facts consented to their wishes on condition that the commissioners remetal the road and keep it in first-class condition for five years.

The concession will be a great convenience to the water commissionerst, while the travelling public will not be inconvenienced at all There is a little difference of opinion as to the value of the land desired for the new road, but if the owner cannot consent to a reasonable price the commissioners will either expropriate it or call in an arbitrator.

Bobcaygeon Hotel Keeper Shot and Killed His Wife in Cold Blood

Joseph Hunter, Proprietor of the Royal, Crazed by Liquor Murdered His Wife while She Slept—Had been Attending Him for Several Hours Previously

Bobcaygeon, Aug. 8.—The inquest into the shooting of Mrs. Joseph Hunter by her husband, was opened here yesterday afternoon when the jury was empanelled with Mr. A. E. Bottom, hardware merchant, as foreman. The jury viewed the body and then the coroner ordered a post mortem to be held in the evening. The inquest was adjourned until Tuesday evening.

Bobcaygeon, Aug. 7.—Joseph Hunter, proprietor of the Hotel Royal, shot and instantly killed his wife with a rifle at 4.30 o'clock this morning, while she was sleeping in her bed. It is reported that Hunter had been drinking recently and was suffering from delirum tremens. His wife stayed up with him, bathing his feet and head in an effort to relieve his condition, and after three or more hours constant attention she laid down on the bed to sleep and rest.

SHOT HEARD.

About 4.30 o'clock a tourist named Mitchell, occupying the next room was awakened by a shot in the proprietor's room and hastening into hall he was met by Hunter coming out of his room with the rifle in his arms.

"For God's sake, man, what have you done?" he asked Hunter, but did not wait for him to make an explanation. The wife, whose maiden name was Rose Coulter, was lying on the bed, her face showing the result of the ghastly act. The gun had apparently been held near her head as she slept on the right side, and the bullet had gone its way through her face on the left side of her nose.

Death was practically instantaneous, and the unfortunate woman died as she slept.

MOTHER ESCAPED.

Hunter's mother-in-law and his two children, a boy and a girl in their teens were occupying the room where the shooting occurred. It is stated that Hunter tried to shoot Mrs. Coulter, senior, after she had been awakened by the report, but she grappled with him and eluded his alleged attempts. The police officer was called and Hunter was placed under arrest, and later was taken to Lindsay, where he was lodged in jail.

The hotel was filled with tourists, but this morning they practically quitted the place in a body and went over to the Rockland House. The shooting is the talk of the town and everyone seems to have something new regarding it. It is generally stated that Hunter was hardly in his right mind, as the result of recent heavy drinking. It is believed by others that there may have been some motive behind the awful affair, but statements to that effect are only rumors.

BIG CROP ASSURED

LATEST REPORTS INDICATE A LARGE YIELD.

Will Be the Greatest in the History the West.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—With few exceptions late reports received by the Canadian Bank of Commerce from its western branches bear out previous indications of a greater than average harvest.

The farmers are getting ready for the cutting of spring wheat, which it is reported will be general in less than three weeks. Harvesters' excursions from the east to the prairie provinces will be arranged by the C. P. R. this week.

Following are quotations from the bank's reports:

Durban—Grain crops are all looking very well and making wonderful progress. Hay is desperately poor and I regret to note, many farmers are forced to cure swamp grass.

Gleichen, Alta.—No damage from frost or hail in this district and an exceedingly large yield may be expected.

ABOVE THE AVERAGE

Red Deer, Alta.—The crops will be a little light on account of the slow growth early in the season. Several hailstorms have passed thru, with, however, very little damage to anything.

Rivers, Man.—The writer had a 50-mile drive, traveling in a southwesterly direction, and saw splendid crops all the way. A great many farmers estimate 300 bushels to the acre and are feeling jubilant.

Treherne—The crops are for the most part good and the yield should be satisfactory. Harvest will be general by between Aug. 10 and 15.

NO PEST

Brandon—Farmers assure us that their fields never looked better and that the grain shows a healthy root, stalk and heard; no evidence of rust or bugs having yet made an appearance.

Elbow—The crops are looking splendid and present indications are for a yield per acre as follows: Wheat 30 bushels, oats 50-60 bushels flax 15-13 bushels.

WHISKEY IN HAY

SEIZURE MADE ON GRAND LIKE SHEEP.

Harsh Work of Repression Carried Situation at Melilla.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—Liquor valued at $1,200 and concealed in bales of hay has been confiscated while being shipped to the Transcontinental construction gangs near La Tuque, Que.

The whiskey, which was doubtless being shipped through for illegal sale to the laborers on the railroad, was discovered through the good services of Col. John Barry, G. T. P. detective.

The liquor was carefully concealed in bales of hay which to the casual observer were quite innocent looking packages. The contractors along the line are greatly pleased at the seizure as they are very anxious to have liquor kept out of the construction camps as it causes much trouble among the men and disorganizes the work. The railway detectives keep on the watch continually and now and again are rewarded by making a seizure.

HUNDREDS ARE SHOT

Harsh Work of Repression Carried on by Military Judges—Bad Situation at Melilla.

London, August 9.—Spain is exacting terrible retribution for the wild deeds of last week," says the Barcelonia correspondent of the Daily Chronicle. "Her military judges' board is no idle one that when the work of repression is finished not even a mouse with anarchistic proclivities will be found in the whole Province of Catalonia.

"A thousand prisoners, of whom over a hundred were women, and an equal number boys, have been confined in Montjuich fortress, where they are being summarily tried and shot. The court-martial consists of five officers. The prisoners are brought from their cells in the castle vaults up by a winding staircase.

"Their death warrant is already signed all that is needed to seal their doom is the evidence of participation. If there is the smell of petroleum or traces of gunpowder on their hands, they are condemned."

Toronto Lady Drowned at Gananoque

Gananoque, Aug 7. — Another drowning accident occurred here this morning, the victim being Catharine Macdonald, employed in the home of Mr. Clarkson Jones of Toronto. Mr. Jones' family are spending the summer in Gananoque, and the girl came here with them about a month ago.

Shortly after seven o'clock this morning Mr. E. P. Wright, returning from his island cottage passed the young woman standing on the shore near the foot of William St., attired in a bathing suit. He had only gone a few rods up the street when a woman rushed up to him and said, "That woman is drowning." Mr. Wright then heard the cries for help, and hurrying back pushed out his boat. He was joined by John Murphy, and rowing towards the spot where the woman was last seen they commenced a search, and in a few minutes discovered the body on the bottom in about twenty feet of water a and twenty feet from the shore.

Mr. Wright divested of the heavier part of his clothing, dived into the water, but failed in the first attempt to reach the body. Returning to the boat he dove again from the dock of the boat, and was successful in bringing the body to the surface and to the shore.

Although the body could not have been in the water more than ten minutes every means at resuscitation failed. At the point where the accident occurred the water is shallow for a few feet from the shore, when there is a sharp drop. It is supposed the unfortunate girl, being unaware of this got beyond her depth, and being unable to swim, met her fate.

Deceased had not been long out from Glasgow.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL.

In Aid of Bethel Church—Local People Took Part.

A very successful lawn social, in aid of Bethel Methodist church, was held on the grounds of the church at Hall's Glen on Wednesday evening, July 21, when a most enjoyable and pleasant evening was spent. An excellent supper was served by the ladies of the congregation and from six to eight-thirty the beautifully laid tables were fully occupied.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., presided. An address was given by Mr. J. H. McClellan.

COMING OF MESSIAH

MRS. BESANT MAKES IMPORTANT SPEECH.

Refers to the Evolution of the Human Race.

New York, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Annie Besant has just arrived in New York for an extended tour in America. She has declined to visit Toronto on this occasion on account of a resolution passed by the Toronto Theosophical Society at which she took umbrage.

Mrs. Besant has been making an impression in England by her anti-vivisectionist speech in the Queen's are as great as ever, establishing her Hall, London, and her address here indicates that her oratorical powers are as great as ever, establishing her as the greatest living woman orator.

She spoke here of the evolution of the human race as proceeding by regular stages over many million years. There had been four great root races, she said. So far, each with seven subdivisions or subraces. The fourth root race came to perfection in the lost continent of Atlantis and were far ahead of the present fifth root race of Europe and America, which had so far only passed thru the earlier stages of the Atlantean experience. As soon as the fifth race catches up on the Atlanteans it will begin to surpass them, and the flying machine is an indication of such progress.

"In our times," she said, "the theosophist sees the spectacle of the fifth sub-race of the fifth root race approaching its zenith, and he looks for signs of the coming of the new sub-race of the sixth which shall follow The leading race must always be in the minority. Our own forms but a small part of the world's people. The Japanese and Chinese are of the fourth sub-race of the fifth root race and millions of them still survive. The negro tribes are almost pure third sub-race.

"Our higher duty is toward these children of the sixth sub-race who will come among us; these children of frailer nerves and tenderer feelings; these older subtler egoes who are seeking parentage among us. They will be more delicate than we, as we are more sensitive than the Japanese of the last great sub-race.

"The shock and racket of your cities must go, to make a place for the news race to be reared. Your subways and your motor noises tear the nerves of all those delicate children to rags.

"Every great race has two leaders who come from the great occult hierarchy to lead and teach. We must be looking for such a leader for the sixth sub-race. Of the second sub-race of our fifth root race came Hermes, and aided in Aryanizing Egypt. To the third came Zoroaster, and to the fifth came the Teacher of the Christian faith. These all were the same person, or to speak more scientifically, the same individual. He will be the same individual in His appearance for the sixth sub-race."

"I cannot set the time by calendar dates," said Mrs. Besant, when questioned, "but the duty of theosophists is to spread the principles of compassion and justice and prepare for the next coming. It may be that the younger persons of the present will witness that event. The Christ will be in a new body—probably, I am told, in a western one for the first time."

Lord Kitchener will Make a Tour of Canada

London, Aug. 7.—Lord Kitchener Khartoum has been appointed to the Mediterranean command, succeeding the Duke of Connaught. He will first visit Australasia, to inspect the troops there, and to advise on the best way to give effect to certain proposals for development which are being discussed by the Imperial Defence Conference.

In some quarters it is believed there is an intention to co-ordinate all the military forces of the Empire and to place Lord Kitchener at the head of an organization which will have the Imperial Army for its special care.

"Events would seem to be moving in this direction," says the Daily Graphic. "and there can be no question that Kitchener is of all men the one best suited for a command of that kind."

The Express declares that Kitchener's new post is synonymous with an inspectorship of all the overseas forces.

The Duke of Connaught resigned the post on the ground of "the ineffective nature of the work and the useless expense to the nation involved therein."

Lord Kitchener will take the rank of field marshall and also become a member of the committee of Imperial Defence. The inspector-general has command of the garrisons at Malta and Gibraltar and all the British troops in Egypt, the Soudan and Cyprus.

The appointment of Lord Kitchener is coincident with added importance being attached to the post. The Duke of Connaught in an official announcement said: "In view of the new developments, in the organization of the Mediterranean the command assumes increased importance and will be taken up by Lord Kitchener with the object of giving it its proper place in the scheme for Imperial defence.

As a preparation for his new work Lord Kitchener has gained valuable experience in India. On vacating the Indian command in September Lord Kitchener will go to Japan to represent Great Britain at the Japanese grand manoeuvres in November, and afterwards make a tour of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand to study the military organization and consult with the colonial government concerning them.

Lord Kitchener, who became 59 years old in June, is the youngest field marshal in the history of Great Britain. Lord Roberts was 60 years old when he was raised to the rank and Lord Wolseley 62.

THE PACIFIC SQUADRON.

Sydney, N.S.W., Aug 7.— The Morning Herald declares the article in the London Times, re a composite Pacific squadron, are believed to crystalize its suggestions to the Imperial Defence Conference. They meet with the Federal Ministry's approval slightly modified, and will probably form the basis of a defence scheme which will eventually be adopted.

The Telegraph prints a message from its Melbourne correspondent to the effect that the Federal Government, having already decided to include cruisers in the local squadrons may suggest to the conference as a substitute for the offer of a Dreadnought the assumption of all responsibility in connection with the policing of the Pacific. This, if true, marks the almost complete acceptance by the present Commonwealth Government of the defence policy put forward by Mr. Fisher, late prime minister.

Lost Child Found Seated on a Rock

Halifax, Aug. 7.—An excitement has prevailed in Halifax for the past two days which is unprecedented. At one o'clock on Wednesday afternoon Earl Hines, a six-year old boy, disappeared from a picnic crowd of Park street Presbyterian church Sunday school. During that afternoon there was more or less searching, and at night a squad of Halifax police searched the woods with lanterns. Yesterday one hundred police, soldiers and citizens tramped the woods from morning until night but found no trace of the child. This morning hundreds of people went to the woods, while by the afternoon it was estimated that more than a thousand men were engaged in the search, under command of Lieut. Costin, of the Royal Canadian Regiment. At four o'clock this afternoon a heavy downpour of rain came, and still no trace of the youngster.

At five o'clock one of the searchers, a mile back in the woods from the picnic grounds, saw a child seated on a rock eating blueberries. His face was smeared with them, and he looked so contented that the man thought it could not be the lost child.

"What is your name?" he was asked, as he came up to the lad.

"Earl Hines," replied the child with nonchalance.

His mouth was a little swollen and his face slightly scratched but otherwise he was apparently all right. The searchers carried him out in triumph, there was great cheering on the roadside, and then between 1,000 and 1,500 men started to return to Halifax, while the doctors and the boy's father took care of the wanderer, who for 52 hours had been alone in the forest.

TO DECLARE HIMSELF KING.

Prince Nicholas of Montenegro Will Raise His Status.

Vienna, August. 9.—Europe next year will have a new king. According to a Prague report, Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, has decided to assume the title of King on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his accession, which will occur on August 14, 1910.

The report says it is understood that the powers will raise no objection to his so doing.

BIG CROP ASSURED

Latest Reports Indicate Huge Yield. Will be The Greatest in History of The West.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—Experiments which which are being carried on by Professor Biffen, of the British Department of Agriculture with the object of improving the milling quality of British grown wheat are described in a report to the trade and commerce department by the Canadian trade agent at Leeds.

Canadian Red Fife wheat is being used and it is hoped to combine the milling qualities of the Canadian wheat with the growing qualities of the British product.

Prof. Biffen expects that as a result of the experiments the value of wheat will be increased from two to five shillings on every eight bushels.

The Leeds agent reports that there is likely to be a short apple crop in England.

$100 REWARD.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroting the foundation of the disease, and giving thepatient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Drowning Accident

At a late hour last night word was received that a young man by the name of Reid, had been drowned at Stony Lake yesterday late in the afternoon. The body was recovered and word was sent to Messrs. Comstock, who went up to Young's Point to bring the body down. Up till the time of going to press it was impossible to secure any details as the Young's Point telephone office was closed and no particulars were sent to the city. It is understood, however, that he was employed in the finishing department at the C.G.E.

BANK ROBBER KILLED

But Not Until He Had Got One of His Pursuers.

White Bear, Minn., Aug. 9.—In a pitched battle, during which a posse exchanged 500 revolver and rifle shots with Robert Pohl, who had robbed the State Bank here, he was finally killed, but he shot dead Edward Larkin, one of the members of the posse. Pohl who is believed to have been a former convict, took a small check to the bank and while the cashier was examining it Pohl produced an automatic rifle, demanding all the cash in the bank. He was given $565, and as the robber dashed out of the bank the cashier spread an alarm and a large crowd was speedily armed and in pursuit. Pohl was overtaken in the lumber yards, and it was there that he ambushed Larkin, shooting him through the heart. After this a volley of shots was poured at Pohl and he fell dead.

Chest Inflamation

"NERVILINE" CURED QUICKLY.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me. These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist of Middleton. "My work kept me out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck, chest and shoulders morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

NERVILINE CURES CHEST COLDS

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing essences and medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large 25c. bottles, five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 22

THE OUTLOOK FOR PEARY.

The departure of the Jeanie from St. John's, Newfoundland, carrying mail food and coal to Commander Peary, naturally excites speculation as to the measure of success which has attained the explorer's efforts this year. If the object of his expedition has already been accomplished Peary will doubtless come back with in the next few weeks. However, as the Roosevelt, which took him to the Arctic regions last summer, could not force its way southward through the floating ice in the channel above Cape Sabine before July or August and as he would probably need coal to continue his voyage home, he might be expected to wait for fuel at some convenient point—Etah, on the Greenland coast, for instance—until the arrival of his relief ship. If, on the other hand, he is dissatisfied with the result of last spring's work, it is not likely that he will move the Roosevelt from the harbor in which he placed her a year ago—on the coast of Grant Land, if he had good luck—but return by sledge to Etah in order to exchange dispatches with the Jeanie. In either contingency, therefore, definite news should be received from him by the middle of September, if not sooner.

The dispatch of a relief ship illustrates anew the thoroughness with which Peary's preparations are always made. He foresees and provides for every need. Arrangements were made for keeping in communication with home before his own departure. His caution stands out in sharp contrast with the imperfect plans of Dr. Cook, who seems to have left a great deal to luck or chance. The Brooklyn explorer secured transportation in one direction only, and if he is yet alive he may be indebted to his revival, Peary, for the means of reaching the United States once more. An effort was made recently to raise money enough to equip an expedition to search for and rescue Dr. Cook, but it seems to have failed. If he has been able to work his way back to Etah, as he purposed to do, Peary may allow him to sail on the Jeanie. Whatever Dr. Cook's fate may be, Peary's foresight and fine power of organizing a poplar campaign justify the heartiest wishes for his success.

WESTERN FORESTRY WORK.

The forestry branch of the department of the interior is just now conducting an important work in the western provinces. Two members of the staff, Messrs. R. M. Campbell and A. Knetchel, were in Winnipeg a few days ago, and in the course of an interview the first-named gentleman gave some interesting information as to reforesting of the denuded areas on the forest reserve of the West—a work that is proving most satisfactory. In Germany areas which have ceased to be suitable become mere sand beds have been reclaimed as a result of tree planting and believing that what has been accomplished in that country is quite possible in this, the forestry branch is devoting much attention to the afforesting of such areas in devoting of such areas in the Canadian west. In Manitoba, where there have been very few forest reserve fires this year, new areas for forest reserves are being marked out, while similar work is being carried on in the provinces further west.

The work, as the Winnipeg Free Press points out, while one of which the general public have little or no knowledge is of incalculable value to the future of the whole country, and in the years to come the people of Canada will fully recognize the wise foresight of the present Dominion Government in creating the forestry branch and providing for the work it is doing.

FROM "KIDD" TO "BURN."

In Order to Qualify to Bequest From Australian Benefactory, Mr. Kidd Abandonned His Surname.

David S. Kidd, who was identified with a bequest of thousands of dollars from W. G. Burn, a reputed Australian millionaire, for the purpose of building a home for unfortunate women in Toronto, is no longer David S. Kidd At five minutes to twelve this morning he seized a pen in the office of Judgment Clerk D'Arcy Hinds at Osgoode Hall and signed a deed poll which changed his name to David S. Burn, after his Australian benefactor.

The change of his name by the deed poll route cost Mr Kidd just 70 cents outside his lawyer's fees, but it entitles him, he says, to claim $425,000 under the will of Wellington George Burn who died in Melbourne Australia, on September 14th. 1908.

INTEREST IN $8,000,000.

Mr. Kidd was a tea merchant by trade, and the son of a shoemaker of Bewdley, near Port Hope. He was born on July 28, 1868. In 1907, he says, he was in Chicago, and through his evangelistic work was able to rescue a girl who turned out to be the daughter of the Australian millionaire who had left her home. When W. G. Burn died, says Mr. Burn—the new Mr. Burn—he desired that the rescuer of his child should adopt his name and take the place of the daughter Lucy who has since died. He was, in return, to have an interest in the estate which was said to total about $8,000,000.

"Are you Mr. Kidd," asked Mr. Hinds, as the former laid down his pen after signing the deed-poll which changed his name.

"No, you're Mr. Burn," was the laughing correction of the genial Irishman of the judgment office.

"Quit yer kiddin" was the appropriate remark which someone should have made, but didn't.

LEGAL FIGHT ON.

There is a legal contest over the estate to be waged in Australia next month, to participate in which Mr. Davis S. Burn will cross the Pacific. Sarah Wellington, of Spain, claims $350,000 of the estate and John Waldren, of Kansas, claims $425,000.

The deed-poll method of changing a man's name is not often followed, though it is vastly simpler than getting an act of Parliament. The applicant merely makes an affidavit that he renounces his old name, and cites the circumstances which led to the change being desirable.

A FORMER INSTANCE.

In 1884 George Albert Hadley changed his name to George Hadley Roberts, and the records at Osgoode Hall show that it was to straighten out a tangle caused by his adoption at the age of five years.

AN EXAMINATION OF THOSE DESIRing to qualify as Cullers, to measure timber cut on Crown Lands, will be held at North Bay and Kenora on August 23rd, at Arnprior on August 19th, and at Thessalon on August 20th next, respectively.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

It is because every package of Dr. Shoop's medicine is absolutely free if it fails.

No one need risk even one single penny. Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

No risk, no expense, nothing whatever unless health first returns. For 30 full days, and without the risk of a single penny, you can try either of my two Kidney Remedies—Dr. Shoop's Restorative or Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy.

Why take any chance whatever!

Why purchase any medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

And besides, I am no stranger to you. My "No pay, no pay" offer has made Dr Shoop's Restorative a household remedy in every drug store in the land. Tens of thousands will tell you, "We take no chance when we buy it."

For twenty years Dr. Shoop's medicines have become thoroughly standardized all over America.

And I have ... hundreds and hundreds of ... druggists in every village everywhere to supply them. Their ... selected druggists are authorized ... the sick—and the entire risk is mine alone.

Just write me first for an order.

I have an agent in almost every community—but all druggists are not authorized to grant the 30 day test.

So drop me a line, please—and then save all chance, misery and doubt.

Besides, you are free to consult me by letter as you would your home physician. Do so freely and fully—if you desire. My advice and the book I have are yours—and without cost. Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some stubborn ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice.

Besides, the books will open up new and helpful ideas to you. They tell of my 30 years experience in curing the sick. Thousands of testimonials from grateful men and women are full of here. They tell what my remedies have done for them. Many of these cases were such as baffled the skill of their own family physicians. Many had been given up by other doctors. Many had spent large sums of money in search of health. Many had found only disappointment after disappointment. All write gratefully now, while I, in fresh health, extend the remembrance season. Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

TWO OF THEM.

I'm fond of Kitty and her cat.
She truly is a pearl—
I mean the kitten, but at that
I also mean the girl.
She is so shiny, sleek and fat—
The cat I mean—I love
To stroke her fur the while we chat—
The girl I'm speaking of.

I chat with one and with my hand
The other softly pat.
I trust that you can understand
What I am driving at.
She doesn't like to have me stroke
Her back—I mean the girl—
No, darn it; cat! Well, that's a joke.
My head is in a whirl.

I mean that Kitty doesn't care
To have me pet her kitten.
For when I'm with my Kitty there—
With her I'm sorely smitten—
I lean so close to pat her head—
The cat's—and talk to her—
I mean the girl—her cheeks grew red,
And she will loudly purr.

It is the cat that purrs, you see.
I wish I could be clearer.
Now, Kitty's bashful as can be.
And I keep edging nearer,
But when she jumps upon my knee—
Of course I mean the kitten—
And Kitty runs away from me
I'm stung, not scratched nor bitten.

Her Get-up.

Opposed to Slang.

Donald had been to Sunday school and on coming home was asked what he had learned. The lesson was the story of Joseph, and the small learner was evidently full of his subject.

"Oh," he said, "it was about a boy, and his brothers took him and put him in a hole in the ground, and then they killed another boy and took the first boy's coat and dipped it in the blood of this boy, and"—

"Oh, no, Donald, not another boy!" his sister interrupted, horrified. But Donald stood his ground.

"It was, too," he insisted. Then he added, "The teacher said 'kid,' but I don't use words like that."—Woman's Home Companion.

Too Sympathetic.

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

The best trip of the season by boat will be run by the steamer Ocanabee from the Wolfe-street wharf to Lindsay. The date is August 10, Tuesday. Tickets will be good to return that evening by train or to remain over in Lindsay for a couple of days and return by boat. This Peterborough to Lindsay trip is the best on the lakes, as it includes most of the beautiful Kawartha chain. The Lindsay people who came on the Woodmen's excursion a few days ago were delighted with the outing, and they are only waiting for an opportunity to take it in again. Full particulars will be given later, but keep the date open.

AMUSING MISTAKES.

Naughty Librarian Gives Occasion For a Quiet Smile.

It is usually the ignorant or confused frequenters of a library who are responsible for amusing mistakes, but occasionally an overhaughty guardian of literature gives occasion for a quiet smile to those she serves, according to the Youth's Companion. To a request for "Prometheus Unbound" one such replied, with chilling decisiveness, "We have no unbound books."

More recently a schoolteacher, wishing to extend her rather scanty knowledge of the stories of Edgar Allan Poe, in view of the centenary of his birth, inquired at the delivery desk of a rural library for "The Gold Bug," adding: "I can't seem to find it in the catalogue, but I'm sure you have it. A friend of mine had it out last week."

The librarian glanced at the card catalogue drawer over which the teacher had been poring and smiled a superior smile.

"No wonder, Miss Jones," she explained, with patient gentleness; "you are looking under 'Fiction.' Turn to 'Entomology' and you won't have any trouble."

Smiling in her turn, a different and more genial smile, the teacher turned to "Entomology" and there indeed, duly classified with learned works on lepidoptera and coleoptera, she found the unscientific but fascinating insect invented by that master of mystery tales, who did not even know that a beetle is not a bug.

It was almost too good a joke to spoil. But instruction and correction become second nature to a teacher, and, besides, there was her duty to the public. When she departed with "The Gold Bug" under her arm she left an enlightened but crestfallen librarian.

Oddly enough, a note to this anecdote comes at almost the same time from the other side of the continent. The president of a western woman's club, also brushing up her knowledge of Poe before writing a paper on his life, sought at the local library for that weird tale of horror, "The Pit and the Pendulum."

She was referred to the card catalogue and advised to look under "Mechanics" or "Horology."

THE TELEPHONE FIEND.

We All Know Her, the Inconsiderate Person.

"Hello! That you? Yes, I just thought I'd call you up. It's warm out. Oh, I should say it is. No; it's real warm. Whatchdoin? You are? "Where am I? At the bank."

So were several other women at the bank. They had stepped in to make deposits or send drafts and had gone into the women's room to wait for friends or use the telephone. One woman was waiting to telephone home that she couldn't get out in time for lunch. Another wanted to make an appointment with a dressmaker. A third wanted to telephone out to Bridget that it looked like rain and would she please shut the bedroom windows and also give the children a cooky apiece when they came home from school and not to let them play outside the yard, all of which was business, too, from some points of view. They were all brief, care relieving, time saving messages, the very sort of messages for which them phones were supplied. But there and that creature "rub-bubing and mmhmming" while a half dozen women waited for that one minute at the telephone that would make the rest of the day go smoothly.

And, by the way, the young person at the phone had walked in at the front door and made her way straight to that room. When at length she had used the telephones and the mirrors as long as she wished she retraced her steps, found her way back to the front door as fast as her feet could carry her, and in all probability she had never seen the sign on the receiving window.

Still she was in no way deterred from using the special privileges which the bank had provided for its patrons.

Perhaps this is too fine a point of honor to be grasped by the feminine mind.

Princess a Toothpick Queen.

The crown princess of Roumania, who before her marriage was Princess Marie of Edinburgh, expects to manufacture 25,000,000 toothpicks this year. She is the owner and active manager of a toothpick factory near Bucharest. The workers are tenants on the estate of her husband, and she takes a personal interest in all of them. She established the factory four years ago, and it is one of the largest and most profitable in Europe. Toothpicks from the crown princess' factory go into all European countries and are to be found in New York hotels in individual paper wrappers. The crown princess is planning to manufacture quill pens, many of which are used in Germany and Russia. It is said it is becoming the fashion for society women all over Europe to use quills for writing, and it is expected American women will not be slow in taking up the fad. This movement is in line with the general revival of the fashions of our grandmothers, and the crown princess, with her usual business acumen, sees a chance for profit in putting quill pens on the market.

The Grind That Dulls.

If the scissors grinder kept his blade in the whetstone unceasingly the scissors would soon be useless. The grind that dulls women is not daily household duties, but never letting up on those duties. The housewife who is knowing keeps herself sharpened with frequent change and recreation.

EXPECT THE MILLENIUM.

Coonyites Holding Continuous Prayer Meetings.

Dublin, August 6.—In the belief that the millennium may be ushered in any moment, over 2,000 "Coonyites" are holding continuous prayer meetings at Ballinamallard, county Fermanagh. The pilgrims have arrived from all parts of the country and remarkable scenes are being witnessed. Hundreds of persons are baptized publicly in the river every day, and the converts are sleeping out in the open air on the farm of one of the leaders.

TRAINLOAD OF CHINAMEN.

And Four Cars of Silk Valued at a Quarter of a Million.

Sudbury, Aug. 6.—A special train carrying 250 Chinamen routed from Hong Kong to Boston and other eastern cities, passed through here for the east today. There was also included in the train four car loads of silk valued at upwards of a quarter of a million dollars. The Chinamen were all in bond and locked in the cars with guards stationed at all the doors so that they could not disembark.

Young Folks'

WHEN RAIN IS COMING.

Weather Changes Foretold by Birds, Frogs and Insects.

Those who live by the coast do not want a better weather sign than the sea gulls, which in the various winds that will bring the rain collect in big flocks and gather in the fields or circle high over the land, wheeling and screaming uneasily. They will not come in on a false alarm, and none need fear they will make a mistake.

As long as frogs remain yellow in color nothing but fine weather may be expected. Should, however, their coats begin to assume a brown hue it is a sign that bad weather will shortly arrive. A good frog barometer may be made by keeping two of them in a large glass bowl filled with water and furnished with small wooden ladders. As long as the frogs keep at the bottom of the vessel sunny days will continue, but if they climb up to the top of the ladder there is a storm coming.

A spider spinning its web is a sign of fine days. If in the morning a day's excursion may be taken without fear of summer costumes becoming spoiled by the wet, and if in the evening then at least the whole of the night and the following morning will be fine.

If it is raining and the owl screeches a change for the better in the weather will shortly ensue, but should the peacock screech bad weather is to come or continue.

Snails are also valuable weather prophets. As long as they are to be seen jogging along in the orthodox manner fine weather may be confidently looked forward to. If there is rain in the atmosphere the snails may be seen to seek shelter up the stems of trees and shrubs, under leaves and, in fact, anywhere where they can be safely out of the wet. Only when all immediate danger of a recurrence of rain is over will they emerge again.

THE SMALLEST LOAF.

Story of a Generous Baker and a Modest Little Girl.

There once lived an old baker who was very fond of children. Often he would plan pleasant surprises for them. One day he invited a large number of girls and boys to come to his bakery shop. To each child as he walked down the street the old baker said, "Well, my child, can you come to my bakery at 4 o'clock?"

At 4 o'clock a large crowd had gathered. The children felt sure he had some pleasant surprise for them. They were not disappointed, for there was a large basket filled with nice, fresh loaves of bread. How the children pushed and scrambled for them!

Among the crowd was a little girl. She was so small that she did not wish to scramble into the crowd, but stood quietly aside. After the children had each snatched a loaf and run gleefully away she stepped up to the basket and took the first loaf. It was very small.

She thanked the baker and ran home with it. When she cut it out fell a brand new gold piece. Thinking there had been a mistake, she ran back to tell the baker.

"No," said the baker, "there is no mistake. I put it into the smallest loaf. It is yours."

Hand Washing.

"Let's go to swim," said this white duck.
"I've dust on every feather,"
"I'm dingy, too," said this white duck.
"Let's go to swim together."
They found a pool of water near
And soon were playing in it.

They floated, dived and swam about,
Enjoying every minute.
"Now I am clean," said this white duck.
"I've not a dusty feather."
"And I'm clean, too," said this white duck.
"Let's go indoors together."
—Youth's Companion.

A Splendid Find.

One day in the year 1858 as the gold seekers at Ballarat hill, Ballarat, in Australia, were pursuing their usual tasks one of their number unearthed from the gravel in which he was digging a nugget of the precious metal. So heavy was it that his unaided efforts were not enough to clear it from its surroundings, and when at last this was done few could believe that the "find" was not a dream. Never before had any gold mine yielded such a treasure, for when carried to the scales it was found to weigh 2,217 ounces 10 pennyweights. It realized $32,000 and is known in the history of mining as the "Welcome Nugget."

Can See Without Eyes.

To be "blind as a bat" is not to be very blind, after all. It can have its eyes removed and "see" to fly as well as before. It can dodge around a corner and avoid all obstacles in its flight. It guides itself by some sixth sense that wants it of obstructions.

WEALTHY POETS.

Bardship Does Not Always Mean Starvation.

That poetry is not so badly paid after all is proved by Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne's will, the probate of which was recently granted in London. His estate has been valued by the sole executor, Mr. Walter Theodore Watts-Dunton, at $121,000 gross, including personalty of the net value of $99,500. The whole of the property has been left to Mr. Watts-Dunton.

Tennyson left $225,000. He appointed his son his literary executor, and bequeathed to him all his manuscripts, literary works, and copyrights, subject to the payment of the income therefrom to Lady Tennyson for her life. Lord Tennyson's estate of Aldworth, the Farringford estate, the manor of Priors, and the rest of his real estate were put under trustees for Lady Tennyson for her life. The copyrights of the late Poet Laureate's works were valuable, and Tennyson was paid by the publishers handsome sums for his poems.

Robert Browning, of whose will "A. Tennyson" and "F. T. Palgrave" were the attesting witnesses, left personality in England of the value of $83,300. The will was in Browning's own handwriting, with the initial letters of all the nouns substantive in capitals, after the old style. Victor Hugo, who, like Lord Tennyson, attained the age of eighty-three years, had personal estate in England to the amount of $460,000. Dr. Charles Mackay's property was valued at $13,000, and that of Eliza Cook at $10,000. Matthew Arnold's estate amounted to $5,000. His will, in his own handwriting, was one of the shortest that have ever come under probate. It was: "I leave everything of which I die possessed to my wife, Frances Lucy." Mr. Frederick Locker-Lampson left $150,000. Mr. Coventry Patmore $43,000, and Mr. William Morris, who died in 1896, $225,000. In the last-named case, however, it is tolerably certain that poetry did not contribute a very large share of the total.

Medical Women in India.

A very strong presentment of a case for reorganization of the Countess of Dufferin's Fund for providing female medical aid to the women of India is contained in a report upon its working published in the Journal of the Association of Medical Women in India. The criticisms are directed at the inefficiency of much of the present surgical and nursing service, at the management of women's hospitals by inexperienced local committees, at the misapplication of funds, and many material matters of administration in hospitals supported by the fund. As regards the first of these criticisms, considering the conditions under which medical women are appointed, it would be remarkable if the highest medical talent were attracted. The women doctors are badly paid, they have no chance of promotion, and no pension to look forward to, while even definite rules for leave are not in existence.

As regards the other points, a sufficient explanation is to be found in the fact that the fund is organized and controlled entirely by men, and the women doctors have practically no voice in the hundred and one questions upon which they alone are able to speak with any authority. Naturally, a civil surgeon or political agent cannot be in a position to report on the inner working and efficiency of a purdah or zenana hospital to which his sex prevents him having access, and yet that is the system now in force. What, in fact, is wanted is the appointment of fully qualified medical women to superintend and organise the whole work.

Universal Penny Postage.

"I hope the day may not be far distant when any inhabitant of our planet—white, black, or yellow—may be enabled for the sum of one penny to communicate with any other at the lowest possible rate and the highest attainable speed." Such is the avowed ideal of Mr. John Henniker Heaton, who celebrated his sixty-first birthday recently. Amongst the most notable reforms which Mr. Heaton has brought about might be mentioned the Imperial Penny Postage scheme and the introduction of Anglo-American Penny Postage. He also introduced telegraph money orders in England, as well as parcel post to France. Mr. Heaton is a self-made man who went out to Australia in his teens and took a post as clerk in a country store.

A Man of Many Titles.

The Duke of Abercorn, who, as chairman of the West London Hospital, has made a special appeal for help on behalf of a girl who lost both arms in a tramway accident, is a nobleman who holds the proud distinction of possessing a peerage in each of the three kingdoms, and is further distinguished by being the Duke of Chatelherault in France. In Ireland the duke has a marquessate, a viscountcy, and three baronies, and an earldom; six baronies, and a baronetcy in Scotland. The Duchess of Abercorn, by the way, is in the dairy business. At her Irish home she runs a model dairy on practical lines, supplying several large Belfast firms with butter and cream.

Who Weished the Archdeacon?

No man has a greater love for animals than Archdeacon Wilberforce, whose wife died a few days ago, and it was while speaking at a meeting of Our Dumb Friends' League that he told an amusing story of the days of his youth. He and a few chums escaped from school, and saw Blink Bonny, whom they each backed for £5, win the Derby. The horse won as 50 to 1. "It ran as no other horse ran before," said the archdeacon, when telling the story, "but the bookmaker who had our money ran a good deal faster."

Manitoba Crop Acreage.

The Manitoba Government Bureau of Statistics estimate the increased crop acreage of 668,370. The estimates are: Wheat, 2,912,497 acres; oats, 2,192,416; barley, 236,563; flax, 279,836

August time tells on the nerves. But that spiritless, no ambition feeling can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Within 48 hours after beginning to use the Restorative, improvement will be noticed. Of course full health will not immediately return. The gain, however, will surely follow. And best of all, you will realize and feel your strength and ambition as it is returning. Outside influences depress first the "inside nerves" then the stomach, Heart and Kidneys will usually fail. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly health will be yours again. Sold by all Dealers.

NEW KIND OF AWNING.

Novelty Consists in Fact That Any One Can Hang It.

Where it was once necessary to await the pleasure of the upholsterer or some man of kindred trade before awnings could be hung in the spring the genius of a Philadelphian has made it possible for a householder to hang his own awnings. This man has designed a plan whereby an awning can be put up or taken down in a few minutes. At the top of the window at either side are hooks, on which a bar of wood is hung. This bar has a row of other hooks along its length, adapted to receive the top seam of the awning, which is equipped with rimmed eyelets. It can be readily seen that with such an arrangement the putting up or taking down of an awning is as simple a matter as it well could be—so simple, indeed, that the canvases can be taken down on the approach of a storm or on any occasion when they are not needed, thereby adding much to the life of these articles, which suffer most during heavy winds and rains.

SIMPLE HEALTH DRINKS.

The Sulphur and Molasses Season Has Come Again.

Many letters from correspondents on the subject recall the fact that the sulphur and molasses season has come again and that those who believe in this old blood remedy want to take it.

For this tonic the formula consists of a paste of sulphur and molasses, cream of tartar to the amount of a pinch being added to each teaspoonful of the mixture. The dose from time immemorial has been a teaspoonful every morning for three days, then three days are omitted, and another three doses on three more consecutive days are taken. Then comes another waiting space for three days and a final dose the next three, making nine in all. By that time the faithful patient is usually quite willing to wait until another season before taking more. There will be no harm in repeating the routine, however.

Spearmint tea is a drink which our grandmothers believed in as being excellent for the blood, and they made it by steeping two tablespoonfuls of the dried grass in three pints of water. They regarded it as both nourishing and purifying to the blood and drank it at any time through the day.

This is pre-eminently the time when fresh green vegetables should be eaten, even if it is necessary to give up some other article of diet for them. The system craves just the properties they contain, and the blood and complexion will be much better if spinach, greens of any other kind, string beans and the like are eaten once and preferably twice a day. Fresh salads should be considered a daily necessity. Lettuce, with oil and vinegar, is wholesome, but not more than other fresh leaves. Apples, both baked and raw, will be effective as well as tomatoes, the system requiring acid to an unusual degree for several months now.

Authors Favor Suffrage.

It is very evident that suffrage is in favor among the best known authors of America, men and women, from the list of names on the national petition for woman suffrage, which includes Mark Twain, William Dean Howells, Sarah Orne Jewett, Frances Hodgson Burnett, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, Booth Tarkington, Julia Ward Howe, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Alice Brown, General Charles King, Eliza Calvert Hall, Dorothy Dix, Olive Tilford Dargan, Florence Morse Kingsley, Helen Campbell, Ernest Harold Baynes, Frederick A. Ober, Marietta Holley, James Lane Allen, Charles Battell Loomis, Ernest Thompson Seton, Grace Gallatin Thompson Seton, David Graham Phillips, Louise Imogen Guiney, Edith Sessions Tupper, Brand Whitlock, Agnes C. Laut, Edward S. Ellis, Lida A. Churchill, Hamlin Garland, Professor Edward Howard Griggs, Anna Randall Diehl, Julian Hawthorne, Charles Edward Russell, Frederic C. Howe, W. H. Ghent, Robert Hunter and Jane Addams.

Dogs' Shoes.

In Alaska even the dogs wear shoes, at least part of the time. It is not on account of the cold, for a shaggy Eskimo dog will live and be frisky when a man would freeze to death. The dog does all the work of dragging and carrying which in this country falls to the horses, and in trotting over the rough ice of the mountain passes his feet soon become bruised and sore. Then his driver makes him soft little moccasins of buckskin or reindeer skin and ties them on with stout thongs of leather.

Contentment.

Who lives for love must survive hours,
Who lives for gain must rest forego,
Who lives for power must trample low,
Who lives for fame makes all for self.
More blest are they who toil all day
And sleep the sleep of
Just.

Unnatural History.

A hare and a rabbit appear much the same—
They are, both of them, timid, yet both of them game—
But a hare may be English and full of affright,
While a rabbit is Welsh and is eaten at night.

ARREST AN ARCH FIEND.

How the British Troops Followed and Caught Surajah Dowlah.

The loss of Calcutta and the hideous tragedy of the Black Hole were no sooner reported in Madras than an English expedition was despatched under Colonel Clive to recover the captured fortress and avenge the crime perpetrated on the unfortunate garrison. In the hostilities that followed, Clive defeated the forces of the guilty nabob, Surajah Dowlah, on the plains of Plassy, and regained Calcutta, while the conquered prince fled in trepidation back to his capital of Moorshedabad, being the first to bear to his subjects there the news of his own disgrace. The royal fugitive was, however, followed up by the English in conjunction with Meer Jaffier, a native chief, who now became the recognised nabob in place of the fallen ruler of Bengal. The deposed prince held a council with his advisers about midnight after the battle, and there refused all advice to surrender, expressing his determination to proceed further up the river to Patna, where, through the fidelity of the governor, he expected to find safety.

Accordingly, he disguised himself in humble garb, and with a favorite wife and one attendant, who carried a casket of his most precious jewels, he boarded a barge and set out. Arriving at Rajemahl, a good distance from the starting-point, his boatmen insisted upon resting for the night after their exertions, and the ex-nabob sought concealment in a deserted garden. In the morning, however, a man of low caste, whose ears the prince, in a fit of rage, had formerly caused to be cut off, discovered him, and in revenge betrayed the presence of the enemy to a brother of Meer Jaffier.

A band of the new nabob's soldiers at once hastened to the vicinity to seize their prey, and surrounded and arrested Surajah Dowlah while still in the garden. The captors then conveyed their prisoner back to the capital, subjecting him during the passage to every species of indignity. Arriving there, the wretched prince was dragged like a felon into the palace he had so lately occupied with all the pomp of eastern royalty, and Meer Jaffier at once gave orders that the captive be withdrawn while the council deliberated on his fate.

Some recommended clemency, others, among them his son Meeran, a mere youth, urged the safe expedient of instant death. The new nabob hesitated, and in the meantime, Meeran persuaded him to retire and leave the care of the prisoner to his hands. With some presentiment of what would follow, the nabob yielded, and Meeran lost no time in sending a band of assassins to the apartments of the captive. The latter met his fate with weak and abject lamentations, and his remains were a little later borne through the streets upon an elephant, an act which served to reduce his servile followers to implicit obedience to Meer Jaffier, behind whom was the might of a power which later established the Indian Empire under British rule.

The Prize Puzzle of the House.

So Sir John Gorst, who recently surrendered a pension of $6,000, has been described, on account of his independent political views. In fact, it was said, when he cut himself off from the Primrose League, of which he was a trustee, no one but himself could understand them. Be that as it may, Sir John has proved himself a clever and successful politician, and has filled many offices. At one time it appeared as though he would some day be a bishop in New Zealand; he was one of several young Cambridge graduates who enlisted with Bishop Selwyn and went out to New Zealand to help in the evangelization of the Maoris. He edited a paper in the interests of the natives called "The Lone Sparrow on the Housetop," but it only ran for six numbers. The Maoris wanted bullets. They had no lead, so they raided the office, stole the type, and melted it down.

When Bathing Was Rare.

In some old English court memoirs of the eighteenth century it is stated that when George IV. was a baby he was bathed only once a fortnight. That was thought to be plenty often enough in those days for a child to be washed. When one of George's little sisters had measles the royal mother gave most careful instructions that the child's linen was not to be changed too soon, as she feared that some careless attendant would clothe it in garments insufficiently aired and so "drive in the rash." In those days people were much afraid of clean linen and bathing. It was believed the complete bodily ablutions were weakening, yet prince, peer and peasant alike called in at every ailment the doctors of the period, who bled them into a state of weakness and sometimes death.

"The Surrey Poet."

At the moment thousands of cricket followers are wishing Mr. Walter Craig, "the Surrey Poet," a speedy recovery from a serious illness. Craig is the man whose rhymes on cricket and football, and the men who play the games, have sold by the million. His witticisms are famous. At Lord's one day, after a short speech to a group of spectators, who were being told of the literary gems he was willing to dispose of for one penny, a coarse-witted listener shouted out "Liar!" "Yes," said Craig, "there are two of us, and the man who lies for nothing is a fool. I make money by it." "Good old Craig!" remarked a listener; "he always gets his own back."

So It Would Seem.

They were talking about silverware down at the general store the other day. Farmer Bellows said he thought this firm turned out more silverware than any other, and some of the rest disagreed with him. It was Farmer Stubbs settled it.

"Seems ter me," said Farmer Stubbs, "these here Sterling people do a lot o' business. Yeh see their name on most everything."

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by all Dealers.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY PERSON WHO IS THE SOLE HEAD of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The application must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him, or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.
